Circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, complainant,

GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida; The Florida Central Railroad Company; The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, claiming to be the authorized agent of the four parties last named, John Collinson, Milton S. Littlefield, Walter Gwynn, and Thomas B. Coddington, defendants.

To the judges of the circuit court of the United States, for the northern district of Florida:

Your orator, the Western Division of the Western Railroad of North Carolina, being a corporation and body politic created by and under the laws of the State of North Carolina and a citizen of the State of North Carolina, brings this its bill of complaint against George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, the Florida Central Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, corporations and bodies politic created by and under the laws of the State of 2 Florida, and citizens of the State of Florida, and Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, and Adrian Stoops, aliens, and citizens of Amsterdam, and subjects of the Kingdom of Holland, and Frank R. Sherwin, a citizen of State of New York, who claims to be the authorized agent of the four parties last named, John Collinson a citizen of London, England, and subject of the Queen of Great Britain, and Thomas B. Codrington, a citizen of New York, and Milton S. Littlefield, and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, citizens of the State of Florida, and such other and further parties as may be made defendants hereto upon leave in that behalf hereinafter prayed.

And complaining, your orator says:

1st. That it is a body politic and corporate created under and by virtue of the laws of the State of North Carolina, as will better appear by the acts of the legislature of said State in that behalf, passed and approved, to which reference is prayed to be made when necessary for the purposes of this suit.

2d. That for the purpose of constructing its railroad, your orator in the year 1868 was the lawful owner of six millions ($6,000,000) dollars of bonds of the State of North Carolina, which were for its use and benefit placed in the hands of one George W. Swepson, who was the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, but who, being a citizen of North Carolina, cannot be made a party defendant to this bill.

3d. That said Swepson, as such president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, took said six millions ($6,000,000) dollars of bonds to the city of New York, under pretense of selling the same, and procuring capital from the proceeds and avails thereof, for the purpose of aiding in 3 the construction of your orator's said railroad, and then and there raised large sums of money by the use and sale of said bonds, whereby he received and became possessed of moneys as such president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, to the amount of about three million dollars ($3,000,000), as your orator, upon information, believes to be true.

4th. That said Swepson, in disregard of his duty as the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, falsely and fraudulently diverted and appropriated the money so belonging to your orator, and placed a large amount thereof, and, as your orator is advised and believes, the sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) in the hands of one Edward Houstoun, a citizen of Georgia, but now deceased, who, as the agent of said Swepson, and at his request, and with a full knowledge that he, said Swepson, was the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, and that the said large sum of money so placed in the hands of said Houstoun was money owned by and belonging to your orator, but notwithstanding such knowledge, he, the said Houston, conspired and united with said Swepson, and as his agent, as aforesaid, invested the money of your orator so derived from the sale and use of its said bonds, in the purchase, among other things, of about four thousand three hundred and seventy shares, (being nearly the entire capital stock) of the corporation defendant, the Florida Central Railroad Company, a corporation created by the laws of and residing in the State of Florida and wholly beyond the limits of the State of North Carolina; he, the said Swepson, and his agent, the said Houstoun, thereby committing a fraudulent and illegal appropriation of the moneys, capital, and estate of your orator to a very large amount, but made no record thereof in the books or archives of your orator.

4 5th. That after the purchase of said Florida Central Railroad stock by said Swepson and Houstoun, and about the month of October, 1869, the said Swepson vacated the office of president and agent of your orator, and the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, was elected and installed in the same office, when the said Swepson informed the said Littlefield that said Florida Central Railroad stock was the property of your orator, and, as such, transferred it over to said Littlefield, as the incoming president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, and who received the said stock together with certain other assets as the property of your orator.

6th. That subsequent thereto, and about the summer of 1870, your orator was informed of the fact of the false and fraudulent use and appropriation of your orator's money, as aforesaid, and the fact that the same was so invested in said stock and certain bonds, called the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, and also learned for the first time that said stock had been pledged by the said Swepson and Littlefield with said Houstoun to pay a large indebtedness of said Littlefield to said Houstoun, and was about being sold under a mere stipulation, without any authority of law, but pursuant to an illegal agreement between said Littlefield, Swepson, and Houston, when your orator, as soon as it could take advice, instituted suit in the supreme court of New York against said Houstoun and Littlefield, enjoining and restraining the sale of said stock, and prayed the delivery thereof to your orator, as being its property and estate.

7th. That it was, in truth, not until about the time of the institution of said suit, that your orator was correctly advised of the facts as to the illegal and fraudulent use and appropriation of its property by the 5 said Swepson, Houstoun, and Littlefield, and was so advised by the sworn deposition of the said Swepson in the said suit, which, together with all and singular the allegations contained therein, is prayed to be taken as part of this complaint, marked Schedule A.

8th. That said Houstoun, being by some means advised of the bringing of said suit by your orator, fled with the said stock from New York to New Jersey, and from there to Pennsylvania, and from there to Georgia, in order to avoid the law and keep fraudulent possession of your orator's said stock and property; but your orator, after much and vexatious delay, has at a late date succeeded in getting its just and equitable title to said stock fully admitted by the said Littlefield and parties interested therein, and is only obstructed by the said Sherwin and his associates, whose object is to cheat and defraud your orator out of its just and legal rights, as will be hereinafter stated.

9th. That the corporation defended, called The Florida Central Railroad Company, is a body corporate and politic, created under authority of the laws of Florida, as aforesaid, and owns and operates a railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, in the State of Florida, a distance of about sixty (60) miles; and that the corporation defendant, The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, is also a body corporate and politic, created under authority of the laws of Florida, and owns and operates a railroad from said Lake City westward, a distance of about one hundred and fifty-five (155) miles.

10th. That by an act of the legislature of Florida, passed on or about the 24th day of June, 1869, and certain acts amendatory thereof, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company was of one thousand ($1,000) dollars each per mile, to be exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida of like amount per mile, and which the said State was authorized to so issue in exchange for the bonds of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which said bonds were specially directed and required by said law to be applied to the exclusive purpose of building and completing the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and to no other purpose; and the said act also secured to the State of Florida and the holders of said bonds a statutory lien on said railroad, but the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company was not even mentioned in said act, and was in no manner a party to said legislation or in any manner bound by the same.

11th. That in the year 1870 the said George W. Swepson was president of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and of his own motion, without any authority from the board of directors of said company, he caused to be printed or engraved bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company to the extent of about one million ($1,000,000) dollars; that after the printing of said bonds, the said Swepson, still acting without authority, signed the same as president, in the city of Washington, D. C., and, in order to confer upon said bonds the forms of execution required by law, caused the same to be signed by one "H. H. Thompson" as its treasurer, when in point of fact the said signature was false, fraudulent, and fabricated, as there never was a person named "Thompson" who was treasurer of said Florida Central Railroad Co., or had any authority or lawful right to sign his name as such; that F. H. Flagg was the duly elected and lawfully qualified treasurer of
during the whole of said year, and was residing in the State of Florida, at the habitat and office of said company, and was alone authorized to sign the bonds of said company as its treasurer, had such signing been authorized, lawful, or proper; and that the said bonds, so unauthorized and falsely and fraudulently signed, were not and are not the act and deed or the obligations and bonds of the said Florida Railroad Company; a copy of which said bond is made part hereof, marked Schedule B.

12th. Your orator, further complaining, states that when said Swepson, Houstoun, and Littlefield were so dealing with the said Florida Central Railroad stock, so purchased by the money of your orator, as aforesaid, and well known to each of said parties to be the property of and belonging to your orator, the said Swepson, Houstoun, and Littlefield had what they called a final settlement of the dealings between them, which was reduced to writing on or about the 13th day of May, 1870, a copy of which is made part hereof, marked Schedule C, and that, as part of said settlement, the said Littlefield gave his note of acceptance to the said Houstoun for about one hundred and sixty-three thousand dollars ($163,000), and deposited as collateral security for the payment thereof, at the expiration of sixty days, the said four thousand three hundred and seventy (4,370) shares of stock, and one hundred and three (103) Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, making in all about five hundred and thirty-seven thousand dollars ($537,000) security for said one hundred and sixty-three thousand dollars ($163,000); and that just seventeen days thereafter, to wit, on the 30th day of May, 1870, and before the maturity of said draft, by a further 8 manouvre and agreement between the said Houstoun and Littlefield, dated on the said 30th day of May, 1870, which is made part hereof, marked Schedule D, they, of their own motion, and without the authority of the directors of said company, agreed to issue bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company to the amount of one million ($1,000,000) dollars, not for the benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as will be hereinafter stated, but for the alleged benefit of the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which were likewise to be placed and were placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as further security for said draft of said Littlefield, making in all about $1,537,000 held as security for $163,000, as will appear by said last named agreement.

13th. That just eight days after this last named agreement, to wit, on the 7th day of June, 1870, and still before the maturity of the said draft, the said Houstoun and Littlefield entered into another written agreement, made part hereof, marked Schedule E. That by the terms of said last named agreement, the said $1,000,000 of bonds so signed by said Swepson and Thompson were to be returned to the company, and regular coupon bonds, payable to bearer, were to be issued; and by the third article of said last named agreement the proceeds of said bonds, all except $340,000, were to be applied to the payment of certain private debts and obligations, as will better appear by reference thereto, but was in no respect intended to be given to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as your orator will more specifically hereinafter state.

14th. That when the project of issuing the said $1,000,000 bonds, to be secured by a mortgage on the railroad and property of said
9 company, came to the knowledge of the board of directors, the same was refused, and two of the stockholders of said company, to wit, R. H. Gamble and James D. Westcott, jr., filed bills enjoining the issue of said bonds, as will be hereafter stated.

15th. That under the provisions of the said act of June 24th, 1869, authorizing the State of Florida to issue and exchange its bonds for the bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the said State did, on or about the first day of June, 1870, issue, countersign, and place in the hands of Harrison Reed, its governor, 4,000 bonds of $1,000 each, and numbered from 1 to 4,000 inclusive, for the specified purpose of being exchanged for the said bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and were so registered in a book kept for that purpose in the office of the treasurer of the State of Florida, the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company not being even mentioned in connection with said bond issue; and that of the bonds so issued the said Governor Reed handed over, on the part of the State of Florida, to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company 3,000 of said bonds, numbered from 1 to 3,000 inclusive.

16th. That subsequently, and in the year 1871, the said Littlefield paid, or caused to be paid, to the said Houstoun the said $163,000, with the accrued interest thereon, and thereby released said stock and bonds; and subsequent thereto, the defendant, Thomas B. Codrington, visited the State of Florida, and for a consideration induced the said Houstoun to consent that he, the said Codrington, might take the said $1,000,000 of false and fraudulent bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company and procure the surrender to him, Codrington, of $1,000,000
10 of bonds of the State of Florida, issued under said act of the 24th of June, 1869, & Jan. 28th, 1870, as aforesaid, as will better appear by the receipt of said Codrington, executed to said Houstoun for said bonds, dated January 11, 1871, made part hereof, marked Schedule F.

17th. That at this time the said Houstoun had deposited the said Florida Central Railroad bonds with R. H. Gamble, esq., the comptroller of the State of Florida, where they were held subject to the said injunction at the suit of the said Gamble and Westcott, which was agreed to be waived or dismissed upon the payment of certain considerations to said Houstoun, J. P. Sanderson, M. D. Papy, F. H. Flagg, R. H. Gamble, and J. D. Westcott, jr., and J. P. Sanderson, president, various sums of money, amounting, as your orator is advised and believes, to about $650,000; and under and pursuant to said special contract and agreement between the said Houstoun, Codrington, and Littlefield, the said Codrington was authorized and empowered to obtain from the governor of Florida (the said Harrison Reed) the said additional 1,000 bonds so designed for and issued in the name of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as aforesaid, but to which proceeding the said Florida Central Railroad Company was and is a total stranger and had no connection whatever.

18th. Your orator, upon information based upon the records in certain judicial proceedings and upon the sworn deposition of said Houstoun, further states, that the consideration agreed to be paid by said Codrington as a condition for getting possession of said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and with which he then proceeded and got possession from said Harrison Reed, governor, of the said 1,000 bonds of the State of Florida, which had been previously issued to and 11 for account of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, was, to J. P. Sanderson, $57,500; M. D. Papy, $16,000; T. W. Brevard, $40,000, and J. P. Sanderson, president, $360,000; James D. Westcott, jr., $4,000, and to F. H. Flagg, $5,000; that by such special agreement, for such illegal and unauthorized consideration, the said Codrington got possession of the Florida Central Railroad Company's bonds, and then immediately exchanged them for the State bonds, as aforesaid.

19th. That said Florida Central Railroad bonds never were for one moment delivered to or in the possession of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and never were by the said company received, treated, or handled as its property or estate, but, on the contrary, the said Florida Central Railroad Company's bonds were received by said Codrington, under an individual agreement between him, the said Codrington, and R. H. Gamble, J. D. Westcott, jr., J. P. Sanderson, F. H. Flagg, and others, including the said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, who then and there, and pursuant to said illegal agreement and transaction, delivered the bonds of the State of Florida to said Codrington personally, who made haste to depart from the State of Florida in a private and secret conveyance to avoid further injunctions on the part of other stockholders of said Florida Central Railroad Company, who believed themselves defrauded by and on account of the said bonds, and who denied that the same were the lawful debts and obligations of said company.

20th. Your orator further states that the said alleged bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company were made payable to the State of Florida and vested a special right of property in said State; 12 and, besides the signature of said Swepson, as president, and the signature and falsely assumed position of treasurer by said "H. H. Thompson, treasurer," there was a further signature necessary to make the said bond complete in form and execution; that is, the signature of the governor of Florida, stating that said bonds were issued under and pursuant to the laws and for the purposes specified on the face of said bond, but that said signatures were never affixed thereto, as shown by the face of said pretended bond, and that the same was not and is not a complete or executed instrument, but is to all intents and purposes a blank paper, and is not and never was obligatory on said company, and that because of the same not being a complete and executed bond, the same was cancelled by a resolution of the board of directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and for that purpose was returned to said Houstoun by the governor of Florida, who duly endorsed said bonds to said Houstoun, thereby divesting the State of Florida of rights, title, and interest in or to said bonds, if any it ever had, that was contemplated by their proposed execution, and vested all right and title thereto in the said Houstoun, who applied for the issuing of new bonds by the said company in the place of said bonds, which never was done, as aforesaid, and that said bond was, so unexecuted, assigned by the State of Florida and ordered to be cancelled when so fraudulently returned by said Houstoun and Codrington to said Governor Reed, as aforesaid, who unlawfully delivered to said Codrington said State bonds numbered from 3001 to 4000, inclusive.

21st. Your orator, upon information, further states that the said bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, so signed by the 13 said Swepson, as president, and said "H. H. Thompson," as pretended treasurer, were thereafter brought by said Houstoun to the State of Florida, but not to the office of or to be delivered to said company, but for the purpose of procuring the corporate seal to be affixed thereto, which was caused to be done, not by any direction or authority of said company, but by some person or persons who without authority procured the possession of the seal of said company, and took the same to some place out of the office of said company and affixed the same to said false, fabricated, and pretended bonds, contrary to law and in violation of the rights of said company and your orator in the premises.

22d. That the said pretended bonds, so fraudulently created and used, were thereafter in the manner aforesaid placed in the custody of the treasurer of the State of Florida, and are now in the personal custody of the defendant, Walter Gwynn, the treasurer of said State, who, your orator is advised and charges, holds the same for no good or lawful consideration, and of right should surrender and return the same to the said Florida Central Railroad Company, to be treated as worthless and held for naught. But your orator is informed, and verily believes, that said Walter Gwynn, as such treasurer, and said George F. Drew, as such governor, in some way pretend or assume that they have some right to hold and use and threaten to hold and use the said false, fabricated, and pretended bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, so unlawfully placed in the hands of and possessed by the said Gwynn, and who, your orator believes, intend by some means to seek to enforce the said pretended bonds against the franchises and property of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, unless the said bonds are adjudged to be null and void, and ordered to be surrendered to said company, as hereinafter prayed.

14 23th. That after said Codington had, in the manner and by the corrupt agreement aforesaid, got possession of said bonds and escaped from the State of Florida, he took them to New York, and then proceeded to London, the time being then in the year 1871; and the said State bonds, numbered from 3001 to 4000, were still in New York, where they were attached in court and remained until the year 1872, at which time one Converse L. Chase was deputised to London as the agent of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and Milton S. Littlefield, with ample powers of attorney, for the purpose of arranging to retire the said State bonds, and to bring out a railroad bond secured by a first mortgage on the property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; but had no power or authority to act for, or in any manner bind, the Florida Central Railroad Company.

24th. That at the date last named, viz, A. D. 1872, the bond issue of the State of Florida to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and the sale of the bonds so issued, to the best of your orator's information and belief, stood as follows; that is to say:

Of the State bonds issued to the J. P. & M. R. R. Co.			3,000
(Numbered from 1 to 3000.)
Of these, were sold		2,800

At this date John Collinson addressed to C. L. Chase the following letter:

50 OLD BROAD STREET, LONDON, July 26, 1872.

C. L. CHASE, ESQ.:

DEAR SIR: I beg to inform you that the following are the numbers of the Florida State bonds deposited with the London and County Bank:

No. 3001 to 3178.
No. 1727 to 1735.
No. 1737 to
No. 3179 to 3200.

Yours, faithfully,
(Signed) JOHN COLLINSON.

And your orator submits that this letter fixes the fact that no part of the said second and fraudulent issue in the alleged exchange for the Florida Central bonds numbered from 3001 to 4000 were sold previous to July, 1872.

25th. Your orator, upon information, further states the fact to be that long previous to this date full notice had been given to the said defendants, and to all other persons, of the false and fraudulent character of said 1,000 bonds, so pretended to be exchanged for said Florida Central Railroad bonds, not only by means of the suits prosecuted by said Robert H. Gamble and James D. Westcott, jr., and the fact that the agents of said Hopkins & Co. and said Collinson were privy to, and hence had knowledge of, said fraudulent agreements by and between said Houstoun, Codington, and others, but also by reason of the notorious fact that the said State of Florida had proclaimed the fraud-
16 ulent character of said bonds to the world by the presenting of articles of impeachment against the said Harrison Reed, governor, for the false and fraudulent issue of said $1,000,000 of bonds, and caused said Governor Reed to be solemnly arraigned at the bar of the senate of the State of Florida for trial upon said several articles of impeachment, as will more fully appear by inspection of said proceedings of the legislature of Florida on and subsequent to the 7th day of February, 1872, and that the 2d of said articles of impeachment against said Governor Reed had special reference to and was based upon the said $1,000,000 of bonds pretended to be issued for said Florida Central Railroad bonds, and which said second article was in the words and figures following:

"ARTICLE II. That in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, of his oath of office, and in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and contrary to the provisions of an act entitled 'An act to alter and amend an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, A. D. 1869,' approved January 28th, 1870, did then and there, with intent to violate the constitution of the State and the act aforesaid, and without authority of law, fraudulently conspire to issue State bonds to the amount of one million of dollars ($1,000,000), for the purpose of purchasing the stock of the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the use and benefit of persons and parties, and with full knowledge of and consent to said purpose, and in collusion with such persons and parties, for his and their pecuniary benefit, whereby said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, did then and there commit, and was guilty of, a high crime in office, and of incompetency and malfeasance."

17 26th. And your orator submits that said proceedings of impeachment by the legislature of Florida were of such solemn and public character, and of such general notoriety and proclamation to the world, as to be a lawful notice to each and all of the defendants, and all persons dealing in or handling said bonds.

27th. That in consequence of which proceedings and notice no more of said bonds were sold or used except as authorized by the said decree in chancery in England, as stated in this bill, and that said Chase was required to arrange to retire the whole of said bonds, and so advised the said defendants, as your orator is advised and believes to be true. And your orator further states that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company also by a resolution passed by its directory on the 10th day of December, 1870, declared the whole of said bond issue fraudulent, and ordered the same to be immediately returned to the said company, and sent said resolution to the defendants and their agents in London, as will better be seen by a copy of said resolution and notice made part hereof, marked Schedule G.

28th. And your orator upon information states and charges the fact to be that the governor of Florida, the said Harrison Reed, had knowledge of the illegal and corrupt bargain made by and between said Codington, Houstoun, and others for the getting possession of the said bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company by the said Codington and the exchange of the bonds of the State of Florida therefor, and was corruptly interested therein, and deriving profit therefrom, and that by reason of such corrupt knowledge the said State of Florida had notice of and is bound by the facts above stated, and by the issu-
18 ing of said State bonds, with such guilty knowledge, for said company's bonds in no manner bound, or acquired any rights whatever against, said company, its franchise or estate, in law or in equity.

29th. That at this period, as stated, a fierce litigation was pending both in England and New York, involving the whole of said last-named bonds, but to which the Florida Central Railroad Company was not a party, and as the result of such litigation a consent decree was entered on the 29th day of August, 1872, in the court of chancery in England, signed by John Collinson and all other parties to the said suit, a copy of which is made part hereof, marked Schedule H.

30th. That by the terms of said decree 166 of the bonds were ordered to be sold and were sold by John Collinson, which increased the previous sale from 2,800 to 2,966; still leaving 34 of the first issue of bonds on hand in London; and the said consent decree also permitted the said Chase to donate 40 of the bonds to said Collinson for no good or valuable consideration to either the said railroad company or the State of Florida, but to compensate for a breach of contract on the part of S. W. Hopkins & Co., as your orator is informed and believes to be true; that the 40 bonds so given to Collinson consumed the 34 bonds of the first or 3,000 issue (numbered from 1 to 3000) to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and took 6 bonds of the second or 1,000 issue (numbered from 3001 to 4000,) leaving 194 bonds of the said second issue in London subject to immediate use, and, 2 of said bonds having been lost, left in hand just 192 bonds of the second issue, which were at the same time, by the said consent decree, ordered to be delivered to said Collinson to secure the payment of the interest on posed of all the bonds in England on the said 29th day of August, 1872, leaving just 800 bonds (numbered between 3001 and 4000) in New York to be delivered to Collinson pursuant to said decree.

31st. That by the further terms of said decree 224 bonds of the said second issue were ordered to be returned to the State of Florida and cancelled, which was done accordingly, commencing at the highest number (4000) and cancelled back to 3776, leaving just 576 of the said second issue, and ranging from 3201 up to 3776, to be sent to England, according to said decree.

32d. That said decree in the court of chancery in England also required certain suits to be disposed of in the supreme court of New York, which was done by a judicial proceeding on the 6th day of December, 1872, as will better appear by a copy thereof, made part hereof, marked Schedule I; that by said schedule it is shown that said Collinson receipted for said bonds on the 6th day of December, 1872, and took the same to England.

33d. That the said Collinson did not purchase said 576 bonds nor the 192 bonds within the said seven months, or at any other time, so far as your orator is advised or can learn, and that the same are still remaining, or should be according to the terms of said decree, as follows; that is to say: 200 pledged to said Collinson, 576 held subject to the order of the State of Florida, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; and the 224 cancelled accounts for all of the 1,000 bonds delivered by the said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, to the said Thomas B. Codington, under and pursuant to said illegal and corrupt agreement aforesaid. But your orator states the fact to be that not one of said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company
20 was issued by its authority or for its benefit to the said Codington, and that said Codington had no right or authority to exchange the same for or with the said Harrison Reed, governor, for the bonds of the State of Florida, and that the whole proceeding was fraudulent, null, and void as against the franchise, estate, and property of the said Florida Central Railroad Company.

34th. Your orator, further complaining, states that before and during the time the frauds aforesaid were being consummated, the said Houstoun, Codington, and the said Harrison Reed, governor, were all fully advised of the rights of your orator in the premises, and knew that your orator then had suits pending, and which are still pending, against the said Houstoun and others, for the purpose of protecting the rights of your orator, as herein alleged, and which your orator has never ceased to assert by all lawful means, as the rightful and equitable owner of the said 4,370 shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad, being more than four fifths of the whole amount of said stock.

35th. But your orator states the fact to be that, notwithstanding the matters and things as truly alleged in the premises, the defendants, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian J. Mildeus, and Adrian Stoop, pretend and allege that they have in some way acquired title to some of said bonds of the State of Florida, issued and delivered by Harrison Reed, governor, to said Codington, under said corrupt and illegal agreement aforesaid, on account of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but for what consideration, or in what manner, your orator is not advised, except so far as advised by the matters hereinafter stated; but that said parties, of their own knowl-
21 edge, have never alleged or claimed to have received or held any of said bonds whatever, for or on account of the said Florida Central Railroad, but, on the contrary, distinctly averred that the whole and every part of the bonds of the State of Florida received or held by them were issued by and in aid of, and received by them for the use of, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and not otherwise; and also distinctly state and show that by a proclamation of, the said Harrison Reed, governor, as aforesaid, dated the 2d day of December, 1872, the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company or its corporate liability was in no manner involved or mentioned in said proceedings, as a ground or basis of credit or charge for the payment of any of said bonds, as will better appear by the said memorandum and certain other papers attached thereto, made part of this complaint, marked Schedule I.

36th. That upon no other facts or information exhibited the defendant, Frank R. Sherwin, a person having no interest whatever in the bonds or securities involved in this suit, and a total stranger to the proceedings that created them, but seeking to intermeddle for the benefit of himself and others associating with him for the purpose of gain and profit to themselves, did on or about the 30th day of December, 1876, file in the office of the governor of Florida a petition sworn to on the 26th day of September, 1876, wherein he states that he is an agent in this country for the defendants, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, and Adrian Stoop, whom he, the said Sherwin, claims the right and authority to bind by his action, and assumed to state for said parties what they did not and do not state for 22 themselves, that is, that the said parties claimed to be the holders of 206 State bonds issued for and on account of the Florida Central Railroad Company, when in fact the memorandum dated August 6th, 1876 (Schedule F), sworn to by said Boissevain on the 6th of October, 1876, in no manner sustains any such allegations, but expressly contradicts the petition of said Sherwin, who, in fact, exhibits no general power of attorney or other authority for his action, or that could bind the said parties he pretends to represent.

37th. That upon no other authority than as above stated, and in the absence of any proof of the truth thereof, and without any notice to or demand upon the said Florida Central Railroad Company, Marcellus L. Stearns, late the governor of Florida, did, on the 30th day of December, 1876, seize and advertise the said Florida Central Railroad for sale on the 2d day of April, 1877, at public auction, as will appear by a public notice then and still being published by the said governor in several newspapers, to the great damage and injury of the said Florida Central Railroad Company and its stockholders and creditors, a copy of which order of seizure and advertisement of sale of said Florida Central Railroad is made part hereof, marked schedule K.

38th. Your orator states that upon seeing said advertisement the said Florida Central Railroad Company, through counsel, appeared before the present governor of Florida, Hon. George F. Drew, as also did your orator, by its solicitor, and protesting against such seizure and advertisement and denying that the petition of said Sherwin was sufficient evidence either in law or in justice to warrant the exercise of such arbitrary power of seizure and sale, and denying that the said Florida Central Railroad Company ever issued any bonds or authorized the 23 delivery of any such bonds as pretended in said advertisement, and denying that any of the bonds of the said company ever were authorized to be delivered to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and denying that any bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company ever were, in fact, issued and delivered to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company or to the State of Florida, in exchange for the bonds of said State, and declaring its willingness to pay the interest on any bonds that should appear to be a just and legal charge against said company, insisted that said governor should require the said Sherwin or his constituents to bring their suit in the proper courts of justice and sustain their said demand upon proof, where the said company and the lawful owners of its stock could have a chance to interpose their defence, according to the rules and usages of courts of law and equity; but that notwithstanding the facts so stated and tender and request made, the said governor has not annulled said seizure and revoked said advertisement of sale, whereby the said Florida Central Railroad Company and your orator, the owner of a large majority of its capital stock, together with all other stockholders, are suffering great and irreparable injury on account of said illegal, arbitrary, and unwarranted seizure.

39th. Your orator is advised, and so charges, that neither the act of the legislature of Florida of the 24th of June, 1869, nor the act amendatory thereof of January 28, 1870, had or was intended to have any application whatever to the said Florida Central Railroad Company, any more than to any other corporation or body politic not mentioned therein; that the acts and proceedings whereby said bonds of the Florida 24 Central Railroad Company passed into the hands of the State of Florida, besides being illegal, fraudulent, and corrupt as aforesaid, were not in conformity with the requirements of said laws; that among other things your orator is advised that said State bonds were only to be issued to any railroad company "when the president thereof shall certify upon oath that the road or parts of road for which he asks for an exchange of bonds is completed and in good running order," and that no such "certification upon oath" was ever made or filed with the governor of the State of Florida by the president of said Florida Central Railroad Company as a ground to justify the issuing of said bonds; and that there was no law authorizing the said Florida Central Railroad Company to execute its bonds to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company or that authorized the latter company to accept such bonds for any purpose whatever; and that said Florida Central Railroad Company never issued a first mortgage bond or a bond secured by a mortgage of any kind, according to the meaning of said act of January 28, 1870; and that there was no law or authority conferred by said statute authorizing said Florida Central Railroad Company to make a bond payable to the State of Florida or that could authorize or require the State of Florida to transfer or assign said bond by endorsement to any other holder thereof; and that the constitution of the State of Florida conferred upon the legislature no authority to create or make any such contract, and that the said act is therefore null and void and not binding upon the said Florida Central Railroad Company.

40th. That your orator is also advised, and so charges, that the constitution of the State of Florida conferred and could confer no power 25 whatever authorizing the Florida Central Railroad Company (had the passage of such law been attempted) to impose a debt of one million (1,000,000) dollars on the property of its stockholders, and double the par value of the said capital stock, which was only $555,000, and thereby rendering the same valueless as a property, as aforesaid, for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and that no such agreement or contract was ever proposed, made, or entered into by and between said companies, which, besides being ultra vires and void, the records and archives of neither of said companies exhibit any written agreement or resolution to that effect; and that a contract binding said corporations cannot be created by mere assertion or implication or by any other authority than by express power conferred by law, and must exist before any stock is acquired, taken, or paid for; and that the stock owned by your orator previous to October, 1869, could not be impaired in value by such legislation, had in truth such a law been passed, which your orator is advised is not the case.

41st. Your orator is further advised, and upon information and belief states, that said Florida Central Railroad Company was duly chartered by the legislature of the State of Florida by an act passed and approved on the 29th day of July, 1868, as will better appear by said law made part hereof, marked Schedule L; that said charter has never since been altered or amended, and that the said act of the 28th day of January, 1870, altering and amending the said act incorporating the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in no manner altered or amended the charter of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; and that said Florida Central Company never by any convened, accepted or adopted the said act of the 28th January, 1870, or any of the provisions of said act, and is in no manner bound or affected thereby, but is to all intents and purposes a total stranger to the same.

42d. Your orator is further advised, and so states and charges, that acts of the legislature of Florida of the 24th of June, 1869, and the 28th of January, 1870, did not in terms, nor by implication, confer upon the State obligation or responsibility of assuming or discharging the duties of a trustee in the seizing and selling the railroads mentioned in said acts or of handling and disbursing the proceeds or avails thereof; that there is no power granted by the constitution of the State of Florida authorizing its legislature to pass a law imposing such duties on said State or its executive, had such a law in express terms been enacted; that the relations of trustees and cestui qui trust cannot exist between the State and its citizens or individuals; that there must be a relation of contract and mutual responsibility, with a legal remedy, to create such relation, affording legal redress against the State for breach of trust; and the State cannot have imposed upon it the responsibility resulting from the consequences of a breach of trust; and that no relief could be obtained except through an act of the legislature, which would be a mere matter of discretion, and not one of obligation—a discretion resting with the very source authorizing the injury, and hence doubtful, if not denied—an injury which no legislative body can impose upon any citizen of the United States, or upon any body corporate or politic existing therein.

43d. And your orator is further advised, and so states and 27 charges, that if there was such extraordinary authority conferred by the constitution of the State of Florida upon its legislature, and that said act had been passed pursuant thereto; that the same could not be executed according to its letter and absolute requirement in the present case, because the third section of the act of January 28, A. D. 1870, positively directs that "all moneys arising from said sale and paid into the treasury of the State, as before prescribed, shall be promptly and exclusively applied to the payment and satisfaction of the bonds issued by the State of Florida under this act," etc., and can be applied to no other purpose and in no other way, and that there was no "bonds issued by the State of Florida under this act, and hence no application can be lawfully made of the proceeds of said railroad, if sold, and certainly not till further legislation could be procured, thus exposing the rights of your orator and all other parties interested in said Florida Central Railroad to oppressive and intolerable delays and injury without any adequate redress.

44th. Your orator, further complaining, states that the only consideration provided by said acts of the legislature of Florida, aforesaid, for the delivery of the bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, if any such act or agreement ever existed, was the delivery in exchange therefor of bonds of the State of Florida, which could be used as capital, and which could pass as a good and valid security in the market; but that no such bond of the State of Florida was ever created or paid over to the said Florida Central Railroad Company or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but, on the contrary, the bonds pretended to be exchanged were utterly worthless, null and void, and were attempted to be created in violation of the never had any legal existence or validity or value more than any other piece of blank paper, and could not, and did not, constitute a good or lawful consideration for the receipt of said Florida Central Railroad bonds from said Codington, or create or vest any rights whatever.

45th. Your orator further states that the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in consequence of controversies over its management during the past four years, is claimed to be under the control of three or four different boards of direction and local management, and in consequence thereof has for several years past been deprived of the use, benefit, and enjoyment of its own earnings, though amounting annually to a large sum of money, and because of such controversies and litigations has been unjustly forced into the hands of a multitude of receivers, and is so held at the present time, and is not under the control of its board of directors or lawful officers, so as to be able to institute this suit in defence of its franchise and property; that your orator has called on the persons ostensibly in charge of the said road and such of the officers of said company as could be ascertained, and urged the bringing of this suit, but was advised that none of said persons were in a condition to do so; that your orator having the largest interest in the stock of said company, which would be greatly impaired in value, if not rendered wholly worthless, if said seizure and sale is not restrained, is compelled to institute this suit to protect its just, lawful, and equitable rights in the premises.

46th. Your orator further states that no place was ever designated or pointed out for the payment of any interest to any person or 29 to any amount; that no demand was ever made upon or notice given to the said Florida Central Railroad Company that any State bonds had been sold on its account, or that were a charge against it, either for $1,000 or for $1,000,000, or whether it had to pay $70,000 a year interest, or any defined or definable portion of that amount, nor was it in any other way advised what amount of interest it had to pay to protect its property and franchise, nor was it so notified before said seizure and advertisement; nor does the said order of seizure and advertisement of sale inform said company, or those interested in its stock, what is the extent of the demand against it, or what amount of interest it is bound to pay, but its property is seized without notice and offered for sale for an indefinite amount; all of which your orator charges is oppressive and unjust, and in violation of law.

47th. Your orator, in seeking equity, tenders to pay or cause to be paid the interest on the said 206 bonds, whenever the same is shown to be the act and deed, and debt, bond or obligation of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and offers, as the equitable owner of said stock, to provide for and pay any and all just demands in favor of the said Sherwin, or the said Boissevain, Mildeus, Zaddocks and Stoop, for and on account of the said 206 bonds, in such manner as this honorable court may direct, upon the final hearing and determination of this cause.

Wherefore, the premises considered, and inasmuch as your orator is wholly without remedy at law, and can have no redress except by the interposition of this honorable court, your orator prays that the United States writ of subpœna may issue to require the said defendants, each and all of them, to wit, George F. Drew, governor of the State 30 of Florida, Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, the Florida Central Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, John Collinson, Thomas B. Codington and Milton S. Littlefield, to appear at a day named, under a suitable penalty, and each upon his or their separate corporate oaths, and the said corporations defendants under the oaths of their proper officers, attested by the respective corporate seals, true and perfect answer make to all and singular the allegations of this bill of complaint.

And your orator further prays that in the meantime and to protect your orator and said Florida Central Railroad from irreparable injury, that the said George F. Drew, governor aforesaid, and all and singular his servants, agents or attorneys, together with all other persons whomsoever in that behalf intermeddling, be restrained and enjoined from the further seizing, holding or advertising for sale the said Florida Central Railroad, or in any manner molesting or interfering with the same until the final hearing of this cause or the further order of this honorable court.

And your orator further prays that said defendants, the said John Collinson, Thomas B. Codington, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, and Adrian Stoop, shall each specifically answer as to when, how and in what manner, and for what consideration, they or either of them, severally or jointly, for themselves or for others, got possession of or held any bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company or the bonds of the State of Florida received in exchange for such Florida Central Railroad Company's bonds; and especially 31 what dealings they or either of them had with Edward Houstoun,
R. H. Gamble, James D. Westcott, jr., Harrison Reed, governor, or any other person whomsoever, in getting possession of the said Florida Central Railroad Company's said bonds, and the exchange thereof with said R. H. Gamble or said Harrison Reed, governor, for State bonds, and what consideration was paid or agreed to be paid therefor, and by what means and out of what money said consideration, if any, was paid, and to and by whom, giving in full the details and particulars thereof.

And your orator prays that said John Collinson may show and exhibit in full his dealings in and with the said bonds of the State of Florida, if any he received that were exchanged for Florida Central Railroad bonds, and what amount of such bonds he sold, if any, and to whom and for what price, and what amount of said bonds he purchased, if any, and of whom and for what price, and what amount of interest he advanced or paid on the said bonds of the State of Florida, if any, and upon what security, if any, and that he render and file a full and exact account thereof, and especially as to the said 166 bonds and the said 200 bonds, and the said 40 bonds, and the said 224 bonds, and the said 576 bonds, and all other bonds mentioned in the said consent decree in the court of chancery of England in the bill of complaint mentioned.

Your orator further prays that the defendant Thos. B. Codington may personally full, true and perfect answer make as to when, how and for what object and in what manner he became connected with the said Florida Central Railroad bonds, and by what means he secured the exchange therefor of the said bonds of the State of Florida, from whom he got the company's bonds, from whom he got the bonds of the 32 State of Florida; what he paid or agreed to pay Robert H. Gamble, comptroller of the State of Florida, if anything; what he paid or agreed to pay, or caused to be paid to Harrison Reed, governor, if anything; what he paid or agreed to pay James D. Westcott, jr., if anything; what he paid or agreed to pay J. P. Sanderson, if anything; what he paid or agreed to pay F. H. Flagg, treasurer of the Florida Central Railroad Company, if anything; what he paid or agreed to pay to P. J. Sanderson, president of said company, if anything, and what induced such payments or agreements to pay, and whether said sums or any of them were paid, and if so, when and out of what funds, and whether there was any suit or suits pending restraining the delivery or use of said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company on the grounds the same were not the bonds of the company, and were fraudulent; and if not upon those, state upon what grounds, and that said Codington may state in what manner and by what means of conveyance he departed from the State of Florida with said bonds, and if by private conveyance, was such mode adopted to avoid and prevent other suits and injunctions on the part of other stockholders of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and if in his dealings with said bonds he acted as agent for anybody, and if so, whom; and what interest, if any, he has or claims now in the stock or bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and if so, what amount and how claimed or acquired.

And your orator prays that said Frank R. Sherwin may state, set forth and file, as part of his answer, an exact copy of the power of attorney or authority received from the said Boissevain, Mildens, Zadocks, Stoop, or either of them, under and by virtue of which he peti-33 tioned and prayed for the seizure and sale of the said Florida Central Railroad, so as to enable your orator and said company to know who is responsible for said proceedings, and to whom to look for costs or legal redress for damages.

And your orator prays that the said corporations defendants, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the said Florida Central Railroad Company, may set forth under their corporate seals what, if any, order or ordinance, resolution, agreement or stipulation they, or either of them, entered into with the State of Florida, or with each other, for the purpose of issuing and delivering the bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, with the agreement and understanding that the last named company was authorized to exchange said bonds for bonds of the State of Florida, and that said companies set forth a copy of any certification upon oath of the presidents of said roads, or either of them, asking for such exchange of bonds, together with the dates and particulars thereof, and that they set forth, under their respective corporate seals, copies of any and all resolutions of the directors or stockholders, with their respective names, authorizing or directing such bonds to be issued, exchanged, or received.

Your orator further prays that the defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, be ordered and directed to deliver and return said pretended bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company to the custody and possession of the said company, and that the same be decreed null and void and held for naught.

And upon final hearing your orator prays that the said bonds so used and appropriated by the said Houstoun, Swepson, Gamble, Cod-34 ington, and said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, and purporting to be signed by George W. Swepson as president, and "H.
H. Thompson, treasurer," dated January 1st, 1870, may be adjudged, ordered and decreed not to be the act and deed or the bond and obligation of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; that said Thompson never was the treasurer of said company, and had no authority to sign said bond as such officer; and that said bonds were issued and uttered contrary to law, and are held for no good or valuable consideration, and that the same are held contrary to law and are not binding on said company, and that they may be decreed void and held for naught.

And your orator prays that said John Collinson, Thomas B. Codington, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zadocks, Adrian Stoop, and their joint and several agent or agents, attorney or attorneys, and especially their alleged agent, the said Frank R. Sherwin, if such he be, be forever and perpetually enjoined from further handling, using, or uttering said bonds, and from further demanding of, suing, harassing or annoying the said Florida Central Railroad Company for or on account of said bonds or any of them in the premises alleged.

And your orator prays that it may have such other, further and general relief as to this honorable court may seem just and equitable in the premises, and a decree for the costs of your orator in this behalf expended.

36 SCHEDULE A.

Summons for relief.

New York supreme court, city and county of Yew York.

THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD Company, for the Western Division of said Road, plaintiff, against
E. HOUSTOUN AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD,

To the defendants above named:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint in this action, which will be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscriber at his office, No. 29 Wall street, New York City, within twenty days after the service hereof, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, October 3d, 1870.

ALGERNON S. SULLIVAN,
Plaintiff's Attorney, 29 Wall Street, New York City.

STATE AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK,
Supreme Court:

THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD Company, for the Western Division, against
E. HOUSTOUN AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK, ss:

George W. Swepson, of Alamance County, in the State of North Carolina, being duly sworn, makes oath and says:

From October, 1868, to October, 1869, I was president of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company for the Western Division. As president and for said company, I received possession of over six millions of the bonds of said State. I hypothecated said bonds in the city of New York, and out of the proceeds I purchased and paid for about three thousand shares of stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company. I did this through my agent, Mr. Edward Houstoun, who is defendant in this action. He knew from my telling him that I obtained the funds for said purchase, as above stated, and that in fact and in equity said western division of said Western North Carolina Railroad Company were the owners of said stock. About October, 1869, I ceased to be president of said company and Milton S. Littlefield became the president as my successor.

In negotiating and making settlements as retiring president with said Littlefield as incoming president for said railroad company, I passed over as assets for said company said three thousand shares of Florida Central Railroad Company stock; said Littlefield said he would receive it and account to said company, he being the president thereof. At his 37 request I transferred said stock to him in his individual name, but it was for said Western Division North Carolina Railroad Company, and it was so received by said Littlefield, president of said company.

This settlement was in November, 1869. About May, 1870, said Houstoun had negotiations with said Littlefield, individually, to sell to said Littlefield his (Houstoun's) stock in the Florida Central Railroad, and also some bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company.

On that transaction there remained due to Houstoun about $160,000, and an agreement was made that Houstoun should take as collateral security a pledge from Littlefield of said three thousand shares of Florida Central Railroad stock. Subsequently said Florida Central Railroad Company issued one million dollars of their bonds, and agreed with Harrison Reed, then governor of the State of Florida, to make, as the loan allowed, an exchange of said railroad bonds for an equal amount of the bonds of the State of Florida.

But said Governor Reed refused to deliver said State bonds, unless as an additional security they should with said three thousand shares of stock be placed in the hands of said Houstoun to secure payment of said debt due by said Littlefield to said Houstoun as well as some other private debts of said Littlefield. That in accordance with said requirement of said governor and the agreement to that effect between said governor and said Houstoun, said one million dollars of state bonds were so placed in the hands of said Houstoun. Affiant says he is informed by said Littlefield, and verily believes, that said arrangement to that effect between said Houstoun and said Governor Reed.

Affiant further says that he was informed by said Governor Reed that he, the said governor, was personally and pecuniarily interested with said Houstoun in a portion of the profits which Houstoun might make on the purchase and sale of a portion of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which Houstoun had bought at twenty cents on the dollar, and that under the agreement and sale to Littlefield of the said stock Littlefield was, as I learned, to pay par.

Affiant further says that previous to this delivery of stock and State bonds to said Houstoun by said Littlefield, he, said Littlefield, both in his individual capacity and as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, pledged the whole interest and portions held by him, said Littlefield, of every kind and nature, in said railroad in Florida, or in any or all of them, to secure to said Western North Carolina Railroad Company all moneys due to said company from this affiant as aforesaid, and that pledge covered the very securities pledged subsequently, as above stated, by said Littlefield to said Houstoun.

Affiant further says that throughout all said transactions said Houstoun knew and was fully notified that all of said interest purchased by affiant in said Florida Railroad were purchased with funds raised in the city of New York by the hypothecation of the bonds which belonged to the Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

Affiant further says he is informed and believes that said Houstoun intends to sell said three thousand shares of stock in New York City on the 4th of October, instant, at No. 111 Broadway, at 10½ o'clock a. m., and affiant has received from said Houstoun a written notice to that effect, of which a copy is hereto annexed, marked Exhibit No. 1.

Affiant further says he is informed and believes that the intention of the said Houstoun is to sell said stock separately subject to said mortgage bonds, and afterwards to sell said State bonds. And he is by law as owner of said State bonds, entitled to exchange them for said railroad mortgage bonds, so he can become by said sale owner of the majority of the stock of said company and also owner of its mortgage debt.

38 Affiant further says that a knowledge of said facts, above stated, has become public to a great extent, and that has produced doubts and clouds upon the title and value of said stock and securities, and if allowed to be sold as proposed, they will yield scarcely anything, and said Western North Carolina Railroad Company will be defrauded and lose their entire claim, or nearly so; that it will be irreparably injurious to said Western North Carolina Railroad Company and to their just rights, and affiant knows that all of said securities represent the money and funds of said Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

Affiant further says neither said Littlefield nor said Houston resided in the State of New York, but they reside in Florida, as affiant is informed and believes; but affiant is informed that said Houstoun is now in New York City.

Affiant says he is informed and believes that said Houstoun had said State bonds and said certificates of stock in the city of New York a few weeks ago; but affiant does not know where they are.

GEORGE W. SWEPSON.

EXHIBIT 1.

NEW YORK, N. Y., September 23, 1870.

To GEORGE W. SWEPSON,
Hawes River, North Carolina :

SIR: On the 4th day of October next, at 10½ (ten and a half) a. m., I will cause to be sold at the Exchange salesroom, Trinity Buildings, No. 111 Broadway, in this city, at public auction, to the highest bidder, 3,110 (three thousand one hundred and ten) shares of the capital stock of Florida Central Railroad Company held by me, and agreement heretofore entered into between Milton S. Littlefield and myself. This notice is given in compliance with aforesaid referred-to agreements.

Respectfully,

E. HOUSTOUN.

New York supreme court, county of New York.

THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD Company, for the Western Division of said road,
E. HOUSTOUN AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

At chambers, held at the court-house, in the city of New York, October 4th, A. D. 1870. Present, Hon. George G. Barnard, justice.

On motion of Algernon S. Sullivan, attorney for said plaintiffs, and on reading and filing the affidavit of George W. Swepson, and it appearing to me that sufficient grounds thereof exist, I do hereby order that 39 the said defendants and each of them above named, and their agents, employees, and representatives, do all and each of them, until the further order of this court, refrain from selling or offering to sell, assigning, transferring, concealing, removing from this State, or in any way transacting business about certain certificates of stock (about three thousand shares) in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and one million dollars in bonds of the State of Florida, all which stock and bonds were placed in the hands of said Houstoun by or through the agency of said defendant, Littlefield, as collateral security.

GEORGE G. BARNARD, J. S. C.

41 SCHEDULE C.

This memorandum of contract and agreement, made and entered into this day between Edward Houstoun, party of the first part, and Milton S. Littlefield, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That Edward Houstoun has this day sold to Milton S. Littlefield four drafts drawn by George W. Swepson on Milton S. Littlefield, dated August 2d, 1869, and accepted by said Littlefield, one for twenty-six thousand five hundred and twenty dollars ($26,520), due at six months; one for twenty-seven thousand and thirty dollars ($27,030), due at nine months; one for twenty-seven thousand five hundred and forty dollars ($27,540), due at twelve months; one for twenty-eight thousand and fifty dollars ($28,050), due at fifteen months, and that said Houstoun has this day sold to said Littlefield one thousand three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. In payment for said drafts and said stock said Littlefield has paid said Houstoun ten thousand dollars in cash and the drafts of said Littlefield, of this date, on S. W. Hopkins & Co., of 71 Broadway, N. Y., for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and seventy and twenty-hundredths dollars, due sixty days from date. To secure the payment of said draft of $163,070 20-100, it is agreed that said Houstoun shall retain possession of said four drafts by George W. Swepson on said Littlefield, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, now in his possession as collateral, and in addition thereto said Littlefield hereby obligates himself immediately to deposit with F. H. Porter, of the banking house of Soutter & Co., 53 William street, New York, certificate of stock for 3,110 shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Cumpany, with directions to said Porter to hold said certificate till said draft of $163,070 20-100 shall fall due, and then, if said draft is not promptly paid within ten days after it falls due, to deliver said certificate to said Houstoun, or his order, and in the event said certificate shall be so delivered to said Houstoun he is hereby authorized to sell the said three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at public auction, to the highest bidder, on mailing to the address of M. S. Littlefield, Tallahassee, Florida, and to the address of George W. Swepson, Haw River, North Carolina, and to the address of S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York, notice of the time and place of such sale in the city of New York, ten days previously to day of sale, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

On the payment of said drafts, said Houstoun hereby obligates himself to transfer the said shares of stock hereby sold, to deliver to said Littlefield the said 1,300 shares of stock sold, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which Houstoun now holds as collateral security for the payment of said four drafts, together with all the coupons on said bonds falling due from and after the 20th of March, 1869.

This is understood and intended to be a full, complete, and final settlement of all matters between either George W. Swepson or M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun.

In testimony of all which, the parties aforesaid have hereunto set their hands and seals, at Tallahassee, Florida, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1870.

42 SCHEDULE D.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

This agreement, made and entered into at the city of Tallahassee, in the county and State aforesaid, between Milton S. Littlefield, party of the first part, and Edward Houstoun, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas the said Edward Houstoun owns and holds a certain draft, which is in the words and figures following, to wit:

$163,026 70-100.] TALLAHASSEE, May 13, 1870.

Sixty days after date, pay to the order of Edward Houstoun, one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70-100 dollars, value received, and charge the same to account of

Acceptance waived. M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

To Messrs. S. W. HOPKINS & Co.,

For the payment of which said, the said Edward Houstoun has and holds as security the following securities: 103 first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, amounting to one hundred and three thousand dollars of said bonds; one thousand three hundred shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad; four (4) drafts of George W. Swepson on M. S. Littlefield—accepted by said Littlefield—one draft for $26,520, due at six months; one draft for $27,030, due at nine months; one draft for $27,540, due at twelve months; one draft for $28,050, due at fifteen months; all of said drafts being dated August 2d, 1869, and amounting in the aggregate to the sum of one hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty dollars, exclusive of interest thereon; and whereas the said draft of $163,026 70-100 was given to the said Houstoun for value received in the various transactions between the parties, relative to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company, growing out of the late Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and said Florida Central Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company.

And whereas, it is to the great interest of parties of the first and second parts, that money should be raised to promote the interests of said Florida Central Railroad Company to extend and provide for the business of said company and to pay said draft when due.

And whereas, the said parties of the first and second parts are owners and proprietors of more than a majority of the capital stock of said Florida Central Railroad.

Therefore, know all men by these presents, that the said parties of the first and second parts do hereby covenant and mutually agree, each with the other, that they do cause to be issued one million dollars of the first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of like denomination and effect and condition as the first mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which said one million of dollars of said bonds are to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun, as additional security for the payment of said draft for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars and seventy cents, to be held by the said Houstoun, in addition to the securieties aforesaid, for the faithful payment of said draft at maturity, and it is further agreed that if the said draft is not paid at maturity then and in that event the said Edward Houstoun is hereby authorized and fully empowered to cause said one million of dollars of the bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company, placed in his hands as security for said draft as aforesaid, to be sold at public outcry in the city of New York, after default of payment of said draft, upon giving ten days' notice of said sale of said bonds, and of the time and place of said
43 sale, to Milton S. Littlefield, by mail to his residence at Tallahassee, Florida, and by giving like notice to Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York City, by delivering said notice at their office, and by giving ten days' notice of said sale in the New York Herald, by advertisement, at which sale of said bonds the said Edward Houstoun may become the purchaser; and in the event of the sale being made as aforesaid, the said Edward Houstoun, after first paying said draft and the expenses of said sale of bonds, shall pay over all the other moneys arising from said sale and all the securities now in his hands and heretofore set forth and enumerated to the said Milton S. Littlefield, and the said Houstoun shall only retain of or from said sale of bonds and securities aforesaid sufficient to pay said draft and expenses of selling said bonds.

In witness whereof, the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals this 30th day of May, A. D. 1870.

SCHEDULE E.

The agreement made between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, dated 30th May, 1870, is hereby modified, changed, and altered, as follows, to wit:

First. In lieu of one million dollars of first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which, by said agreement, were to be placed in the hands of said Houstoun as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, there shall be placed in the hands of said Houston, as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, the same amount of bonds of the State of Florida to be exchanged for the said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

Second. If said draft be not paid at maturity, the said Houston is authorized and empowered to sell said bonds of the State of Florida at public outcry, giving the notice of sale as provided for in said agreement, and said Houston may become a purchaser at said sale.

Third. After first paying said draft and expenses of sale, said Houstoun shall, out of the balance of the proceeds arising from the sale of said bonds, if sufficient for this purpose, pay to John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; to M. D. Papy sixteen thousand dollars; to T. M. Brevard, attorney of certain holders of bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, if certain negotiations now pending for their purchase be consummated, the sum of fifty thousand dollars; to John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, three hundred and forty thousand dollars. After these payments, the balance, if any, to be paid to said Littlefield.

Fourth. When said draft shall mature, said Houstoun, instead of selling said bonds of the State, shall have the option and choice of returning the same to the State, and receiving, in lieu thereof, the one million dollars of first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad exchanged for the State bonds aforesaid.

Fifth. If, under the option and choice given the said Houstoun, he returns the bonds of the State of Florida aforesaid to said State and receives in lieu thereof the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company as aforesaid, provided said Houstoun, upon delivering said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company received from the State as aforesaid, to the president of said company, shall receive and have executed and delivered to him in lieu thereof other first-mortgage bonds of said company, which said bonds shall be made payable to bearer, and shall be good, effectual, and first lien on said road.

Sixth. Upon receiving said first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company from the president thereof, as above provided for, the said Houstoun shall hold the same as security for the payment of said draft, and is authorized and has the power, at any time after giving thirty days' previous notice to the president of said company, to sell the said bonds so received from the president of said company at public outcry in the city of New York, at which said Houstoun may become a purchaser; and said Houstoun, after paying said draft and the expenses of said sale, dispose of and pay over the rest and residue of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, if any, to the persons named and for the amounts named, as provided in the third clause hereof.

Seventh. If said Littlefield shall pay said draft at or before its maturity, said Houstoun shall deposit said bonds of the State of Florida placed in his hands under the first clause hereof with S. W. Hopkins & Company, No. 71 Broadway, New York, with the stipulation and agreement that they, the said Hopkins & Company, shall, in disposing of said bonds, hold the proceeds of said sale subject to the claims and for the amounts mentioned in the third clause hereof, to wit, John P.
45 Sanderson, the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; T. M. Brevard, attorney for certain holders of Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, if negotiations now pending for their purchase shall be consummated, the sum of forty thousand dollars; John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sum of three hundred and forty thousand dollars, said Hopkins & Co., after first paying the amounts above named to the parties above named out of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, shall pay the rest and residue, if any, of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to said Littlefield.

Witness our hand and seal this the seventh day of June, A. D. 1870, at Tallahassee, Florida.

46 SCHEDULE F.

TALLAHASSEE, FLA., January 11, 1871.

Received from Edward Houstoun, esq., in trust and for his account, one thousand Florida Central Railroad Company first mortgage bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for one thousand dollars each, with which I hereby undertake to arrange with General M. S. Littlefield and other parties interested, and collect from him or them the amount which it is admitted is now due to said Houstoun, viz: One hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70 100 dollars, with interest thereon at seven per cent. from the time M. S. Littlefield's draft on S. W. Hopkins & Co. for said amount fell due, and in addition thereto the sum of five thousand dollars for costs and expenses incurred by said Houstoun in suits brought by parties against said Houstoun in relation to those bonds or other bonds and the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, it being understood that all proceedings at law or otherwise are to be discontinued, or, if that be impossible, he is to be indemnified by responsible parties against all damages or costs arising out of said proceedings, it being further understood that said Houstoun shall, when paid, transfer and assign to said Littlefield all the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or other securities which he holds or which were given him as collateral security to secure the above amounts due to said Houstoun.

And it is further understood and agreed that said Coddington is to collect the further sums of money and pay to said Houstoun for account of the parties named below, which it is understood are a lien subsequent and inferior to said Houstoun's lien on these bonds, viz:

M. D. Papy, esq., the sum of sixteen thousand dollars.

Col. R. H. Gamble, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars; who is to surrender to said Littlefield three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and seventeen hundred dollars in the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, at par.

J. P. Sanderson, esq., the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, and said J. P. Sanderson is to surrender to said Littlefield seventy shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and comply with his agreements with said Littlefield, for which a part of said sum is in consideration.

F. H. Flagg, esq., the sum of four thousand dollars; for which he is to surrender the Central Railroad Company stock and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds which he holds, to said Littlefield.

And also to pay for seventy shares of stock now or lately held by J. D. Wescott, jr., esq., the sum of thirty-eight hundred and forty-five 33-100 dollars, when said stock is to be delivered to said Littlefield.

This arrangement is based on the assumption that the money will be paid from the proceeds of bonds negotiated by S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York; the remainder of said proceeds is to be disposed of as directed by the parties interested.

(Signed) T. B. CODDINGTON.

I approve and assent to the same.

(Signed) M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
Pres. J., P. and M. R. R. Co.

SCHEDULE G.

TALLAHASSEE, December 10, 1870.

At a meeting of the directors, convened this day at the call of the vice-president, were present Col. J. P. Sanderson, vice-president; Messrs. Hawkins, Cheney, Stearns, and Purman, directors.

After a conversation as to the objects of the meeting, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted:

"Whereas bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company have been issued, according to the provisions of the act incorporating this company and the amendments thereto, which bonds have been exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, according to the provisions of said act; and whereas said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered by the governor to the president of the company; and whereas, though previous to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with this company, authority was granted by the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to its president to issue, negotiate, dispose of, and apply the bonds for the purpose authorized by the act of incorporation, no action was had thereon, after such consolidation, either by the stockholders or directors, then newly elected, authorizing the issue or disposing of bonds; and whereas, though no such action was formally taken, yet the stockholders and directors were advised that bonds had been issued and exchanged for an equal amount of State bonds, and were in the hands of the president, to be disposed of and applied, as they supposed, according to the law authorizing their issue, and they were satisfied therewith, if a proper application was to be made thereof; and whereas the directors are now advised that a contract was made by the president and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and certain persons as commissioners, appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, which contract was executed in April last, by which the bonds of the State of Florida, taken in exchange for the bonds of this company, were to be disposed of and the proceeds to be divided according to the terms of said contract between the abovenamed Florida railroads and the commissioners aforesaid, dollar for dollar, until an amount of over one million of dollars, with interest, should be paid to said commissioners.

"And whereas said contract was unknown to the directors, and is in violation of the law of this State authorizing the issue of said bonds, and is a misapplication of said bonds or their proceeds; therefore,

"Be it resolved, that all authority in the president of this company to dispose of or negotiate said bonds is hereby withdrawn.

"Resolved further, that a demand be made upon the president, or whomsoever else may have possession, control, or custody of said bonds, to return the same to the treasurer of this company forthwith.

"Resolved further, that a copy of the foregoing preamble and these resolutions be communicated by the secretary to S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, New York, and 58 Broad street, London, and to the president of this company, and whomsoever else may have said bonds, or any part thereof, in their hands or control."

Adjourned, subject to the call of the vice-president.

F. H. FLAGG,
Secretary.

In chancery. Vice-Chancellor Wickens.

COLLINSON
vs.
COLLINS.

JACKSONVILLE, &C., COMPANY,
vs.
COLLINSON.

Upon hearing counsel for all parties, except the defendants F. H. Kleinwort, Edward Cohen, L. Lewis Spring, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company (against whom respectively the bills in both suits have been dismissed), and upon reading a power of attorney under the seal of the plaintiff company in favor of the defendant, Converse L. Chase, enabling him to compromise suits on behalf of the company, and an affidavit of the said Converse L. Chase verifying the same, and upon reading an affidavit of the said Convere L. Chase that the National Trust Company of New York have been duly appointed and have accepted the office of fiscal agents of the State of Florida and of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and it being alleged by counsel that the said company by the said Converse L. Chase, as their attorney, and the plaintiff John Collinson, and the defendants Collins, Hopkins and Carpenter, have agreed to compromise all litigations or questions between them or any of them, and to determine all existing contracts between them or any of them relating to any of the bonds hereinafter mentioned, on the terms embodied in this order: It is, by consent of counsel for all parties, ordered that 224 of the 1,200 Florida State bonds in the pleadings mentioned be delivered to the National Trust Company of New York, to be by them delivered up to the State of Florida to be cancelled against the delivery by the said State to the said National Trust Company of New York of 224 bonds of the said railroad company to be also cancelled, the same having been over-issued by them in respect of deficiency in the length of the line constructed by the company, and it being alleged that two others of the bonds have been lost.

It is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the remaining 974 of the said 1,200 bonds be dealt with as follows; that is to say, 166 of said 974 bonds be sold and delivered to the said John Collinson, at the rate of £120 and accrued interest per bond, and the remaining 808 of such 974 bonds be deposited as hereinafter mentioned, and the defendant, Converse L. Chase, by his counsel, consenting to receive the purchase money for such 166 bonds and apply the same as hereinafter directed on behalf of the said company, and also of himself and the defendant, Francis H. Flagg, as the trustees of the indenture of the 2d of October, 1871, in the pleadings mentioned.

It is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that on such payment being made, as hereinafter mentioned, by the said John Collinson to the said

Converse L. Chase, Thomas Pix Cobb and George Gunnell Newman do deliver the 210 bonds, part of such 1,200 bonds, which 210 bonds are deposited in their joint names, as in the pleadings mentioned, to the said John Collinson to be held by him on the terms hereinafter mentioned.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the said defendant Converse L. Chase, upon such payment being made to him by the said John Collinson, as hereinafter mentioned, do deliver to the said John Collinson 166 bonds so purchased by him, and 22 bonds, making with such 210 bonds, 232 of such bonds to be held by the said John Collinson on the terms hereinafter mentioned, and that on such payment being made, the said defendant, Converse L. Chase, do remit to the said John Collinson, to be held on the terms hereinafter mentioned, the remaining 576 of such 1,200 bonds by the first mail leaving New York, on or after the 1st of October, 1872.

49 And it is ordered that on such delivery to him of such 166 and 232 bonds, as aforesaid, the said John Collinson do pay the amount of the purchase for such 166 bonds, at the rate aforesaid, to the said defendant, Converse L. Chase, to be applied by him, in accordance with such of the trusts of the indenture of the 2d of October, 1871, on the pleadings mentioned, as are applicable thereto. And it is by consent aforesaid ordered that the said Converse L. Chase do apply the same accordingly.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the said John Collinson do, out of the said 232 bonds to be deposited with him, as aforesaid, retain 40 bonds for his own use, in satisfaction for the losses sustained by him by breach of the contracts entered into with him by the defendants Collins and Hopkins & Co., on behalf of the company in relation to the said bonds, or any of them.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the said John Collinson do retain the remaining 192 of such 232 bonds, and also the said 576 bonds (being the balance of the 800 bonds in America after the delivery of the 224 bonds) when so delivered by him as aforesaid, subject to an option to him, the said John Collinson, to purchase the same or any part thereof at any time within seven months from the date of this order at the price of £130 and accrued interest per bond, such price to be paid (subject to the retention thereout by the said John Collinson of any sums of money which he may pay for costs, charges, and expenses to any defendants in the suit of Collinson vs. Collins, and to any defendants in any proceedings instituted in America by the said John Collinson in respect of the said bonds or any of them) to the agents in London of the National Trust Company against their receipt for the same as fiscal agents of the company, and for and on behalf of the company, and to be applied by them in manner following: The first moneys coming to their hands up to £31,800 shall be specially set apart as a fund for and applied by them in payment of the January coupons on all the said bonds already negotiated, or which shall hereafter be negotiated, in accordance with the foregoing provision, such interest being for this purpose calculated on 3,974 bonds at the exchange of 108 and a commission of 1 per cent. thereon, and any balance over and above the said sum of £31,800 shall be applied by the said National Trust Company as such fiscal agents for the purpose of the railroad company; and it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that they do pay and apply the same accordingly, the said Converse L. Chase, by his counsel, undertaking that the said National Trust Company shall be legally and fully confirmed in their appointment as fiscal agents of the said company, and also of the State of Florida.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the said John Collinson do, at the expiration of such period of seven months, deliver the 192 and the 576 bonds, or such of them, if any, as he shall not purchase, to the said agents of the National Trust Company as such fiscal agents of the company, and for and on behalf of the said company.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that all bonds hereinbefore ordered to be delivered, be delivered with all coupons subsequent to those due July, 1872, attached thereto.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the bill in the first mentioned suit be dismissed without costs as against all remaining defendants thereto other than Kleinwort and Cohen, and with costs as against Kleinwort and Cohen, but it is ordered that what the plaintiff John Collinson shall pay on account of the costs of Kleinwort and Cohen be refunded to him by the company.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the bill in the secondly mentioned suits be dismissed without costs as against the remaining defendants, except as against Kleinwort and Cohen, and with costs as against them.

And it is by consent, as aforesaid, ordered that the company do forthwith dismiss their suit now pending in New York without costs, and that the said John Collinson do also dismiss his suit now pending 50 in New York, the said Converse L. Chase undertaking that the several defendants in the same suit shall consent to such dismissal without claiming costs against the said John Collinson. And it is ordered that the said company do indemnify the said John Collinson against any costs either of himself or of any person or company of his suit in New York, which he may have to pay.

We severally agree that a decree in the terms of the above minutes shall, as soon as practicable, be drawn up and entered, and meanwhile that we will severally be bound as if the decree had actually been drawn up and entered.

51 SCHEDULE I.

At a special term of the supreme court of the State of New York, held at the court house in the city and county of New York, on the sixth day of December, A. D. 1872. Present, the Hon. William H. Leonard, justice.

JOHN COLLINSON, PLAINTIFF,
Against
SIDNEY W. HOPKINS, ROBERT J. CARPENTER, and Frank H. Collins, composing the firm of S. W. Hopkins & Co., the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Samuel D. Babcock, Joseph Stuart, D. G. Ambler, Francis H. Flagg, and Converse L. Chase, defendants.

JOHN L. REQUA, PLAINTIFF,
AARON BARNETT, THE JACKSONVILLE, PENSAcola & Mobile Railroad Company, Lawrence P. Bayne, Henry J. Rogers, Milton S. Littlefield, James G. Gibbs, Calvin Littlefield, John Doe, Richard Roe, Edward Houstoun, George W. Swepson, Robert R. Swepson, the first National Bank of Knoxville, Tennessee, John F. Dervees, David J. Pruyn, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Nicholas W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. P. Welch, Wm. H. Rollins, James L. Henry, commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina; E. C. Burras, John B. Clark, D. G. Ambler, F. H. Flagg, C. L. Chase, Sidney W. Hopkins, Robert J. Carpenter, Frank H. Collins, forming firm of S. W. Hopkins & Co., John Collinson, George G. Haven, receiver (leave of the court having been obtained to sue said receiver), defendants.

An application having been made on the part of the plaintiff in the first above entitled action, upon an order to show cause, made herein and bearing date the 14th day of November, instant, for leave to file a supplemental complaint and for an order directing the receiver in this action to deliver the bonds in said supplemental complaint mentioned, now in the hands of the said receiver, to the plaintiff, upon the footing of the agreement set forth in said complaint.

And an application having been made in the said first above entitled action on the part of the plaintiff in the second above entitled action upon a petition accompanied by an order to show cause, made the twenty-first day of November, 1872, for an order requiring the plaintiff in the first above entitled action and the receiver not to part with the possession of the said bonds until the determination of the said second above entitled action.

Now, on reading and filing the said orders to show cause, respectively, and the affidavits and papers thereto annexed, and on reading and filing consent to the entry of this order, signed by the attorneys for all 52 the parties who have appeared in the first above entitled action, and by the attorneys for the plaintiff in the second above entitled action, it is now ordered:

First. That the plaintiff have leave, and leave is hereby given him, to file and serve the supplemental complaint, of which a copy is annexed to the said order to show cause, of November 14th, 1872.

Second. It is further ordered, that George H. Haven, the receiver in the first above entitled action, forthwith deliver or cause to be delivered to the said plaintiff, the eight hundred bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, now in his hands, to be dealt with by the said plaintiff upon the footing of the agreement between Converse L. Chase, of the first part, the said Converse L. Chase and Francis H. Flagg, of the second part, and John Collinson of the third part, dated the twenty-ninth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and the decree of the court of chancery, Great Britain, made in the suits of Collinson vs. Collins, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company vs. Collinson, copies of which agreement and decree are set out in said supplemental complaint, the plaintiff's option to purchase said bonds under said decree to be extended to six months after the date of actual shipment, this modification of the provisions of said decree, or the receipt by said plaintiff of said bonds under this order, in no way or manner to effect the rights or obligations of either of the parties to said agreement and decree thereunder, or to operate as a waiver of any default thereunder (this order as to the receiver to take effect upon the payment to him of one thousand dollars on account of his fees as such receiver, and also the legel fees of the New York Guaranty and Indemnity Company, the depositories of the said receiver in respect of said bonds for the custody thereof, the amount of the said receiver's compensation to be adjusted hereafter), and that said plaintiff, after the cancellation of the bonds to be cancelled under said agreement and decree, and the deduction of the amounts which under the said agreement and decree the said Collinson is authorized to make, including provision for future interest on the bonds of the issue to which said eight hundred bonds belong, as provided for in said agreement and decree, deposit the surplus moneys resulting from the sale of said bonds in the National Trust Company in the city of New York, to be held and disposed of subject to the further order of this court, to be made in the said first above entitled action, upon notice to the attorneys for all the parties who have appeared therein, and to the plaintiff in the said second above entitled action, and that the said proceeds, so deposited, stand in the place of the bonds themselves, subject to the same rights and liens, if any, on the part of either or any of the parties to either of said actions, now existing as against said bonds.

A copy. CHAS. E. LOEW, Clerk.

Received of George G. Haven, esq., the receiver in the above entitled action, eight hundred eight per cent. bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, numbered as per schedule below, under and pursuant to the foregoing order.

December 6th, 1872.

JOHN COLLINSON.

Schedule of bonds referred to in foregoing receipt:
Bonds numbered 3201 to 4000, both inclusive.

JOHN COLLINSON.

53 SCHEDULE J.

Be it known unto all whom it may concern, I, Edwin Augustus Binevash, notary public by royal authority, duly admitted and sworn, residing and practising in the city of London, England, do hereby certify and attest that the paper writing hereunto annexed, marked with the letter A, is a true, faithful, and literal copy of the original certificate, with which I have carefully collated the same and found them to agree in every respect.

In witness whereof, I, the said notary, have hereunto set my hand and affixed my notarial seal, in London, this twenty-seventh day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two.

[SEAL.] Quod attestor. EDWIN BINEVASH,
Notary Public, Gerien.

(Attestation in German, signed by the German vice-consul, dated December 27, 1872.)

To all to whom these presents shall come or may in any way concern:

I, Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, do hereby declare and make known, that of the 4,000 eight per cent. bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and numbered 1 to 4000 inclusive, 224, being the bonds number 3777 to 4000 inclusive, have been returned to the State of Florida and duly cancelled, and that the balance of said issue of bonds, over and above the 2,800 bonds heretofore sold and the said 224 bonds so cancelled, belong to and may be dealt with by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and its assigns for the purposes of the company, the said bonds being legally and properly issued and forming with the 2,800 bonds heretofore sold an equal obligation on the State of Florida.

In witness whereof I have hereunto affixed my name and caused the great seal of the State to be attached, this 2d of December, A. D. 1872.

G. M. BOISSEVAIN, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: In reply to your favor of the 20th instant regarding the numbers of the Florida bonds issued, I beg to inform you that the statement forwarded to you, detailing the numbers of 3,206 (not 3,204 as in your letter) bonds issued was perfectly correct.

Memorandum.

In answer to the queries made, I beg to state in reply to the question whether the last Florida bonds received by me and friends from John Collinson were received under any notice or apprehension that they were in any way different from the former large amounts and under any injunction or liability of it, &c, that such is not the case.

The original sales amounted to 2,800 bonds. Sales were then stopped, but resumed about December, 1872, or January, 1873; and so far from any notice of the kind, as described above, being given to us at that time, we, on the contrary, received communication of a statement of the Florida government, dated the 2d December, 1872, and purporting that 224 bonds, numbered from 3777 to 4000, had been returned to the State of Florida and had been duly cancelled, but that the entire balance of the issue of 4,000 bonds, namely, of said issue of bonds over and above 2,800 bonds sold before, and the 224 bonds so cancelled, had been legally and properly issued, and formed, with the 2,800 bonds sold before, an equal obligation on the State of Florida. (Copy of this statement goes herewith, marked A.)

Sales were at that time resumed by me and other people here by order and for account of John Collinson, a part of the bonds being taken firm by a combination, part being sold on commission, the total amount of these sales up to September, 1873, being 406 bonds, as appears from a statement given to me at that time by Mr. Collinson, purporting that the entire amount of bonds then issued was 3,206 bonds, being numbered 1 to 441, 443 to 1735, 1737 to 3200, 3769 to 3776. (Copy of Mr. 55 Collinson's letter relative to this statement goes herewith, marked B.) This statement was given to me at my request, as some sales had been made by other bankers than my firm.

In addition to the statement of the government above mentioned, Mr. Collinson gave us also communication of judicial dicisions relating to some litigation which, as it appears, had existed regarding said balance of bonds—decisions according to which the entire balance of bonds, viz, 974 (2 bonds having been lost), was to be for some time at Mr. Collinson's disposal; period including the time when the sales were made.

In perfect accordance with these statements, the coupons due 1st of January, 1873, were advertised by the New York State Loan and Trust Company, as "fiscal agents of the State of Florida," on the Florida 8 per cent. bond numbered 1 to 3776, inclusive, (excepting the coupons on bonds numbered 442 and 1736, which have been lost, unnegotiated.)

I know of no further sales than those of the 3,206 bonds having been made since September, 1873, being the time of Mr. Collinson's above-mentioned statement, and I don't think that any were made. The sales of the last lot of these 3,206 were made in the early part of 1873. (It may be that Mr. Collinson kept some bonds privately and parted only afterward with same, as I remember that he considered the market price at that time being about 60 per cent. too low, but this of course is immaterial.)

The entire amount of these 3,206 bonds have been purchased by myself and friends and resold here, or sold by us on commission in good faith and bona fide, and so they are held here, no matter whether under No. 2800 or these above, to which I may add that amongst the bonds deposited with the committee, all of which have been deposited by bona fide holders, there are several of the bonds numbered above 3000.

In further reply to your queries I beg to state that never any deference was made here, nor was it known here to exist, not more by one than by the public at large between the numbers 1 to 3000 and those above 3000.

56 SCHEDULE K.

Sale of the Florida Central Railroad.

STATE OF FLORIDA:

Whereas the Florida Central Railroad Company has failed for more than twelve months to pay the interest due on the bonds issued by said company in exchange for bonds of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of an act of the legislature of the State, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869, and the several acts amendatory thereof; and

Whereas demand has been made by bona fide holders of the State bonds so exchanged upon the governor of the State for the enforcement of the lien on said railroad:

Now, therefore, I, Marcellus L. Stearns, governor of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of the authority vested in the governor by the said act, have entered upon and taken possession of all and singular the railroad and property of the Florida Central Railroad Company lying between Lake City and Jacksonville, and hereby give public notice that I will cause the same to be sold at public auction, for lawful money of the United States, at the railroad depot at Tallahassee, on Monday, 2d day of April, A. D. 1877, at twelve o'clock m.

Given at Tallahassee this thirtieth day of December, A. D. 1876.

MARCELLUS L. STEARNS,
Governor.

57 SCHEDULE L.

A BILL to be entitled an act for the relief of William E. Jackson, Edward Thomas, William Spear, John Craig, James B. Walker, and their associates, now owning and operating the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City.

Whereas at a sale of the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad and all its property and franchise, on the fourth day of March, 1868, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of the internal improvement law, William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers thereof; and

Whereas it is essential for the interests of the people of the State that these parties should be invested with such corporate powers as are necessary for the operation of the road, as well as more accurately to define the duties of the said road; therefore—

SECTION I. The people of the State of Florida, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows: That the said William E. Jackson and his associates be, and they are hereby, vested with the powers and franchise granted to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad in and by an act entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, and they and their successors and assigns are hereby authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchise so far as they appertain to the railroad constructed from the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, to Lake City, in Columbia County, in this State, and that the said William E. Jackson and his associates are hereby made a body politic and corporate under the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and by that name they and their successors shall be capable to enjoy and hold the said railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, and all the benefits thereof, subject only to the condition annexed to the sale thereof by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and as such body politic and corporate shall be entitled as aforesaid to exercise all the powers and franchise granted in said above-referred to act to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company, and by and in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, they, their successors and assigns, may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods and chattels, of whatsoever character the same may be, that shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroad, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of, to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break or alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be deemed necessary and expedient.

SECTION II. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of said act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company for the protection of said railroad from trespass, injury, or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who shall trespass upon or injure the same, be, and they are hereb', extended to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which company shall be entitled to all the benefits thereof.

SECTION III. Be it further enacted, That the said William E. Jackson and his associates shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in said Central Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

SECTION IV. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Railroad Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, or 58 farm out all or any part of the privileges with which they are invested, or the railroad itself, to any person or persons, corporation or corporations, for such term as may be agreed upon.

SECTION V. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Railroad Company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect officers so long as the said railroad shall be kept running and in operation.

SECTION VI. Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed, nor shall it be so operative as to divest the State of the right to make the Florida Central Railroad and all its property of every sort, character, and description, the subject matter of taxation on the part of the State.

SECTION VII. Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed, nor shall it so operate as to give any additional validity to the bonds issued under the provisions of an "act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, or as a recognition to any extent that they are contracts which it is within the power of the State to make.

Passed the senate July 24, 1868.
Passed the assembly July 27, 1868.
Approved July 29, 1868.

59 SCHEDULE M.

APPENDIX.

At a meeting of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held November 21, 1870, upon motion of Mr. Papy, a committee was appointed to take in consideration the past issue of bonds, and also to report upon the policy of issuing bonds of the company, and the amount. The president appointed Messrs. Papy, Baker, and Huling, said committee.

The board then adjourned to 4 p. m.

4 p. m.—The directors convened pursuant to adjournment, Colonel Sanderson, president, in the chair.

Mr. Papy presented the following report:

The committee finding that the bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are in such form as that they cannot be used to carry out the intention of their issue when they were adopted, report the following resolution in respect thereto:

"Resolved, That the resolution adopting the bonds to be issued by the company, signed by George W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, at a meeting of the board of directors held on the 2d day of June, A. D. 1870, be, and the same is hereby, rescinded, and that said bonds be destroyed.

"M. D. PAPY, Chairman."

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foster, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Papy made the following report:

The committee report the following resolutions in reference to the issues of bonds of the company and the securing the same:

"Resolved, That the president cause bonds payable to bearer to be prepared, signed, and executed in due form, which shall be issued for purposes of the company, not exceeding seven hundred thousand dollars in amount, with interest at 7 per centum per annum, not having more than thirty years to run, with coupons for interest attached, payable in New York semi-annually.

"Resolved, That said bonds and the interest thereon shall be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, workshops, depots, franchises, and property of every kind, and that the president cause to be prepared and executed such deed of trust or other necessary instrument of writing under the seal of this company as may be needful to make the first lien or mortgage in favor of said bonds and the interest thereon effectual to all intents.

"M. D. PAPY, Chairman."

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Huling, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Adjournment to 4 o'clock next day, at which time the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That this board approve of the form of the trust deed read to the directors, to secure the first lien or mortgage of the 60 bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued, and that the president of the company is authorized to select the trustees to whom the said deed is to be made, not to exceed three in number."

Adopted.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy from the records of the board of directors.

Jos. B. Stewart, Matt H. Carpenter, E. M. Thompson, solicitors for complainant.

62 Circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida.

vs.

GEO. F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF Florida, and George F. Drew, governor; Columbus Drew, comptroller; Walter Gwynn, treasurer; George P. Rainey, attorney-general; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of the State of Florida, and who constitute the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; Milton S. Littlefield, James G. Gibbes, T. C. Spooner, and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; and Charles H. Foster, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, John Collinson, and Thos. B. Codington, defendants.

To the honorable, the judges of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida:

Your orator, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, a body corporate and politic, authorized, organized, and created under and by virtue of the laws of North Carolina, and a citizen of the State of North Carolina, brings this its bill of complaint against George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, and George F. Drew, governor; Columbus Drew, comptroller of the State of Florida; 63 Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; Geo. P. Raney, attorney-general of the State of Florida; and Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration for the State of Florida, and each and all citizens of the State of Florida; and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida; and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, a body corporate, created under and by the laws of the State of Florida, and a citizen of the State of Florida; and Milton S. Littlefield, and James G. Gibbes, Charles H. Foster and T. C. Spooner, citizens of the State of Florida; and Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, aliens residing in and citizens of Amsterdam, and subjects of the king of Holland; and John Collinson, an alien, residing in London, England, and a subject of the Queen of Great Britain; and Thomas B. Codington, a citizen of the State of New York.

And, complaining, your orator states:

I. That your orator, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, is a body corporate and politic, created by the laws of North Carolina, as will better appear by the inspection of said laws chartering and incorporating your orator, to which, and the several acts amendatory thereof, reference is prayed to be made when necessary for the purposes of this suit.

II. That in the year 1868 your orator was, among other assets, the owner and holder of six millions ($6,000,000) in bonds of the State of North Carolina, which were conferred upon your orator by the 64 legislature of said State to be used in the construction of the railroad of your orator, according to the terms of its act of incorporation aforesaid.

III. That George W. Swepson was the president, and hence agent and fiduciary ot your orator in the years 1868 and 1869—but being a citizen of the State of North Carolina cannot be made a party defendant to this suit—who, as such president, and by virtue of his official position, as the chief executive officer of your orator, became possessed of its said $6,000,000 of bonds.

IV. That said Swepson, as the agent, trustee and fiduciary of your orator, undertook to convert and did convert said bonds into money for its pretended use in constructing its said railroad, receiving therefor a very large sum of money by the use and sale of said bonds, amounting to several millions of dollars, but of the exact amount your orator is not advised.

V. That said Swepson, as such president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, and without any authority of law, used and invested a large amount of said money, to wit, about the sum of $720,000 in purchasing the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, corporations situated in the State of Florida; that the amount of said bonds, as purchased by the money and assets of your orator so fraudulently diverted was about one million and sixty-three thousand dollars ($1,063,000) of both grades of said 65 bonds. That the purchase of a portion of the said bonds was made through the defendant Milton S. Littlefield, and the remainder through one Edward Houstoun, of the State of Georgia, now deceased, each of which said parties knew of the official and fiduciary relations of the said Swepson to your orator, as aforesaid.

VI. That the said Swepson, though the president and trustee of your orator, purchased and held said bonds in his own name, making no record thereof in the books or records of your orator. That in the month of March, 1869, the defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, being authorized by law so to do, caused to be sold at public auction the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad to pay the first mortgage bonds of said companies, including the said $1,063,000 of bonds so purchased with the money of your orator by said Swepson, through the said Houstoun and Littlefield as aforesaid.

VII. That the said railroads, when so sold by the defendants, the said governor, comptroller, attorney-general and commissioners of lands and immigration aforesaid, who are by law, ex-officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, were purchased by an association of persons described as "F. Dibble and associates," which association ultimately included the said George W. Swepson. That said Dibble and associates were permitted to pay for said railroads by surrendering to the defendants, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, so purchased with the money of your orator, to the 66 amount of about $960,300 exclusive of the accrued interest thereon, and the note or acceptance of said Swepson for about $472,065, the said note or acceptance being unlawfully accepted by said trustees as so much cash representing the outstanding portion of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, which were not delivered to said trustees at the time of said sale, there being in fact no other payment made to said trustees except the said $960,300 of said bonds, so purchased with your orator's money, by its agents and fiduciaries aforesaid, as your orator is advised and believes to be true.

VIII. That when said association of "F. Dibble and associates" was formed, including the said Swepson, the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator aforesaid, he paid over and surrendered up to the defendants, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, the $960,300 of the said Pensacola and Georgia, and the said Tallahassee Railroad bonds, so purchased with your orator's money as aforesaid, and as a material part of the terms of said sale, purchase and payment, an agreement and declaration of trust was executed by said "F. Dibble for himself and associates" to said George W. Swepson, securing him for the $960,300 in said bonds and his, said Swepson's said note or draft, for the said $472,065, being the entire purchase consideration paid to said trustees for the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad, as will better appear by the said trust agreement, dated the 22nd day of April, 1869, made part hereof, marked Schedule A.

67 IX. That by the terms of said trust agreement and the payment of said $960,300 bonds aforesaid, there was secured and reserved to said Swepson a prior lien and equity in and to the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, which has never been lawfully discharged or extinguished, but that the same remains in full force and effect, and inures to the benefit of your orator, as will be hereinafter stated.

X. That it was one of the conditions and purposes of said trust that the said Dibble and associates should obtain from the legislature of Florida an act of incorporation, to which said trust property should be conveyed upon terms stated in a certain agreement dated the 26th day of March, 1869, and for which purpose the said property as described was duly conveyed in two certain deeds of conveyance from the defendants, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, dated April 8th, A. D. 1869, which are made part hereof, marked Schedule B, and C, respectively.

XI. That the only real consideration for the execution and delivery of the said two conveyances last above named, (Schedule B, and C,) was the payment to said trustees of the internal improvement fund, the said $960,300 of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, so purchased and paid for by the money of your orator as aforesaid; the alleged payment of the remaining $472,065, was a note, draft, or acceptance, created by the said Swepson, in collusion with the said trustees, or some of them, in the year 1869, and was a mere sham and pretence and fraudulent contrivance gotten up, covering 68 that portion of said Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroad bonds held by and belonging to other people, which had, in truth, neither been sold, bought, nor paid for, as was well known to the said trustees and said Swepson and others, co-operating with them for such false and fraudulent purpose; that said draft, note, acceptance, or promise to pay said $472,095, was not intended to be paid when created and delivered, and has never yet been paid, as your orator, upon information and belief, alleges to be true.

XII. That it was also a part of the condition of said trust (Schedule A) that the said "Dibble and his associates" should have granted to them such or similar relief as the legislature of the said State of Florida granted to William E. Jackson and his associates by an act for the relief of William E. Jackson and his associates, approved July 29th, A. D. 1868, and that upon the procuring of such legislation and the passage of such an act the said property and estate, to wit, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad, so purchased and paid for by your orator's money, should be conveyed to the body corporate and politic so created.

XIII. Your orator further states that, pursuant to said trust to your orator's, said president, agent, and fiduciary, the said Swepson, and in part fulfilment thereof, the legislature of Florida did, by an act approved June 24, 1869, incorporate the said F. Dibble and associates into a body corporate and politic, under the name and style of the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," the said company being composed of the 69 said Pensacola and Georgia and the said Tallahassee Railroads, so sold and purchased in the name of said F. Dibble and associates on the 20th day of March, 1869, and paid for with your orator's said $960,300 of bonds as aforesaid, which act of incorporation is made part hereof, marked Schedule D.

XIV. That by the 6th section of said act of incorporation the said Tallahassee Railroad Company was authorized to issue bonds for the purpose, among other things, of paying and discharging said trust so held by said Swepson for the use and benefit of your orator, but in order to guard against and prevent all possible abuse or violation of said trust agreement, its existing priority of lien was expressly reserved in the said 6th section of said act (Schedule D), wherein it was "Provided, That any deed of trust, mortgage, bond or bonds, or security which may have been executed, made, created, or provided for as a lien on said railroad or otherwise by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and associates, prior to the passage of this act, shall be valid and effectual to all intents, either at law or in equity as a lien or mortgage or security on said railroad, as if the same had been made by virtue of this act, and shall in no wise be affected by any provisions thereof." That the "conveyance, bond, or security which had been executed, made, or contracted for as a lien on said railroad by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, prior to the passage of said act," was the said assignment in trust to your orator's said agent and fiduciary, the said George W. Swepson, of the 22d of April, 1869, aforesaid, and that by the provisions of said act a statutory reservation of rights and priority of lien was 70 created in the face of said law, and was and is notice to all persons, and especially to the state of Florida, whose governor and cabinet officers, the said Harrison Reed, and the treasurer, comptroller, attorney-general, and the commissioner of immigration, being the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and who participated in the said sale and proceedings, had personal notice of the existence of said trust and of the rights of your orator as the beneficiary thereunder, and that the said State of Florida and all others are bound thereby.

XV. That no bonds were ever issued by the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, or put in circulation, as provided by said law; though your orator is advised that fifteen hundred proposed bonds, of the amount of $1,000 each, were signed by F. Dibble and placed in the hands of your orator's said president, agent, and fiduciary, George W. Swepson, but which were never used, and which, if existing, are held in trust for your orator by the said Swepson, under said agreement, and subject to your orator's rights in the premises.

XVI. That on the said 24th day of June, 1869, another act of the legislature of the State of Florida was passed and approved, incorporating the defendant, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, to which act your orator craves leave to refer, when necessary, for the purposes of this suit. That the incorporators of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company were your orator's said president, agent and fiduciary, George W. Swepson, together with said Milton S. Littlefield, J. L. ReQua, William Hunt, and others, who formed themselves into a body corporate and politic under said 71 act of incorporation. That at the time of such incorporation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, it was possessed of no railroad, property, or estate of any kind, but was organized for the purpose of becoming the assignee and owner of the said Tallahassee Railroad, as incorporated by and created under the said purchases by said F. Dibble and associates, as aforesaid, and that pursuant to said acts of incorporation, or one of them, the said Franklin Dibble and associates did convey and transfer said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, according to the terms of said trust agreement, when, and from and after which time the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the said Tallahassee Railroad, as separate properties, and the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, as incorporated in the name of said F. Dibble and associates, on the same 24th day of June, 1869, became, and now are, the railroad owned by the corporation defendant, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as aforesaid.

XVII. Your orator further states that when the said Swepson, as the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator, so fraudulently appropriated its money in the purchase of said $960,300 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds; that the same became and henceforth were the property of your orator, and that when the said Swepson paid the said bonds to the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, he did so without authority, and in violation of the rights of your orator, and did not change the rights of your orator in or to said bonds, and that the said $960,300 of your orator's said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, being the only and sole consid-72 eration paid for the purchase of said railroads on the said 20th day of March, 1869, the said railroads so purchased and paid for became and henceforth were the property of your orator; and that when the said Swepson and the said F. Dibble and associates created the said trust assignment in favor of said Swepson, signed by said "F. Dibble, for himself and associates," dated April 22d, A. D. 1869, that said trust agreement and the said two conveyances therein mentioned then and there vested in and became the property of your orator, and the title of the said Swepson was that of a trustee holding for the use of your orator, and that the said stock and bonds of the proposed organization, as provided in said trust agreement, became and was vested in your orator, and that when the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company was chartered and organized, it was founded upon no other capital property or estate than that so purchased and paid for by the said $960,300 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds so belonging to your orator, and that the capital stock and all the bond issues of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company likewise became, was, and is, the property and estate of your orator to the same extent that the $6,000,000 of bonds were, out of the proceeds of which the said Swepson fraudulently diverted and appropriated the money with which he purchased, as such agent, and fiduciary, the said $960,000 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds; and that all and singular the said purchases of said bonds and said railroads, and the creating of said trust, and the said two deeds of conveyance from the trustees of the internal improvement fund, dated April 8th, A. D. 1869, and all and singular the 73 subsequent act or acts of the incorporation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company became and henceforth were, and in law and equity are, the property and estate of your orator.

XVIII. Your orator, further complaining, states that after the fraudulent investment of your orator's money, as aforesaid, by the said Swepson, he transferred such interest as he pretended to have in and to the said trust agreement of the 22d of April, 1869, and the said two deeds of conveyance of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, described in and forming the foundation of said trust, to the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, who was then, or soon thereafter, became the president, agent, and fiduciary of your orator; and the said Littlefield received said assignment and trust property aforesaid with the express understanding that he would apply said property to the use and benefit of your orator, for the purpose of refunding your orator the sum of about $870,000, with interest thereon, at eight per cent., such being the amount of your orator's money invested in the purchase of said bonds and railroads aforesaid.

XIX. That subsequent to the transfer of said trust property so belonging to your orator to said Littlefield and the incorporation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the said Littlefield and others caused certain papers, called bonds, to be executed in the name of said company, under and by virtue of certain pretended acts of the legislature of the State of Florida, dated June 24th 1869, and January 28th, 1870, to the amount of $3,000,000, being 3,000

74 bonds of the par value of $1,000 each, and numbered from 1 to 3.000 inclusive, and payable to the said State of Florida, and placed the said 3,000 so-called bonds in the hands of the treasurer of the said State of Florida, for no good, valuable, or lawful consideration, and that the said 3,000 bonds are now held by the defendant, Walter Gwynn, as such treasurer, but who has no lawful right to hold the same; a copy of one of which said bonds is made part hereof, marked Schedule E.

XX. That after the said 3,000 papers, called bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, were issued and placed in the hands of said treasurer of the State of Florida, the said Swepson, Littlefield, and others, conspiring together with Harrison Reed, governor of said State, procured certain other papers or tokens called bonds of the State of Florida, which were pretended. created, and issued by authority of a certain pretended statutory agreement between the State of Florida and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, under and by virtue of said acts of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved June 24th, 1869, and the 28th January, 1870, which said tokens or papers called bonds, so illegally created by the State of Florida, were by its consent, through the connivance and participation of its governor, said Harrison Reed, placed in the market in a manner designed to injure the rights of your orator, and also to create a burden and charge against the credit, franchise, and estate of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company contrary to law, when the said company, being advised thereof by a special meet-75 ing of its board of directors convened on the 10th day of December, 1870, revoked and annulled the issue of said bonds and forbade the use thereof, and demanded that said bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, so illegally placed in the hands of the said treasurer of the State of Florida, should be forthwith returned to said company, as is shown by a copy of such resolution, made part hereof, marked Schedule F.

XXI. Your orator further states that being so advised of the fraudulent use and appropriation of its money, so held by said Swepson in trust as aforesaid, and the issuing of said 3,000 bonds as a charge upon your orator's interest in said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and which your orator was also advised was in the possession of Sidney W. Hopkins & Co., in the city of New York, or that some token or representation of said 3,000 bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company were so held by the said Hopkins & Co., with a view of vending the same in the market, caused suit to be instituted in the supreme court of the State of New York against said Hopkins & Co., and others, enjoining the use of said tokens or pretended representation of said bonds, setting up and alleging your orator's right, title, and interest in and to said bonds, and exhibited with and as part of your orator's complaint in said cause the sworn affidavit of said George W. Swepson, fully setting forth and publishing to all persons, and especially to the defendants in this cause, that said $960,300 Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and which, as stated, were the sole consideration paid for the purchase of said two roads, and which by a new change of name constitutes the pres-
the proceeds and avails of the capital, money, and estate of your orator, and declared that the said investments and every part thereof were held in trust for your orator, as will more fully appear by a copy of said affidavit of the said Swepson, made part hereof, marked Schedule G.

XXII. Your orator further states that notwithstanding the said resolution (Schedule D), so revoking and ordering the returning and cancellation of said 3,000 papers, purporting to be bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, was passed and published by said company, and due notice thereof given to all the defendants, and especially to Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, and to Charles H. Foster, then treasurer of the State of Florida, and to Robert H. Gamble, then comptroller of the State of Florida, and each of whom were then acting for and in behalf of the State of Florida, which State was thereby bound and concluded by such notice; but that the said 3,000 papers, called bonds, of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company have not been returned to said company, but are now held by the defendant, Walter Gwynn, as treasurer of the State of Florida, or are in some way pretended to be controlled by the defendant George F. Drew, the governor of the State of Florida, for illegal purposes, to the great and irreparable injury of your orator, as will be hereinafter stated.

XXIII. Your orator, upon information, further states that at the time the said Swepson so purchased the said $960,300 Pensacola &
77 Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroad bonds by the fraudulent use and appropriation of your orator's said money, and then used the same bonds in the purchase of the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, which was done without the knowledge or assent of your orator, the said bonds were "paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, for and on account of F. Dibble and his associates," and that said trustees being so in possession of your orator's said bonds, did of their own motion, without the knowledge or assent of your orator and without authority of law, and to prevent your orator from getting possession of his said bonds, burn and destroy the same on the 26th day of February, 1872, so that your orator cannot now claim possession of the said bonds, or give the number thereof, or state precisely what number of Pensacola & Georgia Railroad bonds there were, nor what number of Tallahassee Railroad bonds there were, but your orator is advised that the defendant Columbus Drew, comptroller of the State of Florida, is in possession of the numbers of said $960,300 of said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds so burned by the said trustees, and of the different kinds and denominations thereof, and of whom your orator claims a full and complete discovery, as hereinafter prayed.

XXIV. Your orator is advised, and so states, that his title to said bonds, and his rights to enforce the collection of the same for the use and benefit of your orator, was not effected or destroyed by the burning of the said bonds by the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, or any of them, but that the rights of your orator, as the owner 78 of said bonds, still survives, unimpaired, with the same force and effect as if said bonds had not been destroyed, but were in possession of your orator and now present in court, and that the said same trusts, rights, and equities still survive to your orator as to the said $960,300 bonds so destroyed as exists in relation to the said $472,000 of said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee bonds that are still outstanding and uncancelled, and should be enforced to the same extent by the decree of this court, as hereinafter prayed.

XXV. Your orator is further advised that if for sufficient reasons it should be adjudged on the final hearing of this cause that the said $960,300 Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee bonds are not existing in fact so as to be enforced against said railroads for the use of your orator, it then avers that your orator had an equitable lien on the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, before its bonds were destroyed as aforesaid, and which lien attached to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad to the full amount of the purchase-money so paid for said roads, being the said sum of $960,300 with interest thereon at 8 per cent. per annum since the 20th day of March, 1869, and which is a prior and first lien on said roads, their franchises and estates, and is prior to any lien or encumbrance created by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, after acquiring possession of said roads, and is especially prior to the said 3,000 papers called bonds of the said last named company, and now in the hands of the defendant, Walter Gwynn, as treasurer aforesaid.

79 XXVI. Your orator is further advised that if the 3,000 papers called bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, so held for no lawful or valuable consideration by the said Walter Gwynn, teasurer aforesaid, are adjudged to be in fact and in law the valid debt, bond, and obligation of the said company for any purpose, that then the same should be adjudged and decreed to be held in trust for the use and benefit of your orator, under said trust agreement and assignment to your orator's said agent, trustee and fiduciary, Geo. W. Swepson, on the 22nd of April, 1869, aforesaid, to the exclusion of all other rights and equities, except the said $472,000 of said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds yet uncancelled, which your orator will in that event crave leave to pay and discharge as hereinafter prayed.

XXVII. Your orator further states that it is advised that there was no law authorizing the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to issue the said 3,000 bonds, or papers, payable to the State of Florida, and no law authorizing the State of Florida to become the payee of such bond, or to take and hold special property in or to said bonds, and that there is no law authorizing or requiring the State of Florida to assign, transfer, or pass said bonds to any other holders; and that the said State of Florida neither paid nor was capable of paying any good or lawful consideration, or any equivalent or value whatever for said 3,000 bonds so held by said Walter Gwyan, treasurer, under and by virtue of said acts of the legislature of Florida of the 24th June, 1869, and the 28th January, 1870, and that the said acts and all agreements thereunder between the said State of Florida and the said 80 Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company were in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and did not and could not create or confer any validity whatever upon any bonds issued under said acts, or either of them, by virtue of said statutory agreements between the State of Florida and said railroad company, or that could bind the franchises and property of the same; but that the acts authorizing such statutory agreement and every part thereof, and all acts done or suffered under the same in the matter of creating and issuing said 3,000 so-called bonds, were and are utterly null and void.

XXVIII. Your orator, upon information, further states that if the said acts of the legislature of Florida of the 24th of June, 1869, and 28th of January, 1870, pretending to authorize the State of Florida to exchange its bonds for the so-called bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, were not repugnant to the constitution of the State of Florida, and therefore utterly null and void, but were, on the contrary, free from all constitutional objections, and were sufficient to authorize such exchange of bonds, your orator nevertheless avers that the terms and positive requirements of said statutes were not obeyed, and that the prescribed conditions were not complied with, which could alone authorize such exchange; that such exchange of State bonds could only be made with any company "when the president thereof shall certify upon his oath that the road or parts of road for which he asks such exchange of bonds is completed and in good running order," and that without such "certifying upon his oath" by the president of the company, no exchange of State bonds could be lawfully made; that the president of the said Jacksonville, Pen-81 sacola & Mobile Railroad Company never did "certify upon his oath that the road or parts of road for which he asked for an exchange of bonds was completed," and that the conditions precedent upon which said bonds could be exchanged never occurred, or were performed, and therefore the delivery of any bonds by Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, for said so-called bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, was in disregard of the requirements of said statutes, and imposed no obligation whatever on said company.

XXIX. Your orator is advised, and so states and charges, that if the said acts of the legislature of the 24th of June, 1869, and 28th of January, 1870, attempting to authorize such exchange of bonds, were free from all other objections, and the conditions precedent had been fulfilled, requiring "the president of said company to certify upon his oath" as to the condition of such roads being such as the said statutes required, that still the said statutes were never capable of being carried into effect, because in the case of sale being made, as mentioned in said statutes, it requires the same to be "for lawful money of the United States, and for nothing else, except that the State, for its own protection, may become the purchaser at said sale, and may pay in said purchase any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against said roads, which purchase money or said evidence of indebtedness shall be paid on the day of sale into the treasury of the State, or within ten days thereafter, and all moneys arising from said sale and paid into the treasury of this State, as heretofore prescribed, shall be promptly and 82 exclusively applied to the payment and satisfaction of the bonds issued by the State of Florida under this act," and can be applied to no other purpose and in no other mode, and that there being "no bonds issued by the State of Florida under this act," the essential object of the statute is rendered abortive and incapable of execution for the want of the specified subject matter to which to apply the proceeds of sale destroys the mutuality of the statutory agreement and would simply take the proceeds of sale from its rightful owner and place the same in the treasury of the State of Florida, from which it could only be removed, paid out, or withdrawn by the aid of another statute, authorizing the same to be done, which, being a mere matter of option, might never be done, thus arbitrarily using and absorbing the said proceeds of sale in violation of law and without redress to your orator or other holders of the stock of said company.

XXX. Your orator is further advised, and so avers, that the rights of your orator to said $960,300 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds vested previous to the 24th day of June, 1869, that said bonds, being authorized by a statute of the State of Florida passed in 1855, became the subject of a contract at that date between said State and the holder of each and every bond so issued under said statute, and that the rights of your orator in and to said bonds were founded upon such statutory contract between your orator and the said State of Florida, and could not be altered or impaired, and much less absolutely destroyed, by said acts of the 24th June, 1869, or the 28th January, 83 1870, because such is prohibited by the constitution of the State of Florida and the Constitution of the United States as impairing the obligations of a contract, as your orator will ever maintain on the trial of this cause.

XXXI. Your orator is advised, and so states and charges, that the relation of trustees and cestui qui trust is essentially a matter of contract, with a means of mutual enforcement and adequate redress for any breach of trust; that the position of trustee cannot, by the constitution of the State of Florida, be created by act of its legislature between the State and its citizens and individuals or private corporations; that the State cannot be held responsible for a breach of trust, and that said acts of the 24th June, 1869, and 28th January, 1870, make no provision whatever for securing redress for such breach of trust, and therefore, besides being arbitrary and unjust, are repugnant to the constitution of the State of Florida, and are hence null and void.

XXXII. Your orator, upon information and belief, further states and alleges the fact to be, that after the placing of the 3,000 so-called bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Moblie Railroad Company in the possession of the treasurer of the State of Florida, and before any of the pretended bonds of the State of Florida pretended to be exchanged for the bonds of said company were sold and purchased in the market by the defendants, or any of them, the fact that said 3,000 pretended bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company were not the bonds of the said company and created no lawful lien in favor of the State of Florida on the fran- 84 chises and property of the said company, as alleged by your orator, became a fact well known to the defendants, who were duly advised thereof by their counsel in New York, Messrs. Barlow, Laroque and Macfarland, who made the legal insufficiency of said bonds known to the State of Florida, and discussed means of remedying the same, whereupon the said State of Florida, through its governor, Harrison Reed, entered into a re-convention with the defendants holding, or proposing to hold, any of the bonds of said State, which resulted in the adoption of a new and different security, agreement, and contract between the State of Florida and said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which was reduced to writing by the said counsel of the defendants in the city of New York, or London, in the shape of deed of conveyance, containing certain recitals and covenants, wholly waiving and superseding the said statutory agreement, if any there was, by said act of 24th June, 1869, and 28th of January, 1870, and substituting said written conveyance or covenant in lieu thereof, dated the day of , 1871, which among other things declared that said writing was an "indenture, made by and between the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, a corporation created, organized, and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Florida, party of the first part, and Harrison Reed, governor of said State, party of the second part;" that said covenant and conveyance after further recitals and referring to the said acts of the legislature of Florida, approved January 28th, 1870, and the object thereof, and declaring that the object of said covenant and conveyance was in order to secure and effectuate the true interest and meaning of the said statute, and 85 after reciting the various articles and provisions designed for such purpose, the said conveyance provided that "in the event that it shall be considered best for the interest of the holders of bonds secured hereby, the party of the second part (the governor of Florida), and his successors in office, in case of such default, shall have the right to take possession of the mortgages and premises, and use and operate the same, taking the rents, profits and income thereof, and shall apply the net rents, profits and income thereof to the payment and discharge of such sums as may be due and unpaid from time to time, lent under due and legal proceedings to that end, had in a court of competent jurisdiction," as will better appear by the text and terms of said covenant, to which your orator craves leave to refer as part hereof for the purposes of this suit.

XXXIII. That said covenant thus prepared for the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was signed by the president thereof, and its corporate seal was affixed thereto, and being in such manner executed, the said conveyance was accepted by the said State of Florida, through Harrison Reed, its governor, and which was bound thereby, and was by said governor, on the part of said State, placed on record in the proper registry office for the county of Columbia, State of Florida, when and whereby the State waived all and any rights to seek security under the said acts of the 24th of June, 1869, and 28th January, 1870, and was from and after the accepting and recording of said covenant and conveyance confined and limited to the provisions thereof.

86 XXXIV. Your orator further complaining states, that the defendants, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, John Collinson, and Thomas B. Coddington, although fully advised of the matters and facts alleged in the premises and with full notice thereof, claim, or pretend to claim, some right, title, or interest in or to the said 3,000 papers, or so-called bonds, of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but precisely what interest your orator is not advised, and that said defendants further claim, or pretend to claim, that said 3,000 so-called bonds are a prior lien to the rights of your orator in and to the railroad, property and estate of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad so purchased and paid for with your orator's said $960,300 of the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid; and in pretending and making such claims did, in person or through some agency, apply to the governor of the State of Florida to exercise the extraordinary power of seizure mentioned in said null and void acts of the legislature of the State of Florida approved the 24th June, 1869, and the 28th day of January, 1870, respectively, and that said governor, utterly disregarding his lawful duty, and with a full knowledge of the facts herein alleged, and especially aware of the fact that the State of Florida, by the said re-convention, covenants and conveyance of the day of , 1871, aforesaid, had formally and solemnly waived all rights and power, had any ever existed, to interfere with the said railroad, under the said statutory provisions, and with a full knowledge that no void, and inoperative statutes, or either of them, and utterly disregarding the terms and conditions of said re-convention and waiver in said deed, that the seizure of said railroad and the converting the same into money should be "under due and legal proceedings to that end, had in a court of competent jurisdiction," did, on or about the nineteenth day of February, 1877, arbitrarily and in defiance of law, enter upon, intermeddle with, and with force seize the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and proceed to appoint persons, other than the officers and owners of said railroad, to work and handle the same, in a manner utterly destructive to the interests and rights of said company and your orator, as the lawful and equitable owner of the stock thereof, and after so seizing, advertised the said railroad and every part thereof for sale on the 4th day of June, 1877, as will better appear by a copy of said advertisement made part hereof, marked Schedule H.

XXXV. Your orator further states, that the defendant, Geo. F. Drew, governor, who with his advisors, the defendants, Columbus Drew, as comptroller of the said State; Walter Gwynn, as the treasurer of said State; George P. Raney, as attorney general of said State; and Hugh A. Corley, as commissioner of lands and immigration of said State, and constituting the advisors of said Governor Drew, and the said several parties named constituting collectively the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, though fully advised of the premises, still continue to seize, hold, and advertise said railroad 88 for sale under and by virtue of said illegal and arbitrary seizure, pursuant to said null and void acts of the legislature of the 24th June, 1869, and the 28th January, 1870, and declare their purpose, or the purpose of the said governor, to sell and dispose of said railroad on the said 4th day of June, 1877, as aforesaid, and your orator verily believes will make such sale in defiance of said covenants and agreements aforesaid and the prior and exclusive rights and equities of your orator in the premises alleged, unless such illegal and arbitrary proceedings be enjoined and restrained by this honorable court as hereinafter prayed.

XXXVI. Your orator states that the said defendants nor any of them ever acquired, owned, or held any bond or obligation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and certainly never owned or held, and do not now own or hold any of the said 3,000 so-called bonds of said company, so issued and placed in the hands of the said treasurer of the State of Florida, which said bonds never were out of the State of Florida, or out of the hands of the said treasurer of the State of Florida, who holds the same by virtue of no law or authority, and for no good, lawful, or valuable consideration, as aforesaid, but whose possession is that of a bailee for said company, or as a trustee for your orator, as founded upon the investment of its said $960,300 of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid, and not otherwise; and that the said 3,000 so-called bonds are held within the jurisdiction of this honorable court, and of right should be returned to said company.

XXXVII. Your orator further states, upon information and 89 belief, that the said defendants, and each of them, have at all times had full and sufficient notice of the fraudulent character of said bonds, and that the State of Florida never had acquired and could not acquire any legal or equitable title whatever in or to said 3,000 so-called bonds of the said company; that said State never issued, and never was capable of issuing any good or valid bond in exchange for the said 3,000 so-called bonds, as stated, and that the notice of the fraudulent character of said State bonds was given, among other things, by articles of impeachment being proffered by said State, through its house of assembly, charging the said Harrison Reed, governor, with having fraudulently conspired with others to procure, and did procure by such conspiracy, the creation and issue of such bonds, he, the said Governor

Reed, being fraudulently interested therein, and upon which said articles of impeachment the said Governor Reed was solemnly arraigned at the bar of the senate of Florida for trial; all of which was known to the defendants and each of them, and was and is such notice, and shows such arts of fraud perpetrated by the neglect and sufferance of said State, as to deprive it of all right to seize and hold said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad.

XXXVIII. Your orator further states that the defendant, Thomas B. Codington, has come into possession of $25,000 of the coupons which were attached to and were illegally detached from the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and which of right belong to your orator; that said coupons were placed in the hands of said
Codington by virtue of a corrupt and illegal transaction between 90 said Codington, Milton S. Littlefield, Edward Houstoun, and R.
H. Gamble, on or about the 11th day of January, 1871, as your orator is advised and believes, and that said Codington holds said coupons by virtue of no legal right and for no lawful consideration, but holds the same in trust for your orator, with whose money the said coupons were purchased, and to whom they rightfully belong.

XXXIX. Your orator, upon information and belief, further states, that the defendant, James G. Gibbes, claims to have or to hold a title of some sort to the portion of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad extending from Quincy westward to the Chattahoochee River. That said Gibbes, as your orator is informed and believes, was a contractor for building the said portion of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad referred to, and did work not exceeding in amount about $92,000, after full and complete measurement by competent engineers, and that for this amount of work he was paid by said company, in cash, about $172,565, being an overpayment of about $80,000. That the money so paid the said Gibbes, was derived from the property and assets of your orator by the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, the president of said company, whereby your orator became and is the equitable owner of the said work and labor done on said portion of said railroad. That subsequent to said overpayment, the said Gibbes rendered an account, in which he admitted the payment, by said company, through said Littlefield, of the said $172,565 and the receipt thereof, but claimed a further balance due him of $51,068.70, as will be seen by a copy of said account, made part hereof, marked Schedule I.

91 XL. That said account, upon its face, besides being false and inconsistent, shows that said Gibbes charged for and claimed pay for the tools, implements, stock and materials used in the work on said portion of the road, but which your orator, upon information and belief, states the said Gibbes never turned over and delivered to said company, but fraudulently used and appropriated the same to himself, and is justly and lawfully chargeable therewith.

XLI. Your orator further states upon information and belief, that said Gibbes, subsequent to the said overpayment of about $80,000, and well knowing there was not a dollar due to him, instituted a false and fraudulent suit in the circuit court for Gadsden County, Florida, claiming a large balance due him for damages of some sort that never, in fact, occurred, and sued the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company therefor, which, by the neglect of its officers and by the collusion of the president, the defendant Milton S. Littlefield and others, a pretended judgment was taken by default for a large amount, but what precise amount your orator is not able to state, but will ascertain and show to the court.

XLII. That the said Gibbes and said Littlefield, further colluding, have permitted said judgment to stand against said company, and have caused or permitted a portion of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, to-wit, the portion extending west from Quincy to Chattahoochee River, to be levied upon and sold and purchased in by said Gibbes, who pretends some title thereto, but your orator charges 92 that the whole of said proceedings—that is, the said suit, the alleged demand and the suit thereon—the failure to defend on the part of the said company—the taking of a judgment by default—and the failure to open or reverse the same, and the said sale and purchase under said judgment—was a false and collusive proceeding ab initio and fraud upon your orator, the real owner of the money paid to said Gibbes, and the large and valuable property so sacrificed to pay the same, and your orator claims the right to a full and complete accounting with said Gibbes on the part of the said company for any and all sums ever at any time due to said Gibbes, and all monies at any time paid to him; and your orator will well and truly pay to said Gibbes any and all sums justly due him after such accounting, and your orator claims that said false, fraudulent and collusive judgment against said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company shall be declared null and void so far as the rights of your orator are concerned, and as against the right of any and all bona fide creditors and stockholders of said company, as hereinafter prayed.

XLIII. Your orator, further complaining, states, that the governor of Florida has for and during the period of about five years past, without any lawful right so to do, taken forcible possession of and held, or caused to be held, and still holds, or causes to be holden, by persons of his appointment, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and that at present, the defendant, T. C. Spooner, by the direction of George F. Drew, under color of his office as governor, but in violation of law, is holding possession of the said railroad, the receipts and income of which amount to a large sum of money; the taking, 93 holding and using of which railroad, and the receipts and income thereof by the said T. C. Spooner, under and by virtue of the order of said Drew, is a violation of and trespass upon the rights, property, estate, franchise, privileges and immunities of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and is inflicting great and irreparable injury upon said company and the rights of your orator, as the lawful and equitable owner of the capital stock of said company, by reason of the same having been purchased and paid for by the fraudulent use and appropriation of your orator's said $960,300 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, as aforesaid, and that the said illegal seizure of and trespass upon the property and estate of the said company and the rights of your orator should be enjoined and restrained as hereinafter prayed.

XLIV. That at the time the said governor of Florida took possession of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, in or about the year 1872, there was no interest due on any bonds that were a lawful charge against said company; that the receipts of said railroad have since and during said period been received and absorbed without regard to the rights of said company or the stockholders thereof; that there never has been any statement of any amount of interest due and unpaid, or any legal ascertainment thereof, but on the contrary, upon the mere assertion of a default in the payment of alleged interest, the said governor of the State of Florida, after so usurping the possession of the said railroad, and without rendering any account of the receipts thereof, further seized and advertised said railroad for sale, which your 94 orator charges is a mere arbitrary confiscation of the said railroad of said company, without regard to law or the right of your orator and others, the lawful and equitable owners of the stock thereof.

XLV. Your orator, upon information, further states, that there is in the hands of the State of Florida a large amount of money, to wit, more than $40,000, which of rights is the property of and belongs to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and which is in equity and good conscience the money and assets of your orator, the same having been derived from the earnings, receipts and income of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company during the seizure and holding of the railroad of the said company, and that this said large sum of money is kept idle and useless to said company and your orator, and of right should be brought into the registry and under control of this honorable court, and by its order invested in some good interest-paying bonds; either the bonds of the United States or the bonds of the State of Florida, at their market value, during and pending the final hearing of this cause; and if not so ordered to be invested, your orator has good cause to believe and fear that the said money will be absorbed and wasted, to the great injury of said company and your orator, to whom it of right belongs.

XLVI. Your orator is informed and believes that the defendants, or some of them, and especially the said George F. Drew, governor as aforesaid, is contemplating and threatening other and further 95 seizures and intermeddling with the affairs of said railroad company, under color of said null and void acts of the legislature of the 24th of June, 1869, and 28th January, 1870, well knowing the same are declared null and void, and that no valid obligation could be created or obligatory act done or performed under the same, and although the said statutory agreement was waived and abandoned by the said State of Florida, through its governor, said Harrison Reed, in the making and executing of said new covenant and stipulation with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, on the day of , 1871, aforesaid, and that the only existing agreement, if any, and the only and sole rights, if any, vested in or appertaining to the said State of Florida, are such as are set forth and provided in said conveyance and covenants last above mentioned, and none other whatever, and that the said rights, whatever they are, cannot be enforced by an arbitrary seizure of said road, under said statutes, but must be proved, established, and ascertained "under due legal proceedings to that end, had in a court of competent jurisdiction," as provided, covenanted, and agreed in the said conveyance and contract last above mentioned.

XLVII. Your orator further states, that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company is a body corporate and politic, created under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Florida, and is qualified and capable, and in law and equity has the right to be invested with the full, complete, and untrammeled control of its franchise and estates, free and exempt from the trespasses, intrusions, intermeddlings, interferences, or hindrances or delays of the defendants, 96 or any of them, and especially the defendant Geo. F. Drew, governor as aforesaid, and T. C. Spooner, under color of said null and void statutory agreement of the 24th of June, 1869, and the 28th of January, 1870, or any other pretext whatever, and in law and equity has a right to recover damages for such trespasses and injuries, and that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad should be forthwith restored to the possession, use and control of said company, and that the earnings and income thereof, amounting to a large sum of money, which for a long time past have been and are being absorbed and expended contrary to law and justice in extravagant demands and charges made and allowed under said illegal and arbitrary control of said railroad, by and to persons in no manner engaged, and for acts and proceedings in no manner designed for the benefit of said railroad company, or its stockholders, or your orator, as the bona fide owner thereof, but as extravagant compensation to persons and counsel, whose only and sole object was, and is, to destroy the franchise, property, and estate of said company, without regard to law, right, or justice; that said sums and amounts should be restored and paid back to said company by the proper order of this honorable court in that behalf made, or by proper proceeding instituted by said company for the recovery of such illegal peculations upon and appropriations of the moneys, earnings, and income of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, while in the usurped and illegal control of the defendants, or any of them, or of those who have heretofore taken possession of and interfered with the said railroad company, and despoiled it of its lawful earnings, receipts and income, as alleged in the premises.

97 XLVIII. Your orator, while not admitting, but at all times denying, that any valid debt or lien in favor of the defendants, or any of them, was created by virtue of the said 3,000 papers, called bonds, pretended to be a debt created by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, payable to or in the name of the State of Florida, under said null and void statutory agreement pretended to have been entered into by virtue of the said acts of the 24th of June, 1869, and the 28th of January, 1870, and now held by the defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer aforesaid; nevertheless your orator, in behalf of said company, and for the protection of its own rights, as alleged in the premises, hereby tenders to pay and discharge, or to cause to be paid and discharged, any and all such debt or obligation as this honorable court, upon the final hearing of this cause, upon proofs taken in behalf of the rights of said company, and your orator, shall, in good conscience and equity, order, adjudge, and decree due to the said defendants, or any of them.

XLIX. Your orator further states, upon information, that it may be that the said sum of $40,000, more or less, as alleged to have been derived and received from the earnings and income of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, by some person or persons acting as receiver thereof, may not, in fact, have been transferred to the defendant, Walter Gwynn, as treasurer, but is in the custody of and held by the defendant Charles H. Foster, at the instance, notice, or request of some person or persons designing to get possession of the same or a portion thereof, contrary to law and in violation of the 98 rights of your orator and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in the premises, and that said Foster should of right be restrained from parting with or paying out said money, or any part thereof, but should bring in and deposit the same subject to the order of this honorable court.

LXIX. Your orator further states that before filing this bill, it applied to the president and such other officers of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company as it could find, and urged the bringing of this suit, or of instituting similar proceedings to protect the franchise and property of said company from total destruction so far as the enjoining and restraining the said seizure and advertisement of the railroad of said company for sale, and to seek relief in having said 3,000 papers, called bonds, delivered up by the defendants or such of them as have charge of the same, for cancellation by the said company, but was informed that said company was not in a condition to defend or assert its rights or to avail itself of its earnings and income for that purpose, because the railroad of said company, together with the management, receipts and earnings of the same, were kept from its possession and enjoyment by the defendants, or some of them, and your orator is, therefore, compelled to institute this suit for the protection of its rights and the preservation of said company as the lawful and equitable owner of the capital stock thereof, as alleged in the premises.

99 Wherefore, the premises considered, and inasmuch as your orator has no adequate remedy, except through the equitable relief of this honorable court, your orator prays that the United States writ of subpœna may issue, directed to the defendants, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, and George F. Drew, governor of said State; Columbus Drew, comptroller of said State; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of said State; George P. Raney, attorney-general of said State, and Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State, and composing the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida—the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, T. C. Spooner, Chas. H. Foster, James G. Gibbes, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, John Collinson, and Thomas B. Codington, commanding them and each of them, under a suitable penalty and on a day therein named, to appear, and each, upon their separate oaths, full, true and perfect answer make to all and singular the allegations of this bill, so far as said defendants, or any of them, are within or subject to the jurisdictional reach of the subpœna of this court, and as to such of said defendants, or any of them, who reside beyond the jurisdiction of this court, that such a proper order or notice of appearance, by publication, or otherwise, may be granted in accordance with the provisions of law in that behalf made, and as to this honorable court may seem meet and proper.

And as special relief, your orator prays:

First. That George F. Drew, governor as aforesaid, may show
100 upon and by virtue of what authority he has seized and advertised for sale the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, or to hinder, delay or interfere with said company in the management of its said railroad, by the appointing of the defendant, T. C. Spooner, to intermeddle with or assume to control and manage the said railroad and receive the earnings and income thereof, to the exclusion of the lawful rights of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and that the said seizure, and all and singular the said acts of the said Drew and his servants, agents or appointees may, upon the final hearing of this cause, be forever and perpetually enjoined by the decree of this court.

Second. That the defendant, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, under its corporate seal, well and truly answer the allegations of this bill, and may, with its answer, state and exhibit what bonds it has issued, upon what authority, to whom, and for what consideration, if any received, together with all and singular the details and facts connected therewith, and especially as to a certain 3,000 papers or obligations to pay money, dated on or about the 1st day of January, 1870, and whether or not the issue of these papers, called bonds, were revoked by any resolution or order of said company, and if so, to exhibit a certified copy of such resolution, with its said answer.

Third. That the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, shall state and set forth as part of his answer to this bill, whether or not he, as president of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, ever at any time, and if so, when, certified upon oath as to the con-
any exchange of bonds, and if he did so "certify upon his oath," that he exhibit and file a copy of such certificate as part of his answer to this bill; and that said Littlefield shall further set forth and state in full the dealings between the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the defendant, James G. Gibbes, as contractor, agent or fiduciary; what amount of work, if any, was done by said Gibbes; was such work measured; by whom, and what was the amount? How much money was paid—how much demanded? Was there a suit brought—if so, on what account and for what amount? Was there a defense made to said suit? If not, why was there no defense? Was there any agreement, written or verbal, between them, or proposal, written or verbal, to divide or share the amount of any judgment that might be rendered, and to set forth the same, or copies of the same, if in writing or in any letters taken, or correspondence; and that said Littlefield, as president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, be required to produce all the above mentioned, and all other papers, letters or correspondence touching the dealings and transactions between said company and said Gibbes.

Fourth. That the defendant, Walter Gwynn, may state and set forth what number of papers, purporting to be bonds or obligations to pay, of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company are in his possession, and for what lawful consideration he holds the same, and when and what time paid or advanced, and in what manner and to whom, and that said Gwynn may be ordered to bring the said 3,000 papers, called bonds, into this court to be delivered up to said and void and to be held for naught.

Fifth. That the defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, may further state and set forth what amount of money, if any, he holds as such treasurer of the State of Florida, derived from the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or from any receiver of said company, or by virtue of any order of any court, as funds derived from said company, and especially as to a certain sum of $40,000, more or less, received as money belonging to said railroad company, transferred to said treasurer by order of the Supreme Court of the United States, and that the defendants, and each and all of them, be enjoined from the use of, or handling or paying out said money, or using or appropriating the same, and that said $40,000, more or less, be brought into this court, and by its order, to be invested in good, interest-paying securities during the pending of this suit, for the benefit of your orator and said company and its lawful stockholders.

Sixth. That the defendant, Charles H. Foster, late treasurer of the State of Florida, may be required to truly state whether he has or ever had the sum of $40,000, or any other sum of money derived from the earnings and income of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and especially said sum of $40,000, more or less, transferred to his charge by virtue of a certain order of the Supreme Court of the United States, and if so, why and by whose authority he holds said money, and what amount, if any, has been paid out of said money, and upon whose order and for what consideration, and who, if any one, has claimed said money, in whole or in part, and for what reason, service or consideration, and that said Foster may be enjoined from 103 using, appropriating or paying out said money, but that the same may be brought into this court to be invested in some good, safe, interest-paying security, pending the final hearing of this cause, in such manner as this honorable court may direct.

Seventh. That the defendant, James G. Gibbes, may full, true and perfect answer make to the allegations of this bill as applicable to him, and that he set forth and discover all and singular his relations to and dealings with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as a contractor, agent or fiduciary; what work he did on said road; how much the same amounted to when measured according to the rules of measurement; did it exceed the amount of $92,000, and if so, how much? How much money did he receive for such work? Did he not receive about the sum of $172,000, and did he not receive about $80,000 in excess of the work done and measured? What amount of judgment, if any, he claims to hold against the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company—upon what account, if any, the said judgment is founded, and for what consideration and when and how said consideration was paid or rendered. That he state and set forth the particulars and items of such claim, account or demand, and did he ever render any account stated therefor; did he ever render any account subsequent to the Schedule I, set forth in the bill; if so, when and for what amount? Was there any defense made to said suit, and if none, why not? Was there any agreement proposed or understanding between the defendant, Gibbes, and the defendant, Littlefield, about allowing a judgment to be taken by default upon an assumed or fabricated account for the mutual or joint benefit 104 of the defendants, Gibbes and Littlefield, and state with particularity all the facts, and set forth such proposal, whether verbal or written, together with a copy of said judgment roll, if any there be.

And your orator prays that the said judgment may be decreed to have been procured by collusion between the defendants, Gibbes and Littlefield, and founded upon no good or lawful consideration and a fraud upon the prior vested rights, capital and interest of your orator, by whose means the said road was built, and upon whose estate the said judgment is a fraudulent charge and burden. That your orator, on the part of said company, and in behalf of your orator's said prior rights, may have a full and complete accounting with said Gibbes, and be allowed to pay and discharge, or cause to be paid and discharged, any and all just and lawful debt or demand, if any there be due from the said company to said Gibbes, and that the said judgment be adjudged and decreed to be collusive, fraudulent and void as against your orator and others, whose rights are affected thereby, and that said judgment be decreed cancelled of record as a claim upon and damage to said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and to the rights of your orator, as the lawful and equitable owner of the stock of said company.

Eighth. That the defendants, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, Charles Muller, John Collinson and Thomas B. Codington may each, upon his separate oath, state and set forth what interest, right or title they or either of them may have in and to the said bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, to wit: the said 3,000 bonds so issued and placed in the hands of the governor or treasurer of the State of Florida, 105 and that they each state what consideration they, or either of them, paid for said bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, if any they ever had; and whether they, or either of them, ever, in truth, did, at any time ever have or hold any of the bonds of said company, and if so, when, how many, and for what consideration were they so held.

Ninth. That the defendant, Thomas B. Codington, may personally and further state and disclose whether or not he holds any coupons detached from the bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad or the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and especially whether he has not got coupons to the par value of $25,000, more or less, and what amount, and also state the number of the bonds and the different grades of bonds from which the said coupons were detached, and that upon a final hearing, the said coupons may be decreed to be the property of your orator, the same having been detached from said $960,300 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds so purchased with the money of your orator, and that said bonds are of lawful right the property of your orator, and should be brought into this court and decreed to be the property of your orator, upon the final hearing of this cause.

Tenth. Your orator further prays that the said George W. Swepson may, by the decree of this court, be adjudged and declared to have been the president, agent and fiduciary of your orator, as a body corporate and politic, in the years 1868 and 1869, and that your honors may further and specifically decree as follows:

a. That as such president, agent and fiduciary, the said Swepson came into the possession of the said $6,000,000 of bonds of the 106 State of North Carolina, and received the same as the property of and in trust for your orator.

b. That as such president, agent and fiduciary, the said Swepson received the proceeds of said $6,000,000 of bonds, when he disposed of or sold the same in the city of New York.

c. That as such president, agent and fiduciary, the said Swepson used and invested the money of your orator in the purchase of $960,300 of Pensacola and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and that said bonds, at the instance of said purchase, became vested in and henceforth were the property of your orator.

d. That when said Swepson paid said $960,300 of Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, in the purchase of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the said Tallahassee Railroad, that said railroads then and there became and were henceforth the property of your orator.

e. That when the said conveyance (Schedule A) was created and signed on the 22d day of April, 1869, conveying, among other things, the said two deeds, (Schedules B and C,) by the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, dated April 8th, 1869, to said Swepson, and agreeing to have issued to him certain bonds by Franklin Dibble and associates when incorporated, that the said trust deed and every part thereof became and was and is the property of your orator, and that the same still survives and is held in trust for the use of your orator, together with all and singular the interests conveyed, transferred or embraced therein.

107 f. That when the said Franklin Dibble and associates were incorporated by the said act of the legislature of Florida, of the 24th of June, 1869, (Schedule D,) that the said act of incorporation and every part thereof inured to the use of and was held in trust for your orator.

g. That when the said Franklin Dibble and associates conveyed said Tallahassee Railroad, so created by the said previous Tallahassee Railroad and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad combined, under said act of incorporation, to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, that the said last named company received the said Tallahassee Railroad and all and singular the franchise and estate thereof, as the property of your orator, and that the stock issued thereupon by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, became and henceforth was and is the property and estate of your orator, as the rightful, lawful and equitable owner thereof.

h. That by the express terms of the reservation, in the 6th section of said act of incorporation of said Franklin Dibble and associates, conferring upon the said corporation so created the right to issue bonds, the prior lien and equity of your orator, as the beneficiary under said trust deed (Schedule A,) of the 22d of April, A. D. 1860, was preserved as a statutory lien, giving a prior right over all bonds or conveyances authorized to be made, and was due and legal notice to all persons dealing in bonds issued by or as a charge upon the said Tallahassee and that such prior lien still survives and is in full force in favor of your orator.

i. That when the said George W. Swepson, Milton S. Littlefield, J. P. Sanderson, J. L. ReQua, Wm. H. Hunt and others, the corporators of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company under said act of the 24th of June, 1869, as aforesaid, acquired the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads and issued a capital stock to the said Littlefield and others, that the said stock instantly vested in and became the property, right and estate of your orator, as the fruits and acquisition of the use and appropriation of your orator's said $960,300 of bonds, as aforesaid.

Eleventh. Your orator further prays that upon the premises stated, that it may have a decree ordering the said $960,3000 bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia and the said Tallahassee Railroads, to be treated as if the same were not burned or destroyed, but the said bonds still exist in equity, according to the numbers, dates and amounts of said bonds so destroyed, and that said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads may be ordered to be sold for the use and benefit of your orator, to pay to it the said $960,300 of bonds so purchased with its money, together with the remaining outstanding $472,065 of said bonds intended to be purchased by the note of said Swepson for the said $472,065 mentioned in said trust deed, (Schedule A,) without regard to any other or subsequent incorporation of said property on the said 24th day of June, 1869, or any subsequent bond issued by the said company so incorporated, or either of them.

109 Twelfth. Your orator further prays that if for any sufficient reason, such sale cannot be made as last prayed, then your orator prays for such decree, order and judgment as will invest your orator with the sole and exclusive ownership of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and all and singular the shares of stock and any and all bonds issued by said company, especially the said 3,000 so-called bonds, illegally held by the defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad shall be delivered to your orator free from incumbrance, except as to the said $472,065 of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and which said last named bonds, together with the accrued interest thereon, your orator hereby tenders to pay and discharge, or cause to be paid and discharged and delivered up to the trustees of the internal improvement fund, in such manner as this honorable court shall order, adjudge and decree.

Thirteenth. Your orator further prays that in paying or discharging said $472,065 of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds outstanding as aforesaid, that your orator may have the benefit of any and all payments made on account of said bonds by said Littlefield and Swepson, or either of them, especially the sum of about $18,000, more or less, paid to one Henry R. Jackson on account of a portion of said bonds, by said Swepson and Littlefield, under and by virtue of said agreement between said Littlefield and Swepson, or one of them, with said Jackson, and that said agreement and all and 110 singular the rights accrued thereunder may be transferred to and vested in your orator, and that your orator may be adjudged to have the right to the benefit of said agreement, according to the terms and tenor thereof.

Fourteenth. Your orator further prays that pending the hearing of this cause, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company may be taken from the control and interference of the defendants, or any of them assuming to interfere with or control the same, and restored to the use and control of said company, or such person as your orator and the said company may nominate and appoint, and that the defendants, or such of them as have been handling or intermeddling with said railroad and receiving the income and earnings thereof, may be decreed to account with your orator, or said company, and to pay over the said earnings and income of said railroad and every part thereof to your orator, or its appointees, as the equitable owner thereof.

Fifteenth. Your orator further prays that the said 3,000 so called bonds, so held by the said defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, may be decreed to have been issued without authority of law; that the said statutory agreement of the 24th of June, 1869, and 28th of January, 1870, providing for the exchange of bonds between the State of Florida and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, was null and void absolutely, and was not and could not be a lawful consideration for any agreement or undertaking of any sort, and formed no consideration for the transfer and delivery of said 3,000 so-called bonds, and that said so-called bonds are held by said defendant, 111 Walter Gwynn, treasurer, in trust for your orator and for said company, and that the same may be decreed to be delivered up for cancellation and held for naught.

Sixteenth. And your orator further prays that it may be adjudged and decreed that the said 3,000 so-called bonds, so pretended to be authorized to be issued under and by virtue of said statutory agreement and authority, were not issued in accordance with the conditions and requirements of said statute, inasmuch as the president of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company never did "certify upon his oath" to the facts and conditions precedent, required by the positive terms of said statute to authorize the said exchange of said bonds, and that such exchange may be decreed to have been in violation of such statute and not obligatory upon said company, and conferred no title upon any holders thereof.

Seventeenth. Your orator further prays that said statute may be adjudged and decreed to be incapable of performance, inasmuch as the same provides that in the event of the sale therein mentioned occurring that the proceeds of said sale "shall be paid on the day of sale into the treasury of this State, or within ten days thereafter, and all moneys arising from said sale and paid into the treasury of this State, as heretofore prescribed, shall be promptly and exclusively applied to the payment and satisfaction of the bonds issued by the State of Florida, under this act." That no bonds ever were issued by the State of Florida, under said act, and that no such bonds are in existence to which to apply the proceeds of any such sale, and that the seizing and 112 holding of the railroad of said company, under such void statutory agreement, wherein no consideration, as pretended therein, was created, paid or parted with by the State of Florida, is purely arbitrary, oppressive and illegal, and is prayed to be restrained and perpetually enjoined by the decree of this honorable court.

Eighteenth. And your orator prays for such other relief, general and special, as to this honorable court may seem just and equitable, the premises considered, together with his costs in this suit expended.

Clerk U. S. Circuit and District Courts, Northern District of Florida.

113 SCHEDULE A.

Whereas, George W. Swepson, has paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, for and on account of F. Dibble and his associates, in payment for the Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroads, sold to said F. Dibble and his associates by said trustees on the 20th day of March last, bonds of said roads amounting at their face to nine hundred and sixty thousand and three hundred ($960,300) dollars, and has also paid to said trustees for the same parties the sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five ($472,065) dollars, being the full amount due said trustees for said roads; and whereas said F. Dibble, for and on behalf of himself and his associates, has obligated himself and them, and does hereby obligate himself and them, to cause bonds upon said roads as now completed, as soon as further legislative authority from said State of Florida shall be obtained therefor, to be issued, the same to be secured and in every respect to be, as stated in an agreement executed and dated the twenty-sixth day of last March, between said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, and said George W. Swepson, which bonds, when executed, are to be and shall be placed as provided in said agreement, for the purposes therein set forth and for the further purpose of enabling said Swepson to be reimbursed the said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the first part, and George W. Swepson, party of the second part, witnesseth, that said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, has granted, bargained, conveyed, and confirmed unto said party of the second part all that property of whatever name, nature, and description, conveyed to said party of the first part by said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida by two separate deeds of conveyance, each dated April 8th, A. D. 1869, which deeds for full description of property are hereby made part and portion of this instrument. The said property hereby conveyed, to be held by said party of the second part in trust for the express purpose of enabling said party of the second part—which he hereby agrees and binds himself to do—to convey the same to that incorporation, consisting, or to consist as incorporators of said F. Dibble and his associates. As soon as said Dibble and his associates shall have granted to them such a similar relief as the legislature of the said State of Florida granted to Wm. E. Jackson and his associates by act for relief of William E. Jackson and his associates, approved July 29th, 1868, and also for the further purpose of securing said party of the second part in all advances made as specified and agreed upon in the said agreement between these parties, executed and dated March 26th, 1869, and the advancement, as aforesaid, of said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars, until such time as said relief shall have been granted, and said party of the second part shall have conveyed said property to said incorporation, as hereinbefore prescribed.

114 To have and to hold said property to said party of the second part for the purposes and trusts herein declared.

In testimony whereof, said party of the first part has hereunto signed his name and affixed his seal this day of 22d April, A. D. 1869.

115 SCHEDULE B.

Whereas by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida entitled an act to incorporate the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, approved January the eighth, A. D. 1853, the said railroad company was duly incorporated;

And whereas the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of said general assembly entitled an act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, approved January sixth, A. D. 1855, and in writing, dated January twelfth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created under said last-mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company under the provisions of this act shall be a first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and upon the failure of any railroad company accepting the provisions of this act to provide the interest as herein provided on the bonds issued by said company and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund as herein provided, it shall be the duties of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal, to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional security, as they may think most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders";

And whereas the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company on the sixth of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund as provided by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund under the requirements of said act;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund at a meeting of said trustees held at the capital of said State at the city of Tallahassee on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present his excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company and the sinking fund of one per cent. per annum as required by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind and advertise the same to be 116 sold at public auction to the highest bidder for cash or additional approved security at the office of said company, in Tallahassee aforesaid, on Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida Union, published in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution and until said day of sale, advertised the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the time and place and in the newspapers named, and in compliance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to said resolution, did proceed and offer said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad subject to said sale under said act at public auction to the highest bidder therefor for cash, subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent. semi-annually to the sinking fund until all the outstanding bonds of said company are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase-money paid in, and all other conditions of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State; and whereas at said sale F. Dibble and associates were the highest and best bidders, having bid the sum of one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars for the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad subject to said sale under said act were knocked off to said F. Dibble and his associates;

And whereas F. Dibble and his associates have requested said trustees to execute to said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, a deed of said railroad and other property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the said purchase-money bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, R. H. Gamble, comptroller, S. B. Conover, State treasurer, J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration, Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex-officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly in relation thereto, party of the first part, and F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, as also of the said sum of one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, 117 sold, aliened, and confirmed, and do by these presents grant, bargain, sell, alien, confirm, and deliver unto the said party of the second part the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, its iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, and all its property of every kind subject to sale under the provisions of said act, to have and to hold the same, with all the rights, privileges, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining to the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns forever, in as full and ample a manner as the said trustees of said internal improvement fund can convey the same, and the said party of the first part will, from time to time and all times hereafter, upon the reasonable request of the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns, make and execute all such further deeds necessary, if any, for the perfect and absolute assurance and confirmation of the said railroad and other property hereby conveyed or intended to be conveyed unto said party of the second part, their successors or assigns.

In testimony whereof, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, party of the first part, have hereunto set their hands and seals, this eighth day of April, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine. 119 SCHEDULE C.

Whereas by an act of the legislative council of the Territory of Florida, approved February tenth, A. D. 1834, entitled "An act to incorporate the Tallahassee Railroad Company," the said railroad was duly incorporated;

And whereas the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of the general assemby of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, A. D. 1855, and in writing presented December nineteenth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created by said last-mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company under the provisions of this act shall be a first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and upon a failure on the part of any railroad company accepting the provisions of this act to provide the interest as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal, to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional approved security, as they may deem most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders";

And whereas, the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the sixth of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum, as a sinking fund, as provided by said act, to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund, under the requirements of said act;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund, at a meeting of said trustees, held at the capital of said State, at the city of Tallahassee, on the sixth day day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present His Excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas the Tallahassee Railroad Company has failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund, as required by said act, to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and advertise the same to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, or additional approved security, at the office of said company, in Tallahassee aforesaid, on Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the 120 notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida Union, published in Jacksonville, in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution, advertise the same for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the time and place, and in the newspapers named, and in accordance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to their said resolution, did proceed and offer said Tallahassee Railroad, and all its property of every kind, including road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent. semi-annually, to the sinking fund, until all the outstanding bonds are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase-money paid in, and all other conditions of of said act;

And whereas, at said sale, F. Dibble and associates were the highest and best bidders, having bid the sum of one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars for the said Tallahassee Railroad and its property of every kind, including the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, the said road was knocked off to said F. Dibble and assocates, as the highest bidders therefor;

And whereas said F. Dibble and his associates requested said trustees to execute to said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, a deed of said road and all its property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the purchase-price bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; S. B. Conover, State treasurer; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex-officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly of this State, in reference thereto, party of the first past, and F. 123 SCHEDULE D.

AN ACT for the relief of Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City, and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company.

Whereas, at a sale of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad, on the 20th day of March, 1869, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of the internal improvement law, Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates became the purchasers thereof;

Preamble.

And whereas it is essential for the interests of the people of this State that the parties aforesaid, and their associates, shall be invested with such corporate powers as are needful for the operations of said road, as well as more accurately to define their powers and duties: Therefore

The people of the State of Florida, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Corporation.

Name of corporation.

Powers.

SECTION 1. That said Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates and their successors and assigns, are hereby made a body politic and corporate, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and they, their associates and assigns, as such body politic and corporate, are hereby vested with and shall be entitled to exercise and enjoy the like powers, franchises and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the several acts incorporating said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and said Tallahassee Railroad Company, and with the right to hold, operate, and enjoy the said railroad, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, subject to the conditions annexed to the sale of said roads by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and by and in the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, they, their associates, successors, and assigns may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods and chattels of whatsoever character that shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroads, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage or dispose of, and to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break and alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary and expedient, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the State of Florida.

Certain provisions of the charter of the Pensacola and Georgia R. R. Co. made applicable to this corporation.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of this act incorporating the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, for the protection of its roads from trespass, injury or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who shall trespass upon or injure the same, be, and they are hereby made applicable to all cases of trespass, injury or intrusion on, to, or upon the aforesaid railroads, and the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall be entitled to all the benefits and protection thereof and therefrom.

Amount of stock to be issued.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That said Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

May rent or farm road.

SEC. 4. Be it further enacted, That said Tallahassee Railroad Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, farm out, or sell any part of the said railroad to any person or persons, corporators or corporations, upon such terms as may be agreed on, provided said sale, renting or leasing shall not be made to any person or persons, or corporation owning any railroads out of the State of Florida.

SEC. 5. Be it further enacted, That the board of directors of the said Tallahasse' Railroad Company shall consist of nine directors, of whom the president of said company shall be one. The first directors shall be elected or appointed within one month after the passage of this act, and annually thereafter, at such time as may be fixed by resolution or law, but the said company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect or appoint its directors, so long as the said railroads shall be kept running and in operation, but the directors may be elected or appointed at the next meeting thereafter. Dirctors.

SEC. 6. Be it further enacted, That said company shall have the right to issue coupon bonds in such denominations and at such rate of interest annual or semi-annual, and payable at such time and place as they may determine, and may secure the same by mortgage on said railroads, their equipments, depots, workshops, property and franchise, executed in such form and manner as may be determined. Provided that any deed of trust, mortgage, conveyance, bond or bonds, or security which may have been executed, made, created or contracted for, as a lien on said railroads or otherwise, by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, prior to the passage of this act, shall be valid and effectual to all intents, either at law or in equity, as a lien or mortgage, or security on said railroad, as if the same had been made by virtue of this act, and shall in no wise be effected by any provisions thereof. Company may issue bonds.

125 SCHEDULE E.

No. 201.] UNITED STATES OF AMERICA. [$1,00

STATE OF (coat of arms.) FLORIDA.

Bond of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

Train of cars.] [Cut of steamship.

Know all men by these presents that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company acknowledges itself indebted to the State of Florida in the sum of one thousand dollars for value received, which sum the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company promises and agrees to pay to the State of Florida on the first day of January, A. D. nineteen hundred, in the city of New York, with interest thereon, at the rate of eight per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, on the first days of July and January in each year, on the presentation and delivery of the proper coupons hereunto attached.

This bond is one of a series of like tenor, limited to sixteen thousand dollars per mile, issued in accordance with an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, passed on the 24th of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State;" also an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, eighteen hundred and seventy, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,' approved June 24th, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine," and given in exchange for bonds issued by the State of Florida to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for an equal amount, in accordance with said act.

In witness whereof the said company has caused this bond to be signed and attested in its behalf by its president, and its common seal affixed at its office in Tallahassee, this first day of January, in the year 1870.

[SEAL J., P. & M. R. R. CO.] M. S. LITTLEFIELD, President.

Issued in accordance with the provisions of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved the 24th of June, 1869, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State;" also an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, eighteen hundred and seventy, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entiled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,'" approved June 24th, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine.

January 1st, 1870.

STATE OF FLORIDA, EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Tallahassee, Feb. 14, 1877.

I, Geo. F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, do hereby certify that the within is a true and correct copy of bond No. 201 of the J., P. & M. R. R. Co., now on file in the office of the State treasurer.

SCHEDULE F.

TALLAHASSEE, December 10, 1870.

At a meeting of the directors, convened this day at the call of the vice-president, were present: Col. J. P. Sanderson, vice-president; Messrs. Hawkins, Cheney, Stearns, and Purman, directors.

After a conversation as to the objects of the meeting, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted:

" Whereas bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company have been issued, according to the provisions of the act incorporating this company and the amendments thereto, which bonds have been exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, according to the provisions of said act; and whereas said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered by the governor to the president of the company; and whereas though previous to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with this company, authority was granted by the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to its president to issue, negotiate, dispose of, and apply the bonds for the purpose authorized by the act of incorporation, no action was had thereon after such consolidation, either by the stockholders or directors then newly elected, authorizing the issue or disposing of bonds; and whereas though no such action was formally taken, yet the stockholders and directors were advised that bonds had been issued and exchanged for an equal amount of State bonds, and were in the hands of the president, to be disposed of and applied, as they supposed, according to the law authorizing their issue, and they were satisfied therewith, if a proper application was to be made thereof; and whereas the directors are now advised that a contract was made by the president and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and certain persons as commissioners, appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, which contract was executed in April last, by which the bonds of the State of Florida taken in exchange for the bonds of this company were to be disposed of and the proceeds to be divided, according to the terms o said contract, between the above-named Florida railroads and the commissioners aforesaid, dollar for dollar, until the amount of over one million of dollars, with interest, should be paid to said commissioners;

"And whereas said contract was unknown to the directors, and is in violation of the law of this State authorizing the issue of said bonds, and is a misapplication of said bonds or their proceeds: Therefore

"Be it resolved, That all authority in the president of this company to dispose of or negotiate said bonds is hereby withdrawn.

127 "Resolved further, That a demand be made upon the president, or whomsoever else may have possession, control, or custody of said bonds, to return the same to the treasurer of this company forthwith.

"Resolved further, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and these resolutions be communicated by the secretary to S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, New York, and 58 Broad street, London, and to the president of this company and whomsoever else may have said bond, or any part thereof, in their hands or control."

Adjourned, subject to the call of the vice-president.

SCHEDULE G.

New York supreme court.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company
vs.
SIDNEY W. HOPKINS ET AL.

CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK, ss:

GEORGE W. SWEPSON, having first been duly sworn, makes oath and says:

That he was from October, 1868, to October, 1869, president of the company, (the plaintiffs in this action,) and during the period from the spring of 1869 until the summer of 1870, he was the president of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

Affiant further states that as president of the plaintiff, he came into possession of about six millions of dollars in bonds of the State of North Carolina, said bonds being received by affiant for the account of said plaintiffs and in payment of a portion of the capital stock of said company.

Affiant further states that he held such bonds to be used for the purpose of constructing the railroad of said plaintiffs. Affiant further states that after receiving the said bonds, he brought them to the city of New York, and there pledged a large portion of them, that is, nearly all of them, as collateral security for money then and afterwards borrowed from time to time by this affiant. Affiant further says that he used about $150,000 of said money to purchase in Florida a quantity, being more than half, of the capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which company then had no mortgage debt upon its line of railroad, which was sixty miles long, completed, and in good running order. Affiant says that other portions of said money, to wit, about $720,000, was expended in buying first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, said mortgage bonds amounting to about $1,000,000, and also in buying some stock in said companies and in paying expenses incident to said purchase. Affiant further says he purchased and held said railroad interest above named in his own name. Affiant further says that about the month of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, having authority to do so, caused to be sold at public sale the Tallahassee Railroad and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad to pay the first mortgage bonds thereof.

Affiant further says that Mr. F. Dibble, of Jacksonville. and associates, became the purchasers of both of said roads at said sale, they having bid the amount of the whole mortgage indebtedness of both of said railroads, amounting in all to over $1,400,000.

Affiant further says that said F. Dibble and associates were not able to pay the said trustees the amount of said bid, the larger portion of which would have been due to this affiant, and therefore said Dibble 129 and his associates proposed to this affiant that if this affiant would relinquish his claim to payment under said sale, they would cause a new company to be organized to own both of said railroads, (sold as aforesaid,) and that this affiant should be associated therein and should own one-third of the capital stock in said new company; and, further, that a new mortgage should be made on the new consolidated railroad, and the bonds thereof should be sold for one purpose only, to wit, to pay this affiant the entire amount of his investment and outlay in purchasing said railroad interest, and a further sum of $150,000, and also to pay to said trustees of said internal improvement fund the amount of the remaining outstanding bonds for which said railroad was sold, said remaining bonds amounting to over $400,000.

Affiant further says that he agreed to said proposal, and a written memorandum of said agreement was duly executed by said Dibble and his associates and this affiant, and this affiant surrendered his bonds to said trustees of said internal improvement fund.

Affiant further says that said written agreement was drafted by M. D. Papy, esq., and J. P. Sanderson, esq., attorneys, &c., in Florida, and said agreement was transferred by this affiant to Gen. Milton S. Littlefield, after he became the president of said W. D. W. N. C. R. R. Co. Affiant further says that subsequently a supplemental agreement was made by him with said F. Dibble and a majority of his associates, whereby the latter agreed that in consequence of the payment of $25,000 (which was duly paid) by affiant, he should receive about 60 per cent. of the capital stock of said consolidated company, instead of one-third thereof, as originally agreed.

Affiant further says that part of said money expended as above for said railroad companies was about $7,000 for two locomotives and the purchase money for a lot of land in Jacksonville, said lot having cost the sum of $5,000.

Affiant further says that he assigned and transferred said agreement with F. Dibble and associates, and all affiant's interest in and claims upon said Florida railroads to said Gen. Milton S. Littlefield, he being the president of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and said assignment was so made upon the express understanding and agreement that he would apply said property to reemburse said railroad company the full amount (with 8 per cent. interest) of all of their money which affiant had invested and expended as above stated in said Florida railroads.

Affiant further says that out of the sum of $720,000 invested as above in said Florida railroads, about $120,000 was so expended for affiant through the agency of Milton S. Littlefield in person.

SCHEDULE H.

STATE OF FLORIDA:

Sale of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad.

Whereas, by an act of the legislature of Florida entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24, 1869, and the several acts amendatory thereto, it is provided that in case the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company shall fail to pay either principal or interest of the bonds issued by the said company under and by virtue of the said act, or any part thereof, for twelve months after the same shall become due, it shall be lawful for the governor to enter upon and take possession of the property and franchises of the said company, and sell the same at public auction, after having first given ninety days' notice by public advertisement, "for lawful money of the United States, and for nothing else;" and

Whereas the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company has failed to pay the interest due on its said bonds for twelve months after the same became due:

Now, therefore, I, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, in accordance with the said act, have entered upon and taken possession of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, extending from Lake City to the Apalachicola River, in Florida, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, Florida, and all the property of the said company, real and personal, appertaining thereto, together with all the rights, franchises, and powers thereto belonging, and do hereby give public notice that I will sell the said railroad, and property, rights, franchises, and powers, at public outcry, for lawful money of the United States, at the eastern door of the principal depot building at Tallahassee, Florida, on Monday, the 4th day of June, A. D. 1877, at twelve o'clock m., it being understood, and notice being hereby given, that the said road, property, and franchises will be sold subject to the vendor's lien held by the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, for the unpaid purchase money due for said road.

Given at Tallahassee, the capital, this nineteenth day of February, A. D. 1877.

GEORGE F. DREW,
Governor.

PHILIP WALTER, Clerk.

137 Circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, complainant,

vs.

GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida; the Florida Central Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, claiming to be the authorized agents of the four parties last named; John Collinson, Milton S. Littlefield, Walter Gywnn, and Thomas B. Coddington; and now by way of amendment vs. J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, and Adolph Engler, trustee, defendants.

To the honorable the judges of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

Your orator, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, being a corporation and body politic, created by and under the laws of the State of North Carolina, and a citizen of the State of North Carolina, brings this its bill of complaint against George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; the Florida Central Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, corporations and bodies politic, created by and under the laws of the 138 State of Florida, and citizens of the State of Florida; and Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, and Adrian Stoop, citizens of Amsterdam and subjects of the Kingdom of Holland; and Frank R. Sherwin, a citizen of New York, who claims to be the authorized agent of the four parties last named; John Collinson, a citizen of London, England, and a subject of the Queen of Great Britain, and Thomas B. Coddington, a citizen of New York; and Milton S. Littlefield and Walter Gywnn, treasurer of the State of Florida, citizens of the State of Florida; and by way of amendment, pursuant to leave prayed and granted, against J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, citizens of Amsterdam and subjects of the Kingdom of Holland; and Adolph Engler, trustee, a citizen of the State of New York, residing in the city of New York.

And further complaining, your orator says:

1st. That your orator, now and at all times averring, and hereby re-averring, all and singular the matters in its said original bill alleged, with the like effect as if the said matters and things were each and severally hereby repeated verbatim and in detail, states and charges that the said last above-named defendants, now made parties, claim to be the owners and holders of a certain portion of the bonds alleged to have been issued by the State of Florida under said act of the 28th of January, 1870, numbered above 3,000, but which your orator, upon information, charges is not true, but, on the contrary, that none of said bonds numbered above 3,000 ever were sold and are not held by bona fide holders thereof for value.

2d. That the said defendants, and each of them, had full and due notice that said bonds numbered above 3,000, were illegally and 139 fraudulently put in circulation, and were used in violation of and contrary to law, and that no good and valid title was acquired to any of said so-called bonds of the State of Florida.

3d. That the said defendants never had any dealings with, or gave any credit to the Florida Central Railroad Company, or paid cr advanced any money on its bonds, and never bought the so-called bonds of the State of Florida in faith of the same being secured by the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, but bought the said so-called bonds on the credit of the State of Florida, which were declared to be issued to or for the use of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and not otherwise, and that all pretense or claim that defendants or either of them ever dealt with, purchased or paid for any bonds of the State of Florida, which were a charge upon or secured by the Florida Central Railroad Companies, is wholly and absolutely false.

4th. Your orator further states that it is advised, and so charges the facts to be, that the claims set up and pretended by the said defendants, as the holders of the said Florida State bonds, as against the said Florida Central Railroad Company, is the result of a scheme and conspiracy entered into by and between one W. H. Gleason, Frank R. Sherwin, and Charles D. Willard, during the year 1876, who sought the said defendants in Amsterdam, in the Kingdom of the Netherlands, and inspired said defendants with a belief that they, the said Gleason, Sherwin, and Willard, could influence the governor of Florida to seize and make a forced sale of the said Florida Central Railroad, together with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, for the benefit of said
140 holders of repudiated State bonds, provided they, the said Gleason, Sherwin, Willard and their associates were permitted to organize a scheme for that purpose.

5th. That pursuant thereto, the said Frank R. Sherwin, by a false and fraudulent petition, wherein he falsely and corruptly alleged himself to be the agent of the said holders of said Florida State bonds, and especially to be the agent of the defendants Boissevain, Mildens, Zadocks, and Stoop, did, on the 30th day of December, 1876, by such false oath and fraudulent means, induce the governor of Florida to seize the said Florida Central Railroad, and that just thirteen days thereafter, to wit, the 12th day of January, 1877, the said Sherwin, Willard, and Gleason, but acting in the name of said Sherwin, together with Henry R. Jackson and Charles H. Simonton, at the city of Savannah, Georgia, entered into a scheme "for the reorganization of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company wherein, among other things, it was agreed that the governor of Florida should make a forced sale of said railroads for the benefit of said combination, who should be at liberty to bid the said repudiated State bonds at such sale to be made by the governor, who was bound and required by the terms of said agreement, scheme, and adventure to accept in payment for said roads the said repudiated State bonds to the full amount of the principal and interest thereof, as cash, and to give such purchasers a complete title to said road and place them in actual possession thereof, as will more fully appear by a copy of said scheme, called the "memorandum plan," made part hereof, marked Schedule N.

6th. That pursuant to the purposes of said plan, the said governor recognized the said Sherwin and Willard and their associates as 141 authorized to speak and act for such defendants as such bondholders, as will better appear by the correspondence which transpired between said parties, or some of them, and the said governor and Geo. P. Rainey, attorney-general of Florida, dated the 10th, 12th, 19th, 20th, and 23d days of January, 1877, copies of which said letters are made part hereof, marked Schedule O, P, Q, R, and S.

7th. But your orator states the fact to be that at the date of the executing of said memorandum plan, which was a mere scheme for "wrecking" said railroads for the benefit of the parties thereto, and at the date of said correspondence, neither the said Sherwin, or Willard, or either of them, had any right or authority whatever from the said defendants or parties residing in Amsterdam, or either of them, to speak or act or make any oath for them, but on the contrary sought and procured said seizure by the governor so as to use the evidence thereof, duly certified in an imposing form, to lead the said so-called bondholders to believe that they, the said Sherwin and Willard, had great influence with and could control the action of the governor of Florida, and used such evidence of influence to induce a subsequent procuring of certain powers of attorney from said defendants herein named, residing in Amsterdam, which they did by the use of printed circulars, coupled with the representations of the utter loss of everything on the part of said alleged holders of the repudiated Florida State bonds unless they entered into the said "memorandum plan" so executed on the 12th day of January, 1877; but none of said powers of attorney were procured till about the 1st of March, 1877, and then were coupled with conditions and obligations not apparent on the face of such powers of attorney, but which your orator is advised, and so 142 charges, were to the effect that the said Sherwin, Willard, and their associates were to pay and defray all the expense and outlay of said proceeding, while they, the said so-called bondholders, were to be content to receive but about one-third of the par value of said bonds, without interest, out of a bond issue of twelve thousand dollars per mile to be put upon said railroads, after such forced sale of said roads should be made by the governor of Florida, who was to receive in payment therefor said repudiated State bonds as aforesaid, all of which proceedings was a mere scheme to appropriate the franchise and estate of said railroad to the utter destruction of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and the great and irreparable injury of your orator, as the lawful and equitable owner of a large majority of the capital stock thereof.

8th. Your orator is further advised and so charges that the defendants, or some of them, are not the original purchasers of so called Florida State bonds, but are engaged in a scheme of speculation therein, together with said Sherwin, Willard, and their associates, expecting to derive great profit therefrom by the forced sale of said railroad by the means and for the purposes aforesaid.

Wherefore, the premises considered, and inasmuch as your orator is without relief, save through the interposition of this honorable court sitting as a court of equity, your orator prays that a United States writ of subpœna may issue requiring the said J. Fred Schutte, Adrianus Prins, Jan Prins, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, Heinrich Ulrici, and Adolph Engler to appear at a day named, under a suitable penalty, and each, upon his or their separate corporate oaths, true and perfect answer make to all and singular the allegations of this bill of complaint.

143 And your orator prays, as in its said original bill it has prayed and prays, for all general and special relief, with a decree for its costs expended in this suit.

144 SCHEDULE N.

To His Excellency Hon. M. STEARNS,
Governor of the State of Florida :

The undersigned respectfully represents :

That he is the duly authorized and accredited agent in this country of the committee of foreign bondholders in the city of Amsterdam, in the Kingdom of Holland, having in charge the interest of Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, and others of said kingdom, who are bona-fide purchasers and holders for a valuable consideration to a very large amount, to wit, to the amount of more than three million two hundred thousand dollars, of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued by said State in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company of said State, which bonds bear date the first day of January, 1870, payable on the first day of A. D. 1900, which were issued by the said State of Florida in pursuance of an act of the legislature thereof, passed June 24th, 1869, and the act amendatory thereof, approved January 28, 1870, in which act and amendment it was and is, among other things, provided that in exchange for the bonds so issued by the said State, the said companies should execute and deliver to the said State its own first-mortgage bonds, embracing all and singular its railroad property and appurtenances, and which latter-named bonds were so issued and delivered to the said State in compliance with the laws aforesaid, and are now held by the said State as a trustee for the benefit of the purchasers of the said State bonds as an additional security for payment of the same.

The undersigned further represents, in the name and on behalf of the said committee of foreign bondholders and the holders of the said bonds of the State of Florida, that the said State has failed to pay the interest thereon at maturity, according to the tenor of its obligation, and has so failed to pay said interest for a period of more than twelve (12) months thereafter, or, that is to say, for the period of about five (5) years on all of said bonds.

The undersigned further represents that your excellency has, in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature of said State, taken possession of and advertised for sale the said The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, together with all its property and appurtenances.

The undersigned further represents that as yet no provisions have been made, as required by law, for the payment of the bonds of said State issued in exchange for the said bonds of the said the Florida Central Railroad Company; that your petitioner further says he has recently arrived in this country from Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, for the purpose hereinbefore referred to; that before so doing he spent much time in consultation with the said committee of foreign bondholders and its consul and various holders of the said bonds of the said State of Florida, and in the examination of the books, correspondence and other data in the possession of said committee and its counsel, pertaining to this subject, and your petitioner, from his own personal knowledge, derived from such examination, says that there is now held and owned in the said kingdom of Holland more than three million two hundred thousand dollars of the said bonds of the State of Florida, purchased and held for a valuable consideration, of which 145 said amount more than two hundred thousand dollars of said bonds were issued by the said State in exchange for the bonds of the said The Florida Central Railroad Company, and that the said State has failed to pay any part of the interest thereon for a period of about five years. Your petitioner further represents that he received a cablegram from the said GideonMaria Boissevain, J. Wortheim, the later being counsel for the said committee of foreign bondholders, and Charles Mueller, the American consul, dated at Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, on the 20th day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, which states the number of said State bonds sold absolutely in the said kingdom of Holland to be at least three million two hundred and six thousand dollars ($3,206,000), which said cablegram your petitioner begs leave to attach herewith as a part of his said petition. Your petitioner further says that all of said State bonds were sold in the market through the said Gideon Maria Boissevain, one of the late leading and principal banking houses in the said city of Amsterdam, and that the said Charles Mueller, now and for many years past the American consul at the said city of Amsterdam, has extensive knowledge of the sale in said market of said bonds of the State of Florida, by reason of having been selected to make an examination of the books, papers, and other data in the possession of the said banking-house of the said Boissevain, relating to the sale of the same. Your petitioner, in the name and on behalf of the holders and owners of the said bonds of the said State to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars or more, issued in exchange for the bonds of the said The Florida Central Railroad Company, therefore demands that your excellency shall, with due diligence, make provision for the prompt payment of said bonds and overdue coupons thereon, and to this end that your excellency shall enter upon and take possession of the Florida Central Railroad, together with all of its appurtenances and franchise, and sell the same at public auction for the benefit of the holders and bona-fide owners of said bonds, in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature hereinbefore referred to.

Your petitioner further represents to your excellency that he will hold himself ready at any and all times to maintain and make proof in such manner as your excellency shall see fit to indicate as to the holders and owners of said bonds of the said State of Florida. And your petitioner will ever pray.

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
County and City of Washington, ss:

I, Jos. T. K. Plant, a commissioner of the State of Florida for said District, certify that before me personally came Frank R. Sherwin, who, being first duly sworn, says the facts set forth as of his own knowledge in the foregoing petition are true, and those stated on information and belief he believes to be true.

Witness my hand and official seal Sept. 22, 1876.

[L. S.] JOS. T. K. PLANT,
Commissioner of the State of Florida.

146 Received at Washington, Sept. 20, 1876, 14, 8.26 a. m. Cable, five. Sherwin, Washington. Up to eighteen seventy-three absolute sale here known of Florida bonds, thirty-two hundred six. Boissevain, Wertheim, Mueller, American consul, Aiteen, Amsterdam.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General, Florida.

147 SCHEDULE O.

STATE OF FLORIDA:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 10, 1877.

SIR: The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad having been seized and advertised for sale under the act of February, A. D. 1870, entitled an act to alter and amend an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State, approved June 24th, A. D. 1869," and the act of June 24th, 1869, so amended, it is my intention to sell the same according to the present advertisement, and such intention will be carried out unless, upon representation of the bondholders, it should be shown that such sale should be postponed for a very short time. It is not the intention of this office to encumber its administration with the operation or management of a road, which it is the purpose of the law it should seize only for the purpose of selling.

As to the Florida Central Railroad, I am without sufficient testimony of there being any bona-fide holders for value of State bonds issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and shall not seize the Florida Central Railroad and property by the lien of its bonds, held by the State, until such evidence of bona-fide ownership as would at least satisfy a judicial tribunal has been presented by such bona-fide owners for value of such State bonds or their duly authorized agents.

I must respectfully say that the affidavit made by yourself, filed as to your being the representative of the foreign bondholders, is not sufficient evidence of such agency. I would not be willing to act on such evidence in such matters, coming from any one claiming to be such agent.

Should I seize the Florida Central Railroad, I should sell it just as soon as the law permits. All evidence of any matters involving the roads, their seizure or sale, must be submitted in writing.

It is my desire that the State be released as soon as possible of all railroad trusts and complications, and my disposition shall be to perform all my duties promptly.

Governor of Florida.

To FRANK R. SHERWIN, ESQ.,
Tallahassee, Fla.

I, George P. Rainey, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a correct copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General, Florida.

148 SCHEDULE P.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 12, 1877.

To His Excellency GEORGE F. DREW,
Governor of Florida:

SIR: The undersigned beg leave to call your attention to the fact that they are the attorneys in fact of a very large majority of the holders of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, of Florida, and that a plan has been agreed upon between the holders of said bonds, and Frank R. Sherwin, the agent of the holders of the bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which it is believed can and will be carried into effect, thereby resulting in the return to the State of its bonds now held in Europe and the speedy settlement of the litigation, and place the railroad upon a substantial business basis. We are gratified to learn that it is your intention, as trustee for the holders of said State bonds, to sell the said railway property at as early a day as practicable, for the benefit of all concerned, thus rendering a great public service to the State as well as an act of justice, long deferred, to both classes of bondholders.

With consideration of high respect, we remain, sir, very respectfully,

HENRY R. JACKSON.
CHARLES H. SIMONTON.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

(Signed) GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney General.

149 SCHEDULE Q.

NEW YORK, January 19, 1877.

To his excellency GEORGE F. DREW,
Governor of Florida:

SIR: I have the honor to enclose herewith the affidavit of Gideon Maria Boissevain, of Amsterdam, Holland, explicitly stating the number of Florida bonds purchased and now held there by bona fide holders. It confirms my affidavit in all details except that the number of bonds which are a lien upon the Florida Central Railroad, proves to be 208 instead of 206. Mr. Willard will also transmit you from Washington the certificate of the American consul at Amsterdam, corroborating the affidavit of Boissevain, which I trust, when received by you, will be deemed sufficient evidence to warrant the seizure and advertisement of the Florida Central Railroad and the postponement of the sale of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, to take place on the same day.

I remain with great respect, your obedient servant,

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

P. S.—I would request that your reply to this be addressed to me, care of Mr. Willard, at Washington, who will read and forward it.—F. R. S.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney General.

MAY 19, 1877.

150 SCHEDULE R.

(Personal.)

NEW YORK, January 20, 1877.

To his excellency GEORGE F. DREW:

DEAR GOVERNOR: I desire, before sailing, to reiterate to you personally, in writing, the assurance which I have verbally given that the railroads reorganized by me will be managed in a liberal spirit, with the view, so far as may be consistent with business principles, of fostering and developing State interests. To be explicit, it is my belief that the permanent prosperity and increasing value of the road can be best secured by competing sharply with all rivals for the Gulf and upriver trade, and by favoring Jacksonville and Fernandina as our outlets, and discriminating in their favor, if at all, as between them and Georgia ports. I have said as much to Gen. Jackson, and he recognizes it as impossible that I should favor Savannah. My plans for the development of the State are comprehensive, and render me not less earnest than yourself in the desire and determination to advance the material prosperity by every legitimate means, and I am confident you will find the endeavors of my associates and myself, to that end, a valuable aid to your administration, under which, I predict, Florida will enjoy great prosperity.

With every assurance of esteem and support, I am, sir, faithfully, yours,

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

(Signed) GEO. P. RAINEY,

151 SCHEDULE S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 23, 1877.

HON. GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General Tallahassee, Fla.:

DEAR SIR: The enclosed certificate of Charles Mueller, U. S. consul at Amsterdam, previously referred to, states of his own knowledge that "Boissevain and co-operators had, in good faith and at fair prices, purchased of one John Collinson 3,206 of above-named bonds of Florida." This, in connection with the sworn statement of said Boissevain, previously mailed to you by me from New York, would now seem to be full and explicit enough to establish the fact that there are 208 of the State bonds now in the hands of bona fide holders, and I therefore trust you may seize the Central road and advertise the same for sale on the first Monday in May, and postpone the sale of the J., P. & M. R. R., to take place at the same time.

Hoping that I may hear from upon this subject at your earliest convenience, I remain very respectfully,

C. D. WILLARD.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General, Florida.

203 Circuit court of the United States, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, G. M. Boissevain, A. J. Mildens, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, and others.

The demurrer of George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, and Walter Gwynn, who is treasurer of said State, by George P. Raney, their attorney and solicitor, to the bill of complaint in the above cause.

These defendants, by protestations, not confessing or acknowledging any of the matters and things in said complainant's bill to be true in such manner or form as therein set forth and alleged, do demur thereto, and for cause of demurrer do show:

That the complainant has not in said bill of complaint made and stated such a case as does or ought to entitle him to any such relief as is thereby sought and prayed for against these said defendants or either of them:

First. Because said bill does not show that the said defendants, Boissevain, Mildens, Zaddock, and Stoop, the holders of the Florida State bonds, numbered over three thousand, exchanged for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, for whom the defendant, George F. Drew, governor, is acting for the State of Florida as trustee, took said bonds, with notice of any fraud upon the complainant's rights in the premises affecting such bonds.

Second. Because the said complainant shows in said bill no right to maintain any suit in its own name or behalf, or in behalf of said Florida Central Railroad Company, as against these defendants, for the relief prayed in the bill.

Third. The said bill does not state such facts and circumstances as entitle the complainant, as a stockholder in the said Florida Central Railroad Company, to maintain a suit for the relief prayed for in said bill.

Fourth. Because the bill shows that if the complainant ever had any rights, or was ever entitled to the relief prayed for, it has slept upon the same, which have become barred by the lapse of time under the state of facts, as shown by said bill.

Fifth. Because, if the complainant ever had any rights as alleged, or was ever entitled to the relief prayed, as against said bondholders, the same has become barred by the lapse of time and the circumstances stated in the bill.

II.

That it appears by said bill that the same is exhibited against these defendants and Milton S. Littlefield, the Florida Central Railroad 205 Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as defendants thereto, for several distinct matters and causes, in many whereof, as appears by said bill, these defendants are in no way interested, and by no reason of such distinct matter the said bill is drawn out to a considerable length, and these defendants are compelled to take a copy of the whole thereof, and by joining distinct matter together which do not in any way depend upon each other, the proceedings in the progress of the suit will be prolix and intricate, and these defendants put to unnecessary charges and expenses in matters which in no way relate to or concern them or said bondholders.

III.

The said bill is so uncertain, inconsistent, and vague that it cannot be answered, because it fails to state what rights to the Florida Central Railroad stock, or in the same, have been admitted as being said complainant's right, and how and in what manner and upon what terms and conditions they have been admitted, or what its exact legal or equitable status, title, or claim to or upon said stock is, or to set out what its just and equitable title to said stock (and how or in what manner such title was admitted by said Littlefield and other parties interested), and to state what parties interested therein, other than said Littlefield, have admitted such just and equitable title, or their names and place of residence, or what their interest or rights in said stock was, and because the said bill in many other respects is so uncertain, vague, and inconsistent that these defendants are unable to learn from said bill the exact interests claimed in said stock by the said complainant, and the exact state of facts constituting the pretended claim or right of said complainant to the relief sought by said bill, or who should or should not be made parties to said bill; wherefore these said defendants demand the judgment of this honorable court, whether they shall be compelled to make any further or other answer to said bill of complaint, or any of the matters or things therein contained, and pray to be hence dismissed with their reasonable costs therein sustained.

GEORGE P. RANEY,
Att'y for Def'ts, Gov. Drew and Gwynn.

206 I hereby certify that the above demurrer is well founded in law.

GEO. P. RANEY,
Attorney.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Personally appeared before me, Frederick T. Myers, deputy clerk of the United States for the northern district of Florida, Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, who made oath that the foregoing demurrer is not interposed for delay.

WALTER GWYNN.

[SEAL.] FREDERICH T. MYERS,
Deputy Clerk of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Florida.

I, Simon Baer, deputy clerk of the United States circuit court, fifth judicial circuit, northern district of Florida, do hereby certify that the forgoing is a true copy of the original one on file in my office.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court, at the city of Jacksonville, this 9th day of April, A. D. 1878.

207 Circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

vs.
GEO. F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF Florida, The Florida Central Railroad Company, et als.

The answer of Geo. F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, to the bill of complaint, and also the petition filed by the said complainant in the above-entitled cause.

The respondent, reserving to himself the right of exception to all errors, uncertainties and imperfections in the said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereto, or to such parts and to so much thereof as he is advised is or are material for him to make answer unto, answering says:

208 That respondent is informed that Geo. W. Swepson, in June, 1869, or sometime in said year, obtained from W. W. Holden, governor of North Carolina, or from its treasurer, certain paper writings purporting to be bonds of the State of North Carolina, obligating it to pay six millions of dollars, and that the said Swepson professed to act in the premises as president of said company, but respondent is informed, and upon such information states that neither the executive, legislative, nor judicial departments of the government of said State admit such paper writings to be lawful obligations thereof, but that said legislature has absolutely refused to recognize the sum or to pay anything for interest thereon, and that one of the judges of the superior court of said State has decided in a suit pending before him in said court, that the said paper writings were issued contrary to and in violation of the constitution of said State. Respondent is advised because of such invalidity of such so-called bonds, the said Western 209 Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company never acquired any lawful property or held any six millions of bonds of the State of North Carolina, as is in said bill of complaint alleged, and that because of the fraud by the means whereof such paper writings were sold by said Swepson, no trust has resulted in favor of said complainant corporation in respect of any money which said Swepson obtained by any sale of said paper writings to any persons such as this court will recognize or enforce.

Respondent has never had any knowledge of the acts of said Swepson such as are set forth in the third & fourth paragraphs of said bill, nor of his dealings with said Houston, but is informed that said Swepson did sell the paper writings mentioned, and respondent is informed and believes the said Swepson purchased three thousand one hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad, but no more; that such purchase was made prior to the month of April, 1869, but that 210 the money paid by said Swepson for such stock was his own, and was not the money of complainant corporation, and was not derived from the sale of any bonds of the State of North Carolina, such as are mentioned in said bill, and that the said bonds in the second paragraph of said bill described were not issued and delivered to said Swepson until the year A. D. 1869, as appears from the report of the treasurer of North Carolina, a certified copy of which is hereto annexed marked A, and respondent is informed and believes and says that such stock was purchased at a price very greatly below par value; respondent knows nothing of the transactions between said Littlefield and said Swepson in the fifth paragraph of said bill mentioned, but is informed and believes that said Swepson did sell and deliver to said Littlefield as his own property all the stock in the said Florida Railroad Company which said Swepson had purchased as before stated; that such sale took place in October, 1869, at which time it was fully 211 known to the officers of complainant company, who made no opposition thereto, and set up no claim in behalf of said company to such stock, and that such company have ever since permitted such sale to remain unquestioned in the courts of the State of Florida, and have not given any notice to the officers of said Florida Central Railroad Company of any such claim to such stock or to any other stock which is in said bill set forth and asserted to exist, but said company permitted said Littlefield to deal with the same as his own property.

Respondent is informed and believes, and on such information states that the dealings of said Swepson with the said so-called North Carolina State bonds and the purchase and sale of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company were fully known to the officers of the plaintiff company before the month of October, 1869; and respondent therefore denies the allegations in the sixth and seventh paragraphs of said bill, wherein it is alleged that complainant company remained igno-212 rant of such matters until the summer of 1870, or that it acquired knowledge thereof from the affidavit of said Swepson, exhibited with said bill.

Respondent admits that plaintiff company brought suit in the supreme court of New York against said Houston and said Littlefield; but respondent knows nothing of the proceedings in said suit, and insists that complainant company should be required to file a certified copy thereof, but respondents deny that jurisdiction of said Houston or said stock was ever obtained in said suit.

Respondent knows nothing of any admissions by said Littlefield, or by any other person, touching the equitable title to said stock which the complainant company in its said bill asserts, and he insists that he and those for whom he acts are in no wise affected by any such admissions, if any have been made.

213 Respondent admits that the Florida Central Railroad Company and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company were legally incorporated by the laws of the State of Florida, and refers to such laws for the purpose of determining the powers and liabilities of each corporation.

Respondent, answering the eleventh paragraph of said bill, denies the correctness of the statements therein contained, and alleges the fact to be that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held on the 2d day of June, 1870, at which were present M. L. Littlefield, representing thirty-three hundred and fifty shares of capital stock; O. Huling, representing ten shares; E. Houston, representing thirteen hundred and ten shares; G. R. Foster, representing ten shares; and M. D. Papy, representing ten shares; resolutions were introduced by said Littlefield, and adopted by a unanimous vote, ratifying the action of the said Swepson, president, and the said H. H. 214 Thompson, treasurer, in signing the said bonds and adopting the said bonds as bonds of said company, all of which will more fully appear from a copy of said resolutions hereto annexed and marked Exhibit B.

Respondent further says that on the same day, at a meeting of the directors of said company, at which the said Littlefield, Huling, Houston, Foster, and Papy were present, the said Littlefield offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, to carry into effect the said resolutions adopted by the said meeting of stockholders, as will more fully appear from a copy of the same hereto annexed and marked Exhibit C.

Respondent, answering the seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth paragraphs of said bill, and all other parts of said bill and exhibits relating to that subject, says that subsequently, on the thirteenth of May, A. D. 1871, at a meeting of the stockholders of the said Florida 215 Central Railroad Company, a resolution was introduced by Edward Houston, and adopted by the meeting, authorizing the said Houston to place the said bonds of said railroad company in the hands of L. W. Hopkins and Co., in accordance with the said resolutions of June second, A. D. 1870, all of which will more fully appear from a copy of same hereto annexed and marked Exhibit D.

This defendant further says that, in the case of the State of Florida et al. vs. The Florida Central Railroad Company et al., appealed from the circuit court of Duval County to the supreme court of Florida, and reported in the 15th volume of Florida Supreme Court Reports. Milton L. Littlefield testified as follows in regard to said bonds of the Florida Railroad Company, to wit:

"The bonds signed by George W. Swepson as president. and H. H. Thompson as treasurer, being first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, payable to the State of Florida, were in 216 the room when the meetings of the stockholders and directors were held, and were examined by the parties who voted the stock; all the stock was represented at said meeting but about fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), to the best of my recollection, and as follows: The contract of June 7, A. D. 1870, between Houston and myself was made so as to authorize, in case the State bonds were not sold, their return, and other bonds issued in their place, for the reason that the bonds authorized were payable to the State of Florida.

"I do not think I have ever denied, as a stockholder in the Florida Central Railroad Company, that the State legally acquired possession of the Florida Central Railroad bonds. The bonds were in Tallahassee at the time; my opinion is that they were in the room at the time of the meeting, as Mr. Papy and Sanderson drafted the resolutions which passed; I may, however, be mistaken, as the trouble between Mr.
217 Houston and myself did not occur until the sixth of June, 1870, respecting the bonds being payable to the State of Florida instead of to bearer. I delivered the bonds to Col. Houston on the 4th & 5th of June of said year. The probability is that if Col. Houston had examined the bonds on the day of the meeting he would have made the same objection he did on the 6th. Mr. Houston was the only man who made objection to the form.

"M. D. Papy, Col. Sanderson, Houston and myself of the stockholders of the Central Railroad Company were present when Houston made objection to the form of the bonds. The difficulty between Col. Houston and myself as to the form of the bond led to the agreement of June 7th, A. D. 1870, between Houston and myself, now in evidence in the case. The certificate for 3,110 shares of stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, standing in the name of Geo. W.
218 Swepson, which I gave Houston as collateral, was endorsed in blank by said Swepson. I was not to become the owner of the thirteen hundred shares (1,300) of stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company contracted to be purchased by me from Houston until paid for. I suppose I have indirectly recognized the existence of the trust in Mr. Papy, created by Mr. Houston."

219 This respondent further answering says, he is informed and believes and so alleges that Harrison Reed, who was governor of Florida from June, 1868, to January, 1873, did deliver to John P. Sanderson, who was the president of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, four million dollars of State bonds issued under said acts, to perfect the public works, in exchange for three million of bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and one million bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the said Sanderson acting as attorney for said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and presenting and delivering to said Harrison Reed, governor, two certificates, one of which was to the following words and figures:

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

220 In accordance with the requirements of the 4th section of an act entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,' approved June 24th, 1869," I, Milton L. Littlefield, president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, do, for the purpose of obtaining the bonds of the State of Florida prescribed in said acts, hereby deliver to Harrison Reed, governor, first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and ask in exchange therefor bonds of the State of Florida provided for in said section to the extent of sixteen thousand dollars per mile, for a distance of said road of sixty-three miles, said Florida Central Railroad first-mortgage bonds being issued for and upon a part or portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville, said part or portion of the railroad being from Lake City to Jacksonville, and that said exchange of bonds is asked for the purpose of further aiding 221, 222 said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to the speedy completion of its road.

[SEAL J. P. & M. CO.] MILTON L. LITTLEFIELD, President, Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

Respondent, further answering the eleventh, seventeenth, eighteenth, nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-first paragraphs of said bill, says that he has been advised of the record of proceedings of the cause tried and decided in the supreme court of the State wherein the Florida Central Railroad Company and others were appellants, and the State of Florida and others were appellees, and that from such information as is furnished to him thereby he denies all the allegations in said several paragraphs of said bill contained, touching the invalidity and want of efficacy of said bonds, or that they were fraudulently and illegally issued, and respondent insists that the judgement of said court is final and 223 conclusive as to such matters as are in said paragraphs set forth and that the same cannot be reviewed and litigated anew in this suit, and he prays that reference may be had to such proceedings in said supreme court of the State, and that they be deemed a bar to any further proceedings on the part of complainant touching the subject-matter therein litigated and decided.

Respondent says that he has no personal knowledge of the matters set forth in the twel'th, thirteenth, & fourteenth paragraphs of said bill, and that he is advised that if the facts be as are therein stated, they do not affect this respondent, but respondent says that he is informed and believes that all the stock in said paragraphs specified either remained the lawful property or became the lawful property of said Houston in the year 1870, by sale and purchase of the same, under provisions of the agreement between himself and Milton L. Littlefield, of May 13th, 1870, which appears in schedule C annexed to said bill of com-224 plaint, and that it was regularly transfer'ed to him upon the books of said company, and that certificates therefor were issued by said company to said Houston, and that the legal title to said stock continued to be held by said Houston until his decease, which took place in the year 1875; that said Houston was domiciled at the time of his death in the county of Chatham, in the State of Georgia; that he left a will, and appointed J. P. S. Houston, Raymond Demene, & James H. Johnston executors thereof, who proved such will in the proper court of said State, and received letters testamentary therein, and are now acting as such executors; and respondent says he is advised that no suit touching the title to such stock can properly be determined by any court but one existing under and by virtue of the constitution and laws of the State of Georgia, and that in any such suit the said executors of the estate of said Houston are necessary parties, and that no decree can be made in this cause such as the complainant company seeks 225 to obtain, by reason of the want of jurisdiction of the honorable court over the said executors of said Houston.

Respondent further says that he is informed and believes that said Houston brought a suit in the superior court of the State of Georgia for the county of Chatham, against Mariano D. Pappy, to which suit certain other parties were afterwards added; that in the course of said suit the certificates of shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which were owned by said Edward Houston, were placed by order of said court in the custody of a receiver thereof, by whom they are now held; that the object of said suit was to determine the rights of certain claimants to such stock, and the said certificates were so placed in custody of said receiver to abide the decision of said court, yet to be pronounced, the said cause being still pending therein; and respondent says he is advised that by reason of the jurisdiction so acquired by the said superior court of the State of Georgia, touching the title to said stock, this honorable court is precluded 226 from trying and deciding the matters in said bill set up by complainant company and the title to said stock therein asserted.

Respondent says that he has seized, advertised the franchise railroad and property which was of the Florida Central Railroad Company, same for sale on the first Monday in July next, as appears from a copy of said advertisement hereto annexed, marked "E." That such seizure and proposed sale is authorized and commanded by the act of the legislature approved Jan. 28th, 1870, and by virtue of the decision of the supreme court of said State in the case of Daniel P. Holland, versus the State of Florida and others, wherein it was declared that it was the duty of respondent to take such proceedings upon the failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of any other company included in such act of January 28th, 1870, to pay the interest on their bonds, and in the case of the State of Florida, et al., vs. The Florida 227 Central R. R. Co., et al., referred before herein. Respondent says that J. Fred Shulte and others, of Amsterdam, in Kingdom of the Netherlands, have presented a memorial to him setting forth, on oath, that they are bona-fide holders of bonds issued by the governor of the State of Florida, to the Jacksonville Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, under the provisions of the act of January the 28th, 1870, and by it sold, and that no interest has been paid on such bonds by said company for more than twelve months after a default in payment of interest, and praying that the respondent would make such seizure and sale, and there having been presented to respondent by said persons a list giving the numbers of said bonds by them respectively held, copies of which list are herewith filed, marked Exhibit E, the respondent deems himself bound by the laws of the State and the decisions of the supreme court thereof to proceed in the manner and form as he has 228 before stated, and he is advised that it is his duty to proceed to make sale of said franchise railroad and property at the time before specified.

Respondent says that the said parties holding said bonds do not admit that any specific bonds held by them are to the exclusion of the others a lien upon any particular portion of the line of railroad beginning at Jacksonville and running westward to the Ap'alachicola River, but that the whole of the said line of said road is liable for each and every of said bonds.

229 Respondent says he is informed and believes that the said Florida Central Railroad and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad represented to said S. W. Hopkins & Co., bankers of London & New York, through whom the said Florida State bonds were sold, and the latter likewise represented to the public in England and Holland, and particularly to the bankers and others who purchased the said Florida State bonds (so-called), that they were bona fide and valid obligations of the said State; that the State held a lien for the payment of such bonds on all the railroad which begins at Jacksonville and runs westward to Quincy, with its branches, and also on all such railroad as might be constructed in extension of such line on all the franchise of and the company owning such road, and on all property to such railroad pertaining, or to such company belonging, that the said line of railroad was one entire line of railroad, and that the same was owned by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad 230 Company; that such Florida bonds (so called) were purchased, sold, and dealt in by the bankers and others in Holland on the faith of such representation; that said complainant company aided and assisted in making sale of said bonds by said S. W. Hopkins & Co., and authorized the before stated representation to be made, and has not asserted to the contrary, until the time when this suit was commenced. Respondent insists that complainant company is estopped to deny that said bonds are a lien on the line of railroad between Jacksonville and Lake City, or on the property thereto pertaining, and is estopped from asserting that the Florida Central Railroad Company is the owner of of such line of said road and property, or has any other or greater equity as against the bona fide holders of the bonds so sold by said S. W. Hopkins & Co. than such as are possessed by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

231 Respondent says he is informed and believes that either to the said Littlefield directly, or to his order indirectly, the said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered; that by him were selected said bankers, S. W. Hopkins and Company, by whom the said bonds were placed upon the market; that thus by his action the said S. W. Hopkins and Company were made the agents as well of himself as of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, of which he was the president, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, whose authorized representative he was; that neither by the said Littlefield, nor by the said S. W. Hopkins & Co., nor by any of their agents through whom the said last mentioned bonds were sold, was any distinction whatsoever drawn between the said bonds, which have been received in exchange for bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and those of the said State bonds which have been received in exchange for the bonds of the said Florida Central 232 Railroad Company; that no such distinction whatever appeared upon the face of said bonds; that they were numbered from one to four thousand, all issued under the same act, and for the same purpose, and apparently exchanged for bonds of the same line of railroad.

Respondent further says that not only did the said Littlefield, by himself and agents in Europe, make such representations as induced the purchase of the said State bonds upon the faith of the security of a consolidated railway, as hereinbefore set out, but it appears from his own affidavit, used in the case of the State of Florida vs. Edward E. Anderson, jr., et al., in the Supreme Court of the United States, a copy of which said affidavit is hereto annexed, marked F., that the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company subsequently exchanged for State bonds were actually issued by the stockholders of the said last mentioned company as a step towards consolidation of the said Florida

Central with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Rail-233 road Company;" that after said bonds were issued it was represented to Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, that such consolidation had taken place, and because of such consolidation the said governor was requested and urged to deliver to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company one thousand bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company as the bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company."

The said Littlefield further swore that from the time of such exchange of bonds down to the 20th day of March, 1872, "the entire line of railroad from Jacksonville, Duval County, westward, was under the exclusive management of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the officers thereof"; that on the time tables of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Jacksonville and all the stations westward to Lake City were designated and published as stations of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad 234 Company; that all contracts for conveying the mails, freight, and passengers were with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and by resolution of the incorporation of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the principal office thereof was fixed at Jacksonville aforesaid, and the Florida Central Railroad Company had nothing more than a nominal existence, and was unknown as a distinct corporation to the business public; that Johnathan C. Greely, receiver of said State court was in possession of the entire line of railroad from Jacksonville westward, and operating the said road as said receiver; and that from the time of such exchange of bonds to the appointment of said receiver no stockholder of either the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, ever raised any objection to the acts and proceedings of said directors and stockholders, nor to any of the acts or contracts done and made in view of consolidation. This defendant, further answering, says that the over-issue of State bonds to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was entirely or nearly so on the line of the railroad west of Lake City. That 235 the two hundred and twenty-four State bonds cancelled, as alleged in said bill of complaint, were of the series or numbers of bonds that were exchanged for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company. That two hundred and six of the State bonds over and above the number of three thousand has, as appears by the affidavits and pleadings in this cause, been sold, and are now held by bona fide holders for value That even if no other bonds are a lien upon said Florida Central Railroad, that said two hundred and six bonds are, through said company bonds, held by the State a lien upon it, and also two hundred and twenty-four bonds, numbered between 1 and 3000, which should have been cancelled, instead of said 224 bonds, above the number of three thousand (3000).

Respondent further says that, during the time limited above, a paper in the nature of a prospective was issued, in connection with a deed of of trust of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in which the said company was described as "a corporation organized and chartered under the laws of Florida, owning and operating a line of railroad from Jacksonville to Quincy, a distance of one hundred and eighty-five miles, with a branch from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, a 236 distance of twenty-two miles, which is in successful operation with ample equipments, all of which will more fully appear by refference to said paper hereto annexed as Exhibit G.

Respondent respectfully submits that, in view of the above recited facts, the bonds of the State of Florida having been so sold by the said Littlefield and his agents, the holders of stock in the said Florida Central Railroad Company, but more especially the said Littlefield and all persons claiming through or under him or represented by him, are estopped both in law and equity from denying the lien of any and all of the four millions of State bonds so as aforesaid issued in aid of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, not simply upon the said J. P. & M. Railroad and its property but also upon the said Florida Central Railroad and its property.

Respondent avers, upon information derived among other sources, from the statements under oath of the said Littlefield himself, that he was during the time referred to the owner of nearly the entire capital 237 stock of both the said Florida Central Railroad Company and the said The J. P. & M. R. R. Company.

Respondent again respectfully submits that if the said complainant during the time referred to had, by reason of the frauds alleged to have been committed by the said Swepson, any equitable title in the capital stock so standing upon the books of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in the name of the said Littlefield, it was the clear duty of the said complainant to interpose objections, if any it had, to the action of its said alleged trustee and of the directors of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, which said action was thus made public to the world. But this defendant avers that not only did the said complainant fail to make resistance to the issue, exchange, and sale of the bonds under the circumstances and representations herein-before set out, but it wholly failed to give any notice whatsoever of the right and title which it now undertakes by its said bills of complaint to set up; although from its own allegations the fact is established that as early as the month of Oct., 1870, it had full knowledge of the said alleged frauds of the said Swepson.

238 This respondent submits that, even if any title could be based upon the said alleged frauds, the assertion of that title has been barred by the lapse of time and by laches on the part of the said said complainant, and that it cannot now be set up as against the rights of third parties who have purchased the said bonds of the State of Florida without notice and in good faith, which your respondent alleges said bondholders to have done.

Respondent says he is informed and believes that there has been sold of the bonds which the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company obtained from the governor of the State, in the year 1870, three thousand two hundred and six, but respondent is unable to say how many more were so sold; that he believes that the copy of the consent decree entered in England by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, which is filed with complainant's bill, is correct, and that such consent decree was made by said company by its agent and attorney, duly empowered thereto in writing, and that the consent decree entered in the supreme court of the State of New 239 York, a copy of which is filed with said bill, marked II, was assented to by the before-named company, by its counsel employed in the suit in which the said decree was entered, under the direction of Converse L. Chase, who was at the time empowered thereto by said company by a power in writing duly executed, and that the eight hundred bonds in the receipt mentioned, which is signed by John Collinson, were actually received by him as therein stated, and your orator annexes hereto copy of said consent decree in the New York supreme court, and other decrees and agreements relating thereto and to the dealings of complainant as to said bonds, and prays that the same may be taken as part hereof, they being marked K.

Respondent further says in respect to the making of the said consent decree that the complainant company was a party thereto being represented by its solicitor and counsel and by Nicolas W. Woodfin, one of the commissioners appointed by the State of North Carolina to settle and adjust the claims made by the plaintiff company against said Swepson and said Littlefield, which appointment was made by a law of said State, approved March , 1870, a copy of which law respondent 240 is informed and believes is in the possession of the officers of the plaintiff company.

Respondent further says that before said consent decree was made and entered in the supreme court of the State of New York, an agreement was entered into between the said Woodfin, acting as such commissioner, with the assent of his co-commissioners on the one part, in behalf of complainant company and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and Milton S. Littlefield, of the other part, whereby in consideration of the assent so given by said commissioners to the stipulation in the said last mentioned decree that said eight hundred bonds should be delivered to said John Collinson, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, said Milton S. Littlefield and said Converse L. Chase, agreed that said commissioners should receive on account of the complainant company's decree and against said George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield the sum of six hundred thousand dollars, of which amount two hundred thousand dollars it was by said agreement stipulated should be received by said commissioners from the money which said Collinson was obligated to pay for said bonds in case he elected to buy them, and the remaining four hundred thousand 241 dollars to be by said commissioners received out of future issues and sales of bonds of like character to be received by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. Such agreement was dated the fifteenth day of June, 1872, and respondent is informed and believes it is in the possession of said complainant company.

Respondent further says he is informed and believes that said complainant company, after it became known to it that said Swepson had sold or hypothecated the so-called State bonds of North Carolina, released said Swepson from all liability therefor upon a full and valuable consideration; that an agreement was made by and between said commissioners and said Swepson and said Littlefield individually, and executed by said Swepson as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and by said Milton S. Littlefield as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, wherein it was recited that said Littlefield was about to obtain the bonds provided to be issued by the State of Florida under said act of Jan'y 28th, 1870, in exchange for bonds of said several railroad companies, and that such bonds 242 were to be deposited with S. H. Hopkins & Co., for sale; it was stipulated that the proceeds of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company amounting to nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars should be applied to the payment of the existing liabilities of the said several railroad companies, including one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to be paid to the said commissioners for the purpose of paying the then existing liabilities of the complainant company, and that the balance to be received from the sale of the said bonds should be equally divided between the said Florida Railroads and complainant company; and respondent says he is informed and believes said agreement is in the possession of said company. A true copy thereof is filed herewith, marked G G.

Respondent further says he is informed, and believes, in said agreement it was erroneously stated that said Swepson had invested one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and twenty-six dollars in securities of and in said Florida railroads.

Respondent further says: Afterwards, on the tenth day of November, 1870, in London, England, another agreement in writing was 243 made by and between said Littlefield and said commissioners, whereby the prior last-mentioned agreement was referred to, and it was recited that a sale of said Florida bonds had not been made, and it was stipulated, amongst other things, that in lieu of the provisions in said former contract stated, said Littlefield and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company should pay certain sums of money to said commissioners; also deliver to them, for the use of complainant company, rail iron and spikes to lay fifty-three miles of its track, and should sell and deliver to said company eight hundred of said Florida State bonds (so called). And respondent says he is informed, and believes, that the original of said agreement is in the possession of the said complainant company. Respondent files herewith a true copy thereof, marked H H.

Respondent further says, that said Littlefield gave to said Nicolas Woodfin an order on said S. W. Hopkins & Co. to hold eight hundred of said Florida bonds subject to the order of said Woodfin, as chairman to said commissioners, which order said Hopkins accepted in writing, and respondent files herewith copies of said order and acceptance, marked D H.

244 Respondent says that when the said order of said Littlefield and the acceptance of said Hopkins were made there had been delivered to said Hopkins & Co. two thousand nine hundred and ninety-eight of said Florida State bonds, the same being, with the exception of two bonds, all of the first issue made by Harrison Reed, governor, to said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

Respondent says that some time in the year 1871 the complainant company, acting through said Woodfin and said other commissioners, brought a suit in the supreme court of the State of New York for the city and county of New York against said S. W. Hopkins & Co., and others, and that in the complaint whereby such suit was commenced the before-mentioned agreement of November 10th, 1870, & said orders of said Littlefield to said S. W. Hopkins & Co., and their said acceptance thereof, were set forth and made part of the said case of complainant company, and relied in for the relief in such complaint demanded, that it was therein also averred that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. had, at the time when they gave their said acceptance, eight hundred of the said (so-called) Florida State bonds in their hands. to which such order 245 and such acceptance applied; that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. had sold all of the bonds which they held at the date of their said acceptance, and amongst the same had sold the eight hundred bonds to which said complainant company became until, by the agreement aforesaid, that they had received therefor a large sum of money, and were accountable to said complainant company therefor; that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. had fraudulently appropriated such money to their own use. An order of arrest was procured by complainant company in said suit against S. W. Hopkins, one of said firm, and he was arrested, and bail was required of him, which he furnished, in the sum of three hundred thousand dollars. The said suit was pending at the time when said agreement of June, 1872, was made between said commissioners and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and said Converse L. Chase, and when said consent decree was entered in the supreme court of the State of New York, on the sixth day of December, 1872; that by the terms and conditions of such agreements said commissioners agreed in behalf of complainant company to dismiss the said suit against said S. W. Hopkins & Co., and to release their bill, which was accordingly done. See Exhibit O.

246 Upon these allegations of fact respondent respectfully submits that the said complainant is estopped from denying the paramount lien as against its own pretended claims of the said Florida State bonds, not simply upon the entire line of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but also upon the entire line of the Florida Central Railroad, and says that he cannot admit any claim on the part of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or any of its stockholders, to pay off any specific bonds less than the whole number, in discharge of the lien on said railroad and property.

Respondent says that the pretensions of said complainant as to the nature of the liability incurred by the said Florida Central Railroad Company to the holders of said Florida State bonds is contrary to the decision of said supreme court defining the rights of said bondholders and the liability of said Florida Central Railroad Company.

Respondent further says, in answer to the allegations made by said complainant's company in the forty-seventh paragraph of said bill, that the said company tenders to pay any money on account of the 247 liability of the Florida Central Railroad Company, that such offer is a mere pretense, and not honestly made, because because, as respondent is informed and believes, the said complainant company s insolvent, never had any cash capital stock paid in, and has never been able to construct any portion of its road but a small part of its road bed, and for which it has been sued, judgment obtained against it, which judgment remains unsatisfied.

Further answering, respondent denies that the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in consequence of controversies over its management during the past four years, is under the control of three or four different boards of directors and local management. On the contrary, avers the truth to be that on April, 16th, 1875, a board of directors was elected by the stockholders of said company, convened, in accordance with the charter and its by-laws, in the city of Tallahassee; that by said board of directors Robert Walker was appointed to be manager of said railroad company, and that under the charter this board of directors have continued and will continue to exist until another election shall be held, which said board consists of the following persons: 248 Edward M. L. Engle, Edward Lewis, B. Williams, P. Houston, R. H. Gamble, C. E. Dyke, sr., R. Walker, E. A. Cowgill, and George W. Belton; that the only party raising controversy as to the right of said board of directors to the management and control of said railroad is the said complainant, through its attorneys, agents, and confederates, who to the end, as respondent believes, of preventing the restoration of said property to the said board of directors, made application to the honorable the judge of the circuit court of Duval County for an alternative writ of mandamus to be directed to the said Milton S. Littlefield and others as holders of the capital stock of said last mentioned railroad company, requiring them to meet and elect a new board of directors.

In their petition, addressed to the said judge, the fact was distinctly alleged that the said stock, claimed by the said Milton S. Littlefield as belonging rightfully to him, stood upon the books of said company in the name of the said Edward Houston, the same having been hypothecated to him as collateral security.

A peremptory mandamus having been issued by the said court, there was a meeting, as the respondent is informed and believes, of the said Milton S. Littlefield and others claiming to hold stock in the said 249 company, and a board of directors was elected by them, who are now claiming the right to take the said railroad from the hands of the said receiver, and to control and manage the same.

Respondent charges that their entire proceedings were illegal, null, and void; that the said State court had no jurisdiction to grant the said mandamus; that the said pretended meeting of stockholders was not held in accordance with the charter and the by laws of said company; and that the board which was regularly elected is 1875 still continues to be the only legal board of directors of the said company. Respondent hereto annexes a copy of the by laws of said Fla. C. R. R. Co. as a part hereof, marked Exhibit I.

Respondent, further answering, says that the said board of directors has never been actually in possession of the said Florida Central Railroad, or if actually, only for a very short while, because at the time of their said election the said road was in the charge and custody of a receiver appointed by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case of the State of Florida vs. E. C. Anderson and others, and in accordance with its order was subsequently by him turned over to 250 to said directory, from whom it was immediately seized by Joseph
W. Durkee, receiver appointed by the circuit court of the State of Florida for the county of Duval, in the case of the State of Florida and the trustees of the internal improvement fund versus the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and others. But respondent admits that the said road, because of the litigation in which it has been involved, and of the fact that no one has such title in it as will justify the investment of capital in its preservation and improvement, is in a delapidated condition.

And this defendant, having made full answer to the bill of complaint, prays hence to be dismissed with his reasonable costs in this behalf expended.

Sol. for Geo. F. Drew, Gov. of Florida.

U. S. OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Personally appeared Geo. F. Drew, governor of Florida, above named, and he being duly sworn says that the facts stated in the foregoing answer are true, except those stated on information or belief, and these he is informed and believes to be true.

GEO. F. DREW,
Governor.

Sworn and subscribed before me the 12th day of May, A. D. 1877.

LEROY D. BALL,
Commis'r of U. S. Circuit Court, Northern Dist. Fla.

251 (Indorsed:) Filed this 19th day of May, A. D. 1877. Philip Walter, clerk.

252 Circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN N. C. Railroad Company
vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida, George F. Drew and others, trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, et al.

The answer of George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, to the bill of complaint, and also the petition filed by the said complainant, in the above entitled cause.

The respondent, reserving to himself the right of exception to all errors, uncertainties, and imperfections in the said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereto, or to such parts and to so much thereof as he is advised is or are material for him to make answer unto, answering, says:

It is not true, as alleged in the said bill of complaint, that in the year 1868 the said complainant was owner and holder of six millions of dollars in the bonds of the State of North Carolina, conferred upon 253 it to be used in the construction of its railroad; on the contrary, this respondent alleges that the only bonds of the State of North Carolina applicable to that purpose were not issued until during the year 1869, all of which will more fully appear from the auditor's statement of the public revenue and expenditures of the State of North Carolina for the fiscal year ending September 30th, 1869, to be found printed in the public laws of North Carolina for the year 1869 and 1870, beginning at page 369 of the said volume, which said report this respondent prays may be taken as an exhibit to this his answer, with the usual liberty of reference.

In establishment of the same fact respondent prays also to refer to the annual report of the public treasurer of North Carolina for the year 1869, which has been filed in this honorable court with the answer of this respondent in the suit of said complainant against this respondent, the Florida Central Railroad Company and others, and designated as Exhibit A, and prays further that it may be taken as an exhibit also to this his answer.

254 Respondent says, in further answer to paragraphs first, second, and third of said bill, that he is informed that George W. Swepson, in the year 1869, obtained from W. W. Holden, governor of North Carolina, or from its treasurer, certain paper writings purporting to be bonds of the State of North Carolina, obligating it to pay six million of dollars; and that the said Swepson professed to act in the said premises as president of said company, but respondent is informed, and upon such information states, that neither the executive, legislative, nor judicial departments of the government of said State admit such paper writings to be lawful obligations thereof; but that said legislature has absolutely refused to recognize the same or to pay anything for interest thereon, and that one of the judges of the superior court of said State has decided, in a suit pending before him in said court, that the said paper writings were issued contrary to, and in violation of, the 255 constitution of said State. Respondent is advised, because of such invalidity of such so called bonds, the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company never acquired any lawful property, or held any six millions of bonds of the State of North Carolina, as is in said bill of complaint alleged, and that because of the fraud by means whereof such paper writings were sold by said Swepson, no trust has resulted in favor of said complainant corporation in respect of any money which said Swepson obtained by any sale of said paper writings to any persons such as the court will recognize or enforce.

Further answering, this respondent says that he has no personal knowledge as to the alleged purchase by the said Swepson of bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, but is informed and believes that he did purchase a large number, about $960,000.00 of the said bonds at a price very far below the par value of the same, and not exceeding thirty-five per cent. of the said par value. Respondent, 256 upon this information, denies that he invested $720,000.00 in the said purchase, and denies that he made said purchase with moneys derived from the alleged sale of the said State bonds of North Carolina; and alleges that said purchase was made by said Swepson with his own private funds.

Respondent has no knowledge of the personal relationship between the said Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, or the said Swepson and Edward Houston, and cannot say whether or not the said Littlefield or Houston purchased the said railroad bonds for the said Swepson, and in making such purchase were advised of the official and fiduciary relations of the said Swepson to the said complainant; and respondent prays that said complainant may be held to strict proof of these allegations.

Upon information and belief respondent admits the statements contained in paragraphs sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth of the said bill, with the exception of the allegation in the sixth paragraph, 257 that said Swepson held bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies to the amount of $1,063,000.00.

Respondent, answering paragraph eleven of said bill, admits that the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, after having made sale of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, on March 20th, 1869, executed and delivered a deed of the same to the purchasers, F. Dibble and associates, receiving in payment therefor about $960,000.00 in bonds of said companies and a check drawn by one of the said purchasers for 472,065.00, which said check has never been paid. The said check was turned over by the said trustees to the said George W. Swepson, who had been previously appointed by them fiduciary agent to receive the balance of said purchase money, and with it to take up the remainder of the bonds of the said railroad companies which were still outstanding. This check, by collusion among 258 certain of the parties concerned, was never collected in money but was used by the said George W. Swepson in purchasing from the said F. Dibble and associates the said railroad property, so sold on March 20th, 1869.

Because of these transactions, suits were subsequently instituted in the circuit court of the State of Florida for the county of Duval, by the State of Florida, and the trustees of the internal improvement fund against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and others for the recovery, among other things, of said unpaid purchase money, in which said suit on the 2nd day of April, 1874, it was decreed, ordered, and adjudged that the then trustees of the internal improvement fund, and their successors in office do have and receive from the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the full sum of six hundred and sixty-one thousand eight hundred and forty-five and $\frac{55}{100}$ dollars, together with costs, all which will more fully appear from a copy of said decree herewith filed, and marked "Exhibit A" to 259 which this respondent prays the usual liberty of reference.

Pending the said cause in Duval circuit court, E. C. Anderson and others, holders of the first mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, instituted their action in this honorable court against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the trustees of the internal improvement fund and others, in which they also, as well in their own behalf, as in behalf of all others similarly situated, sought like recovery of the said purchase money of the said railroad, which still remained unpaid. And on December 19th, 1872, his honor, Judge Woods rendered his decree in which, among other things, it was ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the parties complainant do recover against the J. P. & M. R. R. Company the full amount of the said bonds with interest thereon; all which will more fully appear from a copy of said decree, hereto annexed and marked Exhibit B.

Respondent further says that subsequently other decrees were 260 rendered in the said cause, and in other litigation between the same parties that sprang directly therefrom, all of which are of record in this honorable court.

Respondent prays that the entire proceedings in the said last mentioned causes, being so of record in this honorable court, may be taken as an exhibit to this his answer, with full liberty of reference thereto whenever occasion shall require.

Further answering, the respondent says he is advised that the execution of the said decrees of this honorable court were enjoined by the Supreme Court of the United States, at the instance of the State of Florida, in a suit against E. C. Anderson and others; but that the validity of the said decrees were in all material respects recognized and affirmed; all of which will more fully appear from a copy of decree of said Supreme Court hereto filed and marked Exhibit C.

Respondent further says that, at the January term 1876 of the 261 supreme court of the State of Florida, there came on to be heard the case of Daniel P. Holland vs. the State of Florida et al., respondents, and it was held by the said court that under the provisions of an act of the legislature providing for the exchange of bonds of the State of Florida, with the said J. P. and M. R. R. Company, the State had been created by the act a trustee holding the bond of the company and the lien created by the act to secure payment to the party who advanced money to the company; meaning the parties who had purchased the bonds of the State issued in accordance with the provisions of said act.

Respondent respectfully prays reference to the said decision of the supreme court of Florida, and that the same may be considered as part and parcel of this his answer. It is to be found in 15 Florida Reports, p. 455 et seq.

Respondent further says that subsequently the case of the State of Florida against E. C. Anderson and others having come up for further hearing before the Supreme Court of the United States, a decree was rendered from which the following is an extract.

262 And now on this first day of May, A. D. 1876, the court being advised of certain proceedings and decrees had and made by and before the circuit court for Duval County, in the State of Florida, and by and before the supreme court of said State, in the cause mentioned in the bill and pleadings in this case, wherein the State of Florida and the trustees of the internal improvement fund of said State were plaintiffs, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and others were defendants, whereby it has been held and adjudged that the three thousand bonds for $1,000.00 each, issued by the said company, in the year eighteen hundred and seventy, in exchange for State bonds, are valid and binding and create a statutory lien upon the railroad and property of said company, and that by virtue thereof the said State is entitled to take possession of said property and sell the same, not only to raise and pay the unpaid purchase money mentioned in the said original bill, but also what may be justly due on said bonds; and 263 that the sale of said railroad and property under execution at the suit of the defendant Daniel P. Holland was void and of no effect, and gave him no right or title as against the said State to the possession of said railroad and property or to the income, tolls, or revenue thereof; and it appearing that the possession of that part of said railroad between Quincy and the Apalachicola River is claimed by one James G. Gibbs, but is a part of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and was not in possession of said Gibbs when the receiver was appointed by this court, nor of any person claiming under said Gibbs, and his right to the possession thereof is denied by the said State as the holder of said bonds, and the said State of Florida through its executive and the said trustees of the internal improvement fund having deputed Dennis Eagan, the commissioner of lands and immigration of said State, to secure the said railroad and property from the receiver f this court.

"Therefore it is ordered and decreed that Robert Walker, the 264 receiver appointed by this court, do on or before the first day of June next, deliver the said railroad and all its appurtenances extending from Lake City to the Apalachicola River and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and all the rolling stock and property connected therewith, to the said Dennis Eagan, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State of Florida, on behalf of said State;" all which will more fully appear by reference to the ninety first volume of the reports of the Supreme Court of the United States, pp. 684, 685, 686, 687, and 688.

Respondent further says, that in the meantime, on the 20th day of August, 1875, a final decree was rendered by the said circuit court of Duval County in the said case of the trustees of the internal improvement fund and the State of Florida against the J. P. & M. Railroad Company and others, in which it was ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the State of Florida is the owner and holder of valuable consideration of three thousand coupon bonds issued by the defendant, the J., P. 265 & M. R. R. Company, of the denominations of one thousand dollars each, numbered from one to three thousand, inclusive., etc., etc., and that to secure payment of same has a statutory lien, etc., etc., and that the said State do recover from the said R. R. company the full sum of six hundred thousand and forty dollars on account of interest, etc., etc.; and that said company had made default and had failed to pay interest on said three thousand of its bonds for over twelve months after the same became due and payable under the provisions of section third of said act of January 28th, A. D. 1870, and that the purchaser at any sale had or made under, or to enforce said statutory lien held by the State of Florida, shall take the property acquired at such sale subject to all existing rights and liens in favor of said board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, unless such rights and liens shall be satisfied and paid out of the proceeds of said sale; all which will more fully appear from a copy of said decree herewith filed and marked Exhibit D.

266 Respondent further says, answering, that in obedience to the decree of the said Supreme Court of the United States last above cited, the said Robert Walker, receiver, did place the said Eagan, commissioner of lands and immigration, in possession of the said line of railway, and the same is now held in possession by respondent under seizure of the same. It is not true therefore, as alleged in paragraph forty-three of said bill of complaint, that the governor of Florida has for and during five years passed, without any lawful right to do so, taken forcible possession of the said railroad, and is thus committing a trespass upon the alleged rights of the said plaintiff, or that the said governor took possession of the said railroad on or about the year 1872, when there was no interest due on the said bonds. These and all other allegations of like character in the said bill contained, this respondent says are untrue.

Respondent came into the possession and control of said rail-267 road by virtue of his office, as governor of the State of Florida, has made and announced seizure of the same in accordance with the provisions of said act of January, 1870, and advertised the same for sale on the first Monday in July next.

Respondent says that while these acts upon his part are but simple obedience to the various decisions and decrees of the courts of justice, which have been heretofore referred to, and looks directly to the protection of the rights of the holders of the State bonds of Florida as adjudicated by her supreme court, he has entertained and still entertains the hope that in the early sale of this most important line of railway to some purchaser, who, having faith in the title, will improve the property, the interests of all concerned in the wellfare of the road will be promoted. And he respectfully submits that, if the said complainant has ever had any such rights to the said property as it now undertakes to set up, such rights have been barred and lost by its own laches, and 268 should not now be permitted to embarass others or to endanger the public.

Respondent is informed and believes that George W. Swepson sold and delivered to Milton S. Littlefield all the stock and other property mentioned in said bill, as his own; that such sale took place in October, 1869, at which time, as respondent is informed, it was fully known to the officers of complainant company, who made no objection thereto, and set up no claim in behalf of said company to such stock, and gave no notice whatsoever of any claim or lien against the same, and that said company have ever since permitted said sale to remain unquestioned in the courts of the State of Florida, and have not given any notice to the officers of the said J. P. & M. R. R. Company of any such claim to any such stock, or to any other stock which is in said bill set forth and asserted to exist, but said complainant permitted said Littlefield to deal with the same as his own property.

Respondent is informed and believes, and on such information 269 states, that the dealings of said Swepson with the said so called North Carolina bonds, and the purchase and sale of bonds and stock in the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee and J. P. & M. R. R. Companies were fully known to the officers of the plaintiff's company before the month of October, 1869, and respondent thereupon denies the allegations of said bill, wherein it is stated that the complainant remained ignorant of such matters until the summer of 1870, or that it acquired knowledge thereof from the affidavit of said Swepson, exhibited with said bill.

Respondent is informed and believes, and accordingly avers, that the State of Florida through its officers have no knowledge or notice whatsoever of the alleged rights of the said complainant at the date of the passage of the said acts of 1869 and 1870, providing for the issueing of bonds of the State of Florida in aid of the said J. P. & M. R. R. Company, nor at the date of the actual exchange of said State bonds for the bonds of the said railroad company.

270 Respondent, further answering, says that even if it be true that moneys belonging to the said complainant corporation were invested by said Swepson in the purchase of the said R. R. bonds, and thus in the purchase of the said railroad stock, nevertheless the said complainant has ratified the acts of the said Swepson and recognized the title of the said Littlefield in the said property, and taken part in procuring the issue of bonds by the said J., P. & M. R. R. Company under the said act of January, 1870, and the exchange of said company bonds for bonds of the State of Florida, issued under the provision of the same act; and in causing the delivery of the said State bonds to Milton S. Littlefield, and the sale of the same by S. W. Hopkins & Co , of London and New York, bankers and agents, selected by the said Littlefield for that purpose.

First. Respondent is informed and believes, and accordingly so avers, that early in the year 1870, and before the exchange of the said 271, 272 company bonds for the said State bonds had been consummated, to wit, on April 16th, 1870, the said complainant entered into "an agreement and settlement with the Florida Central Railroad, George W. Swepson, president, and the Jacksonville, P. & M. R. R. Company, and Milton S. Littlefied, president, and Milton S. Littlefield, majority owner of the stock of said company, and also of the stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company," which embraces all the stock now claimed by said complainant in its said bill of complaint, in which said agreement it was recited that said Swepson had conveyed to said Littlefield his interest in the said railroad subject to the payment of the alleged claim of the said complainant. And the said Littlefield had received authority from the legislature of Florida and the several railroad companies to secure bonds to be issued by said companies, and to be exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, and had made a contract with S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, for the disposition of said bonds, etc., 273 and in which said agreement it was understoood and agreed between the parties that the proceeds of the sale of the said bonds so to be issued by the said railroad companies and the said State of Florida was to be equally divided, dollar for dollar, between the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and the said Florida railroads, until the entire amount of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand and thirty-six dollars and three cents, with interest at 8% as aforesaid, being the sum deposited by the parties of the first part as due to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad, is fully paid, all which will more fully appear from the said agreement itself, the original of which, as respondent is informed and believes, is in possession of the said complainant, but a copy of which is herewith filed, marked Exhibit E.

This respondent charges that by force of entering into this agreement and thereby countenancing, encouraging, and procuring the issuing and sale of said bonds in manner and form as set out in its said bill, the said the said complainant is estopped from denying the title of the said Littlefield in the said railroad stock, or the paramount lien of the 274 holders of the said State bonds upon the property of the said Florida railroad companies.

Respondent further says he is informed and believes that in said agreement it was erroneously stated that said Swepson had invested one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and twenty-six dollars in securities of and in said Florida railroads.

Second. Respondent further says that afterwards, on the 10th day of November, 1870, in London, England, another agreement in writing was made by and between said Littlefield and certain commissioners appointed by the legislature of North Carolina to represent said complainant, whereby the prior last mentioned agreement was referred to, and it was recited that a sale of said Florida bonds had not been made, and it was stipulated among other things that in lieu of the provisions in said former contract stated, said Littlefield and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company shall pay certain sums of money to said commissioners; also to deliver to them for the use of complainant company railroad iron and spikes to lay fifty-three miles of its track, and should deliver to said company eight hundred of said Florida 275 State bonds (so called). And respondent says he is informed and believes that the original of said agreement is in the possession of the said complainant company. Respondent files herewith a true copy thereof, marked Exhibit F.

Respondent further says, and upon information and belief, that said Littlefield gave to Nicholas Woodfin, one of said commissioners, an order on said S. W. Hopkins & Co., to hold eight hundred of said Florida bonds subject to the order of said Woodfin, as chairman of said commissioners, which order said Hopkins accepted in writing; and respondent files herewith copies of said order and acceptance, marked Exhibit G.

Respondent says that when the said order of said Littlefield and the acceptance of said Hopkins were made, there had been delivered to said Hopkins & Co. two thousand nine hundred and ninety-eight of said Florida state bonds, the same being, with the exception of two bonds, all of the first issue made by Harrison Reed, governor, to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

276 Respondent says upon information and belief that about the same time, in the year 1871, the complainant company, acting through said Woodfin and said other commissioners, brought a suit in the supreme court of the State of New York, for the city and county of New York, against said S. W. Hopkins & Co. and others, and that in the complaint whereby such suit was commenced the before-mentioned agreement of November 10th, 1870, and said orders to said Littlefield to said S. W. Hopkins & Co., and their said acceptance thereof, were set forth and made part of the said case of complainant company and relied on for the relief in such complaint demanded; that it was therein also averred that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. had, at the time when they gave their said acceptance, eight hundred of the said (so called) Florida State bonds in their hands, to which such order and such acceptance applied; that said S. W. Hopkins and Co. had sold all of the bonds which they had at the date of their said acceptance, and amongst the same had sold the eight hundred bonds to which said complainant company became entitled by the agreement aforesaid; that they had received therefor a large sum of money and were acountable to said complainant company therefor; that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. had 277 fraudulently appropriated such money to their own use. An order of arrest was procured by complainant company in said writ against said S. W. Hopkins, one of said firm, and he was arrested and bail was required of him, which he furnished in the sum of three hundred thousand dollars.

The said suit was pending at the time when an agreement of June 15th, 1872, existed between said commissioners and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and said Converse L. Chase, and when a consent decree was entered in the supreme court of New York State, on the sixth day of December, 1872; that by the terms and conditions of such agreement said commissioners agreed in behalf of complainant company to dismiss the said suit against said S. W. Hopkins & Co. and to release their bail, which was accordingly done.

Third. Respondent further says, upon information and belief, that there were other transactions between the said complainant company and the said Swepson and the said Littlefield, and other proceedings before the courts, and consent decrees taken, after the issuing and sale of the said State bonds, all showing that said complainant fully satisfied and adopted the acts of said Littlefield in connection with such issue and sale and itself shared in the pecuniary profits resulting 278 therefrom; all which is more fully set out in the answer of this respondent to the bill filed by said complainant against himself, the Florida Central Railroad Company, and others in this honorable court, to which respondent now prays to refer as part and parcel of this his present answer.

Further answering, respondent admits from information and belief the allegations contained in paragraphs twelve and thirteen of said bill, but denies the statement contained in paragraph fourteen, to the effect that by act of incorporation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or any provision in said act, notice was given to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of any such rights, claim, or pretension on the part of the said complainant as it now seeks to set up.

Respondent further says, upon information and belief, that the number of miles of railroad for which said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company exchanged its bonds for the bonds of the State was very much in excess of the number of miles of completed road owned and operated by said J. P. and M. Railroad Company.

Respondent upon information admits the statements contained 279 in paragraphs fifteen and sixteen of said bill, but denies the pretenses set up in the seventeenth paragraph, and says in reply to the eighteenth that it appears from affidavit of the said Swepsen, attached by complainant as Exhibit A to its said bill of complainant filed against this respondent, the Florida Central Railroad Company and others, that said Littlefield pledged "the whole interest and portion held by him, said Littlefield, of every kind and nature in said railroads in Florida, or any or all of them, to secure to said Western North Carolina Railroad Company all moneys due to said companies from said affiant" (George W. Swepson).

Respondent submits that, in accepting said pledge from said Littlefield, said complainant recognized the title of said Littlefield in the said property, and is estopped from claiming such title for itself.

Respondent further says, upon information and belief, that no notice was given to the State of Florida through any of its officers, or, so far as respondent is informed and believes, to any one whatsoever, of the existence of any such pledge.

Respondent, therefore, denies that any such notice was given, or that said pledge has ever had any force or efficacy whatever beyond the parties to it.

280 Respondent admits that $3,000 of bonds were issued by the said J. P. & M. R. R. Company, which are now held by Walter Gwynn, treasurer, etc.; that $3,000 of bonds (so called) of the State of Florida were issued and exchanged for the said company bonds, but, in answer to all of the allegations of the said bill in regard to these bonds of both classes, respondent refers to the cases before the court, and the decisions of the courts which have been already cited, and pleads them in bar.

Respondent admits that the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee R. R. Companies, turned over to the trustees of the internal improvement fund in part payment for the said railroad bonds of said companies, are cancelled and destroyed, as it was altogether proper they should have been.

Respondent denies that they can be revived, or can have any validity whatsoever, or that complainant company has any lien whatsoever upon the said line of railway to secure recognition or judgement of the same.

Respondent, speaking from information and belief, avers that 281 the offer of complainant, in the 26th paragraph of said bill, to pay the $472,000 unpaid purchase-money bid for the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, is a mere sham, mockery, and pretense; said complainant being wholly destitute of means, and unable to pay its existing debts, as your orator is informed and believes.

Answering paragraph thirty-second of the said bill, respondent says that he has no present knowledge of any of the matters therein set out, but, speaking from information and belief, he denies the truth of complainant's allegation as to any agreement between Governor Reed and the parties therein mentioned, and prays that complainant may be held to strict proof of the same.

Respondent, further answering, submits that said Governor Reed had no power or authority to enter into any such reconvention (so called), and that any such act upon his part would have been simply a nullity. Besides, it appears from the statements of said bill that said pretended reconvention was undertaken after the bonds of the State of Florida had been placed upon the market and sold.

282 Respondent denies the validity of the claim set up in paragraph forty five of said bill, to the effect that a sum of money, now in the hands of the treasurer of the State of Florida, belongs to the said J. P. and M. Railroad Company. The said money was placed in the hands of said treasurer by order of the Supreme Court of the United States, to be disposed of in accordance with said order, which excludes the idea that the said R. R. company can set up any claim to it whatsoever.

And the defendant having made full answer to the bill of complaint, prays hence to be dismissed with his reasonable costs in this behalf expended.

In the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, TRUSTEE, ET AL., THE Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company et al.

The defendant, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by protestation, not admitting all and several the matters and things in complainant's bill to be true as therein alleged, or good and sufficient in law to be answered unto, for answer to the same or so much thereof as the defendant is advised it is material for it to answer unto, answering, says:

1st. This defendant has no knowledge as to whether the complainant is or is not a body corporate as in its said bill alleged, and therefore denies the same.

285 2d. This defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the complainant at any time owned the bonds to the amount and value in its said bill alleged, and whether the same were or were not fraudulently used and appropriated by the agents and fiduciaries, the said George W. Swepson, Edward Houston, M. S. Littlefield, and others, as in the said bill alleged, and therefore denies the same.

3d. This defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the complainant's said agents and fiduciaries did or did not use its money in the purchase of any Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds to the amount of $960,300, or any other amount as in complainant's bill alleged, and therefore denies the same.

4th. This defendant admits that the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies were bodies corporate, existing, and owning, and working their respective lines of railroad, previous to the 20th day of March, 1869, and that the same had issued and were chargeable with certain bonds called the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds respectively; and this defendant is advised, and therefore 286 admits, that the said railroads were sold on the said 20th day of March, 1869, and were purchased by F. Dibble and associates, including one George W. Simpson, for the sum of $1,420,000, and that $960,300 in said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds were paid by said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, and that said Swepson gave his note, check, or promise for the sum of $472,000 and upwards in the payment for said roads as alleged in complainant's bill; but this defendant has no knowledge or information as to whether the said $960,300 of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds were or were not the moneys, assets, or property of the complainant as alleged in its bill, and therefore denies the same.

5th. This defendant is advised and admits the fact to be that said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads sold as aforesaid were conveyed by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida to said Dibble and associates on the 8th day of April, 1869; and upon like advice further admits that said deeds, with all the right, title, and interest therein, were, by said Dibble and associates, conveyed in trust to said George W. Swepson on the 22d day of 287 April, 1869, as in complainant's bill alleged, but whether or not said conveyance in trust so made enured to the use and benefit of the complainant as alleged in its said bill, this defendant has no knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief, and therefore denies the same.

6th. This defendant admits that said Dibble and associates were created into a body corporate and politic by the legislature of Florida under the name and style of The Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the 24th day of June, 1869, which said body corporate covered said line of road from Lake City to Quincy and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, including the Monticello branch, all of which was a completed line of railroad at the date of said act of incorporation. And this defendant further admits that on the same 24th day of June, 1869, this defendant was incorporated into a body corporate and politic, authorized to build and construct a line of railroad westward from Quincy, as in complainant's bill alleged.

7th. And this defendant further admits that by said act of in-288 corporation, and by virtue of amendments thereto, on the 28th day of January, 1870, a statutory contract and agreement was created between the State of Florida and this defendant authorizing the issue and exchange of bonds to the amount of $16,000 per mile, as in complainant's bill alleged.

8th. And this defendant, further answering, is advised and so charges the facts to be, that said act of the legislature of Florida of the 14th of June, A. D. 1869, and the act amendatory thereof passed January 28th, 1870, creating said statutory contract and agreement for the said exchange of bonds, was in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and therefore null and void, and that the papers called bonds issued pursuant thereto were possessed of no legal value and constituted and could constitute no good or valid consideration for the exchange of the bonds of this defendant with the State of Florida as by said statute provided; and that the papers called the bonds of this defendant, to the amount of $3,000,000, which were exchanged for 289 said void and illegal papers called bonds of the State of Florida, are now held by the treasurer of said State for no good or valid consideration and in violation of the lawful rights of this defendant.

9th. And this defendant, further answering, admits that papers called bonds of the State of Florida, numbered from 1 to 3,000, of the par value of $1,000 each, were issued by said State under said statutory agreement and delivered to persons who had no lawful right to receive the same; that the president of this defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, conspired with the persons so getting possession of the pretended State bonds and fraudulently diverted and appropriated the same as hereinafter stated.

10th. That at the time the said so-called Florida State bonds were so procured by said Littlefield and others, they, the said Littlefield and others, signed, sealed, and issued in the name of this defendant 3,000 papers called bonds, of the par value of $1,000 each, made payable to the State of Florida, which were in violation of law and were 290 fraudulently delivered to the treasurer of the State of Florida, who, as stated, paid no good or lawful consideration therefor, and who illegally holds the same; that there was no law authorizing the issue of the bonds of this defendant payable to the State of Florida; that the bonds authorized by said statute, if any, was a first mortgage bond to be secured by deed, which was never issued.

11th. That the so-called bonds of the State of Florida, so numbered from 1 to 3,000 as aforesaid, were by the statute creating them and upon the face thereof declared to be for the exclusive use and purpose of constructing the road of this defendant from Quincy westward as aforesaid, and could be lawfully used and applied to no other use or purpose, and that each and every taker of said bonds had lawful notice of the dedicated use thereof, but that nevertheless this defendant is advised, and so charges, that said bonds were used and applied to other illegal purposes, and that but a small fraction of this proceeds defendant, all the remainder of the proceeds thereof being embezzeled and fraudulently appropriated to other purposes by those who got possession of said bonds or the proceeds thereof.

12th. And this defendant, further answering, denies that any bonds of the State of Florida ever were issued to or for exchange for the bonds of this defendant which were numbered above 3,000, and denies that any of said State bonds numbered above 3,000 ever were in fact received, owned, or handled by this defendant, and avers that the said State bonds numbered under 3,000 were only received in its name and never were in truth in the possession of this defendant. And this defendant further and especially denies that it ever entered into any agreement with the Florida Central R. road Co. to receive, use, or apply any bonds to be issued or which were issued by said Florida Central Railroad Company in extending or constructing the railroad of this defendant, and this defendant states and avers that no bonds of the sion of this defendant or became a charge upon this defendant at any time or for any purpose whatever.

13th. And this defendant, further answering, states, that it is advised, and so charges the fact to be, that the supreme court, and the court of last resort, in the State of Florida has decided that said statutory agreement between the said State and this defendant, created by said acts of the 24th of June, 1869, and January 28th, 1870, were null and void so far as the obligations of said State were concerned, and that the papers called bonds of the State of Florida never were the bond, obligation, act, or deed of said State. And this defendant is further advised, and so charges the fact to be, that said statutory agreement is likewise null and void as to this defendant, and that said statute should be treated as if it never had been enacted, and that the so called bonds of the State of Florida, by reason of the same having been declared unconstitutional and null and void as aforesaid, were not capable of constituting and did not constitute a good or legal consideration for the 293 papers called the bonds of this defendant, so held by the State of Florida as aforesaid.

14th. And, further answering, this defendant admits it is true that for more than six years past its railroad has been taken forcible and illegal possession of by the State of Florida, as trustee for the defendants, G. M. Boissevain, A. J. Milders, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoup, Jans

Prins and others, commonly called the Dutch bondholders, claiming to be the owners of the so-called Florida State bonds, and that the road of this defendant has been so seized and continually advertised for sale for said five or six years, greatly to the injury thereof, till relieved by the injunction of this honorable court in the month of May, 1877.

15th. But this defendant denies that it ever had at any time any dealings with said Dutch bondholders or ever contracted any privity of relation whatever with them or either of them. That the dealings of this defendant, if any ever legally transpired in reference to said bonds under said statute or statutory agreement was with the State of Florida and with no other party whatever, and that the obligations of this defendant, if any were lawfully created by said statute or statutory agreement, 294 and the delivery of its said so-called bonds, was to the State of Florida and to no other party, and in no respect to the said defendants called the Dutch bondholders, with whom it had no dealings and who do not hold and never held any obligations or promises of this defendant, and that the attempted seiz*ed* and sale of the railroad of this defendant by or on account of said Dutch bondholders was and is illegal and in violation of the lawful rights of this defendant and should be restrained by this honorable court.

16th. This defendant, further answering, states that by reason of its railroad having been taken possession of and held for the past five or six years by the State of Florida, through its governor, as trustee of the said Dutch bondholders, and kept in the hands of receivers, that its earnings and income have been exhausted in the payment of useless salaries to enormous amounts, when in point of fact the said so called Dutch bondholders had and never had any just or legal demand whatsoever against the franchise, property, and estate of this defendant.

17th. And, further answering, this defendant says it has no 295 knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to whether the complainants are or are not the lawful or equitable owners of the capital stock, estate, or franchise of this defendant, as in complainant's bill alleged, and neither admitting nor denying the same leaves the complainants to such proof as they are advised or are competent to make.

18th. And, further answering, this defendant denies all and singular the allegations of the complainant's bill not herein otherwise answered, admitted, nor denied, and denying all fraud and having fully answered so far as it is advised it is material or necessary, prays to be hence dismissed with its reasonable costs in this behalf sustained.

Answer and cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

299 In the United States circuit court, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN NORTH Carolina Railroad Company, complainant,
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, and others.

The answer of the Florida Central Railroad Company, one of the defendants, to the bill of complaint filed in the above-stated cause.

This defendant, saving to itself all manner of benefit or advantage of exception that can be had to the many errors and imperfections of the said bill contained, for answer thereto, or to so much thereof as this defendant is advised it is material or necessary for it to make answer unto, answering says as follows:

As to the paragraphs of the said bill numbered 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, and 8th, this defendant, having no knowledge of the matters therein contained, neither admits nor denies them.

300 Defendant admits the allegations of the bill numbered 9th and 10th to be true.

As to the 11th paragraph, defendant says George W. Swepson was its president in the year 1869, and until May 24th, 1870. It admits that he had bonds of this defendant printed to the amount of about one million (1,000,000) dollars without authority. There is no record of such bonds in defendant's control, but it has been advised that they were signed by one H. H. Thompson, as treasurer of this defendant. But said Thompson never was an officer of this defendant, and had no authority to execute said bonds. This defendant admits that said bonds were uttered fraudulently as alleged, and were not and are not the act or deed or the obligations and bonds of this defendant.

This defendant has no information, except by hearsay, of the allegations of the 12th paragraph of the bill. It has heard, and admits, that the agreements marked Schedules C and D of the bill were made between the parties named, and the securities deposited as stated.

Defendant has heard that the agreement marked Schedule E of the bill was made, but has no knowledge thereof otherwise.

Defendant admits, upon information, the allegations of paragraphs numbered 14th, 15th, and 16th to be true.

As to the paragraphs of said bill numbered 17th, 18th, and 19th, this defendant admits, upon information, that the allegations thereof are true. But this defendant had no connection with the matters therein stated, and was a total stranger to them.

Defendant admits the facts in the paragraph numbered 20th to be true, except that any right or title in or to said bonds ever was vested in said Houstoun, which allegation this defendant positively denies, and asserts on information the fact to be that when said alleged bonds were delivered up by the governor or other officer of the State of Florida, it was for the purpose of having said bonds returned to this defendant to be destroyed.

Defendant is advised that the facts stated in the 21st and 22d paragraphs of the bill are true, and therefore admits them.

Defendant has no knowledge of the facts stated in the paragraphs of the bill numbered 23d and 24th.

Defendant admits the allegations of notice contained in the paragraphs of the bill numbered 25th, 26th, and 27th. Besides the notice mentioned in the last stated paragraphs, the fraudulent character of said bonds was made public by a letter of E. M. L'Engle, esq., 301 acting as counsel for this defendant, written and sent in February,
1871, to a banking house in Amsterdam, in Holland, which is hereto attached as Exhibit A, which letter was duly received by the person to whom it was addressed, and the contents thereof were communicated to other persons interested in the sale of said bonds, among others to John Collinson of London, in England, who admitted, about the month of May, 1871, as this defendant is informed, that he had read the said letter.

Like notice was also made public by a communication from T. W. Brevard, esq., of Tallahassee, Florida, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit B.

The said communication was enclosed in an envelope, addressed as is shown therein, and sent by mail prepaid, as this defendant is informed.

Like notice was also given by resolutions of the board of directors of this defendant, hereto attached as Exhibit C, and by the following telegraphic correspondence between Gideon Maria Boissevain (one of the defendants) and Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, which took place about the 18th of December, 1870, as follows:

Boissevain to Reed.

Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment of interest, whatever result of railroad traffic. Is financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?

BOISSEVAIN.

Reed to Boissevain.

Bonds recently recalled by the company. No provision will therefore be made for interest.

REED, Governor.

Defendant has no knowledge, except from hearsay, of the allegations contained in the 28th paragraph of the bill.

This defendant has no knowledge of the facts stated in the paragraphs of said bill numbered 29th, 30th, 31st, 32d, 33d, and 34th; but admits and charges that none of the papers called bonds, of this defendant, were issued by or under the authority of this defendant, and that they are absolutely void.

Defendant admits the allegations of paragraphs of said bill numbered 35th, 36th, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th, 41st, 42d, 43d, and 44th to be true.

302 As to the paragraph numbered 45th, this defendant admits that at the time of the institution of this suit, and for some years previous thereto, different and conflicting boards of directors claimed the right at the same time to manage and control this defendant's affairs. And it admits that during said period it has been a prey to controversies and litigations, and has been held by receivers, and has, in consequence thereof, been impoverished and exhausted. But this defendant is now managed and controlled by its own officers, elected by its bona fide stockholders, although the litigations still continue with unabated energy.

Defendant admits the allegations of the paragraph numbered 46th to be true.

And as to the 47th and last numbered paragraph of said bill, this defendant makes for itself the same offer therein contained.

And this defendant denies all and all manner of unlawful combination and confederacy wherewith it is by the said bill charged, without this, that there is any other matter, cause, or thing, in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered, confessed, traversed, and avoided, or denied, is true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant; all of which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing to aver, maintain, and prove, as this honorable court shall direct; and humbly prays to be hence dismissed with its reasonable costs and charges in this behalf sustained.

THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY,
By CHAS. B. FENWICK, Secretary and Treasurer.

JAS. M. BAKER,
Solicitor for Def't.

Charles B. Fenwick, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is the secretary and treasurer of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the custodian of its corporate seal. That the foregoing answer of the Florida Central Railroad Company is signed by this affiant, and that the seal affixed thereto is the corporate seal of said railroad company.

CHAS. B. FENWICK.

Sworn to and subscribed before me the 19th day of July, 1877.
[L. S.] PHILIP WALTER, Clerk,
By SIMON BAER,
Deputy Clerk.

303 In the United States circuit court, fifth judicial circuit, northern district of Florida.

To the honorable the judges of said court:

The Florida Central Railroad Company, a citizen of the State of Florida, brings this its cross-bill of complaint in the case of "The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company vs. George F. Drew, the Florida Central Railroad Company, and others," and complains against the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; the Jackonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, John Collinson, Milton S. Littlefield, Walter Gwynn and Thomas B. Coddington, F. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Field, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Nicholas Jacob Den Tex, and Adolph Engle, trustee, defendants.

Your orator, humbly complaining, says that the Florida Central Railroad Company is a citizen of the State of Florida, and exists as a body corporate under its charter, granted by an act of the legislature of Florida, passed on the 29th day of July, 1868. That its railroad extends from the city of Jacksonville to Lake City, a distance of about sixty miles. That the said railroad was completed some time in the year 1860 under and in accordance with the terms of the charter granted to the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and under the provisions of the internal improvement act, approved January 6th, 1855, said company having duly accepted the terms and conditions and received the aid provided in such cases by said act.

That the section or line of railroad between Lake City and Tallahassee was built about the same time by the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and by that company subsequently extended to Quincy, and afterwards by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to the Chattahoochee River.

304 That on the 4th day of March, 1868, the said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad was sold by the "trustees of the internal improvement fund" for non-compliance with the terms and conditions of said "internal improvement act," and the railroad and franchise were purchased by the individuals who were afterwards organized and chartered as a body corporate under the name of the Florida Central Railroad, as aforesaid, and were authorized by their charter to exercise all the powers and privileges conferred by the original charter granted to said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company.

Your orator further shows, that its capital stock was fixed at 5,500 shares of $1,000 each, amounting to $555,000. That since said stock has been issued much dispute and litigation has arisen about the right, title, interest, and control of a large part of the same between claimants, so that it has sometimes been difficult to effect an election of officers of the company at the annual meeting. That the defendant, M. S. Littlefield, claims to own a large majority of the said stock, and the defendant, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, now comes into court and claims that the stock so claimed by the said Littlefield is the property of that company, and that it has the right to control and vote the same. That other parties, to wit, Robert J. Washington, Lawrence P. Bayne, Henry J. Rogers, T. B. Coddington, George P. Nichols, and others, claim that they have the right to control the said stock (or some part thereof) and seek to control the same through the different courts, making this company a party, and causing great hinderance, annoyance, and expense. It is, therefore, asked that all of said parties may be permitted to come into court and assert their rights, if any they have, against this company, the said Littlefield, and the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and all others claiming stock-interest therein, that their respective rights may be settled and determined by decree of this court, and this company be thereby relieved from further difficulty, annoyance, and hinderance and litigation by and on account of such conflicting claims.

Your orator further shows, that one thousand bonds, purporting to have been issued by this company under the provisions of the act of January 28th, 1870, entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,'" for the sum of $1,000 each, a copy of one of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit A, 305 are now in the possession of the defendant Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida.

That said described bonds are not the bonds of this company. They were not executed by this company, nor by its authority, and are fraudulent and void.

Your orator charges, on information and belief, that the said fraudulent bonds were signed by George W. Swepson, as president of this company, and by one H. H. Thompson, as treasurer, whereas, in truth, the said Thompson was not at the time, and never was, the treasurer of this company, and had no authority to act as such, or to sign said bonds. That F. H. Flagg was at that time the treasurer of this company, and the only person who had any right or authority to represent this company as such officer. That the seal of this company was at one time in the possession of said Flagg, and was, as this complainant is informed, secretly and without his knowledge taken from his office by some person unknown, and fraudulently used to attest said bonds.

Your orator further shows, that the said act of January 28th, 1870, under which it is pretended that said bonds were issued, creates or attempts to create a statutory contract between the State of Florida and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the exchange of State for railroad bonds of the company, at the rate of $16,000 per mile, upon the certain conditions therein stated, but the said statute was not intended to apply to this company, and did not affect its charter. Said act conferred no powers or privileges on this company, and imposed upon it no additional burdens, obligations, or sacrifices. That this company had no authority in law under the said act or under its charter, or otherwise, to issue said bonds as claimed for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. Such an act would have had no legal or binding force, and created no lien upon said railroad or company's property. That to issue bonds to the amount of $16,000 per mile, drawing interest at eight per cent., and to deliver the same to the said company without consideration or benefit, either given or promised, would have resulted in the utter ruin and bankruptcy of this company.

Your orator further shows, that the said act was not a valid law, and would have had no binding force on this complainant, if it had been applicable, and if it had been accepted and acted upon in the issue of bonds in accordance with its provisions. That the agreement and undertaking to exchange bonds with the State for the purposes 306 mentioned in said act has been declared to be unconstitutional by the supreme court of the State, and the said bonds, had they been free from all other objections, were null and void, and could constitute no lawful consideration for any agreement or undertaking whatever. And had the said bonds been legally issued, their exchange for the bonds of the State, adjudged to be unconstitutional and void by the supreme court, would have been a transfer of said bonds without consideration, and hence a void contract. But this complainant denies that any bonds or pretended bonds of the State were issued by it in exchange for any bonds whatever. That any bonds or pretended bonds of this company were ever delivered by this company or by its authority to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, for the purpose of being exchanged for State bonds, or for any other purpose; and further, upon information, denies that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company ever received any bonds of the State, or any obligations purporting to be bonds of the State, in exchange for any bonds or pretended bonds of this company.

Your orator further shows that the said bonds signed by Swepson, as president, and said Thompson, as treasurer, were not issued as pretended, under the said act of January 28th, 1870, for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but were issued under an agreement made and entered into between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, on the 30th day of May, 1870, for their benefit, and that of George W. Swepson, who jointly claimed to be owners of the majority of the stock in this company.

That in said contract they mutually covenanted and agreed that they would cause to be issued one million dollars of first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, of like denomination and effect and condition as the first-mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, * * * to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun, as additional security for the payment of the said draft of $163,026.76, to be held by the said Houstoun, in addition to the securities aforesaid; that is to say, to be held in addition to 4,400 shares of the stock of this company, and one hundred and three thousand dollars of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company. That the said Houstoun was fully authorized by said contract, upon failure or default in the payment of said draft, to offer said million dollars of bonds on the Florida Central Railroad, so signed, 307 to be issued, for sale at public outcry in the city of New York, upon giving ten days' notice of such sale, all which will appear by reference to said contract herewith filed, marked Exhibit B, to which reference is prayed, also to copies of contracts explanatory thereof, and carrying out the same object, marked Exhibit C and E.

Your orator further shows that the said one million dollars of bonds purporting to be the bonds of this company were issued, signed, and executed in manner aforesaid, and were delivered to the said Houstoun (but not by this complainant or by its authority), as covenanted and agreed by the terms of said contract. That, on the 11th day of January, 1871, the said Houstoun, with the approval and consent of the said Littlefield, delivered the said bonds to one T. B. Coddington, to be held and disposed of by him for the benefit of said Houstoun, in the payment of said draft, and for other purposes and trusts specified in the receipt of the said Coddington, given for said bonds, a copy of which is herewith filed, marked F, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator charges that said bonds were not intended to be given in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, to be exchanged for the bonds of the State, as fraudulently and falsely expressed in the face or body of said bonds, but that they were intended to be in accordance with the terms of the said contract, and to be given to the said Houstoun to secure a personal debt of said Littlefield.

Your orator further shows that said bonds, the copy of one of which is herewith filed, were never completed as intended. The printed certificate attached thereto, that the bonds were "issued in accordance with the provisions of the act of the legislature," has not been signed by the governor of the State (then Harrison Reed), showing that at the time he did not recognize or regard said bonds as having been issued under said act for the aid of said company, but the said Harrison Reed, governor of the State, did collusively endorse said bonds to enable the said Houstoun and said Coddington to use said bonds for the benefit of said Houstoun, as agreed in said contract.

Your orator further shows that, at a meeting held on the 21st day of November, 1870, the directory of this company, by its resolution rescinded a resolution previously passed, adopting said issue of bonds, and ordered said bonds to be destroyed, as will more fully appear by a copy of said proceedings herewith filed, marked Exhibit G, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator further shows that the bonds of the State of Flor- 308 ida, authorized to be issued under the said act of January 28th, 1870, to be exchanged for the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, were executed, countersigned, and placed in the hands of Harrison Reed, then governor of the State of Florida, being 4,000 bonds of $1,000 each, and numbered from 1 to 4000 inclusive.

Your orator, upon information, says that after the action had by this company, recalling said bonds and ordering them to be destroyed, the said Harrison Reed, governor, with full knowledge of the fact, did unlawfully and fraudulently exchange one million dollars of the bonds of the State for one million dollars of the bonds of this company, so illegally issued and so revoked and ordered to be destroyed by this company, and delivered said State bonds to the said T. B. Coddington, not as the agent, or in any way representing or pretending to represent the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but as the agent and trustee of said Houstoun, under said contract, and the receipt of said Coddington.

That the said bonds of this company thus exchanged were received by the said governor, and were deposited or filed in the office of the treasurer of the State, and are now in the possession of Walter Gwynn, at present treasurer, and a party defendant to this suit.

Your orator further shows that George F. Drew, now governor of the State of Florida, claims the right, and has threatened and attempted to seize the Florida Central Railroad, and sell the same to satisfy and pay certain bonds of the State, claimed to have been issued in exchange for the bonds of this company in manner aforesaid, amounting to 206 in number, of $1,000 each, alleged to have been sold in Europe, and to be now in the possession of defendants to this suit. But your orator denies that any of the bonds of the State, so exchanged, have been sold to bona fide purchasers, and if sold denies that this company is in any way responsible for or liable to payment thereof. That the bonds issued and exchanged for said State bonds were not the bonds of this company, and were not executed by this company or by its authority. That the company had no legal power or authority to issue said bonds, either under the terms of its charter or under the provisions of the act of January 28, 1870, to secure the completion of the public works of the State. That the company's railroad was long before that time a completed road, and the issuing of such bonds was not within the legitimate powers granted this company, and was not for the interest or improvement of the company's railroad. That said bonds were not delivered 309 to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and were not exchanged for the State bonds either by or for that company.

Your orator further shows, that the said defendants, the pretended holders of said bonds, had due notice of the illegality of said bonds and the fraudulent means used to secure them. That they had notice by a suit then and still pending in the county of Leon, in which R. H. Gamble and J. D. Wescott, jr., were complainants, and Edward Houstoun, et al., defendants, in which the illegality of said bonds was charged and an injunctional order restraining the delivery of the said bonds to the State was granted.

That the defendants, the holders of said bonds, had notice by a dispatch sent to Europe in reply to inquiries made in relation to said bonds, by one Boissevain, a banker in Amsterdam, agent for the sale of said bonds, and one of these defendants; which telegram was sent by Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, dated 18th day of December, 1870, as follows:

That they received further notice by a letter written to Boissevain, a banker, and defendant to this suit, by E. M. L'Engle, and signed by him as counsel for this company, dated February 8, 1871, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit H, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator further shows, upon information, that none of the State bonds exchanged for said pretended bonds of this company are claimed to have been sold prior to July, 1872, more than one year after said notices had been sent to the persons in Europe interested in like bonds, charging that the said bonds were illegally issued and were void. That in consequence of such notices complainant alleges that no bona fide sale was made of the State bonds exchanged for the said bonds of this company.

Your orator further shows, that in the suit of the State of Florida et al. vs. The Florida Central Railroad Company et al., instituted in Duval County, Florida, for the collection of interest due on said bonds, it became a material question whether any of the bonds of the State, exchanged for said company's bonds had been sold, upon which issue was joined and trial and judgment had in the circuit court, and upon appeal to the supreme court it was adjudged and determined that there was no evidence that any of said State bonds had been sold, and the suit was, therefore, by order of said court, dismissed.

310 Your orator therefore says that the question of liability of this company to the State for payment of said bonds has been fairly put in issue before a court of competent jurisdiction and, after a full trial and appeal, has been decided in favor of your orator, and is now res adjudicata.

That neither the State nor the governor of the State has any further right or authority to assert in court, or otherwise, any claim against this company on account of interest on said bonds.

Your orator further shows, that the act of January 28th, 1870, which authorizes the governor of the State to seize and sell certain railroads on failure to pay interest on bonds exchanged by the railroad companies for State bonds gave to the governor such extraordinary power, in order to protect the State in its sovereign capacity from loss on the bonds so exchanged. But the State bonds having been declared unconstitutional and void such right of seizure no longer exists, the State having incurred no liability by reason of said exchange of bonds. That no power of seizure has been given to the governor or any State officer for the protection of private rights as trustee or otherwise.

Your orator further states, upon information, that the said governor still claims the right to seize and sell this company's railroad, and it has good reason to believe that he would endeavor to do so if relieved of the injunction heretofore issued by this court, to obtain which was one of the principal objects of said original bill, and the prayer for which was the most important in said bill.

Your orator further charges, upon information and belief, that certain of the defendants, claiming to be bondholders, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, the plaintiff in the said original suit in which this cross-bill is filed, and other persons, have collusively combined and confederated together against this complainant, for the purpose of dismissing said original suit in which said injunction has been issued, in order that they may thereby have an opportunity to secure the seizure of complainant's railroad, which by the order of this court has been restrained as being contrary to law and equity.

That in pursuance of said collusive combination attempts have actually been made to procure the dismissal of said suit without the order of this court, and your orator charges that they will continue their unlawful efforts to avoid the restraining force of said injunction by the dismissal of the said suit, that they may procure the seizure of 311 your orator's railroad and thereby inflict irreparable injury upon your orator.

Your orator hereby tenders and offers to pay, or cause to be paid, to the said defendants, or to any holder of the said 206 bonds, the interest that may be due thereon, whenever the same is adjudged a debt of the Florida Central Railroad Company, in such manner as this court may direct.

Inasmuch as your orator is without remedy at law, and can only have adequate protection and relief in a court of chancery, your orator prays that the United States writ of subpœna may be issued from this court to George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, John Collinson, Thomas B. Coddington, J. Fred Schutte, Jem Prins, Adrianus Prins, Henrich Ulrici, Elias Field, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Nicholas Jacob due Tex, and Adolf Engler, trustee, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and Milton S. Littlefield, commanding them, and each of them, to appear on a certain day and under a certain penalty to answer the premises, and that they, and each of them, under their respective corporate oaths, be required to make true and perfect answers to all and singular the allegations in this bill as fully and completely as if separately interrogated thereto.

Your orator further prays, that it may be protected against all combinations that have been made, or which may hereafter be made, to injure your orator, by dismissal of said original bill. That the injunction issued in the said suit, restraining the seizure and sale of said railroad, may be continued for the protection of your orator, and all others interested, and that the same be made perpetual at the final hearing.

Your orator further prays, that the said pretended bonds of your orator, issued and exchanged in the manner herein alleged, may be deemed to be illegal and void.

That they be delivered by the said Walter Gwynn, treasurer, to your orator to be cancelled, and it be adjudged that the holders of the State bonds have no claim against your orator, and that said bonds constitute no lien whatever upon your orator's railroad.

Your orator further prays, that said claimants to stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company may be permitted to come into court and assert their respective claims, and that the right to possess and control said stock may be settled and determined by decree of this court.

312 Your orator further prays, that the said John Collinson, Thomas B. Coddington, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, and all others holding bonds of like character, their agents and attorneys, be perpetually injoined from using or uttering said State bonds, and from further demanding of, or sueing your orator for payment thereof.

Your orator further prays, that it may have such other relief in the premises as to this honorable court may seem meet and proper.

314 EXHIBIT A.

In the U. S. circuit court.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., February 8th, 1871.

Messrs. HOLJE BOISSEVAIN,
Bankers, Amsterdam, Holland:

GENTLEMEN: On December 18th, 1870, Governor Harrison Reed, of Florida, received a telegraphic dispatch from you substantially as follows:

"Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment interest, whatever result railroad traffic. Financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?"

To this dispatch Governor Reed replied as follows:

"Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will therefore be made for interest."

315 It was hoped that Governor Reed's telegram would have the effect of causing the bonds to be returned, as the railroad companies desired they should be. This has not been done, but, on the contrary, more bonds than were then out have been sent to Europe for negotiation, though no money, I infer, has yet been realized. I feel it to be my duty, therefore, to make a statement of facts to you, which I hope that you will lay before others who may be interested with you in the negotiations.

When the legislature of Florida enacted the laws under which the bonds your telegram inquired about were issued, it was believed by the two railroad companies hereafter named that the proceeds of the State bonds when sold would be honestly and legitimately applied to the extension through the western portion of this State of the lines of railroad already built from the eastern to the middle portion. That extension was so much desired by the two companies owning the completed railroads that they were willing to mortgage, and did mortgage, their roads to the State in order to secure the issuing of State bonds upon which to raise money to enable the newly organized company to build said extension. The railroads which so pledged their mortgage bonds to the State were the Florida Central Railroad, sixty miles long, and the Tallahassee Railroad, one hundred and fifty miles long. The former gave its mortgage bonds to the amount of one million dollars, the latter to the amount of three million dollars, and this latter road consolidated its line with that proposed to be built westward from the completed road, and the two companies became one, under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. But the Florida Central Railroad, commencing at Jacksonville, and running westward sixty miles, was not included in the consolidation. Subsequently, and after three million of the State bonds had been sent to Europe, it was discovered that the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who had been active in procuring the legislation, and inducing the completed roads to give to the State their bonds in exchange for the State bonds which were issued to him, had made, even before he got the bonds, secret contracts with some of his creditors, by which the larger portion of the proceeds were to be diverted from the purposes for which the bonds were issued, and were to be applied in payment of individual debts. This produced such dissatisfaction, and caused such investigations by the companies which had mortgaged their roads to the State, as resulted in both of the companies, through their several directories, rescinding the action by which their roads were mortgaged, and recalling the bonds. The million of bonds issued by the State, on the security of a like amount pledged to the State by the Florida Central Railroad, had not then gone into the hands of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but were held by a party till certain conditions precedent were performed before delivery to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. That million of bonds then were returned to the State, and the bonds of the company, upon the security of which the others were issued, were withdrawn from deposit with the State, and were in the hands of the party already referred to, to be returned to the company for cancellation, when they were by that party, without the authority or knowledge 316 of the railroad company, or of any of its officers, and in violation of the company's resolutions of recall and rescission, delivered to an agent of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who by influences best known to himself effected with the governor of the State their re-exchange for the State bonds, which latter were hurriedly and secretly sent out of the State and to Europe before any legal process could be obtained for their detention. This re-delivery to the governor of Florida of the Florida Central Railroad Company's million of bonds is a gross fraud on that company, and none who are advised of it, and buy or advance money on the State's bonds, for which they were exchanged, will have any legal or moral right to ask that they receive any benefit or advantage from the security so wrongfully obtained.

The same may be said of the three million of State's bonds issued on the pledge of the same amount of bonds of the Tallahassee or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. No one, who, having notice of that company's rescission of its action and recall of its bonds, advances money on, or buys the State's bonds for which the others were pledged, will have legally, or morally, any locus standi in curia as against that railroad company. The creditors and stockholders of the railroad companies will assert their right, resist the wrongs that have been perpetrated and attempted, and seek, successfully, redress in the judicial tribunals. You have had the above mentioned action of the railroad companies brought to your notice by the telegram from Governor Reed, who sent it after consulting with the said companies, and at their instance, and you have incurred all the legal disqualifications to urge against the railroad companies any claim based on their supposed suretyship for any bonds of the State.

An examination of the law under which the State's bonds were issued discloses that the governor has caused half a million more of bonds to be issued than the law provides for. The law allows the issue of $16,000 per mile upon so much of said roads as may be completed and in running order; only 210 miles were, when the bonds were issued, completed, and only a mile and a half have been completed since, and no more is being completed. This would allow of an issue at the time it was made of only $3,360,000. Add the liberal allowance of ten miles for side-tracks, &c., if such unreasonable construction of the law be claimed, and it legalizes only $3,520,000 of the bonds.

To secure the principal and interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's bonds (but not of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad), the law gives the State of Florida a statutory lien, valid as a first-mortgage, on that company's road and property, and authorizes the governor, on failure of the company in any payment of principal or interest, to seize and sell the road at auction, and authorizes the State to purchase and to pay for it with any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against the road, while every other bidder would, in case of purchase, have to pay cash. This summary process is not applicable to the Florida Central Railroad; but to the other road only. What would be the result in case of failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to pay principal or interest on its bonds? The State, if no resistance, or if unsuccessful resistance through 317 the courts were had, might seize, sell, and buy, paying for the purchase with the road's obligations, while the State might not, perhaps could not, or would not, pay her own; nor is there any way known to our system of government by which a State can be compelled to pay its obligations. You will thus perceive the character of the securities offered you, and the taints of fraud that affected them from their first issue, and that still do, and will act advisedly. This communication is made in the interests of the stockholders of the companies whose bonds have, by misrepresentation and bad faith, been obtained and exchanged with the State of Florida for the State's bonds, which you have been, and may still be, negotiating for. The stockholders do not intend to submit to the fraud which has been attempted on them. They seek to have the State's bonds brought back, and a re-exchange effected, and it is to that end that this letter is written. Such a course will prevent litigation. Persistence in the wrong will insure it. Attempts may be made to give credit to the bonds by professional and perhaps by judicial opinions from this State, but the facts that I state are incontestable, and I can give you much more and more detailed information concerning the worthlessness of the securities that you are negotiating for, and I will do so if desired. But I have said enough to make discreet men repudiate the securities and abandon negotiations.

I will say further, that since the mortgage of the railroads to the State, 128 miles of the completed road, being all except twenty-two miles on which the State has any statutory lien, have been sold by the United States under a judicial process in their favor, issued from a United States court; thus divesting the company's title, and vesting it in the individual purchaser. That sale, of course, relieves that much of the road of the lien created in favor of the State of Florida by the mortgage before mentioned. You are at liberty to show this letter to whom you please, and to give it the widest publicity, and will oblige me by acknowledging its receipt. I will presume, on a very slight acquaintance, to refer you, touching myself, to Hon. H. S. Sanford (late U. S. minister to Belgium), at Brussels.

Answer of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

At a meeting of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held November 21, 1870, upon motion of Mr. Papy, a committee was appointed to take in consideration the past issue of bonds, and also to report upon the policy of issuing bonds of the company and the amount.

The president appointed Messrs. Papy, Baker, and Huling said committee.

The board then adjourned to 4 p. m.

4 p. m.—The directors convened pursuant to adjournment, Colonel Sanderson, president, in the chair.

Mr. Papy presented the following report:

The committee finding that the bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are in such form as that they cannot be used to carry out the intention of their 319 issue when they were adopted, report the following resolution in respect thereto:

Resolved, That the resolution adopting the bonds to be issued by the company, signed by George W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, at a meeting of the board of directors, held on the 2d of June, A. D. 1870, be and the same is hereby rescinded, and that said bonds be destroyed.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foster, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Papy made the following report:

The committee report the following resolutions in reference to the issue of bonds of the company and the securing the same:

Resolved, That the president cause bonds, payable to bearer, to be prepared, signed, and executed in due form, which shall be issued for purposes of the company, not exceeding seven hundred thousand dollars in amount, with interest at seven per centum per annum, not having more than thirty years to run, with coupons for interest attached, payable in New York semi-annually.

Resolved, That said bonds and the interest thereon shall be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, workshops, depots, franchises, and property of every kind; and that the president cause to be prepared and executed such deed of trust or other necessary instrument of writing, under the seal of this company, as may be needful to make the first lien or mortgage in favor of said bonds and the interest thereon effectual to all intents.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Huling, the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Adjourned to 4 o'clock next day, at which time the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this board approve of the form of the trust-deed read to the directors to secure the first lien or mortgage of the bonds, and interest thereon, authorized to be issued, and that the president of this company is authorized to select the trustees to whom said deed is to be made, not to exceed three in number.

Adopted.

At a meeting of the directors of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, held December 10th, A. D. 1870, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted:

"Whereas bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company have been issued according to the provisions of the act incorporating this company, and the amendments thereto, which bonds have been exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, according to the provisions of said act; and whereas said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered by the governor to the president of this company; and whereas, though previous to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with this company, authority was granted by the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to its president to issue, negotiate, dispose of, and apply the bonds for the purpose authorized by the act of incorporation, no action was had thereon after such consolidation either by the stockholders or directors, then newly elected, authorizing the issue or disposal of bonds; and whereas, though no such action was formally taken, yet the stockholders and directors were advised that bonds had been issued and exchanged for an equal amount of State bonds, and were in the hands of the president to be disposed of and applied, as they supposed, according to the law authorizing their issue, and they were satisfied therewith if a proper application was to be made thereof; and whereas the directors are now advised that a contract was made by the president and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and certain persons as commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, which contract was executed in April last, by which the bonds of the State of Florida, taken in exchange for the bonds of this company, were to be disposed of, and the proceeds to be divided, according to the terms of said contract, between the above-named Florida railroads and the commissioners aforesaid, dollar for dollar, until an amount of over one million of dollars, with interest, should be paid to said commissioners;

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., February 8th, 1871.

Messrs. HOLJE BOISSEVAIN, Bankers, Amsterdam, Holland:

GENTLEMEN: On December 18th, 1870, Governor Harrison Reed, of Florida, received a telegraphic dispatch from you, substantially as follows:

"Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment interest, whatever result railroad traffic. Financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?"

To this dispatch Governor Reed replied as follows:

"Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will therefore be made for interest."

323 It was hoped that Governor Reed's telegram would have the effect of causing the bonds to be returned, as the railroad companies desired they should be. This has not been done; but, on the contrary, more bonds than were then out have been sent to Europe for negotiation, though no money, I infer, has yet been realized. I feel it to be my duty, therefore, to make a statement of facts to you, which I hope that you will lay before others who may be interested with you in the negotiations.

When the legislature of Florida enacted the laws under which the bonds your telegram inquired about were issued, it was believed by the two railroad companies hereafter named that the proceeds of the State bonds when sold would be honestly and legitimately applied to the extension, through the western portion of this State, of the lines of railroad already built from the eastern to the middle portion. That extension was so much desired by the two companies owning the completed railroads that they were willing to mortgage and did mortgage their roads to the State, in order to secure the issuing of State bonds upon which to raise money to enable the newly organized company to build said extension. The railroads which so pledged their mortgage bonds to the State were the Florida Central Railroad, sixty miles long, and the Tallahassee Railroad, one hundred and fifty miles long. The former gave its mortgage bonds to the amount of one million dollars; the latter to the amount of three million dollars; and this latter road consolidated its line with that proposed to be built westward from the completed road, and the two companies became one under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. But the Florida Central Railroad, commencing at Jacksonville and running westward sixty miles, was not included in the consolidation. Subsequently, and after three million of the State bonds had been sent to Europe, it was discovered that the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who had been active in procuring the legislation, and inducing the completed roads to give to the State their bonds in exchange for the State's bonds which were issued to him, had made, even before he got the bonds, secret contracts with some of his creditors, by which the larger portion of the proceeds were to be diverted from the purpose for which the bonds were issued, and were to be applied in payment of individual debts. This produced such dissatisfaction and caused such investigations by the companies which had mortgaged their roads to the State, as resulted in both of the companies, through their several directories, rescinding the action by which their roads were mortgaged, and recalling the bonds. The million of bonds issued by the State, on the security of a like amount pledged to the State by the Florida Central Railroad, had not then gone into the hands of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but were held by a party till certain conditions precedent were performed before delivery to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. That million of bonds then were returned to the State, and the bonds of the company, upon the security of which the others were issued, were withdrawn from deposit with the State, and were in the hands of the party already referred to, to be returned to the company for cancellation, when they were by that party, without the authority or knowl-324 edge of the railroad company or of any of its officers, and in violation of the company's resolutions of recall and rescission, delivered to an agent of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who, by influences best known to himself, effected with the governor of the State their re exchange for the State bonds, which latter were hurriedly and secretly sent out of the State and to Europe before any legal process could be obtained for their detention. This redelivery to the governor of Florida of the Florida Central Railroad Company's million of bonds is a gross fraud on that company, and none who are advised of it and buy or advance money on the State's bonds for which they were exchanged will have any legal or moral right to ask that they receive any benefit or advantage from the security so wrongfully obtained.

The same may be said of the three million of State's bonds issued on the pledge of the same amount of bonds of the Tallahassee or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. No one who, having notice of that company's rescission of its action and recall of its bonds advances money on or buys the State's bonds for which the others were pledged, will have, legally or morally, any locus standi in curia as against that railroad company. The creditors and stockholders of the railroad companies will assert their right, resist the wrongs that have been perpetrated and attempted, and seek, successfully, redress in the judicial tribunals. You have had the above-mentioned action of the railroad companies brought to your notice by the telegram from Governor Reed, who sent it after consulting with the said companies, and at their instance, and you have incurred all the legal disqualifications to urge against the railroad companies any claim based on their supposed suretyship for any bonds of the State.

An examination of the law under which the State's bonds were issued discloses that the governor has caused half a million more of bonds to be issued than the law provides for. The law allows the issue of $16,000 per mile upon so much of said roads as may be completed and in running order. Only 210 miles were, when the bonds were issued, completed, and only a mile and a half have been completed since, and no more is being completed. This would allow of an issue at the time it was made of only $3,360,000. Add the liberal allowance of ten miles for side-tracks, &c., if such unreasonable construction of the law be claimed, and it legalizes only $3,520,000 of the bonds.

To secure the principal and interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company's bonds (but not of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad), the law gives the State of Florida a statutory lien, valid as a first mortgage, on that company's road and property, and authorizes the governor, on failure of the company in any payment of principal or interest, to seize and sell the road at auction, and authorizes the State to purchase and to pay for it with any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against the road, while every other bidder would, in case of purchase, have to pay cash. This summary process is not applicable to the Florida Central Railroad, but to the other road only. What would be the result in case of failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to pay principal or interest on its bonds? The State, if no resistance, or if unsuccessful re-325 sistance through the courts were had, might seize, sell, and buy, paying for the purchase with the road's obligations, while the State might not—perhaps could not, or would not—pay her own; nor is there any way known to our system of government by which a State can be compelled to pay its obligations. You will thus perceive the character of the securities offered you, and the taints of fraud that affected them from their first issue, and that still do, and will act advisedly. This communication is made in the interests of the stockholders of the companies whose bonds have, by misrepresentation and bad faith, been obtained and exchanged with the State of Florida, for the State's bonds, which you have been, and may still be, negotiating for. The stockholders do not intend to submit to the fraud which has been attempted on them. They seek to have the State's bonds brought back, and a re-exchange effected, and it is to that end that this letter is written. Such a course will prevent litigation. Persistence in the wrong will insure it. Attempts may be made to give credit to the bonds by professional and perhaps by judicial opinions from this State, but the facts that I state are incontestable, and I can give you much more and more detailed information concerning the worthlessness of the securities that you are negotiating for, and I will do so, if desired; but I have said enough to make discreet men repudiate the securities and abandon negotiations.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY
et. al.

TALLAHASSEE, January 11, 1871.

Received from Edward Houstoun, esq., in trust and for his account, one thousand Florida Central Railroad Company first-mortgage bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for one thousand dollars each, which I hereby undertake to arrange with General M. S. Littlefield and other parties interested, and collect from him or them the amount which it is admitted is now due to said Houstoun, viz: one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars and seventy cents, with interest thereon, at seven per cent., from the time M. S. Littlefield's draft on S. W. Hopkins & Co. for said amount fell due, and in addition thereto the sum of five thousand dollars for costs and expenses incurred by said Houstoun in suits brought by parties against said Houstoun in relation to those bonds or other bonds, and the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, it being understood that all proceedings at law, or otherwise, are to be discontinued, or if that be impossible, he is to be indemnified by responsible parties against all damages or costs arising out of said proceedings; it being further understood that said Houstoun shall, when paid, transfer and assign to said Littlefield all the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or other securities which he holds, or which were given him as collateral security, to secure the above amounts due to said Houstoun.

And it is further understood and agreed, that said Coddington is to collect the further sums of money and pay to said Houstoun for account of the parties named below, which, it is understood, are a lien subsequent and inferior to said Houstoun's lien on these bonds, viz:

Colonel R. H. Gamble, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, who is to surrender to said Littlefield three hundred shares of stock in the 329 Florida Central Railroad Company, and seventeen hundred dollars in the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, at par.

J. P. Sanderson, esq., the sum of fifty thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, and said J. P. Sanderson is to surrender to said Littlefield seventy shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and comply with his agreements with said Littlefield, for which a part of said sum is in consideration.

F. H. Flagg, esq., the sum of four thousand dollars, for which he is to surrender the Central Railroad Company stock and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds which he holds to said Littlefield, and also to pay for seventy shares of stock now or lately held by J. D. Westcott, jr., esq., the sum of thirty eight hundred and forty-five dollars and thirty-three cents, when said stock is to be delivered to said Littlefield.

This arrangement is based on the assumption that the money will be paid from the proceeds of bonds negotiated by S. W. Hopkins & Co., of

New York. The remainder of said proceeds is to be disposed of as directed by the parties interested.

T. B. CODDINGTON.

I approve and assent to the same.

M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

330 EXHIBIT E.

In the U. S. circuit court, northern district of Florida.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

The agreement made between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, dated 30th May, 1870, is hereby modified, changed and altered as follows, to wit:

First. In lieu of one million dollars of first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which by said agreement were to be placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, there shall be placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, the same amount of bonds of the State of Florida, to be exchanged for the said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

Second. If said draft be not paid at maturity, the said Houstoun is authorized and empowered to sell said bonds of the State of Florida at public outcry, giving the notice of sale as provided for in said agreement, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

Third. After first paying said draft and expenses of sale, said Houstoun shall, out of the balance of the proceeds arising from the sale of said bonds, if sufficient for this purpose, pay to John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; to M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; to T. W. Brevard, attorney of certain holders of bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, if certain negotiations now pending for their purchase be consummated, the sum of fifty thousand dollars; to John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, three hundred and forty thousand dollars; after these payments the balance, if any, to be paid to said Littlefield.

331 Fourth. When said drafts shall mature said Houstoun, instead of selling said bonds of the State, shall have the option and choice of returning the same to the State, and receiving in lieu thereof the one million dollars of first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad exchanged for the State bonds aforesaid.

Fifth. If, under the option and choice given the said Houstoun, he returns the bonds of the State of Florida, aforesaid, to said State and receives in lieu thereof the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company as aforesaid, provided said Houstoun, upon delivering said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, received from the State as aforesaid, to the president of said company, shall receive and have executed and delivered to him in lieu thereof other first-mortgage bonds of said company, which said bonds shall be made payable to bearer, and shall be good, effectual and first lien on said road.

Sixth. Upon receiving said first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company from the president thereof, as above provided for, the said Houstoun shall hold the same as security for the payment of said draft, and is authorized and has the power at any time after giving thirty days' previous notice to the president of said company, to sell the said bonds so received from the president of said company at public outcry in the city of New York, at which said Houston may become a purchaser; and said Houstoun, after paying said draft and the expenses of said sale, dispose of and pay over the rest and residue of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, if any, to the persons named and for the amounts named as provided in the third clause hereof.

Seventh. If said Littlefield shall pay said draft at or before its maturity, said Houstoun shall deposit said bonds of the State of Florida placed in his hands under the first clause hereof with S. W. Hopkins & Company, No. 71 Broadway, New York, with the stipulation and agreement that they, the said Hopkins & Company, shall, in disposing of said bonds, hold the proceeds of said sale subject to the claims and for the amounts mentioned in the third clause hereof, to wit: John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; T. W. Brevard, attorney for certain holders of Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, if negotiations now pending for their purchase shall be consummated, the sum of forty thousand dollars; John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Roilroad Company, the sum of three hundred and forty thousand dollars; said Hopkins & Company, after first paying the amounts above named to the parties above named out of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, shall pay the rest and residue, if any, of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to said Littlefield.

Witness our hand and seal this the seventh day of June, A. D. 1870, at Tallahassee, Florida.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

This memorandum of contract and agreement, made and entered into this day between Edward Houstoun, party of the first part, and Milton S. Littlefield, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That Edward Houstoun has this day sold to Milton S. Littlefield four drafts drawn by George W. Swepson on Milton S. Littlefield, dated August 2, 1869, and accepted by said Littlefield, one for twenty-six thousand five hundred and twenty dollars ($26,520), due at six months; one for twenty-seven thousand and thirty dollars ($27,030), due at nine months; one for twenty-seven thousand five hundred and forty 333 dollars ($27,540), due at twelve months; one for twenty-eight thousand and fifty ($28,050) dollars, due at fifteen months; and that said Houstoun has this day sold to said Littlefield one thousand three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. In payment for said drafts and said stocks, said Littlefield has paid said Houstoun ten thousand dollars in cash and the drafts of said Littlefield, of this date, on S. W. Hopkins & Co., of 71 Broadway, N. Y., for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and seventy and twenty-hundredths dollars, due sixty days from date. To secure the payment of said draft of $163,070 20-100, it is agreed that said Houstoun shall retain possession of said four drafts by George W. Swepson on said Littlefield, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, now in his possession as collateral, and in addition thereto said Littlefield hereby obligates himself immediately to deposit with F. H. Porter, of the banking house of Soutter & Co., 53 William street, New York, certificate of stock for 3,110 shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, with directions to said Porter to hold said certificates till said draft of $163,070 20 100 shall fall due, and then if said draft is not promptly paid within ten days after it falls due, to deliver said certificate to said Houstoun, or his order, and in the event said certificate shall be so delivered to said Houstoun, he is hereby authorized to sell the said three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at public auction to the highest bidder, on mailing to the address of M. S. Littlefield, Tallahassee, Florida, and to the address of George W. Swepson, Haw River, North Carolina, and to the address of S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York, notice of the time and place of such sale in the city of New York, ten days previously to day of sale, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

On the payment of said drafts, said Houstoun hereby obligates himself to transfer the said shares of stock hereby sold, to deliver to said Littlefield the said 1,300 shares of stock sold, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which Houstoun now holds as collateral security for the payment of said four drafts, together with all the coupons on said bonds falling due from and after the 20th of March, 1869.

This is understood and intended to be a full, complete, and final settlement of all matters between either George W. Swepson or M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun.

In testimony of all which, the parties aforesaid have hereunto set their hands and seals, at Tallahassee, Florida, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1870.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

This agreement, made and entered into at the city of Tallahassee, in the county and State aforesaid, between Milton S. Littlefield, party of the first part, and Edward Houstoun, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas the said Edward Houston owns and holds a certain draft, which is in the words and figures following, to wit:

$163,026.70-100.] TALLAHASSEE, May 13, 1870.

Sixty days after date pay to the order of Edward Houstoun, one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70-100 dollars, value received, and charge the same to account of—

Acceptance waived.

M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

To Mess. S. W. HOPKINS & CO.,

For the payment of which the said Edward Houstoun has and holds as security the following securities: 103 first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, amounting to one hundred and three thousand dollars of said bonds; one thousand three hundred shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad; four (4) drafts of George W. Swepson on M. S. Littlefield—accepted by said Littlefield—one draft for $26,520, 335 due at six months; one draft for $27,030, due at nine months;
one draft for $27,540, due at twelve months; one draft for $28,050, due at fifteen months; all of said drafts being dated August 2, 1869, and amounting, in the aggregate, to the sum of one hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty dollars, exclusive of interest thereon. And whereas the said draft of $163,026 70-100 was given to the said Houstoun for value received in the various transactions between the parties relative to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, growing out of the late Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and said Florida Central Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company. And whereas it is to the great interest of said parties of the first and second parts that moneys should be raised to promote the interests of said Florida Central Railroad Company, to extend and provide for the business of said company, and to pay said draft when due; and whereas the said parties of the first and second parts are owners and proprietors of more than a majority of the capital stock of said Florida Central Railroad:

Therefore, know all men by these presents, that the said parties of the first and second parts do hereby covenant and mutually agree, each with the other, that they do cause to be issued one million dollars of the first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of like denomination and effect and condition as the first-mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, which said one million of dollars of said bonds are to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun as additional security for the payment of said draft for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars and seventy cents, to be held by the said Houstoun, in addition to the securities aforesaid, for the faithful payment of said draft at maturity.

And it is further agreed that, if the said draft is not paid at maturity, then and in that event, the said Edward Houston is hereby authorized and fully empowered to cause said one million of dollars of the bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company, placed in his hands as security for said draft as aforesaid, to be sold at public outcry in the city of New York, after default of payment of said draft, upon giving ten days' notice of said sale of said bonds and of the time and place of said sale to Milton S. Littlefield, by mail, to his residence, at Tallahassee, Florida, and by giving like notice to Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York City, by delivering said notice at their office, and by giving ten days' notice of said sale in the New York Herald, by advertisement, at which sale of said bonds the said Edward Houstoun may become the purchaser. And in the event of the sale being made as aforesaid, the said Edward Houstoun, after first paying said draft and the expenses of said sale of bonds, shall pay over all the other moneys arising from said sale and all the securities now in his hands, and heretofore set forth and enumerated, to the said Milton S. Littlefield, and the said Houstoun shall only retain of or from said sale of bonds and securities aforesaid sufficient to pay said draft and expenses of selling said bonds."

In witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals this 30th day of May, A. D. 1870.

MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD,
EDWARD HOUSTOUN.

vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR, ET AL.

The answer of George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of said State; Columbus Drew, comptroller of said State; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State; and George P. Rainey, attorney-general of said State, who are trustees of the internal-improvement fund of Florida, to the bill of complaint filed in the above-stated cause by the Western Division of the Western Northern Carolina Railroad Company against these defendants and others:

These defendants, now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, and other imperfections in said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto, or unto so much or such parts thereof as these defendants are advised is material or necessary for them to make answer unto, these defendants, answering, says:

In answer to the first paragraph in complainant's bill, these respondents say that they do not know that the plaintiff is a body politic and corporate, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief upon the subject, and therefore these respondents deny that such is the fact.

These respondents do not know, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief, that complainant, in the year 1868, was the owner and holder of six millions of dollars, or any other number, in bonds of the State of North Carolina, conferred upon it by the legislature of said State or otherwise, to be used in the construction of a railroad according to the terms of its acts of incorporation, and therefore respondents deny such to have been the fact.

359 These respondents do not know, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief, that Geo. W. Swepson, as president of complainants, or otherwise, became possessed in A. D. 1868 or A. D. 1869 of $6,000,000 of its bonds, as alleged in the third paragraph of complainant's bill, and therefore respondents deny that such was the case.

Respondents do not know, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief, that Swepson converted said bonds or any part of them into money, as stated in the fourth paragraph of the bill, and therefore respondents deny such to have been the case, and deny each and all the statements made in said fourth paragraph of complainant's bill.

Respondents do not know, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief, that Swepson used or invested $720,000 or any other amount of money received from the sale of said bonds, or any of them, in purchasing of $1,063,000 or other amount of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, or either of said companies mentioned in the bill of complainant, or in the fifth paragraph of complainant's bill, and therefore these respondents deny that such was the case, and these defendants say they have no knowledge, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief, as to whether or not said purchases with said funds were made by M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, or that said parties know of the fiduciary relation stated of said Swepson to the complainant.

Respondents say that on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1869, the then trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida sold the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, including their road-beds, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all their property of every kind, the said trustees acting under and making said sales under the provisions of the act of the general assembly of said State, approved January 6th, A. D. 1855, and entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," and that such sale was made because of non-compliance with the provisions of said act, but these defendants deny that such sale was made by the present trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, but these defendants do not admit that the then trustees had at the time of such sale any knowledge that any of said bonds 360 then outstanding had been purchased with money of the complainants by Geo. W. Swepson, or as stated in complainant's bill to such effect, and defendants deny each and all the allegations in complainant's bill alleging that the present trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida sold, or had anything to do with the sale of said railroads, made March 20th, 1869, referred to in said bill of complaint.

These defendants have no knowledge, nor any information sufficient to enable them to form a belief, as to whether said Swepson purchased and held said bonds in his own name, making no record thereof in the books and records of complainants; and these defendants therefore deny all and singular the allegations thereunto made by the complainant in his bill of complaint.

And these defendants say, upon information and belief, that the sum or amount for which said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and its property was sold was one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the sum or amount for which the said Tallahassee Railroad and its property was sold was one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars. These defendants say that the said sum for which the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and its properties was sold exceeded the total amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company issued under the provisions of said "internal improvement act," but these defendants say that the said sum or amount for which the said Tallahassee Railroad and its properties sold did not equal the amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which the said Tallahassee Railroad Company had issued under the provisions of said "internal improvement act," nor did it equal more than ninety-five per cent., if it equaled that amount or per cent. thereof. These defendants say that said outstanding Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds were, before and at the same time of such sale, the first lien upon said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all its property of every kind; and the said outstanding Tallahassee Railroad bonds were, before and at the time of such sale, the first lien upon the said Tallahassee Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, franchise, and all its property of every kind.

These defendants further say that F. Dibble and associates, who consisted of Franklin Dibble, Calvin B. Dibble, Alonzo Huling, John L. ReQua, Edward M. Cheney and others, as they are informed and 361 believe, were the highest bidders for said roads and property at said sale, they bidding the amounts aforesaid, and the same being knocked off to them at the prices or sums aforesaid, but these defendants say that the said Dibble and associates, or any one else, has not paid the purchase money for said roads and property, or for either of them. These defendants say they are informed, and believe, and they thereupon allege, that the terms of the sale of said railroads, their franchise and properties aforesaid, was cash; that possession of the same, which was then held by the then trustees of the internal improvement fund, and deeds of conveyance of the same, were not to be delivered until the purchasers of said roads paid, or caused or procured to be paid, on account of their said purchase only about nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars, which sum was paid in first mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which have been issued under the provisions of said "internal improvement act," to wit, bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company to the amount of eight hundred and six thousand dollars, which were received at par, and bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, to the amount of one hundred and fifty-three thousand and seven hundred dollars, which were received at ninety-five cents on the dollar; and these defendants say that no other or different payments have ever been made on said purchase, and they deny each and every allegation to the contrary made in complainant's bill.

These defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that after the bidding at said sale was over no cash payment was, in fact, required by the then trustees of the internal improvement fund from the purchasers; that this was on account of the alleged and pretended inconvenience of paying over and receiving so large an amount of money at that immediate time, and payment was thereupon deferred until such time as the trustees should demand it, and the possession of the railroad and properties sold was delivered to one Robert Walker, who was instructed by the said trustees to hold the same as their agent until payment of the purchase money should be completed and title deeds delivered to the purchasers. These defendants further say, they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that after the sales were made, as aforesaid, and before any payment had been made by the said purchasers, George W. Swepson, mentioned in complainant's bill, who was the holder of all the first-mortgage Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad 362 bonds, paid on such purchases, as aforesaid, and if not all of them, nearly all of them, entered into negotiations with the said Franklin Dibble and associates, and the result of these negotiations was that the said Swepson agreed to become one of said association of purchasers, and to turn over to them, or said association, the said bonds held by him, to be used in making payment on the purchase price bid for said railroads; that on the twenty-second day of March, 1869, the said Swepson and said Dibble, and his associates, and Almon R. Meek, the then attorney-general of Florida, the said Meek being one of the said trustees, held a conference in the city of Jacksonville, Florida, in relation to the payment of the purchase money or bids for said railroads and properties, and the delivery thereof, and of the titles thereto, to the purchasers; that at said conference, as these defendants are informed and believe, it was, among other things resolved and determined by said Dibble and associates as follows: That Swepson should receive the amount actually paid out by him for bonds, and in addition thereto the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and such other amount as may be necessary for the purchase of outstanding bonds, said amounts to be realized from the sale of new bonds to be placed for that purpose in the hands of Swepson and Calvin B. Dibble, and should alone receive one-third of the stock as his proprietary interest in the roads; that Swepson should turn over to C. B. Dibble the bonds then in his hands, amounting to about nine hundred thousand dollars, for the purpose of paying the same over to the trustee, and should furnish funds for the purchase of outstanding bonds as they might be obtained. These defendants further say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that after the arrangements and agreements had been thus perfected between the said Dibble and associates and the said Swepson, it was announced to the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, by the said Meek, in the following language, substantially:

To the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida:

GENTLEMEN: By an understanding between the members, I proceeded, on Monday last, to Jacksonville, with the purchasers of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, and have to state that I have been requested by the purchasers of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, F. Dibble, for himself and his associates, to say that an arrangement has been by them
363 made with George W. Swepson, who owns over a million of dollars of bonds of the said roads, by which for them he agrees to turn over to the internal improvement fund of this State all of his said bonds. Of said agreement I am personally cognizant. The said purchasers further request me to ask the trustees to execute to them, or to Mr. F. Dibble, for his associates, a deed of conveyance of said road. They further ask that this board authorize one of its members to proceed, as soon as said deed is executed, with the same to New York City, agreeing, upon their part, upon presentation of said deed in New York City, they will settle with such member for the full amount or balance of purchase price of said road, as bid by them at sale on Saturday, 20th of March, 1869. These defendants further say that the then trustees of the internal improvement fund, aforesaid, did, on the twenty-ninth day of March, A. D. 1869, at the same meeting at which said report of the said Meek, then attorney-general of said State, was made and received, adopt a resolution requesting and directing the said attorney-general to prepare a deed of conveyance of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads to the purchasers, and submit the same, when prepared, to the consideration of the board; which resolution directed that when such conveyance should receive the approbation of said board, and be executed by them, the attorney-general and comptroller should be appointed special agents of the board to proceed with such deed to the city of New York, there to consummate the purchase and sale of the roads; and when they should have received the amount payable by the purchasers, that they deliver to the said purchasers such deed of conveyance, a copy of which resolution is hereto annexed, marked B, and prayed to be taken as a part thereof; that afterwards, on the seventh day of April, A. D. 1869, a resolution was adopted by said board, directing that the deeds prepared by the attorney-general be executed by the members of the board, and afterwards, and on the next day, as these defendants are informed and believe, said deeds were executed, a copy of each of which is annexed to complainants' bill, marked schedule B and C, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that on the said last named day a resolution was adopted by said board, appointing Calvin B. Dibble, who was the brother of said F. Dibble, and said George W. Swepson, confidential agents of said board of trustees, with authority in each to take up the outstanding first mortgage bonds of the said railroad companies, and directing the attorney-general and comptroller to turn over to said C. B. Dibble 364 and Swepson, or either of them, all moneys that might be received by them for said trustees for said roads, a copy of which resolution is hereto annexed, marked A, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof.

The defendants are informed and believe, and so allege, that the said Comptroller Robert H. Gamble and Attorney-General Almon R. Meek thereupon proceeded to the city of New York, and there delivered the title deeds aforesaid for said railroads and properties to said Swepson, representing the purchasers, upon delivery by said Swepson to them of first mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company to the amount of $806,600, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company to the amount of $153,700; the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company's bonds being received at par, and the others at between ninety-four and ninety-five cents on the dollar; that beyond these bonds the said Gamble and Meek received nothing except a check or draft drawn by said Calvin B. Dibble, on Dibble, Worth & Co., New York, a firm or partnership of which said C. B. Dibble was then a member, and which firm is and has long since been insolvent, and the check or order, after its delivery, was immediately, as these defendants are informed and believe, delivered by said Meek to said Swepson in exchange for his receipt, said receipt acknowledging that said Swepson had received the sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars ($472,065), to be applied to the retirement of the outstanding bonds of the said railroad companies, no funds or cash passing between the parties, and no security being demanded of said Swepson in the premises; and these defendants further say they are informed and believe, and they so allege and charge, that the said check or order was immediately handed over by said Swepson to said Dibble, Worth & Co., without consideration, and they are informed, and believe and charge, that while these negotiations were pending in New York, the said Almon R. Meek, who was the legal adviser of said board of trustees, and was relied upon as the legal adviser of said board, and said Gamble, as a member of said board, and took the principal charge and management of said business of the settlement for and receiving the payment of the balance of said purchase money, received from, and was paid by said Swepson, and for his, said Meek's, own benefit, the sum of five thousand dollars, or other large sum of money.

And further answering, these defendants say, they are informed and believe, and so allege, that immediately after they had received said check or order, they reported and represented to the trustees of

and upon their representing to him that said purchase money had been paid, delivered said railroad and properties to said Dibble and associates; and that after the said transactions in New York were over, and said railroad and properties had been delivered, and said Meek and Gamble had returned to Florida, they reported to the board of trustees, in writing, aforesaid, that they had performed the duties devolving upon them by the resolution of March 29th, A. D. 1869, aforesaid, and that they received the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid, at the rate and value aforesaid, and that the difference between the sum represented by these bonds and the sum bid for said roads was turned over by them, as required by the resolution of the board, to George W. Swepson, as confidential agent of said board, to take up the outstanding bonds of said companies, they, in said report, representing that they had turned over to the treasurer of said board the receipt of Swepson for $472,065.

And these defendants, further answering, say that they are informed and believe, and therefore charge and aver that such check or order never was or has been paid, and never was intended to be paid, and that such pretended payment of the balance of said purchase money, over and above the sum paid in Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, was a sham payment and a preconcerted fraud and scheme, devised and entered into between said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, without authority of said trustees, to acquire possession of said railroad property without payment of the purchase money, and to cheat and defraud the trustees of the internal improvement fund and all persons beneficially interested in the payment of said purchase money, and that the said Meek assented to and favored and aided said fraud and scheme.

And these defendants charge that it never was intended by the said Calvin B. or Franklin Dibble, or Swepson, or any of their associates, who had any part in the making or getting up of the said check, that the same should be paid.

And these defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and allege, that the said Almon R. Meek, in the matter of receiving said drafts or order and delivering said deed and consummating said pretended payment, and advising the trustees that said 366 purchase money had been paid, did not act in good faith nor in the scope of his authority, but that he acted in corrupt and fraudulent faithlessness to a high trust, and lent himself, knowingly and corruptly, to a scheme to defraud and cheat the trustees of the internal improvement fund and all persons interested in the purchase money of said railroads, and to enable said F. Dibble and associates to get possession of said railroads and property without paying for the same, and these defendants say that he and the said Gamble did not act within the scope of their power in delivering the said deeds, although said Gamble believed he was acting within the scope thereof, but delivered the same without authority to do so, and under circumstances in which their authority did not permit them to deliver them; that they were to deliver them only upon being paid the purchase money for said roads and property, which has never been paid to them or to the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid, or any one for said trustees, or either of them; and these defendants further say that the trustees of the internal improvement fund did not act within the scope of their power or authority in delivering said railroads to said Dibble and associates, although said delivery was made upon representation from said

Meek and Gamble, or one of them, that the purchase money had been paid as aforesaid.

But these defendants do not admit, but they deny, that said bonds so surrendered were purchased with the moneys of the complainants, and they further say that they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that even if the same were so purchased, which they deny, that the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid, at the time of the surrender and cancellation of said bonds, did not have notice of the fact that they were purchased with such funds, or that complainants pretended to have any claim to or after the same or any of them. Respondents admit, as stated in paragraph eighth of complainant's bill, that Swepson furnished to Dibble and associates the $960,300 of bonds, which he for them paid to the three trustees, but deny that said bonds were purchased with the money of complainant.

Respondents admit that not long after the said payment by said Swepson, for Dibble and associates—to wit, on the 22d day of April, A. D. 1869—the agreement and instrument marked Schedule A, annexed to complainants' bill, was executed; but these defendants, not admitting the entire effect or meaning given to said schedule by complainants in their bill of complaint, pray reference to the same for ascertaining the meaning of the same.

367 These defendants, further answering, deny that by said Schedule A, or any other agreement made and entered into between said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, the said Swepson acquired, or that there was received or secured to him, as against the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, any lien or equity against, or in, or upon, or to, the Pensacola and Georgia or Tallahassee Railroads for the payment of said $960,300 of bonds, or for any moneys paid for the same, or for any money or sum whatsoever, or that any such lien has inured to the benefits of the complainant; and those defendants say that they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that the said Swepson had at the time of the execution of said schedule, and at all times from the 20th of March, A. D. 1869, full notice and knowledge that the balance of purchase money—to wit, $472,000—due on said sale of said railroads, had not been paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid, nor to any one for them, and they say that said Swepson and the complainant, and all persons claiming under him, are estopped from ascertaining or claiming any lien or equity upon said railroads for the payment of said $960,300 bonds or any moneys used in purchasing the same as against the trustees of the internal improvement fund or their lien and claim on said railroads and properties for said balance of purchase money which still remains unpaid. The defendants admit that the deeds marked Schedule B and C, annexed to the bill of complaint, were executed by the persons who were, at the date of the same, trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, but deny that they were executed by these defendants, and further deny that it was the purpose of the trustees who executed said deeds that said Dibble and associates should obtain from the legislature of Florida an act of incorporation as stated in the tenth paragraph of complainant's bill, or that the obtaining of such act was any consideration influencing the execution of said deeds.

These defendants, further answering, say, whereas they are informed and believe, and so allege, that the draft used in said fraudulent pretence and pretended payment of said balance of purchase money was a draft of C. B. Dibble, as hereinbefore stated, yet they admit that if it was in fact a draft of the said Swepson, as alleged in complainant's bill of complaint, that it was a mere sham pretence and fraudulent contrivance gotten up to cover the $472,000 balance of purchase money and outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad 368 bonds, and that the same never has been paid, and it never was intended by said Swepson or Dibble and associates that it should be paid. And these defendants are informed and believe that said Meek, the then attorney-general of Florida, co operated with Dibble and associates, including said Swepson, in said fraudulent arrangement, but these defendants have no knowledge, nor have they any information, sufficient to justify them in believing or saying that the other three trustees of the internal improvement fund were parties to or concerned at said fraudulent check arrangement; these defendants therefore deny that they were parties to such arrangement, and demand that the complainants be held to strict proof as to all and singular the allegations in complainant's bill thereunto made.

These defendants admit that the legislature of Florida did pass the act referred to in the thirteenth paragraph of complainant's bill, incorporating the said F. Dibble and associates into a body corporate, under the name and style of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and that Schedule D, annexed to complainant's bill, is a true copy of said act, but these defendants are informed and believe, and so allege, that the allegation in said bill that the said incorporation of said F. Dibble and associates was made by said legislature in part fulfilment of the trust referred to in said paragraph is untrue, and these defendants deny the same and each and every allegation thereunto made in said bill of complaint, and demand that complainants be required to make full proof of the same.

These defendants, further answering, admit that there is in said act represented by Schedule D the proviso, as set forth in said schedule, but none other, but these defendants do not admit, but they deny that the authority to issue bonds, given by said act, was given for the purpose of authorizing the Tallahassee Railroad Company to issue bonds to pay and discharge the trust referred to in the fourteenth paragraph of complainant's bill, if by the allegations in said paragraph or bill of complaint it is meant that the legislature had such pretended trust in favor of complainants, or any claim or pretended claim of complainants, upon said railroads, or Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds so surrendered, or upon the moneys with which they were bought, in view, or gave such authority for any such purpose, and these defendants deny that the State of Florida, or the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, who sold said roads and cancelled said surrendered bonds, had any notice in law or equity before 369 the surrender or cancellation of said bonds of the complainants, said pretended claim to said bonds, or the funds with which the same were purchased, or of any trust in favor of complainant, as alleged in said paragraph, or that said act or proviso referred to in said paragraph was any such notice; and these defendants deny that by said act any statutory reservation of rights or priority of lien was created, and was or is notice to the State of Florida or any officers or trustees mentioned in said fourteenth paragraph, or to any person whatever, of complainant's pretended claim.

These defendants, answering the sixteenth paragraph of complainant's bill, say they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company acquired the railroads therein mentioned by virtue of and under a consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, into which said Dibble and associates were organized with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as created under the act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869, and an act entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,'" approved January 24th, 1870, said act being chapters 1,716 and 1,732 of the Laws of Florida.

That such consolidation of such companies was made under the provisions of said last named acts of the legislature of Florida, and was, as these defendants are informed and believe, made after the 28th day of January, A. D. 1870.

And these defendants, further answering, deny each and every allegation in complainant's bill to the contrary hereof.

These defendants, further answering, say that although they do not admit, but deny, that the complainant has ever had any interest in said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida as aforesaid, or any interest in the said railroads and properties sold as aforesaid as against these defendants or their predecessors as trustees of the internal improvement fund, or any interest at all therein, or any interest in the stock or bonds, or pretended State bonds, or any other property or thing mentioned in the seventeenth paragraph of the bill of complaint, respectively submit and contend that the complainant cannot claim both said bonds and said other property mentioned in said paragraph, or any part of said other property, but that the complainant is estopped to claim or assert any interest, right, or title in said bonds, as will 370 be hereinafter shown, and that if the said complainant has any interest in said railroads and property so sold on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1869, that such interest is subject and subordinate to the claim of these defendants upon said property for said balance of purchase money still remaining unpaid.

These defendants, further answering, say that if the assignment to Littlefield, mentioned in the eighteenth paragraph of complainant's bill, was made, that the complainant adopted, recognized, and looked to the same for its final reimbursement for any claim it may have had, and that the same is subject to the claim and lien of these defendants for said balance of purchase money.

These defendants, answering the twenty-first paragraph, say that they are unable to ascertain from said paragraph or bill of complaint, when the suit therein referred to as having been brought by complainants against Sidney W. Hopkins & Co., was brought, nor are these defendants able, nor have they sufficient knowledge or information to enable them to say what suit is referred to; these defendants therefore pray that complainant may be required to prove fully, and according to the rules of evidence in such cases, when said suit was brought, and the effect and purpose of the same; and defendants deny that said suit was in law or equity notice to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of anything set up thereon, or in the bill of complaint in this cause.

These defendants, further answering, deny that the resolution referred to in the twentieth and twenty-second paragraphs of complainant's bill has or is of the effect or meaning given to it by complainants in the said bill of complaint, and these defendants pray reference to the copy thereof annexed to complainant's bill for the purpose of ascertaining the true meaning and effect of the same.

These defendants, further answering, say that the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, mentioned in the twenty-third paragraph of complainant's bill, were, to the best of their knowledge, information, and belief, burnt on or about the 26th day of February, A. D. 1872, and, as these defendants are informed and believe, without remonstrance or protest from complainants, or complainants having made any claim to the same upon the said trustees of the internal improvement fund. And these defendants deny that such destruction of said bonds was made without authority of law, but allege and charge that the 371 same was altogether legal and proper, and should have been made in the year A. D. 1869, soon after they were received from said Dibble and associates. Defendants file herewith a list of the bonds so destroyed.

These defendants, answering the twenty-fourth paragraph of complainant's bill, deny that the complainant has or ever had any right to said bonds therein named or to the enforcement of the same, and further charge that if it ever had any such right that the same is barred by the lapse of time, and also that the complainant is estopped by its own conduct from ever claiming any interest in or right through the same as against these defendants. That the same were received by the trustees of the internal improvement fund on the delivery of said deeds in the month of April or May, A. D. 1869, on part payment for said railroads, and without any notice of any interest or claim of complainants in or upon the same, if any they have, or have ever had, which defendants deny.

These defendants, further answering, deny that complainant has any lien on said roads and properties so sold; but say that if they have any it is subordinate to the lien of the defendants for said balance of purchase money.

These defendants, answering the thirtieth paragraph of the bill of complaint, deny that complainants ever had any right to said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds mentioned therein, and deny that the State of Florida is a party to any contract with complainant.

Defendants knew nothing as to the "reconvention" and other matters mentioned in the thirty-second paragraph of complainant's bill.

These defendants, further answering the forty-fourth and forty-ninth paragraphs, and all and singular the allegations in said bill of complaint, as to the moneys therein referred to as the earnings, receipts, and income of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, say that the said moneys are not, and never have been, held by the State of Florida; that these were turned over on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1876, to the then treasurer of Florida by the register of the Supreme Court of the United States, as these defendants are informed and believe, $32,496.85 in a draft on the Treasury of the United States, and the sum of twenty-three hundred and eight dollars in two comptroller's certificates or warrants of the State of Florida.

And these defendants further say that on the 13th day of February, 1877, the said Treasurer Foster did turn over to Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, the sum of $32,137.53, as part of 372 the proceeds of said draft in United States currency, and also the aforesaid comptroller's warrants, amounting to $2,308, as aforesaid; the said Foster having, as these defendants are informed and believe, retained and paid out of the proceeds of said draft the sum of $359.32 on account of expenses and his compensation in the custody, care, and management of said funds.

And these defendants, further answering, say that the moneys in the hands of the treasurer of Florida were paid to the treasurer by the register of the United States Supreme Court, in the cause of the State of Florida vs. E. C. Anderson et al., in the United States Supreme Court; and are, as defendants are informed and believe, the earnings and fruits of the said railroads sold on the 20th day of March aforesaid; that the same were turned over to said treasurer under an order of said court made in said cause, a copy of which, with explanatory opinion of said court annexed thereto, is filed herewith, marked D, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof. That the said order directs that the same shall be disposed of according to the trusts that have been or may be declared of and concerning the same by the supreme or other courts of Florida having jurisdiction of the premises.

And these defendants, further answering, say that in February last one H. Bisbee, jr., who was attorney and solicitor for said State of Florida, filed a bill in chancery in the circuit court of the second judicial circuit of Florida, in and for the county of Leon, against Geo. F. Drew, the governor of Florida, and these defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of Florida, claiming that he has a lien on said funds, and should be paid out of the same, for a claim of about twenty-four thousand dollars for fees as attorney and solicitor for the State, or the State and trustees of the internal improvement fund, for services rendered in said causes in the United States Supreme and circuit courts aforesaid, and in a case in the circuit court of the fourth judicial circuit of Florida, in and for Duval County, wherein the State and trustees of the internal improvement fund were complainants and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company et als. defendants, involving said railroads, and for services and advice, and expenses and disbursements, rendered, given, incurred, and paid; that said cause is at issue, and testimony is being taken therein; that on or about the 29th day of May, A. D. 1877, an order was made in said cause by the honorable P. W. White, 373 judge, ordering and directing the said Gwynn, treasurer, not to pay out or part with said funds, or any of the same, until the further order of the said court, which is still of full force and effect, except as modified by a subsequent order of said court permitting said Gwynn to pay out of said fund "the necessary costs" for procuring records for evidence in defending the same against the said suit and the suit of one D. P. Holland, which is a suit in chancery commenced prior to this suit, in said Leon circuit court, against said governor and trustees of the internal improvement fund and treasurer of Florida, in which said Holland claims that the said funds should be applied to the payment of a judgment which he claims to have obtained about December, A. D. 1872, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, for sixty-odd thousand dollars, for professional services claimed by him to have been rendered said company. This suit brought by D. P. Holland is also at issue, and will very soon be ready for trial. And these defendants insist that, as said Leon circuit court thus first obtained jurisdiction of said fund, that this court should not make any orders as to or concerning the said fund, but that the complainants should be required to go into the said Leon circuit court and become parties to said suits.

And defendants further say, that although they deny that said Bisbee and Holland have any claims on said funds, they insist that no orders shall be made as to said funds without or until said Holland and Bisbee have been made parties herein, and brought into this suit by due process of law.

And defendants further say, that if this honorable court should, under any circumstances, proceed to adjudicate and decide as to said fund, that as the same are the fruits of said railroads so sold, and as said railroads are now worth in value very much less than said balance of purchase money, principal and interest, and will, when sold, not sell for enough, by a large amount, than said funds, to pay said balance of purchase money and interest, and as there is a large amount of principal outstanding of said Tallahassee Railroad bonds now past due, all of which they charge to be true. the same should be paid to these defendants to be credited on said balance of purchase money, which is the first liens on said railroads and property, sold as aforesaid. Such, these defendants submit, was the purpose and intention of said United States Supreme Court, as will appear from said order and explanatory opinion aforesaid.

And defendants further say, that on the 22d day of December, 374 A. D. 1877, the honorable P. W. White, judge aforesaid, made an order in said cause, wherein H. Bisbee, jr., is complainant, authorizing said Gwynn, treasurer, aforesaid, to lend out said money, a copy of which order is hereto annexed, marked B, as a part of this answer.

And these defendants further say that the said F. Dibble and associates did not, nor has any one for them, paid the full amount of purchase money aforesaid, but that the said balance of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars, and interest thereon from the said 20th day of March, A. D. 1869, still remains due and unpaid; and these defendants have, as vendors, a lien on said railroads and property so sold for the same, and the holders of said bonds have demanded that the trustees of the internal improvement fund shall enforce it against said property so sold.

And these defendants further say they are informed and believe that at the time of the consolidation of said Tallahassee and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies, the stockholders of said companies had full knowledge and notice of the fraudulent manner in which the deed and possession of said railroads and their properties were acquired without the payment of the said balance of purchase money, and that the same had not been paid.

These defendants, further answering, say that on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1872, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida brought an action in the circuit court of the second judicial circuit of Florida, in and for Duval County, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and others, to recover said balance of purchase money and interest thereon, and that the pleading and complaint to said suit, all the facts and circumstances of said fraudulent and pretended payment of said balance of purchase money and illegal delivery of the deeds for and the possession of said railroads, and other matters and things relating thereto, were fully set forth, and on the 4th day of April, A. D. 1874, a judgment was rendered and entered against said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in favor of said trustees of the internal improvement fund for the balance of said purchase money, the amount of said judgment being $661,845.55, with costs and disbursements, and in and by said judgment, which was rendered in said suit, the same being an action commenced under the Code of Procedure, it was adjudged that the aforesaid sum of money should be held and deemed as against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and all persons or bodies corporate claiming 375 by, through, or under said company a lien upon the real and personal and mixed property owned by said company on the 20th day of March, 1872, and a lien upon all the railroads situated between

Lake City, in Columbia County, and Quincy, in Gadsden County, and the branches to St. Mark's and Monticello, and upon the iron, roadbed, and depots thereon or connected therewith, from March 20th aforesaid.

And defendants further say that said deed is still in full force and effect. Defendants say they are informed and believe that in the summer of A. D. 1870, a suit was brought in the United States circuit court, northern district of Florida, by the holders of the then and now outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds to subject said railroads to sale to pay the same to the extent of said balance of purchase money, and another suit was to the year 1872 brought by other holders of the same of said bonds in the same court for the same purpose, and that in both of said suits all the facts and statements aforesaid as to said fraudulent and pretended payment of said balance of purchase money and illegal delivery of the deeds for and the possession of said roads and other matters and things connected therewith are fully set forth.

Defendants further say that in the year A. D. 1873 a suit was brought in the United States Supreme Court by the State of Florida against Edward C. Anderson, jr., et als., in which all such matters are fully set forth and the question of the sale of said roads for the payment of the balance of said purchase money fully involved, which suit was not finally decided till the latter part of 1876 and early in A. D. 1877, and by the decision and decrees in which the prior lien of their defendants on said railroads is recognized and affirmed.

Defendants are informed, and upon such information allege and state that the complainants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, united with said Littlefield, said Swepson, and said S. W. Hopkins & Co., in procuring the governor, Harrison Reed, to issue and deliver to said J., P. &. M. Co. the said State bonds (so called) and in all the acts and representations done and made by said J., P. & M. Co., its officers, and agents, and in the sale which said S. W. Hopkins & Co. made of said bonds; and that said North Carolina corporation received a portion of the proceeds of such sale on account of its pretended claim, and contracted with said Swepson and said Littlefield, and with authorized agents of said J., P. & M. Co., for the payment to said North Carolina corporation, by the parties upwards, such payment to be made on its said claim set up in the bill of complaint, and out of the money to be received by said S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the sale of said bonds, to enforce which payment, said North Carolina corporation brought suit in a court of the State of New York against said Hopkins & Co. and said J., P. & M. Co., and that the said complainant has otherwise participated in and recognized the issue and sale of said pretended State bonds, and recognized and ratified the sale and purchase of said Pensacola and Tallahassee Railroads and properties, and the ownership thereof, by Dibble and associates, and the Tallahassee and J., P. & M. Railroad Company, and ratified the payment of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, so claimed by it, and paid or surrendered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund. And these defendants submit and charge that the complainant is estopped by its action in the premises from claiming any interest in said bonds so surrendered, or any right against said railroad and property so sold, or against the trustees of the internal improvement fund, by, through, or on account of said bonds or any pretended interest therein.

And these defendants refer to and adopt as a part of the answer all and singular the statements made in an affidavit of George F. Drew, governor of Florida, filed May 19th, A. D. 1877 (the same being in the form of an answer), in the case in this honorable court, wherein the complainant herein is complainant, and George F. Drew, governor, and the Florida Central Railroad Company et al. are defendants, as to the acts and doings of complainants in participating in the issuing of said State bonds and the sale thereof, and receiving pay on its pretended claim from the proceeds of such bonds, and in ratifying and confirming the payment of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds by said Dibble and associates and Swepson on said purchase of said roads, and in recognizing the ownership of said railroads by said Dibble and associates, Tallahassee Railroad Company, and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, recognizing and adopting the acts and doings of said Swepson in connection with the surrender of such bonds to the trustees aforesaid.

And these defendants, further answering, say that if the complainants ever had any right or cause of action, for or on account of anything set forth in the said bill of complaint, that the same has become old and stale by reason of the great lapse of time since the same occurred; and that by reason of such lapse of time, and the peculiar 378 circumstances set forth and stated in the bill of complaint and this answer, that a court of equity should not and will not enforce such claim, if any it ever had, as against these defendants.

And these defendants, further answering, say that the said claim or cause of action accrued, if at all, more than four years previous to the commencement of this suit, and is barred, and that the same did not accrue within four years before the commencement of this suit. And these defendants, having fully answered, pray your honor to dismiss, with their costs in this behalf expended.

EXHIBIT A.

TALLAHASSEE, April 8, 1869.

The board met. All members present.

Resolved by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, That Calvin B. Dibble, of the firm of Dibble, Worth & Co., of New York City, and Geo. W. Swepson, of Raleigh, N. C., be and they are hereby appointed confidential agents of said trustees, with authority in each to take up the outstanding mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and that the attorney-general and comptroller are hereby directed to turn over to said Dibble & Swepson, or either of them, all the moneys that may be received by them in behalf of said trustees for said roads for the purpose set forth.

The board there adjourned.

FRANK W. WEBSTER,
Secretary.

EXHIBIT B.

The petition of Walter Gwynn respectfully sheweth to the Hon. P. W. White, judge of the second judicial circuit of the State of Florida, that he has in his hands, subject to the order of your honor, the sum of about $34,340.73; that said sum is claimed by H. Bisbee, jr., the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, D. P. Holland, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and a large number of other persons, amounting in all to twenty or thirty; that there is a protracted litigation going on in your honor's court as to the proper disposition to be made of said money which your petitioner fears may extend through many months; that during this litigation said money will be idle in the hands of your petitioner, bearing no interest, unless your honor shall otherwise direct. That should your honor authorize him to do so, your petitioner believes he could loan said money at eight per cent., secured by bonds of the State of Florida, taken as security at twenty per cent. below their market value. Your petitioner represents that said bonds taken at said rates would be ample security. Your petitioner represents that said money has been idle in his hands since 13th of February, 1877, so that at least two thousand dollars of interest have been already lost. To prevent further loss your petitioner prays that your honor will authorize him to loan out said money, on the terms above stated, for such length of time as your honor may direct.

WALTER GWYNN.

On reading the petition of Walter Gwynn—

It is ordered, That said Gwynn be, and is hereby, authorized to loan out the money mentioned in his said petition, at eight per cent., to be repaid on call upon one month's notice, and that said Gwynn take as security for said loan United States bonds, or State of Florida bonds at twenty per cent. below their market value.

380 It is further ordered, That said Gwynn's said petition be filed with the clerk of Leon circuit court, and kept with the files in the case of H. Bisbee, jr., vs. The Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund et al.

Done and ordered at Chambers this December 22d, 1877.

P. W. WHITE,
Judge Second Judicial Circuit of Florida.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

I, Council A. Bryan, clerk of the circuit court in and for the county aforesaid, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing two pages are true copies of the petition of Walter Gwynn and the order made upon the same.

EXHIBIT C.

Supreme Court of the United States. No. 3 (original). October term, 1876. Bill in equity.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA, COMPLAINANT,
vs.
EDWARD C. ANDERSON, JR., AND OTHERS, DEFENDANTS.

Mr. Justice BRADLEY delivered the opinion of the court:

Application has been made to the court by various parties in this case for the balance of the fund which occurred from the operations of the railroad whilst in the hands of the receiver, and which is now in the registry of this court. This fund grew out of and was the immediate fruit of the property itself, and should be handed over to the same parties to whom this was properly deliverable, as we have decided that the property should be delivered to the complainant, the State of Florida, for the purpose of observing the liens and trusts to which it is subject in the hands of the State according to the disposition thereof to be made by the State courts in the principal litigation. We think that the fund 381 on hand, after paying such sums as are properly chargeable thereon under our decree, should be disposed of in the same way.
We are of opinion that the claim presented in behalf of Lyhs & Gelson should, under the circumstances, be paid before the fund is paid over; also two small bills for supplies, which were reported by the receiver as having come to his hands, and the additional costs that have been incurred, including one per cent. commission to the register.

A decree will be made accordingly.

Final decree.

Supreme Court of the United States. No. 3 (original). October term, 1876.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA, COMPLAINANT,
vs.
EDWARD C. ANDERSON, JR., AND OTHERS, defendants.

Application being made in this case in behalf of a co-partnership firm by the name of Lyhs & Gilson for the payment of a bill for supplies furnished for the railroads in charge of Robert Walker, the receiver, shortly before his appointment, and which supplies came to his hands and possession as such receiver by the consent of Sherman Conant, to whom the said supplies had been consigned, and said bill having never been paid, and it seeming equitable and just, and the consent of the counsel for complainant being given thereto, it is ordered that the register do pay said bill to said firm of Lyhs & Gilson, or their attorney, amounting to the sum of fifteen hundred and ninety-five dollars and ninety-five cents.

And whereas the said receiver, in his twelfth annual report, states that a few days before he took possession of said railroad John C. Clark and S. B. Hubbard severally furnished to Jonathan C. Greely, former receiver, certain supplies, which all, or nearly all, came into the hands of said Walker and were used by him in repairs, said Clark's bill amounting to fifty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents and said Hubbard's to sixty-six dollars and ninety six cents; and said bills having never been paid, it is ordered that the register pay said bills to the said parties or their attorneys respectively.

It is further ordered that the register do also pay such additional costs of the officers of this court as have been incurred since the decree made on the first day of May last and not yet paid, and that he be authorized to retain one per cent. of all moneys received for his commission upon the same.

It is further ordered that the balance of moneys in the registry of the court be paid by the register to the treasurer of the State of 382 Florida, to be disposed of according to the trusts that have been or may be declared of and concerning the same by the supreme court of Florida or other court of said State having jurisdiction of the premises.

It is further ordered that the application of Daniel P. Holland for the said balance and surplus be denied.

Filed and entered December, 1876.

383 Amendment to bill of complaint.—Filed this 26th day of May, 1879, Phuys Walter, clerk.

384 Circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida,

vs.

GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida; the Florida Central Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. Sherwin, claiming to be the authorized agents of the four parties last named—John Collinson, Milton S. Littlefield, Walter Gwynn, and Thomas B. Coddington; and now, by way of amendment, vs. J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, and Adolph Engler, trustee, defendants.

To the honorable the judges of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida:

Your orator, The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, being a corporation and body politic, created by and under the laws of the State of North Carolina, and a citizen of the State of North Carolina, brings this its bill of complaint against George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; the Florida Central Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, corporations and bodies politic, created by and under the laws of the State of 385 Florida, and citizens of the State of Florida; and Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, and Adrian Stoop, citizens of Amsterdam, and subjects of the Kingdom of Holland; and Frank R. Sherwin, a citizen of New York, who claims to be the authorized agent of the four parties last named; John Collison, a citizen of London, England, and a subject of the Queen of Great Britain; and Thomas B. Coddington, a citizen of New York; and Milton S. Littlefield, and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, citizens of the State of Florida; and, by way of amendment, pursuant to leave prayed and granted, against J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, citizens of Amsterdam, and subjects of the Kingdom of Holland; and Adolph Engler, trustee, a citizen of the State of New York, residing in the city of New York. And further complaining, your orator says:

1st. That your orator, now and at all times averring, and hereby reaverring, all and singular, the matters in its said original bill alleged, with the like effect as if the said matters and things were each and severally hereby repeated verbatim and in detail, states and charges that the said last above named defendants, now made parties, claim to be the owners and holders of a certain portion of the bonds alleged to have been issued by the State of Florida under said act of the 28th of January, numbered above 3000, but which your orator, upon information, charges is not true, but, on the contrary, that none of said bonds numbered above 3000 ever were sold, and are not held by bona fide holders thereof for value.

2d. That the said defendants and each of them had full and due notice that said bonds, numbered above 3000, were illegally and fraud-
386 ulently put in circulation, and were used in violation of and contrary to law, and that no good and valid title was acquired to any of said so-called bonds of the State of Florida.

3d. That the said defendants never had any dealings with, or gave any credit to, the Florida Central Railroad Company, or paid or advanced any money on its bonds, and never bought the so-called bonds of the State of Florida in faith of the same being secured by the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, but bought the said so-called bonds on the credit of the State of Florida, which were declared to be issued to or for the use of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and not otherwise; and that all pretense or claim that said defendants or either of them ever dealt with, purchased, or paid for any bonds of the State of Florida, which were a charge upon or secured by the Florida Central Railroad Companies, is wholly and absolutely false.

4th. Your orator further states that it is advised, and so charges the facts to be, that the claims set up and pretended by the said defendants, as the holders of the said Florida State bonds, as against the said Florida Central Railroad Company is the result of a scheme and conspiracy entered into by and between one W. H. Gleason, Frank R. Sherwin, and Charles D. Willard, during the year 1876, who sought the said defendants in Amsterdam, in the Kingdom of the Netherlands, and inspired said defendants with the belief that they, the said Gleason, Sherwin, and Willard, could influence the governor of Florida to seize and make a forced sale of the said Florida Central Railroad together with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, for the benefit of said holders of repudiated State bonds, provided they, the said
387 Gleason, Sherwin, Willard, and their associates were permitted to organize a scheme for that purpose.

5th. That pursuant thereto, the said Frank R. Sherwin, by a false and fraudulent petition, wherein he falsely and corruptly alleged himself to be the agent of the said holders of said Florida State bonds, and especially to be the agent of the defendants, Boissevain, Mildeus, Zaddocks, and Stoop, did, on the 30th day of December, 1876, by such false oath and fraudulent means, induce the governor of Florida to seize the said Florida Central Railroad, and that just thirteen days thereafter, to wit, the 12th day of January, 1877, the said Sherwin, Willard, and Gleason, but acting in the name of Sherwin, together with Henry R. Jackson and Charles H. Simonton, at the city of Savannah, Georgia, entered into a scheme "for the reorganization of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company," wherein, among other things, it was agreed that the governor of Florida should make a forced sale of said railroads for the benefit of said combination, who should be at liberty to bid the said repudiated State bonds at such sale to be made by the governor, who was bound and required by the terms of said agreement, scheme, and adventure to accept in payment for said roads the said repudiated State bonds to the full amount of the principal and interest thereof, as cash, and to give such purchasers a complete title to said road and place them in actual possession thereof, as will more fully appear by a copy of said scheme called the "Memorandum plan," made part hereof, marked Schedule N.

6th. That pursuant to the purposes of said plan, the said governor recognized the said Sherwin and Willard and their associates as 388, 398 authorized to speak and act for such defendants as such bondholders as will better appear by the correspondence which transpired between said parties, or some of them, and the said governor and Geo. P. Rainey, attorney-general of Florida, dated the 10th, 12th, 19th, 20th, and 23d days of January, 1877, copies of which said letters are made part hereof, marked Schedule O, P, Q, R, and S.

7th. But your orator states the fact to be that at the date of the executing of said memorandum plan, which was a mere scheme for "wrecking" said railroads for the benefit of the parties thereto, and at the date of said correspondence neither the said Sherwin or Willard or either of them had any right or authority whatever from the said defendants or parties residing in Amsterdam, or either of them, to speak or act or make any oath for them, but on the contrary sought and procured said seizure by the governor so as to use the evidence thereof duly certified in an imposing form to lead the said so-called bondholders to believe that they, the said Sherwin and Willard, had great influence with and could control the action of the governor of Florida, and used such evidence of influence to induce a subsequent procuring of certain powers of attorney from said defendants herein named, residing in Amsterdam, which they did by the use of printed circulars, coupled with representations of the utter loss of everything on the part of said alleged holders of the repudiated Florida State bonds, unless they entered into the said "memorandum plan" so executed on the 12th day of January, 1877, but none of said powers of attorney were procured till about the 1st of March, 1877, and then were coupled with conditions and obligations not apparent on the face of such powers of attorney, but which your 399 orator is advised and so charges were to the effect that the said Sherwin, Willard, and their associates were to pay and defray all the expense and outlay of said proceeding, while they, the said so-called bondholders, were to be content to receive but about one-third of the par value of said bonds, without interest, out of a bond issue of twelve thousand dollars per mile to be put upon said railroads, after such forced sale of said roads should be made by the governor of Florida, who was to receive in payment therefor said repudiated State bonds as aforesaid, all of which proceedings was a mere scheme to appropriate the franchise and estate of said railroad to the utter destruction of said Florida Central Railroad Company and the great and irreparable injury of your orator as the lawful and equitable owner of a large majority of the capital stock thereof.

8th. Your orator is further advised and so charges that the said defendants or some of them are not the original purchasers of so-called Florida State bonds, but are engaged in a scheme of speculation therein, together with said Sherwin, Willard, and their associates, expecting to derive great profit therefrom by the forced sale of said railroad by the means and for the purposes aforesaid.

Wherefore, the premises considered, and inasmuch as your orator is without relief, save through the interposition of this honorable court sitting as a court of equity, your orator prays that a United States writ of subpœna may issue requiring the said J. Fred Schutte, Adrianus Prins, Jan Prins, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, Edward Isaac Asser, Dr. Nicolaas Jacob Den Tex, Heinrich Ulrici, and Adolph Engler to appear at a day named under a suitable penalty, and each upon his or their separate corporate oaths true and perfect answer make to all and singular the allegations of this bill of complaint.

400 And your orator prays, as in its said original bill it has prayed and prays, for all general and special relief, with a decree for its costs expended in this suit.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Joseph B. Stewart, being duly sworn, says that he is the attorney in fact of the western division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; that said company is a citizen of the State of North Carolina, having its business office and corporate seal at Ashville, in said State, and that neither its president nor any of its officers are within this district, and, therefore, cannot subscribe to or certify to this amended bill of complaint; that deponent has read the foregoing amended bill of complaint, and knows the contents thereof and the matter therein alleged; that his knowledge is derived from the inspection of records and from information from intelligent and well-advised sources known to the deponent; that the matters stated within deponent's own knowledge are true, and that the matters stated upon information he believes to be true.

401 SCHEDULE N.

To his excellency Hon. M. L. STEARNS,
Governor of the State of Florida:

The undersigned respectfully represents:

That he is the duly authorized and accredited agent in this country of the committee of foreign bondholders in the city of Amsterdam, in the kingdom of Holland, having in charge the interest of Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, and others of said kingdom, who are bona-fide purchasers and holders for a valuable consideration to a very large amount, to wit, to the amount of more than three million two hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued by said State in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company of said State, which bonds bear date the first day of January, 1870, payable on the first day of A. D. 1900, which were issued by the said State of Florida in pursuance of an act of the legislature thereof passed June 24th, 1869, and the act amendatory thereof, approved January 28, 1870, in which act and amendment it was and is, among other things, provided that in exchange for the bonds so issued by the said State the said companies should execute and deliver to the said State its own first-mortgage bonds, embracing all and singular its railroad property and appurtenances, and which latter-named bonds were so issued and delivered to the said State in compliance with the laws aforesaid, and are now held by the said State as a trustee for the benefit of the purchasers of the said State bonds as an additional security for the payment of the same.

The undersigned further represents, in the name and on behalf of the said committee of foreign bondholders and the holders of the said bonds of the State of Florida, that the said State has failed to pay the interest thereon at maturity, according to the tenor of its obligation, and has so failed to pay said interest for a period of more than twelve (12) months thereafter, or, that is to say, for the period of about five (5) years on all of said bonds.

The undersigned further represents that your excellency has, in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature of said State, taken possession of and advertised for sale the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, together with all its property and appurtenances.

The undersigned further represents that as yet no provisions have been made, as required by law, for the payment of the bonds of said State issued in exchange for the said bonds of the said the Florida Central Railroad Company; that your petitioner further says he has recently arrived in this country from Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, for the purpose hereinbefore referred to; that before so doing he spent much time in consultation with the said committee of foreign bondholders and its consul and various holders of the said bonds of the said State of Florida, and in the examination of the books, correspondence, and other data in the possession of said committee and its counsel pertaining to this subject, and your petitioner, from his own personal knowledge derived from such examination, says that there is now held and owned in the said kingdom of Holland more than three million two hundred thousand dollars of the said bonds of the State of Florida, 402 purchased and held for a valuable consideration, of which said amount more than two hundred thousand dollars of said bonds were issued by the said State in exchange for the bonds of the said The Florida Central Railroad Company, and that the said State has failed to pay any part of the interest thereon for a period of about five years.

Your petitioner further represents that he received a cablegram from the said Gideon Maria Boissevain, J. Wertheim, the latter being counsel for the said committee of foreign bondholders, and Charles Mueller, the American consul, dated at Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, on the 20th day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, which states the number of said State bonds sold absolutely in the said kingdom of Holland to be at least three million two hundred and six thousand dollars ($3,206,000), which said cablegram your petitioner begs leave to attach herewith as a part of his said petition.

Your petitioner further says that all of said State bonds were sold in the market through the said Gideon Maria Boissevain, one of the late leading and principal banking houses in the said city of Amsterdam, and that the said Charles Mueller, now and for many years past the American consul at the said city of Amsterdam, has extensive knowledge of the sale in said market of said bonds of the State of Florida by reason of having been selected to make an examination of the books, papers, and other data in the possession of the said banking house of the said Boissevain relating to the sale of the same. Your petitioner, in the name and on behalf of the holders and owners of the said bonds of the said State to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars or more, issued in exchange for the bonds of the said The Florida Central Railroad Company, therefore demands that your excellency shall, with due diligence, make provision for the prompt payment of said bonds and overdue coupons thereon, and to this end that your excellency shall enter upon and take possession of the Florida Central Railroad, together with all of its appurtenances and franchise, and sell the same at public auction for the benefit of the holders and bona-fide owners of said bonds, in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature hereinbefore referred to.

Your petitioner further represents to your excellency that he will hold himself ready at any and all times to maintain and make proof in such manner as your excellency shall see fit to indicate as to the holders and owners of said bonds of the said State of Florida; and your petitioner will ever pray.

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
County and City of Washington, ss:

I, Jos. T. K. Plant, a commissioner of the State of Florida for said District, certify that before me personally came Frank R. Sherwin, who, being first duly sworn, says the facts set forth as of his own knowledge in the foregoing petition are true, and those stated on information and belief he believes to be true.

Witness my hand and official seal Sept 22, 1876.

[L. S.] JOS. T. K. PLANT,
Commissioner of the State of Florida.

403 Received at Washington, Sept. 20, 1876, 14, 8.26 a. m. Cable five. Sherwin, Washington. Up to eighteen seventy-three absolute sale here known of Florida bonds thirty-two hundred six. Boissevain, Wertheim, Mueller, American consul, aiteen, Amsterdam.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

Attorney-General, Florida.

404 SCHEDULE O.

STATE OF FLORIDA:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 10, 1877.

SIR: The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad having been seized and advertised for sale under the act of February, A. D. 1870, entitled an act to alter and amend an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State, approved June 24th, A. D. 1869," and the act of June 24th, 1869, so amended, it is my intention to sell the same according to the present advertisement, and such intention will be carried out unless, upon representation of the bondholders, it should be shown that such sale should be postponed for a very short time. It is not the intention of this office to encumber its administration with the operation or management of a road which it is the purpose of the law it should seize only for the purpose of selling.

As to the Florida Central Railroad, I am without sufficient testimony of there being any bona fide holders for value of State bonds issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and shall not seize the Florida Central Railroad and property by the lien of its bonds held by the State until such evidence of bona fide ownership as would at least satisfy a judicial tribunal has been presented by such bona fide owners for value of such State bonds or their duly authorized agents.

I must respectfully say that the affidavit made by yourself, filed as to your being the representative of the foreign bondholders, is not sufficient evidence of such agency. I would not be willing to act on such evidence in such matters coming from any one claiming to be such agent.

Should I seize the Florida Central Railroad, I shall sell it just as soon as the law permits. All evidence of any matters involving the roads, their seizure or sale, must be submitted in writing.

It is my desire that the State be released as soon as possible of all railroad trusts and complications, and my disposition shall be to perform all my duties promptly.

Governor of Florida.

TO FRANK R. SHERWIN, Esq.,
Tallahassee, Fla.

I, George P. Rainey, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a correct copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General Florida.

405 SCHEDULE P.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 12, 1877.

To his excellency GEORGE F. DREW,
Governor of Florida :

SIR: The undersigned beg leave to call your attention to the fact that they are the attorneys in fact of a very large majority of the holders of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company of Florida, and that a plan has been agreed upon between the holders of said bonds and Frank R. Sherwin, the agent of the holders of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which it is believed can and will be carried into effect, thereby resulting in the return to the State of its bonds now held in Europe, and the speedy settlement of the litigation, and place the railroad upon a substantial business basis. We are gratified to learn that it is your intention, as trustee for the holders of said State bonds, to sell the said railway property at as early a day as practicable for the benefit of all concerned, thus rendering a great public service to the State as well as an act of justice, long deferred, to both classes of bondholders.

With consideration of high respect, we remain, sir, very respectfully,

HENRY R. JACKSON,
CHARLES H. SIMONTON.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

Attorney-General.

406 SCHEDULE Q.

NEW YORK, January 19, 1877.

To his excellency GEORGE F. DREW,
Governor of Florida :

SIR: I have the honor to enclose herewith the affidavit of Gideon Maria Boissevain, of Amsterdam, Holland, explicitly stating the number of Florida bonds purchased and now held there by bona fide holders. It confirms my affidavit in all details except that the number of bonds which are a lien upon the Florida Central Railroad, proves to be 208 instead of 206. Mr. Willard will also transmit you from Washington the certificate of the American consul at Amsterdam, corroborating the affidavit of Boissevain, which I trust, when received by you, will be deemed sufficient evidence to warrant the seizure and advertisement of the Florida Central Railroad and the postponement of the sale of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad to take place on the same day.

I remain, with great respect, your obedient servant.

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

P. S.—I would request that your reply to this be addressed to me, care of Mr. Willard, at Washington, who will read and forward it.—F. R. S.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General.

407 SCHEDULE R.

(Personal.)

NEW YORK, January 20, 1877.

To his excellency GEORGE F. DREW:

DEAR GOVERNOR: I desire before sailing to reiterate to you personally, in writing, the assurance which I have verbally given, that the railroads reorganized by me will be managed in a liberal spirit, with the view, so far as may be consistent with business principles, of fostering and developing State interests. To be explicit, it is my belief that the permanent prosperity and increasing value of the road can be best secured by competing sharply with all rivals for the Gulf and up river trade, and by favoring Jacksonville and Fernandina as our outlets, and discriminating in their favor, if at all, as between them and Georgia ports. I have said as much to Gen. Jackson, and he recognizes it as impossible that I should favor Savannah. My plans for the development of the State are comprehensive, and render me not less earnest than yourself in the desire and determination to advance the material prosperity by every legitimate means, and I am confident you will find the endeavors of my associates and myself, to that end, a valuable aid to your administration, under which, I predict, Florida will enjoy great prosperity.

With every assurance of esteem and support,
I am, sir, faithfully yours,
FRANK R. SHERWIN.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

(Signed.) GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General Florida.

407½ SCHEDULE S.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 23, 1877.

Hon. GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney-General, Tallahassee, Fla.:

DEAR SIR: The enclosed certificate of Charles Mueller, U. S. consul at Amsterdam, previously referred to, states of his own knowledge that "Boissevain and co-operators had, in good faith and at fair prices, purchased of one John Collinson, 3,206 of above named bonds of Florida." This, in connection with the sworn statement of Boissevain, previously mailed to you by me from New York, would now seem to be full and explicit enough to establish the fact that there are 208 of the State bonds now in the hands of bona fide holders, and I therefore trust you may seize the Central Road and advertise the same for sale on the first Monday in May, and postpone the sale of the J., P. & M. R. R., to take place at the same time.

Hoping that I may hear from you upon this subject at your earliest convenience, I remain, very respectfully,

C. D. WILLARD.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

Attorney-General, Florida.

408 U. S. circuit court, northern district of Florida.

vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR, TRUSTEE, &C., The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company et al.

To the honorable the judges of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida:

Your orator, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, a body corporate, created by the laws of the State of North Carolina, and a citizen of said State, brings this its amended and sup'lemental bill of complaint, leave having been granted against the defendants George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, an ex-officio trustee for the defendants, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adri-
409 an J. Meldens, Joseph Zadok, Adrian Stoop, J. Fred. Schutte, Jans Prins, Elia Fuld, and others, subjects of the king of the Netherlands, and Adolph Engler, trustee, &c., a citizen of the State of New York, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; Milton S. Littlefield, Walter Gwynn, citizens of the State of Florida, and by way of sup'lement and amendment your orator complaining, says:

1st. Your orator affirms and reavers all and singular the matters and things in its original bill filed in this cause and relief therein prayed, except as hereinafter modified or amended.

2d. That since filing your orator's said original bill it first came to its knowledge, and it so charges the fact to be, that no conveyance or transfer of the franchises, properties, or estates of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which were sold on the 20th day of March, 1869, by the trustees of the internal improve-410 ment fund of the State of Florida, and purchased by F. Dibble and associates, as in your orator's said original bill set forth ever was made or executed to the said Tallahassee Railroad Company or the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or either of them; and that no title to said roads ever vested in said companies last named or either of them; on the contrary your orator alleges and charges the fact to be that by a deed executed by said F. Dibble and associates on the 22d day of April, 1869, the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, together with the two deeds conveying said roads by the trustees of the internal improvement fund to said Dibble and associates, dated April, 1869, were conveyed, transferred, and delivered to George W. Swepson, the trustee of your orator, in whom the title still vests for the use and benefit of your orator; and that the said Tallahassee Railroad Company or the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company have not now and never had any title or estate 411 which could be charged with the bonds alleged to have been exchanged by said last named company for the alleged bonds of the State of Florida, set forth and described in your orator's original bill & claimed to be held or owned by the defendants, or some of them.

Wherefore your orator prays that this honorable court may decree and adjudge that the title to said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads is still vested in said Swepson, as trustee for the use and benefit of your orator, and for the payment of the said $472,065; and that there was no title or estate conveyed or vested in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which could be charged with or held subject to the bonds delivered by said last named company in exchange for the alleged bonds of the State of Florida, which are held or claimed to be held by the defendants or some of them.

412 Your orator further prays that the said original bill may be further amended by striking out subdivisions F and G of the tenth prayer of said original bill on page 46.

Your orator prays as in its original bill it has prayed and for all general and special relief.

JOS. B. STEWART,
Sol. for Comp't.

413 In the circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida, in equity.

The joint and separate answer of J. Fred. Schutte, Jans Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, H. Van Booven, Dr. Nicholas Jacob den Tex, H. J. Brunnekruff, J. H. Grem, Willenmier Van Tyer Van Taar, C. Both, L. L. Wertheim, Wysman de Voogt, T. P. Roelopy, Jan Tichelaar, jr., Jacobus Wertheim, P. Van Reysen, Mey de Benedithy Beer, Gerard A. Heinekan, T. Colom, Charles Gosewinckel, Boon Hartsink, Van Tyen, N. J. Franket, Johannes, Willem Donk, Vander Stoop & Berg, defendants to the bill of complaint of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company complainant against them, the Florida Central Railroad Company and others, defendants.

These defendants saving and reserving unto themselves all and all manner of benefit and advantage of exceptions to the many errors, uncertainties, and insufficiencies of the said bill in complaint, for 414 answer unto so much and such parts of said bill of complaint as they are advised is or are material for them to make answer unto, answering say:

That each and every alligation, statement, matter, and thing in said bill of complaint stated or set forth is untrue, and these defendants expressly deny the same.

These defendants, further answering, say that on the 23rd day of May, A. D. 1877, these defendants exhibited their bill of complaint in this honorable court against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, two corporations created by and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, and others, defendants, a copy of which bill of complaint is hereto attached and marked Exhibit No. 1.

And these defendants, further answering, say that all alligations, statements, matters, and things alleged stated and set forth in their said bill of complaint are true; and these defendants pray that 415 the copy of said bill of complaint hereto attached may be taken and considered as a part of this their answer, with the same effect as if the said matters, allegations, and things therein contained were herein, here and now repeated and set forth in proper and apt language in that behalf. Without this that there is any other matter or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered unto, is true to the knowledge and belief of these defendants; and these defendants humbly pray to be hence dismissed with their costs most unjustly and unreasonably sustained.

J. Franket, Johannes Willem Donk, Vander Stoop & Berg, who are aliens and subjects of the King of the Netherlands, bring this, their bill of complaint, in their own behalf, and in behalf of such other persons, having like claims, who may come in and be made parties plaintiffs herein, and contribute to the expenses thereof,

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of said State, and a citizen thereof, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, corporations created by and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, and citizens thereof, Edward Lewis, Patrick Houstoun, Robert H. Gamble, Charles E. Dyke, sr., Edward M. L'Engle, Robert Walker, Clayton A. Cowgill, George W. Betton, directors in said last mentioned corporation, and who are citizens of the State of Florida; James M. Baker, George R. Foster, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, who are citizens of the State of Florida, and Joseph B. Stewart, who is a citizen of the 417 State of New York, claiming to be directors in said Florida Central Railroad Company; Francis Vose, who is a citizen of the State of New York; M. K. Jessup & Co., who are citizens of the same State; Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbes, who are citizens of the State of Florida; Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, who are citizens of the State of Georgia; the Peoples' Bank, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of South Carolina, and a citizen of said State; William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams, who are citizens of the State of South Carolina; George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of the State of Florida; George P. Raney, attorney-general; Walter Gwynn, treasurer; Columbus Drew, comptroller; George F. Drew, governor, which officers are trustees of the internal improvement fund, and herein sued as such; Milton S. Littlefield, in his own right; Robert J. Washington, who is a citizen of the State of Virginia.

And thereupon your orators complain and say:

I. That on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, acting under the powers conferred upon them by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, took possession of and sold at public auction the railroads and property which belonged to and were used by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which railroads extended from Lake City to Quincy, with a branch to Monticello, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks. Said sale was made because of non-compliance with the third section of said law.

II. That said sale was fairly conducted, and made in strict com-418 pliance with the provisions of said law; that the aggregate amounts for which said roads were sold was the sum of one million four hundred and fifteen thousand dollars, which sum exceeded the total amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which were issued by said corporations under the said law.

III. That F. Dibble and associates purchased said roads at said sale, and paid the purchase-money, and the said trustees made deeds under their seals, by which they conveyed said property to said purchasers, reciting therein the payment of the purchase-moneys, which deeds they delivered to said Dibble, and immediately placed him in possession of said railroads and property.

IV. That complainants have been informed within a short period that part of said purchase-money was accepted by said trustees in said bonds issued by the said corporations, which they immediately cancelled, and the balance was placed by said trustees in the hands of Geo. W. Swepson, as agent of said trustees, with directions to purchase and deliver to them for cancellation the outstanding of said bonds of said companies, which were entitled to payment out of said fund; that said Swepson was a man in good credit, reputed to be worth at least a half million of dollars, and had that amount in Florida; that the said trustees acted in the premises within the scope of their authority and in good faith, and to carry into execution the powers with which they were vested by law.

V. That said Dibble and associates afterward became incorporated by an act of the legislature of Florida, under the name and style of Tallahassee Railroad Company, for the purpose of operating the said railroads, to which they had so acquired titles. Afterwards the said Tallahassee Railroad Company and said Dibble and associates conveyed the said railroads to The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, of which Geo. W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield owned nearly the entire stock.

VI. That in the year 1870, the last named company, which will 419 hereafter be spoken of as the J. P. & M. Co., obtained from the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, four thousand bonds of one thousond dollars each, which were issued by said governor in accordance with the laws incorporating said J. P. & M. Co., and which bonds purported to obligate the State of Florida to pay to the bearer thereof one thousand dollars on each bond, with interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, a copy of one of which bonds is hereto annexed, marked A, and prayed to be referred to.

VII. The said J. P. & M. Co. delivered to the governor of said State, in exchange for said four thousand bonds which he received from him, a like amount of bonds, three thousand of which were executed by the said J. P. & M. Co., and one thousand by the Florida Central Railroad Company. Said bonds were for the sum of one thousand dollars each, bearing interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, payable to the State of Florida. Copies of each description of said bonds are filed herewith, marked B and C, and prayed to be referred to. The execution and delivery of said bonds was done by said companies in order to comply with the terms of the laws incorporating the said J. P. & M. Co.

VIII. That when the said bonds were executed by the Florida Central Company, Milton S. Littlefield owned a large majority of its stock, and he had contracted to buy from Edward Houstoun, J. P. Sanderson, and others, stock owned by them, which, added to his own, constituted all the shares of said company, except about four hundred. The whole number was 5,500. That such purchases were made by said Littlefield for the purpose of making a consolidation of the Florida Central with the J. P. & M. Co., which object was known to the parties from whom Littlefield purchased said stock, and they sold to aid therein; that the one thousand bonds issued as bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and delivered to the governor, were caused to be executed and delivered by the joint action of said Houstoun and said other stockholders, in order to enable the said J. P. & M. Co. to obtain from the governor the Florida State bonds (so-called), and with the understanding 420 and agreement that said bonds should be sold, and said Littlefield should make payment for the stock purchased from said Houstoun and said other stockholders out of the proceeds, which he in fact did, with the exception of the stock which he purchased from said Gamble, for which he paid in part only; that the holders of some shares of stock in said Florida Central Company, other than those beforementioned, although they had notice of the acts and intentions of said Littlefield, Houstoun, and said other stockholders in the foregoing paragraph set forth, took no steps to prevent the execution thereof, and remained inactive and acquiescent until long after the sale which was made of the Florida State bonds (socalled), as is hereinafter set forth; that the said Littlefield and the others who were connected with him in the management of the J., P. & M. Co., immediately after the issuance of the Florida State bonds (socalled), took possession of and operated the line of railroads which formerly belonged to the Florida Central, which lies between Jacksonville and Lake City, and treated it as constituting, with the roads formerly belonging to the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, and which had become the property of the J., P. & M. Co., in the manner before stated, as the line of railroads of the said J., P. & M. Co., and took and disposed of the earnings of the whole. In the year 1871 said J., P. & M. Co. conveyed the whole of said roads, by deed, to trustees to pay debts due by the J., P. & M. Co., in which deed the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City was treated and conveyed as the property of the J., P. & M. Co. The said trustees took possession of and operated the said road conveyed to them for a considerable space of time, and without any interference on the part of any bona-fide stockholders of the said Florida Central Company.

IX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. sent the bonds which they obtained from the governor of Florida to England and sold nearly all through an agent in the city of London. Such sale was made to a banker in said city at the price of about one hundred and thirty-eight pounds sterling per bond. The said buyer afterwards resold the said bonds through bankers in the city of Amsterdam, Holland, by whom they were 421 offered for sale to the public in said city and in other parts of the Netherlands, and which said bonds were dealt in on the stock exchange of Amsterdam as other public securities were, in full reliance by all purchasers upon the representations which were made in respect to such bonds, which are hereinafter set forth and stated; that said bonds bore a good price so long as the interest was paid thereon, bringing at one time as high as eighty-one per cent. gold in United States coin.

X. The said J., P. & M. Co., through its agents in London, represented to the public in England, Holland, Germany, and France, that the said bonds were veritable and lawful obligations of the State of Florida; that the interest thereon would be punctually paid by said State; that there was provided by law of said State as security for the payment of said bonds a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville west; which line was represented to be owned by the J., P. & M. Co. alone. That the banker by whom they were purchased in London repeated the same representation to the bankers in Amsterdam, and they to the public in the Netherlands, and to complainants, as well as to others who purchased, sold, and dealt in said bonds.

XI. That complainants are the owners of a large number of the said bonds issued by Governor Harrison Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co., and sold by its agents as before set forth, which bonds are numbered between number one and number three thousand two hundred; the numbers belonging to each of complainants are stated in affidavits made by them before the American consul in Amsterdam, which affidavits are filed herewith and are prayed to be referred to as a part of this bill. Complainants are ready to produce said bonds when required, and will be able to produce them upon their arrival in the United States, they being on the way from Amsterdam to New York, to which latter place they have been sent by complainants to Adolphe Engler, as agent of complainants, entrusted by them to deal with said bonds as may be determined to be for the interest of complainants by their agent, Charles D. Willard, and their counsel. That interest from the 1st day of January, 1873, is due and unpaid on said bonds, and they 422 have applied to the governor of the State of Florida to enter upon and seize and take possession of the line of railroads and property thereto pertaining, before described, as belonging to the said J., P. & M. Co., including an extension of said railroad, which has been constructed by the said company from Quincy to the Apalachicola River since the year 1870; and complainants say they have a right to have said railroads seized and sold for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds held by them; and in case they should desire to become purchasers at said sale they should be permitted to make payment with their said bonds as far as they may be sufficient therefor.

That interest was paid on said bonds after they were sold up to January 1st, 1873, semi-annually, by a trust company in the city of New York, which was appointed by the governor of Florida as the fiscal agent of the State to pay such interest; that the said governor gave notice to the holders of such bonds of such appointment; that it was represented to the persons who dealt in said bonds, including complainants, that the money for the payment of such interest was provided by the State; that owing to such an occurrence and such information, the belief that such bonds were lawfully issued by the governor of Florida was greatly strengthened, and full faith was also given to all that had been represented by said J., P. & M. Co. as to the extent of its own line of railroads.

XII. Complainants are informed that defendants, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simpkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Louis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, the People's Bank, William McBurney, and Winthrop B. Williams, together with other persons whose names and citizenship are to complainants unknown, allege that they are the holders of the outstanding and unpaid bonds which were issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies under the provision of the 3d section of the internal improvement act of 1855, and that there is a subsisting lien on the railroads which were sold by said trus- 423 tees to F. Dibble and associates for the payment of said bonds, and said defendants at times assert that the original lien and power of sale given by the act aforesaid is still in force; and other times they assert that the said F. Dibble and associates did not pay to said trustees the full amount of said purchase money, and that there remains

due on such account the sum of $472,065 and interest. And that said trustees, as vendors, have in equity a lien on said railroad and property for such sum of money, and they have demanded of said trustees that they proceed to enforce such lien irrespective of the paramount lien which complaints herein assert to exist for payment of their bonds. All of which pretenses and claims, made by the holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, complainants allege to be without support in fact, and they are advised that they are not well-founded in law. Complainants insist that the holders of said bonds are bound by the acts of said trustees; that such acts were done in the exercise of powers conferred upon them by the law of 1855, and that even if they acted in bad faith and corruptly when they executed and delivered the said deed of said property to said F. Dibble, and entrusted said Swepson with said money and accepted his obligation to purchase for them said outstanding bonds, complainants, as bona fide purchasers, as they allege themselves to be, without actual notice of any wrong or fraud on the part of said trustees or of said Dibble and associates, or of said Swepson, and claiming, as they do, under the title created by the contract made between the said Dibble and associates and the J., P. & M. Co., and the subsequent contract and trust created by the acts of the legislature which incorporated the said J., P. & M. Co., are not affected thereby, nor liable to be postponed to any vendor's lien in favor of said trustees, such as is asserted to exist by said P. & G. and Talla. bondholders; that the complainants' right to subject said railroad to payment of their bonds arises out of conveyances of the legal title made by the purchasers from the said trustees and those to whom they conveyed, and that there is no privity of contract between complainants and the said trustees. Complainants claim under the legal title, and therefore have a higher and better equity to payment out of said railroad and property than any which can be set up by the holders 424 of said unpaid P. & G. and Talla. bonds, and complainants insist that the P. & G. and Talla. bondholders have failed to cause the said trustees to sue the said Swepson to recover the amount due by him, and for which said trustees hold his written obligation, and complainants insist that until such proceeding has been taken and has proved to be ineffectual, and until it appears that said trustees have not lost their remedy against said Swepson by reason of any laches on their part, the said bondholders who assert that they are entitled to a lien on said railroad superior to the equities which are by complainants stated herein to exist in their favor, should be enjoined from maintaining or asserting any such lien.

Complainants insist that no such claim, as is attempted to be set up by said bondholders, should be entertained in a court of equity, because of the time which has elapsed since the happening of the events and the doing of the acts by said trustees and said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, upon which the said bondholders rely to sustain their claim, all of which transactions took place in the year 1869, and as to which the persons by whom the outstanding bonds of the P. & G. and Talla. Co's. were owned at the time had full notice, and that said Vose and many of said defendants, having like securities, have purchased within a short time for the purposes of speculation and litigation with full notice. That the persons who held said bonds in March, 1869, had notice of the transactions herein stated in relation to said railroads, which were done by said Dibble and associates, and also of the passage of the laws disposing of and transferring the said railroads, the creation of said Tallahassee and of said J., P. & M. Co's., and the authority given by law to the latter company to create a lien on said railroads and under which lien it is that complainants seek payment of their bonds. That as such persons had such knowledge and information and did not take any proceedings, such as they might have taken, to prevent the J., P. & M. Co. from doing what they were authorized to do by their charter, they, the said holders of P. & G. and Talla. bonds, have no right now to object to any of the acts that were done by said corporation under such authority of law, but that they are estopped to deny the legal consequences which arise out of such acts. Complainants state that 425 they are advised that the said P. & G. and Talla. bonds never constituted a lien on the roads owned by said companies for any sum of money other than the principal of such bonds; that the interest thereof was secured by the land trust fund created by the act of 1855, and complainants are informed, and therefore allege, that said fund is ample security for such interest, and they insist that the holders of said bonds, whatever claim they may have, should be required to exhaust such fund before resorting to a security such as the railroad, which is not common to them and to complainants. Complainants are advised that the said bondholders had the right to have the sinking fund, which was provided by the act of 1855, collected and invested in the manner specified in said act, and in case of any loss of any part thereof by the acts of the trustees, that they had a remedy against them and also a right to have the loss made good to them out of the proceeds of the sale of the land conveyed to the trustees by the State, and complainants insist that said bondholders should be restricted to such sinking fund and to such remedies for the collection and restoration thereof as are herein stated to exist and open to be pursued by them.

XIII. That the defendants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, Edward M. L'Engle, falsely pretending that they were bona fide holders of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and claiming that they were legally authorized to elect a president and directors of said company, held an illegal meeting and chose Edward M. L'Engle president, and James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Joseph B. Stewart, Charles B. Fenwick, and George R. Foster, directors, none of whom were stockholders in said corporation; and they appointed Charles B. Fenwick secretary, and George R. Foster treasurer thereof; that immediately after they issued a large number of certificates of stock represented to be stock of Florida Central Railroad Company in favor of themselves and sundry other persons who have combined with them to defraud the State and the public at large, and especially to vex, harrass, and 426 injure complainants; that they have formed a plan, and are about to make and issue bonds in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and to execute a mortgage of the railroad and property which was formerly owned by said corporation, and intend sharing such bonds among themselves with the intention to dispose of them for money; that said George W. Swepson has some interest in said scheme, and is to receive a large number of said bonds.

That said defendants, Littlefield, L'Engles, Sawyer, Stewart, Baker, Lawton, and others, pretend that they formed such organization and held such election under a judgment rendered by the judge of the fourth judicial circuit court of the State of Florida. Complainants are informed, and so allege, that the judgment of said court was procured by fraud. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, an insolvent corporation, acting by one Jos. B. Stewart, filed a petition for mandamus in said court, and by collusion with Milton S. Littlefield and said last named defendants, and others to complainants unknown, alleged said North Carolina corporation to be a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad Company; and that said Littlefield and others were made defendants in such mandamus proceeding, and who owned no stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and they made no resistance to the prayer of the petition, but falsely answered that they were such stockholders; that no persons who were bona fide stockholders in said Florida Central Railroad Company were parties to such proceedings; that the persons who participated were not holders of bona fide certificates of shares of stock in said corporation, as will fully appear by the entries on the transfer book and stock ledger of said company up to the tenth day of April, 1872. And complainants insist that said judgment of said State court should be adjudged and held to be void because of the fraud in procuring the same. And the said defendants, Milton S. Littlefield, Joseph B. Stewart, N. K. Sawyer, James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company should be enjoined from asserting themselves to be stockholders in or officers of said company, and that they be ordered to refrain from issuing any of the bonds, and from the execution of 427 the mortgage before alleged to be in course of preparation, and if any such papers have been executed that they should be directed to deliver them to an officer of this court to be designated herein; that the said defendants should be also required to deliver to said officer any seal in their possession which has been used by them or by any one under their authority as the seal of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

XIV. That the governor of the State of Florida has seized the whole line of railroad and the property thereunto pertaining, which was formerly owned by the Florida Central Railroad Company, as well as that from Lake City to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Marks, and has advertised the same for sale; but he has described in the advertisement the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City as the property of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and has stated that said road is seized, and that he will sell the same for default made by said company on bonds delivered by it to the governor of the State. Complainants are satisfied that the now governor of the State deems such proceedings proper; but complainants are advised that so far as they are concerned they have the right to demand that the said railroad between Jacksonville and Lake City should be seized by the governor and sold as forming with the railroad west of Lake City an entire line, and as the property of the said J., P. & M. Co.

XV. That the governor of Florida declares in the advertisement made by him, in which he gives notice of the intended sale of the railroad from Lake City to Quincy and the branch to Monticello, and that from Tallahassee to St. Marks, that such sale will be made subject to a prior lien thereon for unpaid purchase money claimed to be due by the holders of the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and which they claim are secured as is hereinbefore set forth. Complainants insist that the governor has erred in declaring that such lien exists, and that it was his duty to make sale of said railroads and property clear of all lien or claim of any kind, and as being bound solely to pay the said bonds which complainants own and 428 which they seek in this proceeding to obtain payment of; and that the governor should be instructed by this honorable court so to proceed in the exercise of the power of sale vested in him by the acts which incorporated the J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are satisfied that the governor is ready and willing so to do when directed by the decree of this honorable court.

XVI. That the complainants being averse to litigation, and fearing that if driven to assert what they are advised are their full rights in a court of equity, they would be subjected to great cost and delay, and being informed that said railroads and property thereto pertaining were greatly dilapidated and in bad condition to carry freight and passengers, and that no means of placing said property in proper condition by suitable construction and repair existed, sought, by making concessions to the persons by whom the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies are owned, to have a speedy sale of said last-mentioned railroads, and to that end they authorized an agent to act for them in the United States and to join in a plan, a copy of which is hereto annexed, marked D. And that a majority of the holders of said bonds have assented to said plan of settlement, but the said defendant, Francis Vose, combined with a minority of said bondholders and took such legal proceedings as prevents such compromise settlement from being carried into execution. Complainants are willing to consent that a decree be made and entered in this cause, making provision for the sale of the said railroads and property upon the basis in said plan contained, provided that the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, and the holders of the said bonds issued by the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, agree that such decree be made.

XVII. Complainants are informed that some time in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five, the persons who held a majority of the shares of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company at the time when said transactions took place, whereby the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City became consolidated with that owned by said J., P. & 429 M. Co., and by which means such railroad became pledged for the payment of complainants' bonds, met in Tallahassee and elected certain persons, viz, said Edward Lewis, B. Williams (now deceased), Patrick Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, C. E. Dyke, sr., E. M, L'Engle, R. Walker, C. A. Cowgill, and G. W. Betton as directors of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; that such persons took upon themselves such offices and acted therein; that no president of said corporation was attempted to be elected, but that Robert Walker was authorized to act in lieu of such president. Complainants are advised that it is not material to them whether said corporation was dissolved by the proceedings which are hereinbefore set forth, as to the consolidation of said railroads, and they do not, therefore, ask in this their bill that such dissolution be declared to have taken place, unless the same be necessary to enable the said complainants to obtain payment of their bonds; and complainants allege that if such Florida Central Railroad Company is still in existence as a corporation that the persons before mentioned are the only persons who can by law represent said company, because, as complainants are informed, there has been no meeting of the persons who held said stock in said company since that last before stated.

XVIII. That said persons acting in said capacities were parties in a certain suit commenced in the State circuit court, and finally determined in the supreme court of the State, wherein the State of Florida and trustees of the internal improvement fund were complainants in the first court, in which suit questions of law and fact were presented for adjudication, and which were determined by said supreme court touching the liability of the line of railroad and property between Jacksonville and Lake City for the payment of the bonds delivered by the governor of the State to the J., P. & M. Co., before mentioned, and as to whether the said Florida Central Railroad Company was or not, by the acts done by its stockholders and directors, estopped from denying such liability as against the claim which complainants have hereinbefore alleged in respect to such line of railroad for payment of said bonds. The said supreme court, by its judgment rendered in said cause, determined such questions of law and fact in favor of 430 the claim so made by complainants, and they are advised and insist that they are entitled to rely upon, and they do herein claim and rely upon said judgment of said supreme court as a conclusive judgment in their favor as to such matters, and as binding on the Florida Central Railroad Company, if there be such corporation, and upon all persons who claim to be owners of stock therein.

XIX. That Daniel P. Holland, who was likewise a defendant in the said case in the State circuit court, prosecuted an appeal to the supreme court from a judgment rendered by said circuit court in said cause, adverse to said Holland, which appeal was finally heard and determined by the said supreme court; that among other questions of law and fact therein made and decided, the said supreme court by its judgment determined that the acts incorporating the said J., P. & M. Co., the issuance of said bonds by Governor Reed to it, the sale thereof by said company to the complainants and others, created a trust in favor of the bona fide holders of said bonds that a lien on the railroad and property for the payment of said bonds existed, and that a power of sale by said acts of incorporation conferred on the governor of the State must be executed by him for the purpose and in the manner in said acts specified; and complainants are advised and insist that thay are entitled to and do plead and rely on such judgment in support of the claim which they herein allege to exist as to such lien, to the existence of such trusts, and as to their right to have the line of railroad, which formerly belonged to the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, sold by the governor in the manner and for the purposes which they have hereinbefore alleged in respect thereof. And complainants produce herewith the judgments of the said supreme court in said several cases, and pray leave to refer thereto as a part of their bill of complaint.

XX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. was a party to said suit, so brought by the State and the trustees aforesaid, and that they appear' therein, and answered the complaints filed in said suit, and admitted the issuance of said bonds by the governor of the State, and did not deny 431 its liability to pay said bonds, nor that there was a lien existing thereof, such as was determined to exist by said supreme court; said answer was sworn to by said Milton S. Littlefield, as the president of said company; that complainant produces herewith a true copy of said answer, and prays leave to refer thereto, when necessary.

XXI. Complainants have procured the whole of said line of railroad, its workshops, depots, and rolling stock, to be examined by a competent and skillful railroad engineer, who reports that the said property is not fit for the safe transportation of passengers and freight, and cannot be profitably operated therefor; that the iron rails are badly worn, the cross-ties decayed; that the rolling stock is insufficient and old, and inadequate; that it will cost a large sum to put such property in proper condition, more than the net earnings of said railroad will furnish, and that if said road is put in good working order, a large increase of such net earnings may be reasonably expected. Complainants are assured that money and material to put such road and property in good working order can be obtained, provided that such means when advanced by any persons can be secured to be paid out of the money arising from the sale of said road, and the same made a lien, as costs in this cause by an order of this honorable court directing the doing of such work, and authorizing the procurement of the necessary material and money therefor. Complainants are advised that the governor of the State has not the power to make any contract for such purposes, and that in consequence he cannot procure the necessary material and money; and complainants submit to this honorable court whether or not the governor of the State should be invested by an order made in this cause with the powers of a receiver to this court, and with authority and power to obtain money and purchase material for the purposes before stated, and provision made in said order providing for the needful security for payment of the liabilities to be incurred in such behalf. Complainants are informed that there is now in the hands of the treasurer of the State of Florida a sum of money amounting to about thirty thousand dollars, paid to him by Robert Walker, receiver, by order and direction of the Supreme Court of the United States, made in the cause 432 decided in said court, in which E. C. Anderson et al. were defendants, and the State of Florida plaintiff; such money is the balance of the earnings of the line of road from Lake City west, which came to the hands of said receiver, and which money the said court directed should be held by the said treasurer subject to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; and complainants are advised that said sum of money is proper fund to be applied to the repair of said railroad and property, and they insist that they have the right to have the same so applied by order of this court.

XXII. Complainants are informed, and upon such information allege and state that the defendant, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, united with said Littlefield, said Swepson, and said S. W. Hopkins & Co., in procuring the governor, Harrison Reed, to issue and deliver to said J., P. & M. Co. the said State bonds (so called) and in all the acts and representations done and made by said J. P., & M. Co., its officers and agents, and in the sale which said S. W. Hopkins & Co. made of said bonds, and that said North Carolina corporation received a portion of the proceeds of such sale, and contracted with said Swepson and said Littlefield, and with authorized agents of said J., P. & M. Co., for the payment to said North Carolina corporation, by the parties to said contract, of the sum of six hundred thousand dollars and upwards, such payment to be made out of the money to be received by said S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the sale of said bonds, to enforce which payment said North Carolina corporation brought suit, in a court of the State of New York, against said Hopkins & Co. and said J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are informed that said North Carolina corporation now alleges that the bonds held by complainants and others, which said corporation in part contributed to induce the present holders thereof, or those from whom they purchased, to take and pay for, as the bonds of the State of Florida, are not legal and valid obligations, and that the holders thereof are not entitled to the payment of the same in the manner and from the source which complainants herein assert themselves to be entitled to, and are seeking to obtain in this, their bill of complaint, all of which pretences, set the said corporation is, and should be, by the decree of this court, declared to be estopped from making the same by reason of the acts done by it in respect to the sale of said bonds, which are hereinbefore set forth, and that said corporation ought to be enjoined from making any interference with complainants' proceedings to subject said railroad and property to payment of their bonds, or from instituting any suit at law or equity against complainants or against the governor of the State for such purpose.

XXIII. That defendant, Edward M. L'Engle, has illegally possessed himself of the shares of stock which were sold by John P. Sanderson to Milton S. Littlefield; that payment therefor was made from funds received by S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the London banker, to whom they sold said Florida State bonds (so-called), which fact was well known to said Sanderson and to said L'Engle, who were, at the time of such transaction and afterwards, the attorneys of said Littlefield and of said railroad corporations, which he controlled. Said Sanderson was also an officer of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and assisted said Littlefield in the transactions before stated, which resulted in the consolidation of said railroads and the issuance and sale of said bonds. Said L'Engle has, since the said Florida State bonds (so-called) were sold, purchased from certain persons who formerly held stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, their rights as such, whatever they may be; that he has, by use of such means, brought several suits in the State courts against sundry persons concerning the property which formerly belonged to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which suits he has dismissed after causing great damage and loss to said property thereby; and complainants are informed and believe that said L'Engle intends to institute further suits, founded on the title he has so acquired, or claims to have, with a view to compel complainants to pay him a large sum of money to buy their peace, and to hinder them from obtaining the relief herein sought.

434 XXIV. The said L'Engle has instituted a suit in this court in the name of Robert J. Washington, in which it is sought to obtain a decree declaring said Washington to be the lawful owner of all the shares of stock which said Littlefield purchased from said Swepson, said Houstoun and others. The title set up in said suit is derived from said L'Engle and one J. H. Miller, and is based solely on notes given to said L'Engle by said Littlefield without valid consideration, on the pretence of a payment by Littlefield to L'Engle for services pretended to have been rendered by said L'Engle to said Littlefield and the said Florida Central and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies. Complainants are informed and believe that said Robert J. Washington has no real interest in the subject-matter of said suit, and that his name is being used by said L'Engle in fraud of the jurisdiction of this court, the said L'Engle making use of the name of said Washington because he being a citizen of Florida is disqualified to sue in the courts of the United States.

XXV. Complainants are informed and believe that said defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, made some agreement with said George W. Swepson to perform the obligations which the latter undertook with said trustees to do, viz, to purchase said unpaid Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies' bonds; that said Littlefield did, in fact, purchase of said Edward Houstoun one hundred and three of said bonds in performance of such contract, which bonds are now deposited in the registry of this court to the credit of a cause therein pending, in which Edward E. Anderson et al are plaintiffs, and the J., P. & M. Co.

et al are defendants; that said bonds are claimed by divers persons under some contract with said Littlefield, which persons had full knowledge that said bonds were paid for out of the money for which the bonds issued by Governor Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co. were sold as before set forth; said one hundred and three bonds have never been in the actual possession of said Littlefield. Complainants are advised that they should be delivered to said trustees of the internal improvement fund, and they should take such proceedings as may be necessary to procure the same to be done.

435 XXVI. That of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which consisted of five thousand five hundred shares, four thousand three hundred and seventy were held by Edward Houstoun at the time of his decease, which took place about two years since, as appears from the stock ledger of the Florida Central Railroad Company; that certificates of such stock were issued to said Houstoun by said company, which certificates are now in the hands of a receiver appointed by the superior court of Chatham County, in the State of Georgia, in a cause therein pending between the executors of said Houstoun and sundry other persons, in which suit the title to said stock is involved, and the right thereto sought to have determined. That said Milton S. Littlefield has made a conveyance to the western division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by which he pretends to convey to said corporation a legal title to said stock, which title he falsely pretends he held at the date of such conveyance, and which false pretense was well known to the officers of said corporation, who took from him such invalid conveyance; that the same was made and accepted to aid the said corporation to sustain the before-mentioned claim of such corporation of interest in said railroad and property, and complainants insist that said corporation ought not to be allowed to make any claim under such conveyance, nor to derive any benefit or advantages therefrom.

In consideration of the premises, complainants pray that writs of subpœna may be issued out of this honorable court, directed to said defendants severally, viz: The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, Edward Lewis, Patrick Houstoun, Robert H. Gamble, Charles E. Dyke, sr., Edward M. L'Engle, Robert Walker, Clayton A. Cowgill, George W. Betton, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Joseph B. Stewart, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H. Smith, 436 S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, The Peoples' Bank, William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration, George P. Raney, attorney-general, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, Columbus Drew, comptroller, George F. Drew, governor, as trustees of the internal improvement fund, and Robert J. Washington, commanding them to be and appear before this honorable court on a day certain to be named therein, to answer the allegations of this bill:

1. And may it please your honors, to decree that complainants are entitled to be taken and held as bona fide holders of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

2. That the entire line of railroad from Jacksonville to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Mark's, and all property, real and personal, thereto pertaining, may be decreed to be subject to a lien for the payment of complainants' bonds superior to the claims of any and all persons whatever, and especially said defendants.

3. That it may be declared by the decree of this court that the sale of the said bonds by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, issued by Harrison Reed, governor, to said company, and the representations made by said company and its agents to the purchasers thereof, and the actings and doings of the officers and stockholders of said company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, herein stated and alleged, created a trust in favor of complainants, and entitles them to have the whole of said line of railroad made subject to the payment of complainants' said bonds, and that such entire line of railroad be proceeded against for such purpose, and treated as belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; and that the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and such corporation, be declared to be bound by the representations which were made by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Rail-
437 road Company to the purchasers of said bonds before alleged herein to have been made; that the line of railroad from Jacksonville west constituted one entire line of road, was the property of said last-named corporation; and that the same was subject to a lien for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds by the provisions of the acts incorporating said last named corporation.

4. May it please your honors to decree that complainants are entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the said acts of incorporation which created a lien on said railroad and property for payment of the bonds held by complainants; and that they are entitled to demand that the governor of Florida execute the power of sale vested in him by said acts, and that he be decreed to proceed therein in the manner and for the purposes which complainants have herein stated should be done.

5. That the defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and those who hold the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, be decreed to have no longer any lien of any kind upon that portion of the said line of railroad which lies between Lake City and Quincy, with the branch to Monticello and the road from Tallahassee to St. Mark's; and that complainants have a superior equity as to such property for payment of their bonds over and above the vendor's lien claimed by said trustees and said last mentioned bondholders to exist in their favor.

6. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company be decreed not to have any other right, title, or claim in respect of the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City than that which the said Florida Central Railroad Company and its stockholders shall be decreed to possess, and to be subject, in like manner, to the right of complainants to have said portion of said line of railroad sold for payment of complainants' bonds.

7. That the pretended organization of said board of directors claimed to have been made under the authority of said judgment of Duval circuit court, in the suit instituted by said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, be declared fraudulent and void; that the said judgments be declared to be void because of the fraud
438 committed by the parties thereto; and that the said defendants, claiming to be president, directors, and officers of said Florida Central Railroad Company, be declared to have no lawful title to such offices; that said defendants, Robert Walker, Robert H. Gamble, and the other defendants who were chosen directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, as herein alleged by complainants, be declared to be the only proper representative of said Florida Central Railroad Company, or entitled as such to appear in this suit or otherwise act in respect of the interests of the stockholders of such company.

8. That defendants, Edward M. L'Engle and Robert J. Washington, be declared not to have any valid title to and stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that as to any such stock which may have been acquired by said L'Engle, that he be decreed to hold the same subject to the claim herein alleged to exist in favor of complainants, and that he be held to have acquired the same with full notice of all the rights which are herein asserted by complainants.

9. That the bonds issued by the said defendants, E. M. L'Engle, as president, and said Foster, Fenwick, Stewart, Sawyer, and others, as directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, be decreed to be null and void.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators writs of injunction, to be directed to said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, said Florida Central Railroad Company, and its stockholders, to said Edward M. L'Engle, said Robert J. Washington, enjoining them from instituting any proceedings at law, or in equity, in relation to said line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, and its property, and from seeking to interfere with the possession thereof acquired by the said George F. Drew, governor, or from intermeddling therewith.

May it please you honors to make an order herein constituting and appointing George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, receiver of this court, with special power and authority to make purchases of railroad iron, material, and equipments suitable for use of said railroad, and to put said line of railroad in suitable condition for the carriage of freight and passengers, and to preserve the same from dilapidation 439 and destruction—for such purpose to apply the net earnings of said railroad thereto, and, if necessary, to make purchases on credit, to be reimbursed and paid by order of this court, and to constitute a charge on said property in like manner as the costs of the cause are by law provided; and that the said governor, as such special receiver, be authorized to demand and receive from said defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, the said sum of money herein stated to be in his hands, under said order of said Supreme Court of the United States; and that the said treasurer deliver such money to said governor, which money the said George F. Drew, governor, as such special receiver, be directed to use for the repair and preservation of said line of railroad; and that such fund be regarded in the hands of said receiver as a separate and distinct fund, to be disposed of by the decree of this court to be made herein, and subject to all proper claims, if any there be, against the same; and that the said George F. Drew, as such special receiver, be directed to render to this court an account of his actings under this order, at such specified times as may be prescribed therein.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators such other and further relief in the premises as the nature of the case may require, and as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

W. G. M. DAVIS,
Solicitor for Complainants.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern district of Florida:

Charles D. Willard, sworn, says that he is the authorized agent and attorney of each and every of the complainants in the foregoing bill mentioned; that he has received from them, and each of them, power in writing, properly authenticated, giving him authority to institute this suit, and to act for them generally in the prosecution of the rights which said complainants in said bill have set up; that he has for a long time been in correspondence with Jacobus Wertheim, a counsellor at law, residing at Amsterdam, in Holland, and who is employed, as deponent is informed and believes, by complainants to advise them in 440 respect to their rights as such bondholders; that the correspondence between deponent and said Wertheim was wholly upon such subject, and deponent was thereby informed as to the circumstances under which said bonds were purchased by complainants, and that they held the same.

Deponent further says that he has read the proceedings, or the greater part of them, which were instituted by divers plaintiffs in the courts of the United States, and those of the State of Florida, as well as in the suits instituted in New York by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; that he has seen and read proceedings of the stockholders and directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sworn statements of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of Edward Houstoun, and has generally received information as to the matters in said bill set forth from various persons, attorneys, as well as others, who were familiar with such matters, and that from such means of knowledge he is able to swear, and does depose that the facts in the foregoing bill of complaint set forth he believes to be true; that as to the ownership by complainants of the bonds in the bill mentioned, deponent says he believes that they are owned held by said complainants, and that they purchased the same in good faith, believing them to be what they purported on their face to be, and such belief, deponent says, he asserts by reason of the statements made by said complainants, sworn to by them in Amsterdam, before the American consul, transmitted to deponent as such agent.

Deponent further says that the bonds of said complainants will shortly be received in the United States, and will be produced in this cause, of which fact deponent has been informed by a telegraphic dispatch sent by the Bank of Amsterdam to Mr. Adolphe Engler, of New York.

SCHEDULE D.

Memorandum plan.

(Bijlage A.)

For the reorganization of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company of Florida, to be agreed upon by and between Frank R. Sherwin, agent of the owners and holders of the bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of said railroad companies, of the first part, and the owners and holders of the first mortgage bonds of the the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies of said State, issued under the provisions of the act of January 6th, 1855, generally known as the "internal improvement act," represented by Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, in the State of Georgia, and Charles H. Simonton, of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, of the second part.

The object to be sought in said reorganization shall be the formation, under the general incorporation laws of said State, of a new company, under the name and style of "The Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company," for the purpose of purchasing the present lines of constructed railroads between Jacksonville and Chattahoochee, and Tallahassee and St. Marks, with branch at Monticello Junction, together with all their rolling-stock, depots, machine-shops and all their other property, and of completing the said line of road to Mobile. in the State of Alabama.

To this end it is agreed between the said parties that the 444 line of completed railway, to wit, the roads extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the road extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, known as the Florida Central Railroad, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine shops, and all their other saleable property, shall be sold at public outcry, in accordance with law, so soon as the following antecedent arrangements, numbered "first" and "second," shall have been completed:

First. The said, the parties to this agreement, shall, within 30 days, select three persons, who shall act as trustees in discharge of the trusts hereinafter set out; any vacancy in their number occurring by death or otherwise to be filled by the surviving trustees.

Second. The said bonds and coupons of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, held by the said parties of the second part, and the said bonds and coupons of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall be placed in the hands or under the control of the said trustees so selected for the purpose of said trust, within thirty days from the date of the acceptance of their appointment.

The said the governor shall offer at public sale, according to law, said line of railroads, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine shops, and all their other property, or such portions of it as may be legally saleable; and at the said sale, the said trustees shall bid for the said property so to be exposed for sale, to the extent, if necessary, of the par value of the said bonds and past due coupons of the State of Florida so placed under their control, the aggregate amount in dollars and cents, of which said bonds and past due coupons shall be treated and received as cash at said sale by the said governor, and if such bid be the highest made at such sale or sales, the said line of railroad, together with all of its property as hereinbefore detailed, shall be struck off to the said trustees so bidding, and upon the delivery to the said the governor of the said bonds and past due coupons last mentioned, he shall immediately cause the said trustees so bidding to be placed in the actual possession of all said railroad property, and full title shall be made to said trustees by the governor, the same to be held by them subject to the following conditions, namely: In trust to be conveyed by them to the said "Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company," after the following arrangements and conditions shall have been perfected and complied with.

First. Such title to the line of railroad now known as the Flor-445 ida Central, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City; and such title to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, which extends from Lake City to the Chattahoochee River, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's; and such right of franchise to continue the construction of said line of railway westward to the city of Mobile, as may not be perfected in the said selected trustees, by the said sale as hereinbefore provided, shall be perfected in the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, through the action and agency of the said party of the first part, and shall be so perfected as not to leave any lien or incumbrance upon said last mentioned title or property, which shall be superior to the special mortgage lien to be created as hereinafter provided. The provisions of this clause, numbered first, to be practically carried out by the said party of the first part within six (6) months from the date of this agreement.

Second. Title having been so perfected in the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, that company shall execute an obligation in writing to the said, the selected trustees, stipulating that immediately after conveyance made to it, the said railroad property, so to be purchased as aforesaid by them (the said selected trustees), the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company shall cause the entire line of constructed railroads heretofore named to be bonded at the rate of not more than twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) per mile, which bonds shall be due forty years from date, bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually either in New York City or Amsterdam, Holland, at the option of the holders, principal and interest payable in gold, which bonds shall be a first mortgage lien upon said line of railroad, its depots, machine shops, rolling stock, and all of its other property.

That distinct provision shall be made in said mortgage for the issue, in the first place, of a series of said bonds equal in amount only to the par value of said surrendered bonds and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, in the event that the said lines of road formerly known as the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads should be bid off by the said selected trustees at a sum below or not exceeding the aggregate amount of said last mentioned bonds and past due coupons; but should the said last mentioned roads be so bid off at a sum equal to or exceeding the aggregate amount of principal of said bonds and past due coupons and interest on said coupons, then the first series of bonds to cover the full amount of said last mentioned aggregate, and this first and distinct series of bonds so issued shall constitute a prior lien upon the said line of railroad and its said property, to secure the payment of the interest and principal of the same when due; and the first 446 said series of bonds, when so issued, shall be delivered to the owners of the said surrendered bonds and coupons of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, whereupon the said last mentioned bonds and coupons shall be held by said trustees in trust, to be delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida for cancellation, so soon as all of the same class of bonds now outstanding shall have been surrendered to the said selected trustees, whether in exchange for the said new first mortgage bonds or otherwise.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage, that in case of default for one year by said new company in payment of interest on any of the bonds, foreclosure of said mortgage may be made for the entire amount of indebtedness secured by it, both principal and interest, and the said road and all of its property may be sold, and the proceeds derived from such sale shall be first applied to the payment of the said first series of bonds, principal and interest, and the surplus, if any, shall be applied toward the payment of the remaining or second series of said bonds.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage for the creation, at the expiration of three years from the organization of said company, of a sinking-fund of one per cent. per annum in gold, payable semi-annually, upon its said bonded debt, which said sinking-fund shall be semiannually applied, as paid, to the redemption at par of the said bonds of said company, the numbers of which shall be selected by lot, and the said first series of said bonds of said company, issued as aforesaid, shall have priority of payment out of said sinking-fund.

A draft of said contemplated bonds and mortgage, to be approved by the selected trustees, shall be appended as an exhibit to the said written obligation, and also a copy of the proposed charter of the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, showing powers in the said new corporation to issue such bonds and to execute such mortgage.

It shall be further stipulated in said written obligation that a sufficient number of the second series of said bonds shall be set apart and used for the purpose of placing said line of constructed railroad in first-class order and repair as to road-bed, rolling stock, and otherwise, and that said new railroad company shall be managed by a board of directors, consisting of not more than seven nor less than five members, who shall be named by the owners or holders of said State bonds, but who shall be acceptable to said selected trustees; and that in case of vacancy in said board of directors or officers of said company, by death, resignation, or otherwise, notice of any intended new appointment shall be given to the said selected trustees; and a protest in writing, 447 signed by the owners representing a majority of the said first series of bonds of said company, shall operate to prevent the appointment to fill said vacancy; this provision to continue in operation for the period of six years from the organization of the said new company.

It is also further stipulated and agreed that all funds necessary to meet the costs and expenditures incurred in such sale or sales, and in perfecting said titles thereafter, shall be supplied by the said party of the first part.

In witness whereof, we, the said parties to this agreement, have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals interchangeably, this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877, at Savannah, Georgia.

448 In the circuit court of United States, northern district of Florida. In equity.

The joint and separate answer of J. Fred. Schutte, Jans Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, H. Van Booven, Dr. Nicholas Jacob den Tex, H. J. Brunnekruff, J. H. Grem, Willenmier Van Tyer Van Taer, C. Both, L. L. Wertheim, Wysman de Voogt, T. P. Roelopz, Jan Tichelaar, jr., Jacobus Wertheim, P. Van Reysen, May de Benedithy Beer, Gerard A. Heineken, T. Colom, Charles Gosewinckel, Boon Hartsink Van Tyen, N. J. Franket, Johannes Willem Donk, Vander Stoop & Berg, defendants, to the amended bill of complaint of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company against the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, J. Fred. Schutte, and others.

These defendants saving and reserving unto themselves all and all manner of benefit and advantage of exceptions to the many errors 449 uncertainties, and insufficiencies in the said amended bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto or so much and to such parts thereof as they are advised is or are material for them to make answer unto, answering, say:

That each and every allegation, statement, matter or thing in said amended bill of complaint contained is untrue, and these defendants expressly deny the same.

These defendants, further answering, say that on the 23d day of May, A. D. 1877, these defendants exhibited their bill of complaint in this honorable court against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, two corporations created by and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, and others, defendants, a copy of which bill of complaint is hereto attached and marked Exhibit No. 1.

And these defendants, further answering, say that all the allegations, statements, matters and things alleged, stated, and set forth in 450 their said bill of complaint are true, and these defendants pray that the copy of said bill of complaint hereto attached may be taken and considered as a part of this their answer, with the same effect as if the said matters, allegations, and things therein contained where herein and now repeated and set forth in proper and apt language in that behalf.

These defendants, further answering, say that the said complainant, the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, give out and pretend that it was the owner of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, so called, before and at the time when the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company made, executed and delivered its said bonds to the State of Florida, as hereinbefore stated, and that for that reason the said bonds are not a valid lien upon said railroad.

But these defendants, further answering, say that the said 451 Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, aided and assisted the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in obtaining from the State of Florida the bonds of said State, as hereinbefore stated, in exchange for said railroad bonds, as hereinbefore stated, and in selling and disposing of the same, and to aid in the selling thereof said complainant did hold out and represent to the purchasers of said State bonds that the same were legal and valid, and issued in exchange for said railroad bonds, as hereinbefore stated, and that said last named bonds were a valid and legal lien upon said railroad, and that the purchaser of said bonds, and especially these defendants, purchased the same on the faith and credit of said representations made by said complainant, and that the said complainant shared in and received to its own use a part of the avails of the sale of said State bonds; these defendants therefore submit and insist that the said complainant is therefore estopped to insist that said rail- 452 road company bonds are not a lien upon the said railroad, and is estopped to set up or pretend any title to said railroad as against these defendants, and these defendants, further answering, say that the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company has been for more than seven years next before the commencement of this suit in possession of the said J., P. & M. Railroad under claim & color of title. Without this, that there is any other matter or thing in the said complainants said amended bill of complaint contained, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered unto, is true to the knowledge and belief of these defendants; and these defendants humbly pray to be hence dismissed with their costs most unreasonably sustained.

L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, who are citizens of the State of Florida, and Joseph B. Stewart, who is a citizen of the 454 State of New York, claiming to be directors in said Florida Central Railroad Company; Francis Vose, who is a citizen of the State of New York; M. K. Jessup & Co., who are citizens of the same State; Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbes, who are citizens of the State of Florida; Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, who are citizens of the State of Georgia: The Peoples' Bank, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of South Carolina, and a citizen of said State; William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams, who are citizens of the State of South Carolina; George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of the State of Florida; George P. Raney, attorney-general; Walter Gwynn, treasurer; Columbus Drew, comptroller, George F. Drew, governor, which officers are trustees of the internal improvement fund, and herein sued as such; Milton S. Littlefield, in his own right; Robert J. Washington, who is a citizen of the State of Virginia.

And thereupon your orators complain and say:

I. That on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, acting under the powers conferred upon them by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, took possession of and sold at public auction the railroads and property which belonged to and were used by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which railroads extended from Lake City to Quincy, with a branch to Monticello, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's. Said sale was made because of non-compliance with the third section of said law.

II. That said sale was fairly conducted, and made in strict compliance with the provisions of said law; that the aggregate amounts 455 for which said roads were sold was the sum of one million four hundred and fifteen thousand dollars, which sum exceeded the total amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which were issued by said corporations under the said law.

III. That F. Dibble and associates purchased said roads at said sale, and paid the purchase money, and the said trustees made deeds under their seals, by which they conveyed said property to said purchasers, reciting therein the payment of the purchase moneys, which deeds they delivered to said Dibble, and immediately placed him in possession of said railroads and property.

IV. That complainants have been informed within a short period that part of said purchase money was accepted by said trustees in said bonds issued by the said corporations, which they immediately cancelled, and the balance was placed by said trustees in the hands of Geo. W. Swepson, as agent of said trustees, with directions to purchase and deliver to them for cancellation the outstanding of said bonds of said companies, which were entitled to payment out of said fund; that said Swepson was a man in good credit, reputed to be worth at least a half million of dollars, and had that amount in Florida; that the said trustees acted in the premises within the scope of their authority and in good faith, and to carry into execution the powers with which they were vested by law.

V. That said Dibble and associates afterward became incorporated by an act of the legislature of Florida, under the name and style of Tallahassee Railroad Company, for the purpose of operating the said railroads to which they had so acquired title. Afterwards the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, and said Dibble and associates, conveyed the said railroads to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, of which Geo. W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield owned nearly the entire stock.

456 VI. That in the year 1870, the last-named company, which will hereafter be spoken of as the J., P. & M. Co., obtained from the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, four thousand bonds of one thousand dollars each, which were issued by said governor in accordance with the laws incorporating said J. P. & M. Co., and which bonds purported to obligate the State of Florida to pay to the bearer thereof one thousand dollars on each bond, with interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, a copy of one of which bonds is hereto annexed, marked A, and prayed to be referred to.

VII. The said J., P. & M. Co. delivered to the governor of said State, in exchange for said four thousand bonds, which he received from him, a like amount of bonds, three thousand of which were executed by the said J., P. & M. Co. and one thousand by the Florida Central Railroad Company. Said bonds were for the sum of one thousand dollars each, bearing interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, payable to the State of Florida. Copies of each description of said bonds are filed herewith, marked B and C, and prayed to be referred to. The execution and delivery of said bonds was done by said companies in order to comply with the terms of the laws incorporating the said J., P. & M. Co.

VIII. That when the said bonds were executed by the Florida Central Company, Milton S. Littlefield owned a large majority of its stock, and he had contracted to buy from Edward Houstoun, J. P. Sanderson, and others stock owned by them, which, added to his own, constituted all the shares of said company except about four hundred. The whole number was 5,500. That such purchases were made by said Littlefield for the purpose of making a consolidation of the Florida Central with the J., P. & M. Co., which object was known to the parties from whom Littlefield purchased said stock, and they sold to aid therein; that the one thousand bonds issued as bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company and delivered to the governor were caused to be executed and delivered by the joint action of said Houstoun and said other stockholders, in order to enable the said J. P. & M. Co. to obtain from the governor the Florida State bonds (so called), and with the understanding and agreement 457 that said bonds should be sold, and said Littlefield should make payment for the stock purchased from said Houstoun and said other stockholders out of the proceeds, which he in fact did, with the exception of the stock which he purchased from said Gamble, for which he paid in part only; that the holders of some shares of stock in said Florida Central Company, other than those beforementioned, although they had notice of the acts and intentions of said Littlefield, Houstoun, and said other stockholders in the foregoing paragraph set forth, took no steps to prevent the execution thereof, and remained inactive and acquiescent until long after the sale which was made of the Florida State bonds (so called), as is hereinafter set forth; that the said Littlefield, and the others who were connected with him in the management of the J., P. & M. Co., immediately after the issuance of the Florida State bonds (so called), took possession of and operated the line of railroads which formerly belonged to the Florida Central, which lies between Jacksonville and Lake City, and treated it as constituting, with the roads formerly belonging to the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, and which had become the property of the J., P. & M. Co., in the manner before stated, as the line of railroads of the said J., P. & M. Co., and took and disposed of the earnings of the whole. In the year 1871 said J., P. & M. Co. conveyed the whole of said roads by deed to trustees to pay debts due by the J., P. & M. Co., in which deed the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City was treated and conveyed as the property of the J., P. & M. Co. The said trustees took possession of and operated the said road conveyed to them for a considerable space of time, and without any interference on the part of any bona fide stockholders of the said Florida Central Company.

IX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. sent the bonds which they obtained from the governor of Florida to England, and sold nearly all through an agent in the city of London. Such sale was made to a banker in said city, at the price of about one hundred and thirty-eight pounds sterling per bond. The said buyer afterwards resold the said bonds through bankers in the city of Amsterdam, Holland, by whom they were 458 offered for sale to the public in said city and in other parts of the Netherlands, and which said bonds were dealt in on the stock exchange of Amsterdam as other public securities were, in full reliance by all purchasers upon the representations which were made in respect to such bonds, which are hereinafter set forth and stated; that said bonds bore a good price so long as the interest was paid thereon, bringing at one time as high as eighty-one per cent. gold in United States coin.

X. The said J., P. & M. Co., through its agents in London, represented to the public in England, Holland, Germany, and France, that the said bonds were veritable and lawful obligations of the State of Florida, that the interest thereon would be punctually paid by said State, that there was provided by law of said State as a security for the payment of said bonds a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville west; which line was represented to be owned by the J., P. & M. Co. alone. That the banker by whom they were purchased in London repeated the same representation to the bankers in Amsterdam, and they to the public in the Netherlands and to complainants, as well as to others who purchased, sold, and dealt in said bonds.

XI. That complainants are the owners of a large number of the said bonds issued by Governor Harrison Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co., and sold by its agents as before set forth, which bonds are numbered between number one and number three thousand two hundred; the numbers belonging to each of complainants are stated in affidavits made by them before the American consul in Amsterdam, which affidavits are filed herewith and are prayed to be referred to as a part of this bill. Complainants are ready to produce said bonds when required, and will be able to produce them upon their arrival in the United States, they being on the way from Amsterdam to New York, to which latter place they have been sent by complainants to Adolphe Engler, as agent of complainants, entrusted by them to deal with said bonds as may be determined to be for the interest of complainants by their agent, Charles D. Willard, and their counsel. That interest from the 1st day of 459 January, 1873, is due and unpaid on said bonds, and they have applied to the governor of the State of Florida to enter upon and seize and take possession of the line of railroads and property thereto pertaining, before described as belonging to the said J., P. & M. Co., including an extension of said railroad, which has been constructed by the said company from Quincy to the Apalachicola River since the year 1870; and complainants say they have a right to have said railroads seized and sold for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds held by them; and in case they should desire to become purchasers at said sale, they should be permitted to make payment with their said bonds as far as they may be sufficient therefor.

That interest was paid on said bonds after they were sold up to January 1st, 1873, semi-annually, by a trust company in the city of New York, which was appointed by the governor of Florida as the fiscal agent of the State to pay such interest; that the said governor gave notice to the holders of such bonds of such appointment; that it was represented to the persons who dealt in said bonds, including complainants, that the money for the payment of such interest was provided by the State; that owing to such an occurrence and such information the belief that such bonds were lawfully issued by the governor of Florida was greatly strengthened, and full faith was also given to all that had been represented by said J., P. & M. Co. as to the extent of its own line of railroads.

XII. Complainants are informed that defendants, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simpkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Louis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, The People's Bank, William McBurney, and Winthrop B. Williams, together with other persons whose names and citizenship are to complainants unknown, allege that they are the holders of the outstanding and unpaid bonds which were issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies under the provision of the 3d section of the internal improvement act of 1855, and that there is a subsisting lien on the railroads which were sold by said trustees to F.
460 Dibble and associates, for the payment of said bonds, and said defendants at times assert that the original lien and power of sale given by the act aforesaid is still in force, and other times they assert that the said F. Dibble and associates did not pay to said trustees the full amount of said purchase money, and that there remains due on such account the sum of $472,065 and interest. And that said trustees, as vendors, have in equity a lien on said railroad and property for such sum of money, and they have demanded of said trustees that they proceed to enforce such lien irrespective of the paramount lien which complainants herein assert to exist for payment of their bonds. All of which pretenses and claims, made by the holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, complainants allege to be without support in fact, and they are advised that they are not well founded in law. Complainants insist that the holders of said bonds are bound by the acts of said trustees, that such acts were done in the exercise of powers conferred upon them by the law of 1855, and that even if they acted in bad faith and corruptly when they executed and delivered the said deed of said property to said F. Dibble, and entrusted said Swepson with said money, and accepted his obligation to purchase for them said outstanding bonds, complainants, as bona fide purchasers, as they allege themselves to be, without actual notice of any wrong or fraud on the part of said trustees, or of said Dibble and associates, or of said Swepson, and claiming, as they do under the title created by the contract made between the said Dibble and associates and the J., P. & M. Co., and the subsequent contract and trust created by the acts of the legislature which incorporated the said J., P. & M. Co., are not affected thereby, nor liable to be postponed to any vendor's lien in favor of said trustees, such as is asserted to exist by said P. & G. and Talla. bondholders, that the complainants' right to subject said railroad to payment of their bonds arises out of conveyances of the legal title made by the purchasers from the said trustees and those to whom they conveyed, and that there is no privity of contract between complainants and the said trustees. Complainants claim under the legal title, and therefore have a higher and better equity to payment out of said railroad and property than 461 any which can be set up by the holders of said unpaid P. & G. and Talla. bonds, and complainants insist that the P. & G. and Talla. bondholders have failed to cause the said trustees to sue the said Swepson to recover the amount due by him, and for which said trustees hold his written obligation, and complainants insist that until such proceeding has been taken and has proved to be ineffectual, and until it appears that said trustees have not lost their remedy against said Swepson by reason of any laches on their part, the said bondholders, who assert that they are entitled to a lien on said railroad superior to the equities which are by complainants stated herein to exist in their favor, should be enjoined from maintaining or asserting any such lien.

Complainants insist that no such claim as is attempted to be set up by said bondholders should be entertained in a court of equity, because of the time which has elapsed since the happening of the events and the doing of the acts by said trustees and said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, upon which the said bondholders rely to sustain their claim, all of which transactions took place in the year 1869, and as to which the persons by whom the outstanding bonds of the P. & G. and Talla. Co's were owned at the time had full notice, and that said Vose and many of said defendants, having like securities, have purchased within a short time for purposes of speculation and litigation with full notice. That the persons who held said bonds in March, 1869, had notice of the transactions herein stated in relation to said railroads which were done by said Dibble and associates, and also of the passage of the laws disposing of and transferring the said railroads, the creation of said Tallahassee and of said J., P. & M. Co's, and the authority given by law to the latter company to create a lien on said railroads, and under which lien it is that complainants seek payment of their bonds. That as such persons had such knowledge and information and did not take any proceedings, such as they might have taken, to prevent the J., P. & M. Co. from doing what they were authorized to do by their charter, they, the said holders of P. & G. and Talla. bonds, have no right now to object to any of the acts that were done by said corporation under such authority of law, but that they are estopped to deny the legal consequences which arise out of such acts. Complainants bonds never constituted a lien on the roads owned by said companies for any sum of money other than the principal of such bonds; that the interest thereof was secured by the land trust fund created by the act of 1855, and complainants are informed, and therefore allege, that said fund is ample security for such interest, and they insist that the holders of said bonds, whatever claim they may have, should be required to exhaust such fund before resorting to a security such as the railroad, which is not common to them and to complainants. Complainants are advised that the said bondholders had the right to have the sinking fund which was provided by the act of 1855 collected and invested in the manner specified in said act, and in case of any loss of any part thereof by the acts of the trustees, that they had a remedy against them, and also a right to have the loss made good to them out of the proceeds of the sale of the land conveyed to the trustees by the State, and complainants insist that said bondholders should be restricted to such sinking fund and to such remedies for the collection and restoration thereof as are herein stated to exist and open to be pursued by them.

XIII. That the defendants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, Edward M. L'Engle, falsely pretending that they were bona fide holders of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and claiming that they were legally authorized to elect a president and directors of said company, held an illegal meeting and chose Edward M. L'Engle president, and James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Joseph B. Stewart, Charles B. Fenwick, and George R. Foster directors, none of whom were stockholders in said corporation; and they appointed Charles B. Fenwick secretary, and George R. Foster treasurer thereof; that immediately after they issued a large number of certificates of stock represented to be stock of Florida Central Railroad Company in favor of themselves and sundry other persons who have combined with them to defraud the State and the public at large, and especially to vex, harrass, and to make and issue bonds in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and to execute a mortgage of the railroad and property which was formerly owned by said corporation, and intend sharing such bonds among themselves with the intention to dispose of them for money; that said George W. Swepson has some interest in said scheme, and is to receive a large number of said bonds.

That said defendants, Littlefield, L'Engles, Sawyer, Stewart, Baker, Lawton, and others, pretend that they formed such organization and held such election under a judgment rendered by the judge of the fourth judicial circuit court of the State of Florida. Complainants are informed, and so allege, that the judgment of said court was procured by fraud. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, an insolvent corporation, acting by one Jos. B. Stewart, filed a petition for mandamus in said court, and by collusion with Milton S. Littlefield and said last named defendants, and others to complainants unknown, alleged said North Carolina corporation to be a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad Company; and that said Littlefield and others were made defendants in such mandamus proceeding, and who owned no stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and they made no resistance to the prayer of the petition, but falsely answered that they were such stockholders; that no persons who were bona fide stockholders in said Florida Central Railroad Company were parties to such proceedings; that the persons who participated were not holders of bona fide certificates of shares of stock in said corporation, as will fully appear by the entries on the transfer book and stock ledger of said company up to the tenth day of April, 1872. And complainants insist that said judgment of said State court should be adjudged and held to be void because of the fraud in procuring the same. And the said defendants, Milton S. Littlefield, Joseph B. Stewart, N. K. Sawyer, James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company should be enjoined from asserting themselves to be stockholders in or officers of said company, and that they be ordered to refrain from issuing any of the bonds, and from the execution 464 of the mortgage before alleged to be in course of preparation, and if any such papers have been executed that they should be directed to deliver them to an officer of this court, to be designated herein; that the said defendants should be also required to deliver to said officer any seal in their possession which has been used by them or by any one under their authority as the seal of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

XIV. That the governor of the State of Florida has seized the whole line of railroad, and the property thereto pertaining, which was formerly owned by the Florida Central Railroad Company, as well as that from Lake City to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Mark's, and has advertised the same for sale; but he has described in the advertisement the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City as the property of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and has stated that said road is seized and that he will sell the same for default made by said company on bonds delivered by it to the governor of the State. Complainants are satisfied that the now governor of the State deems such proceedings proper; but complainants are advised that so far as they are concerned they have the right to demand that the said railroad between Jacksonville and Lake City should be seized by the governor and sold as forming with the railroad west of Lake City an entire line and as the property of the said J., P. & M. Co.

XV. That the governor of Florida declares in the advertisement made by him, in which he gives notice of the intended sale of the railroad from Lake City to Quincy and the branch to Monticello and that from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, that such sale will be made subject to a prior lien thereon for unpaid purchase money claimed to be due by the holders of the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and which they claim are secured as is hereinbefore set forth. Complainants insist that the governor has erred in declaring that such lien exists, and that it was his duty to make sale of said railroads and property, clear of all lien or claim of any kind, and as being bound solely to pay the said bonds which complainants 465 own and which they seek in this proceeding to obtain payment of; and that the governor should be instructed by this honorable court so to proceed in the exercise of the power of sale vested in him by the acts which incorporated the J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are satisfied that the governor is ready and willing so to do when directed by the decree of this honorable court.

XVI. That the complainants being averse to litigation, and fearing that if driven to assert what they are advised are their full rights in a court of equity they would be subjected to great cost and delay, and being informed that said railroads and property thereto pertaining were greatly dilapidated and in bad condition to carry freight and passengers, and that no means of placing said property in condition by suitable construction and repair existed, sought, by making concessions to the persons by whom the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies are owned, to have a speedy sale of said last mentioned railroads, and to that end they authorized an agent to act for them in the United States and to join in a plan, a copy of which is hereto annexed marked D. And that a majority of the holders of said bonds have assented to said plan of settlement, but the said defendant, Francis Vose, combined with a minority of said bondholders and took such legal proceedings as prevents such compromise settlement from being carried into execution. Complainants are willing to consent that a decree be made and entered in this cause, making provision for the sale of the said railroads and property upon the basis in said plan contained, provided that the said trustees of the internal improvement fund and the holders of the said bonds issued by the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies agree that such decree be made.

XVII. Complainants are informed that some time in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five the persons who held a majority of the shares of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company at the time when said transactions took place, whereby the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City became consolidated with that owned 466, 467 by said J., P. & M. Co., and by which means such railroad became pledged for the payment of complainants' bonds, met in Tallahassee and elected certain persons, viz: said Edward Lewis, B. Williams (now deceased), Patrick Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, C. E. Dyke, sr., E. M. L'Engle, R. Walker, C. A. Cowgill, and G. W. Betton, as directors of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; that such persons took upon themselves such offices and acted therein; that no president of said corporation was attempted to be elected, but that Robert Walker was authorized to act in lieu of such president. Complainants are advised that it is not material to them whether said corporation was dissolved by the proceedings which are hereinbefore set forth as to the consolidation of said railroads, and they do not, therefore, ask in this their bill that such dissolution be declared to have taken place unless the same be necessary to enable the said complainants to obtain payment of their bonds; and complainants allege that if such Florida Central Railroad Company is still in existence as a corporation, that the persons before mentioned are the only persons who can by law represent said company, because, as complainants are informed, there has been no meeting of the persons who held said stock in said company since last before stated.

XVIII. That said persons, acting in said capacities, were parties in a certain suit commenced in the State circuit court and finally determined in the supreme court of the State, wherein the State of Florida and trustees of the internal improvement fund were complainants in the first court, in which suit questions of law and fact were presented for adjudication and which were determined by said supreme court, touching the liability of the line of railroad and property between Jacksonville and Lake City for the payment of the bonds delivered by the governor of the State to the J., P. & M. Co. before mentioned, and as to whether the said Florida Central Railroad Company was or not, by the acts done by its stockholders and directors, estopped from denying such liability as against the claim which complainants have hereinbefore alleged in respect to such line of railroad for payment of said bonds.

468 The said supreme court, by its judgment rendered in said cause, determined such questions of law and fact in favor of the claim so made by complainants, and they are advised and insist that they are entitled to rely upon, and they do herein claim and rely upon, said judgment of said supreme court as a conclusive judgment in their favor as to such matters, and as binding on the Florida Central Railroad Company, if there be such corporation, and upon all persons who claim to be owners of stock therein.

XIX. That Daniel P. Holland, who was likewise a defendant in the said case in the said State circuit court, prosecuted an appeal to the supreme court from a judgment rendered by said circuit court in said cause, adverse to said Holland, which appeal was finally heard and determined by the said supreme court; that among other questions of law and fact therein made and decided, the said supreme court by its judgment determined that the acts incorporating the said J., P. & M. Co., the issuance of said bonds by Governor Reed to it, the sale thereof by said company to the complainants and others, created a trust in fovor of the bona fide holders of said bonds; that a lien on the railroad and property for the payment of said bonds existed, and that a power of sale by said acts of incorporation conferred on the governor of the State must be executed by him for the purpose and in the manner in said acts specified; and complainants are advised and insist that they are entitled to and do plead and rely on such judgment in support of the claim which they herein allege to exist as to such lien, to the existence of such trusts, and as to their right to have the line of railroad, which formerly belonged to the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, sold by the governor in the manner and for the purposes which they have hereinbefore alleged in respect thereof. And complainants produce herewith the judgments of the said supreme court in said several cases, and pray leave to refer thereto as a part of their bill of complaint.

XX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. was a party to said suit so brought by the State and the trustees aforesaid, and that they appear therein, and answered the complaints filed in said suit, and admitted the issuance of said bonds by the governor of the State, and did not 469 deny its liability to pay said bonds, nor that there was a lien existing thereof, such as was determined to exist by said supreme court; said answer was sworn to by said Milton S. Littlefield, as the president of said company; that complainant produces herewith a true copy of said answer, and prays leave to refer thereto when necessary.

XXI. Complainants have procured the whole of said line of railroad, its workshops, depots, and rolling stock, to be examined by a competent and skillful railroad engineer, who reports that the said property is not fit for the safe transportation of passengers and freight, and cannot be profitably operated therefor; that the iron rails are badly worn the cross ties decayed; that the rolling-stock is insufficient, and old, and inadequate; that it will cost a large sum to put such property in proper condition, more than the net earnings of said company will furnish, and that if said road is put in good working order, a large increase of such net earnings may be reasonably expected. Complainants are assured that money and material to put such road and property in good working order can be obtained, provided that such means, when advanced by any persons, can be secured to be paid out of the money arising from the sale of said road, and the same made a lien, as costs in this cause, by an order of this honorable court directing the doing of such work, and authorizing the procurement of the necessary material and money therefor. Complainants are advised that the governor of the State has not the power to make any contract for such purposes, and that in consequence he cannot procure the necessary material and money; and complainants submit to this honorable court whether or not the governor of the State should be invested, by an order made in this cause, with the powers of a receiver to this court, and with authority and power to obtain money and purchase material for the purposes before stated, and provision made in said order providing for the needful security for payment of the liabilities to be incurred in such behalf. Complainants are informed that there is now in the hands of the treasurer of the State of Florida a sum of money amounting to about thirty thousand dollars, paid to him by Robert Walker, receiver, by order and direction of the Supreme Court of the United 470 States, made in the cause decided in said court, in which E. C.

Anderson et al. were defendants and the State of Florida plaintiff; such money is the balance of the earnings of the line of road from Lake City west, which came to the hands of said receiver, and which money the said court directed should be held by the said treasurer subject to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; and complainants are advised that said sum of money is a proper fund to be applied to the repair of said railroad and property, and they insist that they have the right to have the same so applied by order of this court.

XXII. Complainants are informed, and upon such information allege and state, that the defendant, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, united with said Littlefield, said Swepson, and said S. W. Hopkins & Co. in procuring the governor, Harrison Reed, to issue and deliver to said J., P. & M. Co. the said State bonds (so called) and in all acts and representations done and made by said J., P. & M. Co., its officers and agents, and in the sale which said S. W. Hopkins & Co. made of said bonds, and that said North Carolina corporation received a portion of the proceeds of such sale, and contracted with said Swepson and said Littlefield, and with authorized agents of said J., P. & M. Co., for the payment to said North Carolina corporation, by the parties to said contract, of the sum of six hundred thousand dollars and upwards, such payment to be made out of the money to be received by said S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the sale of said bonds, to enforce which payment said North Carolina corporation brought suit, in a court of the State of New York, against said Hopkins & Co. and said J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are informed that said North Carolina corporation now alleges that the bonds held by complainants and others, which said corporation in part contributed to induce the present holders thereof, or those from whom they purchased, to take and pay for, as the bonds of the State of Florida, are not legal and valid obligations, and that the holders thereof are not entitled to the payment of the same in the manner and from the source which complainants herein assert themselves to be entitled to, and are seeking to obtain in this their bill of complaint, all of which pretences, 471 set up by said North Carolina corporation, are made by them in bad faith, and in violation of equity and against good conscience; the said corporation is and should be, by the decree of this court, declared to be estopped from making the same by reason of the acts done by it in respect to the sale of said bonds, which are hereinbefore set forth, and that said corporation ought to be enjoined from making any interference with complainants' proceedings to subject said railroad and property to payment of their bonds, or from instituting any suit at law or equity against complainants or against the governor of the State for such purpose.

XXIII. That defendant, Edward M. L'Engle, has illegally possessed himself of the shares of stock which were sold by John P. Sanderson to Milton S. Littlefield; that payment therefor was made from funds received by S. W. Hopkins & Co., from the London banker, to whom they sold said Florida State bonds (so called), which fact was well known to said Sanderson and to said L'Engle, who were, at the time of such transaction, and afterwards, the attorneys of said Littlefield and of said railroad corporations, which he controlled. Said Sanderson was also an officer of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and assisted said Littlefield in the transactions before stated, which resulted in the consolidation of said railroads and the issuance and sale of said bonds. Said L'Engle has, since the said Florida State bonds (so called) were sold, purchased from certain persons who formerly held stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company their rights as such, whatever they may be; that he has, by use of such means, brought several suits in the State courts against sundry persons concerning the property which formerly belonged to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which suits he has dismissed after causing great damage and loss to said property thereby; and complainants are informed and believe that said L'Engle intends to institute further suits, founded on the title he has so acquired, or claims to have, with a view to compel complainants to pay him a large sum of money to buy their peace and to hinder them from obtaining the relief herein sought.

472 XXIV. The said L'Engle has instituted a suit in this court in the name of Robert J. Washington, in which it is sought to obtain a decree declaring said Washington to be the lawful owner of all the shares of stock which said Littlefield purchased from said Swepson, said Houstoun, and others. The title set up in said suit is derived from said L'Engle and one J. H. Miller, and is based solely on notes given to said L'Engle by said Littlefield without valid consideration, on the pretence of a payment by Littlefield to L'Engle for services pretended to have been rendered by said L'Engle to said Littlefield and the said Florida Central and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies. Complainants are informed and believe that said Robert J. Washington has no real interest in the subject matter of said suit, and that his name is being used by said L'Engle in fraud of the jurisdiction of this court, the said L'Engle making use of the name of said Washington because he, being a citizen of Florida, is disqualified to sue in the courts of the United States.

XXV. Complainants are informed and believe that said defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, made some agreement with said George W. Swepson to perform the obligations which the latter undertook with said trustees to do, viz, to purchase said unpaid Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies' bonds; that said Littlefield did, in fact, purchase of said Edward Houstoun one hundred and three of said bonds in performance of such contract, which bonds are now deposited in the registry of this court to the credit of a cause therein pending in which Edward C. Anderson et al. are plaintiffs, and the J., P. & M. Co. et al. are defendants; that said bonds are claimed by divers persons under some contract with said Littlefield, which persons had full knowledge that said bonds were paid for out of the money for which the bonds issued by Governor Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co. were sold, as before set forth; said one hundred and three bonds have never been in the actual possession of said Littlefield. Complainants are advised that they should be delivered to said trustees of the internal improvement fund, and they should take such proceedings as may be necessary to procure the same to be done.

473 XXVI. That of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which consisted of five thousand five hundred shares, four thousand three hundred and seventy were held by Edward Houstoun at the time of his decease, which took place about two years since, as appears from the stock ledger of the Florida Central Railroad Company; that certificates of such stock were issued to said Houstoun by said company, which certificates are now in the hands of a receiver appointed by the superior court of Chatham County, in the State of Georgia, in a cause therein pending between the executors of said Houstoun and sundry other persons, in which suit the title to said stock is involved and the right thereto sought to have determined. That said Milton S. Littlefield has made a conveyance to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by which he pretends to convey to said corporation a legal title to said stock, which title he falsely pretends he held at the date of such conveyance, and which false pretense was well known to the officers of said corporation, who took from him such invalid conveyance; that the same was made and accepted to aid the said corporation to sustain the beforementioned claim of such corporation of interest in said railroad and property, and complainants insist that said corporation ought not to be allowed to make any claim under such conveyance, nor to derive any benefit or advantages therefrom.

In consideration of the premises, complainants pray that writs of subpœna may be issued out of this honorable court, directed to said defendants severally, viz: The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; the Florida Central Railroad Company; Edward Lewis, Patrick Houstoun, Robert H. Gamble, Charles E. Dyke, sr., Edward M. L'Engle, Robert Walker, Clayton A. Cowgill, George W. Betton, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Joseph B. Stewart, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, 474 D. Griffith Ambler; W. J. Hines, trustee; Mrs. F. A. Finlayson, James G. Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, The Peoples' Bank, William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams; George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration; George P. Raney, attorney-general; Walter Gwynn, treasurer, Columbus Drew, comptroller, George F. Drew, governor, as trustees of the internal improvement fund; and Robert J. Washington, commanding them to be and appear before this honorable court on a day certain to be named therein, to answer the allegations of this bill:

1. And may it please your honors to decree that complainants are entitled to be taken and held as bona fide holders of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

2. That the entire line of railroad from Jacksonville to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Mark's, and all property, real and personal, thereto pertaining, may be decreed to be subject to a lien for the payment of complainants' bonds superior to the claims of any and all persons whatever, and especially said defendants.

3. That it may be declared by the decree of this court that the sale of the said bonds by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, issued by Harrison Reed, governor, to said company, and the representations made by said company and its agents to the purchasers thereof, and the actings and doings of the officers and stockholders of said company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, herein stated and alleged, created a trust in favor of complainants, and entitles them to have the whole of said line of railroad made subject to the payment of complainants' said bonds, and that such entire line of railroad be proceeded against for such purpose, and treated as belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; and that the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company and such corporation be declared to be bound by the representations which were made by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Rail- 475 road Company to the purchasers of said bonds before alleged herein to have been made; that the line of railroad from Jacksonville west constituted one entire line of road, was the property of said last-named corporation; and that the same was subject to a lien for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds by the provisions of the acts incorporating said last-named corporation.

4. May it please your honors to decree that complainants are entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the said acts of incorporation which created a lien on said railroad and property for payment of the bonds held by complainants; and that they are entitled to demand that the governor of Florida execute the power of sale vested in him by said acts, and that he be decreed to proceed therein in the manner and for the purposes which complainants have herein stated should be done.

5. That the defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and those who hold the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, be decreed to have no longer any lien of any kind upon that portion of the said line of railroad which lies between Lake City and Quincy, with the branch to Monticello and the road from Tallahassee to St. Mark's; and that complainants have a superior equity as to such property for payment of their bonds over and above the vendor's lien claimed by said trustees and said last-mentioned bondholders to exist in their favor.

6. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company be decreed not to have any other right, title, or claim in respect of the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City than that which the said Florida Central Railroad Company and its stockholders shall be decreed to possess, and to be subject, in like manner, to the right of complainants to have said portion of said line of railroad sold for payment of complainants' bonds.

7. That the pretended organization of said board of directors, claimed to have been made under the authority of said judgment of Duval circuit court, in the suit instituted by said western division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, be declared fraudulent and void; that the said judgments be declared to be void because of the fraud committed by the parties thereto; and that the said defend- 476 ants, claiming to be president, directors, and officers of said Florida Central Railroad Company, be declared to have no lawful title to such offices; that said defendants, Robert Walker, Robert H. Gamble, and the other defendants who were chosen directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, as herein alleged by complainants, be declared to be the only proper representative of said Florida Central Railroad Company, or entitled as such to appear in this suit or otherwise act in respect of the interests of the stockholders of such company.

8. That defendants, Edward M. L'Engle and Robert J. Washington, be declared not to have any valid title to any stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that as to any such stock which may have been acquired by said L'Engle, that he be decreed to hold the same subject to the claim herein alleged to exist in favor of complainants, and that he be held to have acquired the same with full notice of all the rights which are herein asserted by complainants.

9. That the bonds issued by the said defendants, E. M. L'Engle, as president, and said Foster, Fenwick, Stewart, Sawyer, and others, as directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, be decreed to be null and void.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators writs of injunction, to be directed to said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, said Florida Central Railroad Company, and its stockholders, to said Edward M. L'Engle, said Robert J. Washington, enjoining them from instituting any proceedings at law or in equity in relation to said line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, and its property, and from seeking to interfere with the possession thereof acquired by the said George F. Drew, governor, or from intermeddling therewith.

May it please your honors to make an order herein constituting and appointing George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, receiver of this court, with special power and authority to make purchases of railroad iron, material and equipments suitable for use of said railroad, and to put said line of railroad in suitable condition for the carriage of freight and passengers, and to preserve the same from dilapidation and destruction—for such purpose to apply the net earnings 477 of said railroad thereto, and, if necessary, to make purchases on credit, to be reimbursed and paid by order of this court, and to constitute a charge on said property in like manner as the costs of the cause are by law provided; and that the said governor, as such special receiver, be authorized to demand and receive from said defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, the said sum of money herein stated to be in his hands, under said order of said Supreme Court of the United States; and that the said treasurer deliver such money to said governor, which money the said George F. Drew, governor, as such special receiver, be directed to use for the repair and preservation of said line of railroad; and that such fund be regarded in the hands of said receiver as a separate and distinct fund, to be disposed of by the decree of this court to be made herein, and subject to all proper claims, if any there be, against the same; and that the said George F. Drew, as such special receiver, be directed to render to this court an account of his actings under this order, at such specified times as may be prescribed therein.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators such other and further relief in the premises as the nature of the case may require, and as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

W. G. M. DAVIS,
Solicitor for Complainants.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Charles D. Willard, sworn, says that he is the authorized agent and attorney of each and every of the complainants in the foregoing bill mentioned; that he has received from them, and each of them, power in writing, properly authenticated, giving him authority to institute this suit, and to act for them generally in the prosecution of the rights which said complainants in said bill have set up; that he has for a long time been in correspondence with Jacobus Wertheim, a counsellor at law, residing at Amsterdam, in Holland, and who is employed, as deponent is informed and believes, by complainants to advise them in 478 respect to their rights as such bondholders; that the correspondence between deponent and said Wertheim was wholly upon such subject, and deponent was thereby informed as to the circumstances under which said bonds were purchased by complainants, and that they held the same.

Deponent further says that he has read the proceedings, or the greater part of them, which were instituted by divers plaintiffs in the courts of the United States, and those of the State of Florida, as well as in the suits instituted in New York by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; that he has seen and read proceedings of the stockholders and directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sworn statements of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of Edward Houstoun, and has generally received information as to the matters in said bill set forth from various persons, attorneys as well as others, who were familiar with such matters, and from such means of knowledge he is able to swear and does depose that the facts in the foregoing bill of complaint set forth he believes to be true; that as to the ownership by complainants of the bonds in the bill mentioned, deponent says he believes that they are owned and held by said complainants, and that they purchased the same in good faith, believing them to be what they purported on their face to be; and such belief deponent says he asserts by reason of the statements made by said complainants, sworn to by them in Amsterdam before the American consul, transmitted to deponent as such agent.

Deponent further says that the bonds of said complainants will shortly be received in the United States, and will be produced in this cause, of which fact deponent has been informed by a telegraphic dispatch sent by the Bank of Amsterdam to Mr. Adolphe Engler, of New York.

CHARLES D. WILLARD.

SCHEDULE D.

Memorandum plan.

For the reorganization of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company of Florida, to be agreed upon by and between Frank R. Sherwin, agent of the owners and holders of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of said railroad companies, of the first part, and the owners and holders of the first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies of said State, issued under the provisions of the act of January 6th, 1855, generally known as the "internal improvement act," represented by Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, in the State of Georgia, and Charles H. Simonton, of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, of the second part.

The object to be sought in said reorganization shall be the formation, under the general incorporation laws of said State, of a new company, under the name and style of The Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, for the purpose of purchasing the present lines of constructed railroads between Jacksonville and Chattahoochee, and Tallahassee and St. Marks, with branch at Monticello Junction, together with all their rolling-stock, depots, machine-shops, and all their other property, and of completing the said line of road to Mobile, in the State of Alabama.

481 To this end it is agreed between the said parties that the line of completed railway, to wit, the roads extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the road extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, known as the Florida Central Railroad, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine-shops, and all their other saleable property, shall be sold at public outcry, in accordance with law, so soon as the following antecedent arrangements, numbered "first" and "second," shall have been completed:

First. The said the parties to this agreement shall, within 30 days, select three persons who shall act as trustees in discharge of the trusts hereinafter set out; any vacancy in their number occurring by death or otherwise to be filled by the surviving trustees.

Second. The said bonds and coupons of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, held by the said parties of the second part, and the said bonds and coupons of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall be placed in the hands or under the control of the said trustees so selected, for the purpose of said trust, within thirty days from the date of the acceptance of their appointment.

The said, the governor, shall offer at public sale, according to law, said line of railroads, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine-shops, and all their other property, or such portions of it as may be legally saleable; and at the said sale the said trustees shall bid for the said property so to be exposed for sale, to the extent, if necessary, of the par value of the said bonds and past due coupons of the State of Florida so placed under their control, the aggregate amount in dollars and cents, of which said bonds and past due coupons shall be treated and received as cash at said sale by the said governor, and if such bid be the highest made at such sale or sales, the said line of railroad, together with all its property as hereinbefore detailed, shall be struck off to the said trustees so bidding, and upon the delivery to the said the governor of the said bonds and past due coupons last mentioned, he shall immediately cause the said trustees so bidding to be placed in the actual possession of all said railroad property, and full title shall be made to said trustees by the governor, the same to be held by them subject to the following conditions, namely: In trust to be conveyed by them to the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, after the following arrangements and conditions shall have been perfected and complied with:

First. Such title to the line of railroad now known as the Florida Central, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City; and such 482 title to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad which extends from Lake City to the Chattahoochee River, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's; and such right of franchise to continue the construction of said line of railway westward to the city of Mobile, as may not be perfected in the said selected trustees, by the said sale as hereinbefore provided, shall be perfected in the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, through the action and agency of the said party of the first part, and shall be so perfected as not to leave any lien or incumbrance upon said last-mentioned title or property, which shall be superior to the special mortgage lien to be created as hereinafter provided. The provisions of this clause, numbered first, to be practically carried out by the said party of the first part within six (6) months from the date of this agreement.

Second. Title having been so perfected in the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, that company shall execute an obligation in writing to the said, the selected trustees, stipulating that immediately after conveyance made to it, the said railroad property, so to be purchased as aforesaid by them (the said selected trustees), the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company shall cause the entire line of constructed railroads heretofore named to be bonded at the rate of not more than twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) per mile, which bonds shall be due forty years from date, bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually either in New York City or Amsterdam, Holland, at the option of the holders, principal and interest payable in gold, which bonds shall be a first mortgage lien upon said line of railroads, its depots, machine-shops, rolling-stock, and all of its other property.

That distinct provision shall be made in said mortgage for the issue, in the first place, of a series of said bonds equal in amount only to the par value of said surrendered bonds and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, in the event that the said lines of road formerly known as the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads should be bid off by the said selected trustees at a sum below or not exceeding the aggregate amount of said last-mentioned bonds and past due coupons; but should the said last-mentioned roads be so bid off at a sum equal to or exceeding the aggregate amount of principal of said bonds and past due coupons and interest on said coupons, then the first series of bonds to cover the full amount of said last-mentioned aggregate, and this first and distinct series of bonds so issued shall constitute a prior lien upon the said line of railroad and its said property, to secure the payment of the interest and principal of the same when due; and the first 483 said series of bonds, when so issued, shall be delivered to the owners of the said surrendered bonds and coupons of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, whereupon the said last-mentioned bonds and coupons shall be held by said trustees in trust, to be delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida for cancellation, so soon as all of the same class of bonds now outstanding shall have been surrendered to the said selected trustees, whether in exchange for the said new first-mortgage bonds or otherwise.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage that in case of default for one year by said new company in payment of interest on any of the bonds, foreclosure of said mortgage may be made for the entire amount of indebtedness secured by it, both principal and interest, and the said road and all of its property may be sold, and the proceeds derived from such sale shall be first applied to the payment of the said first series of bonds, principal and interest, and the surplus, if any, shall be applied toward the payment of the remaining or second series of said bonds.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage for the creation, at the expiration of three years from the organization of said company, of a sinking fund of one per cent. per annum in gold, payable semi-annually, upon its said bonded debt, which said sinking fund shall be semi-annually applied, as paid, to the redemption at par of the said bonds of said company, the numbers of which shall be selected by lot, and the said first series of said bonds of said company, issued as aforesaid, shall have priority of payment out of said sinking fund.

A draft of said contemplated bonds and mortgage, to be approved by the selected trustees, shall be appended as an exhibit to the said written obligation, and also a copy of the proposed charter of the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, showing powers in the said new corporation to issue such bonds and to execute such mortgage.

It shall be further stipulated in said written obligation that a sufficient number of the second series of said bonds shall be set apart and used for the purpose of placing said line of constructed railroad in first-class order and repair as to road-bed, rolling stock, and otherwise, and that said new railroad company shall be managed by a board of directors, consisting of not more than seven nor less than five members, who shall be named by the owners or holders of said State bonds, but who shall be acceptable to said selected trustees; and that in case of vacancy in said board of directors or officers of said company, by death, resignation, or otherwise, notice of any intended new appointment shall be given to the said selected trustees; and a protest in writing, 484 signed by the owners representing a majority of the said first series of bonds of said company shall operate to prevent the appointment to fill said vacancy; this provision to continue in operation for the period of six years from the organization of the said new company.

It is also further stipulated and agreed, that all funds necessary to meet the costs and expenditures incurred in such sale or sales, and in perfecting said titles thereafter, shall be supplied by the said party of the first part.

In witness whereof we, the said parties to this agreement, have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals interchangeably, this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877, at Savannah, Georgia.

To the honorable the judges of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

490 Your orator, the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, being a body corporate and politic, created and existing by and under the laws of the State of North Carolina, and a citizen of said State, brings this its bill of revivor, and respectfully shows to your honors that heretofore the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, a corporation created by and under the laws of North Carolina, filed its bill of complaints against some of the above named defendants, and afterwards, upon leave of the court in that behalf first had and obtained, added the remainder of the parties so named as defendants; that such proceedings were had and taken therein as that said bills were brought to a hearing before this honorable court at a stated term thereof held at Jacksonville, on Monday, May 19th, 1879; and that thereafter and pending the hearing of said suits, 491 the defendants suggested to the court as matter of abatement that by a statute of the State of North Carolina, approved March 13th, 1879, the charter of the Western Division of the North Carolina Railroad Company had been repealed, and all and singular its assets, property, and estates and causes of action vested in your orator.

Wherefore your orator exhibits and files this its bill of revivor, and hereby avers all and singular the matters and things in said bills alleged by and on behalf of said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and prays as in said bills was prayed; and that the United States writ of subpœna may issue to require the said defendants and each of them, to wit: George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian Meldens, Joseph Zadock, Adrian Stoop, Frank R. UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Philip Walter being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is clerk of the United States circuit court for the northern district of Florida; that soon after the granting of the order of the 22d day of May, 1877, making J. Fred Schutte and others therein named parties to this suit, he, at the request of Joseph B. Stewart, solicitor for complainant, made out and certified a copy thereof for each of the said defendants, and also at the request of said Stewart attached a subpœna, under the seal of the court, to each of said parties, and at the further request of said Stewart, who provided the means, he sent a sterling bill of exchange equal to two dollars in gold to each defendant to pay for the service of said orders and subpœnas, and enclosed the same to Charles 515 Mueller, then U. S. consul at Amsterdam, and requested him to cause said orders and subpœnas to be served; that he mailed the same to said Mueller, together with a duplicate to be returned to the clerk of this court.

Deponent further says that at a period after the time fixed in said order for their service had expired they were returned to him by said Mueller unserved.

Joseph B. Stewart, being duly sworn upon oath, states that immediately after the granting of the order of service by this court, on the 22 day of May, 1877, he caused certified copies thereof to be made, with subpœnas attached thereto, under the seal of this court, and caused the clerk, Philip Walter, esq., to endorse the same to Charles Mueler, esq., then U. S. consul at Amsterdam, Holland, requesting him to be so good as to cause the same to be served on J. Fred Schutte, Jan Prins, and other parties named as defendants in same order, to each of whom a copy of said order was addressed; that deponent likewise supplied said Walter with the means to purchase a sterling bill equal to ten dollars in gold, to pay for the serving of said orders; 517 that subsequently and long after the time for serving of said orders had expired, deponent was advised by said Walter that said orders of service were returned by said Mueller, who refused to serve the same; that deponent subsequently ascertained that said Mueler was interested with the said defendants in speculating in what is known as the "Florida State bonds" involved in this suit, and was informed and believe that because of such interest he refused to serve said order; and deponent was further advised that said Mueller was so interested when he acted judicially as U. S. consul in administering oaths and taking testimony on the part of the defendants to me before this court, in procuring an appointment for receiver for the railroads involved in this suit; that deponent, being so advised, deemed it his duty to bring the matter to the attention of the Department of State, asking the removal of said Mueler, and in that behalf was requested to exhibit and file the original orders of service, which he procured from the clerk of the court and filed as requested, and which resulted in the ultimate removal of said Mueller.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN N. C. R. R. Company
vs.
GEO. F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF FLORIDA, TRUSTEE, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile R. R. Company, et als.

Whereas the complainant company in the above cause recognizes the superior claim and lien of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, defendants in the above cause, upon the railroads and properties mentioned in the pleadings, which were sold March 20th, A. D. 1869, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid, for the balance of the purchase money bid at said sale, set forth in the answer of said trustees in this cause, and interest on said claim;

And whereas said complainant company makes no claim for the re-establishment of the bonds paid to said trustees on said sale and 521 cancelled, as set forth in the pleadings, but but hereby withdraws all such claim as may be set up in the bill of complaint for such re-establishment or surrender to it of said bonds so paid in or cancelled;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund are willing, in case it shall be decided and adjudged in this cause, that the complainant company should be permitted to pay up said balance of purchase money, and interest aforesaid, to have the right to redeem said railroads or properties by paying the said balance of purchase money and interest to said trustees, to allow or consent to said complainants having a reasonable time to make such payment:

Now, therefore, this instrument witnesseth that it is hereby agreed and stipulated between said complainant company and trustees of the internal improvement fund as follows:

1st. That the final decree in said cause shall provide for the 522 sale of the said railroads and properties to satisfy and pay up said balance of purchase money and interest, as the first and preferred claim against the same, but it shall further provide that said sale shall not take place within less than one hundred and twenty days from the date of said decree, it being, however, expressly understood and agreed that nothing herein, nor in said decree, shall prevent the advertisement of the notice of sale during said period of one hundred and twenty days or any part thereof.

2nd. The complainant company shall immediately dismiss the bill in this cause as to the treasurer of the State of Florida, and the said trustees, in so far as it involves or relates to the monies held by him, which were received from the register of the Supreme Court of the United States, said funds being the earnings of the railroad under the

The trustees assembled in the office of Comptroller Gamble on the 26th February, at three o'clock p. m., when were present Acting Governor Day and Messrs. Gamble and Adams.

On motion, the trustees proceeded to compare the bonds of the Tallahassee and Pensacola and Georgia Railroads, which were received as part of the purchase price of the above railroads from F. Dibble and associates, who bid off the same on the 20th March, 1869, with the lists of the same which had been prepared, and found the lists of the bonds and coupons to be correct; and therefore said bonds and coupons were destroyed by burning, in presence of the trustees and Messrs. McIntosh and Major Gamble.

The bonds thus destroyed were of the aggregate amount of $153,100 of the Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and $807,600 of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds.

The secretary was instructed to prepare and record from the lists taken a full record of the bonds and coupons. The secretary reported that he had caused a suit to be instituted against George W. Swepson for the balance of money in his hands belonging to the fund, and had garnisheed M. D. Papy as trustee of said Swepson.

M. D. Papy then appeared before the trustees and stated that he had no funds whatever in his hands belonging to Mr. Swepson. Then, on motion, the secretary was directed to discharge the garnishee process as against Mr. Papy.

On motion, the trustees adjourned.

L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, who are citizens of the State of Florida, and Joseph B. Stewart, who is a citizen of the 537 State of New York, claiming to be directors in said Florida Central Railroad Company; Francis Vose, who is a citizen of the State of New York; M. K. Jessup & Co., who are citizens of the same State; Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler; W. J. Hines, trustee; Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbes, who are citizens of the State of Florida; Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, who are citizens of the State of Georgia; The People's Bank, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of South Carolina, and a citizen of said State; William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams, who are citizens of the State of South Carolina; George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of the State of Florida; George P. Raney, attorney-general; Walter Gwynn, treasurer; Columbus Drew, comptroller, George F. Drew, governor, which officers are trustees of the internal improvement fund, and herein sued as such; Milton S. Littlefield, in his own right; Robert J. Washington, who is a citizen of the State of Virginia.

And thereupon your orators complain and say:

I. That on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, acting under the powers conferred upon them by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, took possession of and sold at public auction the railroads and property which belonged to and were used by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which railroads extended from Lake City to Quincy, with a branch to Monticello, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's. Said sale was made because of non-compliance with the third section of said law.

II. That said sale was fairly conducted, and made in strict compliance with the provisions of said law; that the aggregate 538 amounts for which said roads were sold was the sum of one million four hundred and fifteen thousand dollars, which sum exceeded the total amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which were issued by said corporations under the said law.

III. That F. Dibble and associates purchased said roads at said sale, and paid the purchase money, and the said trustees made deeds under their seals, by which they conveyed said property to said purchasers, reciting therein the payment of the purchase moneys, which deeds they delivered to said Dibble, and immediately placed him in possession of said railroads and property.

IV. That complainants have been informed within a short period that part of said purchase money was accepted by said trustees in said bonds issued by the said corporations, which they immediately cancelled, and the balance was placed by said trustees in the hands of Geo. W. Swepson, as agent of said trustees, with directions to purchase and deliver to them for cancellation the outstanding of said bonds of said companies, which were entitled to payment out of said fund; that said Swepson was a man in good credit, reputed to be worth at least a half million of dollars, and had that amount in Florida; that the said trustees acted in the premises within the scope of their authority and in good faith, and to carry into execution the powers with which they were vested by law.

V. That said Dibble and associates afterward became incorporated by an act of the legislature of Florida, under the name and style of Tallahassee Railroad Company, for the purpose of operating the said railroads to which they had so acquired title. Afterwards the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, and said Dibble and associates, conveyed the said railroads to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, of which Geo. W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield owned nearly the entire stock.

539 VI. That in the year 1870, the last named company, which will hereafter be spoken of as the J., P. & M. Co., obtained from the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, four thousand bonds of one thousand dollars each, which were issued by said governor in accordance with the laws incorporating said J., P. & M. Co., and which bonds purported to obligate the State of Florida to pay to the bearer thereof one thousand dollars on each bond, with interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, a copy of one of which bonds is hereto annexed, marked A, and prayed to be referred to.

VII. The said J., P. & M. Co. delivered to the governor of said State, in exchange for said four thousand bonds, which he received from him a like amount of bonds, three thousand of which were executed by the said J., P. & M. Co. and one thousand by the Florida Central Railroad Company. Said bonds were for the sum of one thousand dollars each, bearing interest at the rate of eight per cent. per annum, payable to the State of Florida. Copies of each description of said bonds are filed herewith, marked B and C, and prayed to be referred to. The execution and delivery of said bonds was done by said companies in order to comply with the terms of the laws incorporating the said J., P. & M. Co.

VIII. That when the said bonds were executed by the Florida Central Company, Milton S. Littlefield owned a large majority of its stock, and he had contracted to buy from Edward Houstoun, J. P. Sanderson and others, stock owned by them, which, added to his own, constituted all the shares of said company except about four hundred. The whole number was 5,500. That such purchases were made by said Littlefield for the purpose of making a consolidation of the Florida Central with the J., P. & M. Co., which object was known to the parties from whom Littlefield purchased said stock, and they sold to aid therein: that the one thousand bonds issued as bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and delivered to the governor, were caused to be executed and delivered by the joint action of said Houstoun and said other stockholders in order to enable the said J., P. & M. Co. to obtain from the governor of Florida State bonds (so called), and with the understanding and agreement 540 that said bonds should be sold, and said Littlefield should make payment for the stock purchased from said Houstoun and said other stockholders out of the proceeds, which he in fact did, with the exception of the stock which he purchased from said Gamble, for which he paid in part only; that the holders of some shares of stock in said Florida Central Company, other than those beforementioned, although they had notice of the acts and intentions of said Littlefield, Houstoun and said other stockholders in the foregoing paragraph set forth, took no steps to prevent the execution thereof, and remained inactive and acquiescent until long after the sale which was made of the Florida State bonds (so called), as is hereinafter set forth; that the said Littlefield, and the others who were connected with him in the management of the J., P. & M. Co., immediately after the issuance of the Florida State bonds (so called), took possession of and operated the line of railroads which formerly belonged to the Florida Central, which lies between Jacksonville and Lake City, and treated it as constituting, with the roads formerly belonging to the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, and which had become the property of the J., P. & M. Co., in the manner before stated, as the line of railroads of the said J., P. & M. Co., and took and disposed of the earnings of the whole. In the year 1871 said J., P. & M. Co. conveyed the whole of said roads, by deed, to trustees to pay debts due by the J., P. & M. Co., in which deed the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City was treated and conveyed as the property of the J., P. & M. Co. The said trustees took possession of and operated the said road conveyed to them for a considerable space of time, and without any interference on the part of any bona fide stockholders of the said Florida Central Company.

IX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. sent the bonds which they obtained from the governor of Florida to England, and sold nearly all through an agent in the city of London. Such sale was made to a banker in said city, at the price of about one hundred and thirty-eight pounds sterling per bond. The said buyer afterwards resold the said bonds through bankers in the city of Amsterdam, Holland, by whom 541 they were offered for sale to the public in said city and in other parts of the Netherlands, and which said bonds were dealt in on the stock exchange of Amsterdam as other public securities, were in full reliance by all purchasers upon the representations which were made in respect to such bonds, which are hereinafter set forth and stated; that said bonds bore a good price so long as the interest was paid thereon, bringing at one time as high as eighty-one per cent. gold in United States coin.

X. The said J., P. & M. Co., through its agents in London, represented to the public in England, Holland, Germany, and France that the said bonds were veritable and lawful obligations of the State of Florida, that the interest thereon would be punctually paid by said State, that there was provided by law of said State as a security for the payment of said bonds a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville west; which line was represented to be owned by the J., P. & M. Co. alone. That the banker by whom they were purchased in London repeated the same representation to the bankers in Amsterdam, and they to the public in the Netherlands, and to complainants, as well as to others who purchased, sold, and dealt in said bonds.

XI. That complainants are the owners of a large number of the said bonds issued by Governor Harrison Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co., and sold by its agents as before set forth, which bonds are numbered between number one and number three thousand two hundred; the numbers belonging to each of complainants are stated in affidavits made by them before the American consul in Amsterdam, which affidavits are filed herewith and are prayed to be referred to as a part of this bill. Complainants are ready to produce said bonds when required, and will be able to produce them upon their arrival in the United States, they being on the way from Amsterdam to New York, to which latter place they have been sent by complainants to Adolphe Engler, as agent of complainants, entrusted by them to deal with said bonds as may be determined to be for the interest of complainants by their agent, Charles D. Willard, and their counsel. That interest from the 1st day of applied to the governor of the State of Florida to enter upon and seize, and take possession of the line of railroads and property thereto pertaining, before described as belonging to the said J., P. & M. Co., including an extension of said railroad, which has been constructed by the said company, from Quincy to the Apalachicola River since the year 1870; and complainants say they have a right to have said railroads seized and sold for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds held by them; and in case they should desire to become purchasers at said sale they should be permitted to make payment with their said bonds as far as they may be sufficient therefor.

That interest was paid on said bonds after they were sold up to January 1st, 1873, semi-annually, by a trust company in the city of New York, which was appointed by the governor of Florida as the fiscal agent of the State to pay such interest; that the said governor gave notice to the holders of such bonds of such appointment; that it was represented to the persons who dealt in said bonds, including complainants, that the money for the payment of such interest was provided by the State; that owing to such an occurrence and such information, the belief that such bonds were lawfully issued by the governor of Florida was greatly strengthened, and full faith was also given to all that had been represented by said J., P. & M. Co. as to the extent of its own line of railroads.

XII. Complainants are informed that defendants, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H. Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simpkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G. Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M. Guerard, John C. Falligant, Louis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, The Peoples' Bank, William McBurney, and Winthrop B. Williams, together with other persons whose names and citizenship are to complainants unknown, allege that they are the holders of the outstanding and unpaid bonds which were issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies under the provision of the 3d section of the internal improvement act of 1855, and that there is a subsisting lien on the railroads which were sold

543 by said trustees to F. Dibble and associates, for the payment of said bonds, and said defendants at times assert that the original lien and power of sale given by the act aforesaid is still in force; and other times they assert that the said F. Dibble and associates did not pay to said trustees the full amount of said purchase money, and that there remains due on such account the sum of $472,065 and interest. And that said trustees, as vendors, have in equity a lien on said railroad and property for such sum of money, and they have demanded of said trustees that they proceed to enforce such lien irrespective of the paramount lien which complainants herein assert to exist for payment of their bonds. All of which pretenses and claims, made by the holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, complainants allege to be without support in fact, and they are advised that they are not well founded in law. Complainants insist that the holders of said bonds are bound by the acts of said trustees; that such acts were done in the exercise of powers conferred upon them by the law of 1855, and that even if they acted in bad faith and corruptly when they executed and delivered the said deed of said property to said F. Dibble, and entrusted said Swepson with said money and accepted his obligation to purchase for them said outstanding bonds, complainants, as bona fide purchasers, as they allege themselves to be, without actual notice of any wrong or fraud on the part of said trustees or of said Dibble and associates, or of said Swepson, and claiming as they do under the title created by the contract made between the said Dibble and associates and the J., P. & M. Co., and the subsequent contract and trust created by the acts of the legislature which incorporated the said J., P. & M. Co., are not affected thereby, nor liable to be postponed to any vendor's lien in favor of said trustees, such as is asserted to exist by said P. & G. and Talla. bondholders; that the complainants' right to subject said railroad to payment of their bonds arises out of conveyances of the legal title made by the purchasers from the said trustees and those to whom they conveyed, and that there is no privity of contract between complainants and the said trustees. Complainants claim under the legal title, and therefore have a higher and better equity to payment out of said railroad and property than any which can be set up by the 544 holders of said unpaid P. and G. and Talla. bonds, and complainants insist that the P. & G. and Talla. bondholders have failed to cause the said trustees to sue the said Swepson to recover the amount due by him, and for which said trustees hold his written obligation; and complainants insist that until such proceeding has been taken and has proved to be ineffectual, and until it appears that said trustees have not lost their remedy against said Swepson by reason of any laches on their part, the said bondholders, who assert that they are entitled to a lien on said railroad superior to the equities which are by complainants stated herein to exist in their favor, should be enjoined from maintaining or asserting any such lien.

Complainants insist that no such claim as is attempted to be set up by said bondholders should be entertained in a court of equity, because of the time which has elapsed since the happening of the events and the doing of the acts by said trustees and said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, upon which the said bondholders rely to sustain their claim, all of which transactions took place in the year 1869, and as to which the persons by whom the outstanding bonds of the P. & G. and Talla. Co.'s were owned at the time had full notice, and that said Vose and many of said defendants, having like securities, have purchased within a short time for purposes of speculation and litigation with full notice; that the persons who held said bonds in March, 1869, had notice of the transactions herein stated in relation to said railroads, which were done by said Dibble and associates, and also of the passage of the laws disposing of and transferring the said railroads, the creation of said Tallahassee and of said J., P. & M. Co.'s, and the authority given by law to the latter company to create a lien on said railroads, and under which lien it is that complainants seek payment of their bonds; that as such persons had such knowledge and information and did not take any proceedings, such as they might have taken, to prevent the J., P. & M. Co. from doing what they were authorized to do by their charter, they, the said holders of P. & G. and Talla. bonds, have no right now to object to any of the acts that were done by said corporation under such authority of law, but that they are estopped to deny the legal consequences which arise out of such acts. Complainants state they are 545 advised that the said P. & G. and Talla. bonds never constituted a lien on the roads owned by said companies for any sum of money other than the principal of such bonds; that the interest thereof was secured by the land-trust fund created by the act of 1855, and complainants are informed, and therefore allege, that said fund is ample security for such interest, and they insist that the holders of said bonds, whatever claim they may have, should be required to exhaust such fund before resorting to a security such as the railroad, which is not common to them and complainants. Complainants are advised that the said bondholders had the right to have the sinking fund, which was provided by the act of 1855, collected and invested in the manner specified in said act, and in case of any loss of any part thereof by the acts of the trustees, that they had a remedy against them and also a right to have the loss made good to them out of the proceeds of the sale of the land conveyed to the trustees by the State, and complainants insist that said bondholders should be restricted to such sinking fund and to such remedies for the collection and restoration thereof as are herein stated to exist and open to be pursued by them.

XIII. That the defendants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, Edward M. L'Engle, falsely pretending that they were bona-fide holders of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and claiming that they were legally authorized to elect a president and directors of said company, held an illegal meeting and chose Edward M. L'Engle president, and James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Joseph B. Stewart, Charles B. Fenwick, and George R. Foster directors, none of whom were stockholders in said corporation; and they appointed Charles B. Fenwick secretary and George R. Foster treasurer thereof; that immediately after they issued a large number of certificates of stock represented to be stock of Florida Central Railroad Company in favor of themselves and sundry other persons who have combined with them to defraud the State and the public at large, and especially to vex, 546 harrass, and injure complainants; that they have formed a plan, and are about to make and issue bonds in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and to execute a mortgage of the railroad and property which was formerly owned by said corporation, and intend sharing such bonds among themselves with the intention to dispose of them for money; that said George W. Swepson has some interest in said scheme, and is to receive a large number of said bonds.

That said defendants, Littlefield, L'Engles, Sawyer, Stewart, Baker, Lawton, and others, pretend that they formed such organization and held such election under a judgment rendered by the judge of the fourth judicial circuit court of the State of Florida. Complainants are informed, and so allege, that the judgment of said court was procured by fraud. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, an insolvent corporation, acting by one Jos. B. Stewart, filed a petition for mandamus in said court, and by collusion with Milton S. Littlefield and said last-named defendants, and others to complainants unknown, alleged said North Carolina corporation to be a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad Company; and that said Littlefield and others were made defendants in such mandamus proceeding, and who owned no stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and they made no resistance to the prayer of the petition, but falsely answered that they were such stockholders; that no persons who were bona fide stockholders in said Florida Central Railroad Company were parties to such proceedings; that the persons who participated were not holders of bona fide certificates of shares of stock in said corporation, as will fully appear by the entries on the transfer book and stock ledger of said company, up to the tenth day of April, 1872. And complainants insist that said judgment of said State court should be adjudged and held to be void because of the fraud in procuring the same. And the said defendants, Milton S. Littlefield, Joseph B. Stewart, N. K. Sawyer, James M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company should be enjoined from asserting themselves to be stockholders in or officers of said company, and that they be ordered to refrain from issuing any of the bonds and from the execution of the mortgage before 547 alleged to be in course of preparation, and if any such papers have been executed, that they should be directed to deliver them to an officer of this court to be designated herein; that the said defendants should be also required to deliver to said officer any seal in their possession which has been used by them or by any one under their authority as the seal of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

XIV. That the governor of the State of Florida has seized the whole line of railroad, and the property thereto pertaining, which was formerly owned by the Florida Central Railroad Company, as well as that from Lake City to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Mark's and has advertised the same for sale; but he has described in the advertisement the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City as the property of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and has stated that said road is seized and that he will sell the same for default made by said company on bonds delivered by it to the governor of the State. Complainants are satisfied that the now governor of the State deems such proceedings proper; but complainants are advised that so far as they are concerned they have the right to demand that the said railroad between Jacksonville and Lake City should be seized by the governor and sold as forming with the railroad west of Lake City an entire line and as the property of the said J., P. & M. Co.

XV. That the governor of Florida declares in the advertisement made by him, in which he gives notice of the intended sale of the railroad from Lake City to Quincy and the branch to Monticello and that from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, that such sale will be made subject to a prior lien thereon for unpaid purchase money claimed to be due by the holders of the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and which they claim are secured as is hereinbefore set forth. Complainants insist that the governor has erred in declaring that such lien exists, and that it was his duty to make sale of said railroads and property clear of all lien or claim of any kind, and as being bound solely to pay the said bonds which complainants own and that the governor should be instructed by this honorable court so to proceed in the exercise of the power of sale vested in him by the acts which incorporated the J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are satisfied that the governor is ready and willing so to do when directed by the decree of this honorable court.

XVI. That the complainants being averse to litigation, and fearing that if driven to assert what they are advised are their full rights in a court of equity, they would be subjected to great cost and delay, and being informed that said railroads and property thereto pertaining were greatly dilapidated and in bad condition to carry freight and passengers, and that no means of placing said property in proper condition by suitable construction and repair existed, sought, by making concessions to the persons by whom the said bonds issued by the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies are owned, to have a speedy sale of said last-mentioned railroads, and to that end they authorized an agent to act for them in the United States and to join in a plan, a copy of which is hereto annexed, marked D. And that a majority of the holders of said bonds have assented to said plan of settlement. but the said defendant, Francis Vose, combined with a minority of said bondholders, and took such legal proceedings as prevents such compromise settlement from being carried into execution. Complainants are willing to consent that a decree be made and entered in this cause, making provision for the sale of the said railroads and property upon the basis in said plan contained, provided that the said trustees of the internal improvement fund and the holders of the said bonds issued by the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies agree that such decree be made.

XVII. Complainants are informed that some time in the year eighteen hundred and seventy-five the persons who held a majority of the shares of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company at the time when said transactions took place, whereby the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City became consolidated with that owned by said J., P. & 549 M. Co., and by which means such railroad became pledged for the payment of complainants' bonds, met in Tallahassee and elected certain persons, viz, said Edward Lewis, B. Williams (now deceased), Patrick Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, C. E. Dyke, sr., E. M. L'Engle, R. Walker, C. A. Cowgill, and G. W. Betton as directors of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; that such persons took upon themselves such offices and acted therein; that no president of said corporation was attempted to be elected, but that Robert Walker was authorized to act in lieu of such president. Complainants are advised that it is not material to them whether said corporation was dissolved by the proceedings which are hereinbefore set forth as to the consolidation of said railroads, and they do not, therefore, ask in this their bill that such dissolution be declared to have taken place, unless the same be necessary to enable the said complainants to obtain payment of their bonds; and complainants allege that if such Florida Central Railroad Company is still in existence as a corporation, that the persons before mentioned are the only persons who can by law represent said company, because, as complainants are informed, there has been no meeting of the persons who held said stock in said company since that last before stated.

XVIII. That said persons acting in said capacities were parties in a certain suit commenced in the State circuit court and finally determined in the supreme court of the State, wherein the State of Florida and trustees of the internal improvement fund were complainants in the first court, in which suit questions of law and fact were presented for adjudication, and which were determined by said supreme court, touching the liability of the line of railroad and property between Jacksonville and Lake City for the payment of the bonds delivered by the governor of the State to the J., P. & M. Co. before mentioned, and as to whether the said Florida Central Railroad Company was or not, by the acts done by its stockholders and directors, estopped from denying such liability as against the claim which complainants have hereinbefore alleged in respect to such line of railroad for payment of said bonds. The said supreme court, by its judgment rendered in said cause, deter- 550 mined such questions of law and fact in favor of the claim so made by complainants, and they are advised and insist that they are entitled to rely upon and they do herein claim and rely upon said judgment of said supreme court as a conclusive judgment in their favor as to such matters, and as binding on the Florida Central Railroad Company, if there be such corporation, and upon all persons who claim to be owners of stock therein.

XIX. That Daniel P. Holland, who was likewise a defendant in the said case in the State circuit court, prosecuted an appeal to the supreme court from a judgment rendered by said circuit court in said cause, adverse to said Holland, which appeal was finally heard and determined by the said supreme court; that among other questions of law and fact therein made and decided, the said supreme court by its judgment determined that the acts incorporating the said J., P. & M. Co., the issuance of said bonds by Governor Reed to it, the sale thereof by said company to the complainants and others, created a trust in fovor of the bona fide holders of said bonds, that a lien on the railroad and property for the payment of said bonds existed, and that a power of sale by said acts of incorporation conferred on the governor of the State must be executed by him for the purpose and in the manner in said acts specified; and complainants are advised and insist that they are entitled to and do plead and rely on such judgment in support of the claim which they herein allege to exist as to such lien, to the existence of such trusts, and as to their right to have the line of railroad which formerly belonged to the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company, sold by the governor in the manner and for the purposes which they have hereinbefore alleged in respect thereof; and complainants produce herewith the judgments of the said supreme court in said several cases, and pray leave to refer thereto as a part of their bill of complaint.

XX. That the said J., P. & M. Co. was a party to said suit so brought by the State and the trustees aforesaid, and that they appear therein and answered the complaints filed in said suit, and admitted the issuance of said bonds by the governor of the State, and did not 551 deny its liability to pay said bonds, nor that there was a lien existing thereof, such as was determined to exist by said supreme court; said answer was sworn to by said Milton S. Littlefield, as the president of said company; that complainant produces herewith a true copy of said answer, and prays leave to refer thereto when necessary.

XXI. Complainants have procured the whole of said line of railroad, its workshops, depots, and rolling stock, to be examined by a competent and skillful railroad engineer, who reports that the said property is not fit for the safe transportation of passengers and freight, and cannot be profitably operated therefor; that the iron rails are badly worn; the cross-ties decayed; that the rolling stock is insufficient and old and inadequate; that it will cost a large sum to put such property in porper condition, more than the net earnings of said railroad will furnish, and that if said road is put in good working order, a large increase of such net earnings may be reasonably expected. Complainants are assured that money and material to put such road and property in good working order can be obtained, provided that such means when advanced by any persons can be secured to be paid out of the money arising from the sale of said road, and the same made a lien, as costs in this cause, by an order of this honorable court, directing the doing of such work, and authorizing the procurement of the necessary material and money therefor. Complainants are advised that the governor of the State has not the power to make any contract for such purposes, and that in consequence he cannot procure the necessary material and money; and complainants submit to this honorable court whether or not the governor of the State should be invested by an order made in this cause with the powers of a receiver to this court, and with authority and power to obtain money and purchase material for the purposes before stated, and provision made in said order providing for the needful security for payment of the liabilities to be incurred in such behalf. Complainants are informed that there is now in the hands of the treasurer of the State of Florida a sum of money amounting to about thirty thousand dollars, paid to him by Robert Walker, receiver, by order and direction of the said court, in which E. C. Anderson et al. were defendants, and the State of Florida plaintiff; such money is the balance of the earnings of the line of road from Lake City, west, which came to the hands of said receiver, and which money the said court directed should be held by the said treasurer, subject to the order of a court of competent jurisdiction; and complainants are advised that said sum of money is a proper fund to be applied to the repair of said railroad and property, and they insist that they have the right to have the same so applied by order of this court.

XXII. Complainants are informed, and upon such information allege and state, that the defendant, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, united with said Littlefield, said Swepson, and said S. W. Hopkins & Co. in procuring the governor, Harrison Reed, to issue and deliver to said J., P. & M. Co. the said State bonds (so called) and in all the acts and representations done and made by said J., P. & M. Co., its officers and agents, and in the sale which said S. W. Hopkins & Co. made of said bonds, and that said North Carolina corporation received a portion of the proceeds of such sale, and contracted with said Swepson and said Lit'field, and with authorized agents of said J., P. & M. Co., for the payment to said North Carolina corporation, by the parties to said contract, of the sum of six hundred thousand dollars and upwards, such payment to be made out of the money to be received by said S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the sale of said bonds, to enforce which payment said North Carolina corporation brought suit in a court of the State of New York against said Hopkins & Co. and said J., P. & M. Co. Complainants are informed that said North Carolina corporation now alleges that the bonds held by complainants and others, which said corporation in part contributed to induce the present holders thereof, or those from whom they purchased, to take and pay for, as the bonds of the State of Florida, are not legal and valid obligations, and that the holders thereof are not entitled to the payment of the same in the manner and from the source which complainants herein assert themselves to be entitled to, and are seeking to obtain in this, their bill of complaint, all of which pretences, set 553 up by said North Carolina corporation, are made by them in bad faith, and in violation of equity and against good conscience; the said corporation is, and should be, by the decree of this court, declared to be estopped from making the same by reason of the acts done by it in respect to the sale of said bonds, which are hereinbefore set forth, and that said corporation ought to be enjoined from making any interference with complainants' proceedings to subject said railroad and property to payment of their bonds, or from instituting any suit at law or equity against complainants or against the governor of the State for such purpose.

XXIII. That defendant, Edward M. L'Engle, has illegally possessed himself of the shares of stock which were sold by John P. Sanderson to Milton S. Littlefield; that payment therefor was made from funds received by S. W. Hopkins & Co. from the London banker to whom they sold said Florida State bonds (so called), which fact was well known to said Sanderson and to said L'Engle, who were, at the time of such transaction and afterwards, the attorneys of said Littlefield and of said railroad corporations, which he controlled. Said Sanderson was also an officer of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and assisted said Littlefield in the transactions before stated, which resulted in the consolidation of said railroads, and the issuance and sale of said bonds. Said L'Engle has, since the said Florida State bonds (so called) were sold, purchased from certain persons who formerly held stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company their rights as such, whatever they may be; that he has, by use of such means, brought several suits in the State courts against sundry persons concerning the property which formerly belonged to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which suits he has dismissed after causing great damage and loss to said property thereby; and complainants are informed and believe that said L'Engle intends to institute further suits, founded on the title he has so acquired, or claims to have, with a view to compel complainants to pay him a large sum of money to buy their peace, and to hinder them from obtaining the relief herein sought.

554 XXIV. The said L'Engle has instituted a suit in this court in the name of Robert J. Washington, in which it is sought to obtain a decree declaring said Washington to be the lawful owner of all the shares of stock which said Littlefield purchased from said Swepson, said Houstoun and others. The title set up in said suit is derived from said L'Engle and one J. H. Miller, and is based solely on notes given to said L'Engle by said Littlefield without valid consideration, on the pretence of a payment by Littlefield to L'Engle for services pretended to have been rendered by said L'Engle to said Littlefield and the said Florida Central and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies. Complainants are informed and believe that said Robert J. Washington has no real interest in the subject-matter of said suit, and that his name is being used by said L'Engle in fraud of the jurisdiction of this court, the said L'Engle making use of the name of said Washington because he, being a citizen of Florida, is disqualified to sue in the courts of the United States.

XXV. Complainants are informed and believe that said defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, made some agreement with said George W. Swepson to perform the obligations which the latter undertook with said trustees to do, viz, to purchase said unpaid Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies' bonds; that said Littlefield did, in fact, purchase of said Edward Houstoun one hundred and three of said bonds in performance of such contract, which bonds are now deposited in the registry of this court to the credit of a cause therein pending, in which Edward C. Anderson et al. are plaintiffs and the J., P. & M. Co. et al. are defendants; that said bonds are claimed by divers persons under some contract with said Littlefield, which persons had full knowledge that said bonds were paid for out of the money for which the bonds issued by Governor Reed to the said J., P. & M. Co. were sold as before set forth; said one hundred and three bonds have never been in the actual possession of said Littlefield. Complainants are advised that they should be delivered to said trustees of the internal improvement fund, and they should take such proceedings as may be necessary to procure the same to be done.

555 XXVI. That of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which consisted of five thousand five hundred shares, four thousand three hundred and seventy were held by Edward Houstoun at the time of his decease, which took place about two years since, as appears from the stock ledger of the Florida Central Railroad Company; that certificates of such stock were issued to said Houstoun by said company, which certificates are now in the hands of a receiver appointed by the superior court of Chatham County, in the State of Georgia, in a cause therein pending between the executors of said Houstoun and sundry other persons, in which suit the title to said stock is involved, and the right thereto sought to have determined. That said Milton S. Littlefield has made a conveyance to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by which he pretends to convey to said corporation a legal title to said stock, which title he falsely pretends he held at the date of such conveyance, and which false pretense was well known to the officers of said corporation, who took from him such invalid conveyance; that the same was made and accepted to aid the said corporation to sustain the before-mentioned claim of such corporation of interest in said railroad and property, and complainants insist that said corporation ought not to be allowed to make any claim under such conveyance, nor to derive any benefit or advantages therefrom.

In consideration of the premises, complainants pray that writs of subpœna may be issued out of this honorable court, directed to said defendants severally, viz: The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, Edward Lewis, Patrick Houstoun, Robert H. Gamble, Charles E. Dyke, sr., Edward M. L'Engle, Robert Walker, Clayton A. Cowgill, George W. Betton, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, W. J. Lawton, Milton S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Edward M. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Joseph B. Stewart, Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., Chandler H.
556 Smith, S. A. Smith, sr., Smith Simkins, B. C. Lewis, D. Griffith Ambler, W. J. Hines, trustee, Mrs. A. F. Finlayson, James G.

Gibbs, Edward C. Anderson, James Hunter, E. Waitzfeller, John M Guerard, John C. Falligant, Lewis F. Nicoll, George Robertson, J. A. Hunnicutt, The People's Bank, William McBurney, Winthrop B. Williams, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration, George P. Raney, attorney-general, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, Columbus Drew, comptroller, George F. Drew, governor, as trustees of the internal improvement fund, and Robert J. Washington, commanding them to be and appear before this honorable court on a day certain to be named therein, to answer the allegations of this bill.

1. And may it please your honors to decree that complainants are entitled to be taken and held as bona fide holders of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

2. That the entire line of railroad from Jacksonville to the Apalachicola River, with the branches to Monticello and St. Marks, and all property, real and personal, thereto pertaining, may be decreed to be subject to a lien for the payment of complainants' bonds superior to the claims of any and all persons whatever, and especially said defendants.

3. That it may be declared by the decree of this court that the sale of the said bonds by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, issued by Harrison Reed, governor, to said company, and the representations made by said company and its agents to the purchasers thereof, and the actings and doings of the officers and stockholders of said company and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, herein stated and alleged, created a trust in favor of complainants, and entitles them to have the whole of said line of railroad made subject to the payment of complainants' said bonds, and that such entire line of railroad be proceeded against for such purpose, and treated as belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; and that the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company and such corporation be declared to be bound by the representations which were made by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and 557 Mobile Railroad Company to the purchasers of said bonds before alleged herein to have been made; that the line of railroad from Jacksonville west constituted one entire line of road, was the property of said last-named corporation, and that the same was subject to a lien for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds by the provisions of the acts incorporating said last-named corporation.

4. May it please your honors to decree that complainants are entitled to the benefit of the provisions of the said acts of incorporation which created a lien on said railroad and property for payment of the bonds held by complainants, and that they are entitled to demand that the governor of Florida execute the power of sale vested in him by said acts, and that he be decreed to proceed therein in the manner and for the purposes which complainants have herein stated should be done.

5. That the defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and those who hold the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds be decreed to have no longer any lien of any kind upon that portion of the said line of railroad which lies between Lake City and Quincy, with the branch to Monticello and the road from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and that complainants have a superior equity as to such property for payment of their bonds over and above the vendor's lien claimed by said trustees and said last-mentioned bondholders to exist in their favor.

6. That the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company be decreed not to have any other right, title, or claim in respect of the line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City than that which the said Florida Central Railroad Company and its stockholders shall be decreed to possess, and to be subject, in like manner, to the right of complainants to have said portion of said line of railroad sold for payment of complainants' bonds.

7. That the pretended organization of said board of directors claimed to have been made under the authority of said judgment of Duval circuit court in the suit instituted by said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company be declared fraudulent and void; that the said judgments be declared to be void because of the fraud committed by the parties thereto, and that the said defendants 558 claiming to be president, directors, and officers of said Florida Central Railroad Company be declared to have no lawful title to such offices; that said defendants, Robert Walker, Robert H. Gamble, and the other defendants who were chosen directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, as herein alleged by complainants, be declared to be the only proper representative of said Florida Central Railroad Company, or entitled as such to appear in this suit or otherwise act in respect of the interests of the stockholders of such company.

8. That defendants, Edward M. L'Engle and Robert J. Washington, be declared not to have any valid title to any stock in said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that as to any such stock which may have been acquired by said L'Engle, that he be decreed to hold the same subject to the claim herein alleged to exist in favor of complainants, and that he be held to have acquired the same with full notice of all the rights which are herein asserted by complainants.

9. That the bonds issued by the said defendants, E. M. L'Engle, as president, and said Foster, Fenwick, Stewart, Sawyer, and others, as directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company, be decreed to be null and void.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators writs of injunction, to be directed to said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, said Florida Central Railroad Company, and its stockholders, to said Edward M. L'Engle, said Robert J. Washington, enjoining them from instituting any proceedings at law, or in equity, in relation to said line of railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, and its property, and from seeking to interfere with the possession thereof acquired by the said George F. Drew, governor, or from intermeddling therewith.

May it please your honors to make an order herein constituting and appointing George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, receiver of this court, with special power and authority to make purchases of railroad iron, material, and equipments suitable for use of said railroad, and to put said line of railroad in suitable condition for the carriage of freight and passengers, and to preserve the same from dilapidation 559 and destruction; for such purpose to apply the net earnings of said railroad thereto; and, if necessary, to make purchases on credit, to be reimbursed and paid by order of this court, and to constitute a charge on said property in like manner as the costs of the cause are by law provided; and that the said governor, as such special receiver, be authorized to demand and receive from said defendant, Walter Gwynn, treasurer, the said sum of money herein stated to be in his hands, under said order of said Supreme Court of the United States; and that the said treasurer deliver such money to said governor, which money the said George F. Drew, governor, as such special receiver, be directed to use for the repair and preservation of said line of railroad; and that such fund be regarded in the hands of said receiver as a separate and distinct fund, to be disposed of by the decree of this court to be made herein, and subject to all proper claims, if any there be, against the same; and that the said George F. Drew, as such special receiver, be directed to render to this court an account of his actings under this order, at such specified times as may be prescribed therein.

And may it please your honors to grant unto your orators such other and further relief in the premises as the nature of the case may require, and as may be agreeable to equity and good conscience.

W. G. M. DAVIS,
Solicitor for Complainants.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Northern District of Florida:

Charles D. Willard, sworn, says that he is the authorized agent and attorney of each and every of the complainants in the foregoing bill mentioned; that he has received from them, and each of them, power in writing, properly authenticated, giving him authority to institute this suit, and to act for them generally in the prosecution of the rights which said complainants in said bill have set up; that he has for a long time been in correspondence with Jacobus Wertheim, a counsellor at law, residing at Amsterdam, in Holland, and who is employed, as deponent is informed and believes, by complainants to advise them in respect 560 to their rights as such bondholders; that the correspondence between deponent and said Wertheim was wholly upon such subject, and deponent was thereby informed as to the circumstances under which said bonds were purchased by complainants, and that they held the same.

Deponent further says that he has read the proceedings, or the greater part of them, which were instituted by divers plaintiffs in the courts of the United States and those of the State of Florida, as well as in the suits instituted in New York by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; that he has seen and read proceedings of the stockholders and directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sworn statements of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of Edward Houstoun, and has generally received information as to the matters in said bill set forth from various persons, attorneys, as well as others, who were familiar with such matters, and that from such means of knowledge he is able to swear and does depose that the facts in the foregoing bill of complaint set forth he believes to be true; that as to the ownership by complainants of the bonds in the bill mentioned, deponent says he believes that they are owned and held by said complainants, and that they purchased the same in good faith, believing them to be what they purported on their face to be, and such belief, deponent says, he asserts by reason of the statements made by said complainants, sworn to by them in Amsterdam, before the American consul, transmitted to deponent as such agent.

Deponent further says that the bonds of said complainants will shortly be received in the United States, and will be produced in this cause, of which fact deponent has been informed by a telegraphic dispatch sent by the Bank of Amsterdam to Mr. Adolphe Engier, of New York.

CHARLES D. WILLARD.

SCHEDULE D.

Memorandum plan.

For the reorganization of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company of Florida, to be agreed upon by and between Frank R. Sherwin, agent of the owners and holders of the bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of said railroad companies, of the first part; and the owners and holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies of said State, issued under the provisions of the act of January 6th, 1855, generally known as the "internal improvement act," represented by Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, in the State of Georgia, and Charles H. Simonton, of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, of the second part.

The object to be sought in said reorganization shall be the formation, under the general incorporation laws of said State, of a new company, under the name and style of "The Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company," for the purpose of purchasing the present lines of constructed railroads between Jacksonville and Chattahoochee, and Tallahassee and St. Mark's, with branch at Monticello Junction, together with all their rolling stock, depots, machine-shops, and all their other property, and of completing the said line of road to Mobile, in the State of Alabama.

564 To this end it is agreed between the said parties that the line of completed railway, to wit, the roads extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the road extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, known as the Florida Central Railroad, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine shops, and all their other saleable property, shall be sold at public outcry, in accordance with law, so soon as the following antecedent arrangements, numbered "first" and "second," shall have been completed:

First. The said the parties to this agreement, shall within 30 days, select three persons, who shall act as trustees in discharge of the trusts hereinafter set out; any vacancy in their number occurring by death or otherwise to be filled by the surviving trustees.

Second. The said bonds and coupons of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, held by the said parties of the second part, and the said bonds and coupons of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall be placed in the hands or under the control of the said trustees so selected, for the purpose of said trust, within thirty days from the date of the acceptance of their appointment.

The said the governor shall offer at public sale, according to law, said line of railroads, together with all their depots, rolling-stock, machine-shops, and all their other property, or such portions of it as may be legally saleable; and at the said sale the said trustees shall bid for the said property so to be exposed for sale to the extent, if necessary, of the par value of the said bonds and past due coupons of the State of Florida so placed under their control, the aggregate amount in dollars and cents, of which said bonds and past due coupons shall be treated and received as cash at said sale by the said governor, and if such bid be the highest made at such sale or sales the said line of railroad, together with all its property as hereinbefore detailed, shall be struck off to the said trustees so bidding, and upon the delivery to the said the governor of the said bonds and past due coupons last mentioned, he shall immediately cause the said trustees so bidding to be placed in the actual possession of all said railroad property, and full title shall be made to said trustees by the governor, the same to be held by them subject to the following conditions, namely, in trust to be conveyed by them to the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, after the following arrangements and conditions shall have been perfected and complied with:

First. Such title to the line of railroad now known as the Florida
title to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad which extends from Lake City to the Chattahoochee River, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's; and such right of franchise to continue the construction of said line of railway westward to the city of Mobile as may not be perfected in the said selected trustees by the said sale, as hereinbefore provided, shall be perfected in the said the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, through the action and agency of the said party of the first part, and shall be so perfected as not to leave any lien or incumbrance upon said last mentioned title or property which shall be superior to the special mortgage lien to be created as hereinafter provided. The provisions of this clause numbered first to be practically carried out by the said party of the first part within six (6) months from the date of this agreement.

Second. Title having been so perfected in the said The Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, that company shall execute an obligation in writing to the said the selected trustees, stipulating that immediately after conveyance made to it the said railroad property, so to be purchased as aforesaid by them (the said selected trustees), the said The Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company shall cause the entire line of constructed railroads heretofore named to be bonded at the rate of not more than twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) per mile, which bonds shall be due forty years from date, bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually either in New York City or Amsterdam, Holland, at the option of the holders, principal and interest payable in gold, which bonds shall be a first-mortgage lien upon said line of railroad, its depots, machine-shops, rolling-stock, and all of its other property.

That distinct provision shall be made in said mortgage for the issue, in the first place, of a series of said bonds equal in amount only to the par value of said surrendered bonds and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, in the event that the said lines of road formerly known as the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads should be bid off by the said selected trustees at a sum below or not exceeding the aggregate amount of said last-mentioned bonds and past due coupons; but should the said last-mentioned roads be so bid off at a sum equal to or exceeding the aggregate amount of principal of said bonds and past due coupons and interest on said coupons, then the first series of bonds to cover the full amount of said last-mentioned aggregate, and this first and distinct series of bonds so issued, shall constitute a prior lien upon the said line of railroad and its said property, to secure the payment of the interest and principal of the same when due; and the first said 566 series of bonds, when so issued, shall be delivered to the owners of the said surrendered bonds and coupons of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, whereupon the said last-mentioned bonds and coupons shall be held by said trustees in trust, to be delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida for cancellation, so soon as all of the same class of bonds now outstanding shall have been surrendered to the said selected trustees, whether in exchange for the said new first mortgage bonds or otherwise.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage that in case of default for one year by said new company in payment of interest on any of the bonds, foreclosure of said mortgage may be made for the entire amount of indebtedness secured by it, both principal and interest, and the said road and all of its said property may be sold, and the proceeds derived from such sale shall be first applied to the payment of the said first series of bonds, principal and interest, and the surplus, if any, shall be applied toward the payment of the remaining or second series of said bonds.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage for the creation, at the expiration of three years from the organization of said company, of a sinking fund of one per cent. per annum in gold, payable semi-annually, upon its said bonded debt, which said sinking fund shall be semi-annually applied, as paid, to the redemption at par of the said bonds of said company, the numbers of which shall be selected by lot, and the said first series of said bonds of said company, issued as aforesaid, shall have priority of payment out of said sinking fund.

A draft of said contemplated bonds and mortgage, to be approved by the selected trustees, shall be appended as an exhibit to the said written obligation, and also a copy of the proposed charter of the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, showing powers in the said new corporation to issue such bonds and to execute such mortgage.

It shall be further stipulated in said written obligation that a sufficient number of the second series of said bonds shall be set apart and used for the purpose of placing said line of constructed railroad in first class order and repair as to roadbed, rolling stock, and otherwise, and that said new railroad company shall be managed by a board of directors, consisting of not more than seven nor less than five members, who shall be named by the owners or holders of said State bonds, but who shall be acceptable to said selected trustees; and that in case of vacancy in said board of directors or officers of said company, by death, resignation, or otherwise, notice of any intended new appointment shall be given to the said selected trustees; and a protest in writing, 567 signed by the owners representing a majority of the said first series of bonds of said company, shall operate to prevent the appointment to fill said vacancy; this provision to continue in operation for the period of six years from the organization of the said new company.

It is also further stipulated and agreed that all funds necessary to meet the costs and expenditures incurred in such sale or sales, and in perfecting said titles thereafter, shall be supplied by the said party of the first part.

In witness whereof, we, the said parties to this agreement, have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals interchangeably, this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877, at Savannah, Georgia.

United States circuit court, northern district of Florida.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, ADRIANUS Prins, Elias Fuld, et al., complainants,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company; The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; The Florida Central Railroad Company, et al., defendants.

The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by protestation, not admitting any of the matters and things in complainants' bill to be true, as therein alleged, to be good and sufficient in law to be answered unto, but reserving all and every exception to the manifold errors and insufficiencies therein contained, for answer thereto, or so much thereof as this defendant is advised is material and proper it should answer unto, answering, says:

1st. This defendant admits that the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, on the 20th of March, 1869, sold the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, as in complainants' bill alleged.

2d. This defendant does not admit that said sale was fairly conducted or executed according to law, but does admit that the said two (2) roads sold for the sum of $1,214,000, but as to whether such sum exceeded the amount of the principal of the bonds referred to, as alleged in complainants' bill, this defendant has no knowledge.

585 3d. This defendant admits that a party, called F. Dibble and associates, purchased such roads at such sale, but denies most positively that said Dibble and associates paid a dollar of purchase money for said roads at the time of said sale, or at any other time, but, on the contrary, the only consideration paid for said roads was $963,300 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, which were the property of this defendant, fraudulently used and appropriated for the purpose of the purchase of said roads, as will be hereinafter stated.

4th. Defendant admits that the said trustees of the internal improvement fund made and executed two separate deeds to said F. Dibble and associates, conveying said two railroads, reciting therein the payment and receipt of the sum of $1,220,000 for the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, and the sum of $195,000 for the purchase of said Tallahassee Railroad, which deeds were delivered to said F. Dibble and associates, who were placed in possession of said railroads together with all their property, but this defendant states that said recitals of payment were absolutely false, there being no cash paid whatever, nor any real payment except the said $960,300 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, the property of this defendant, as aforesaid, the same having been purchased with its money fraudulently used and appropriated by its fiduciaries and agents, Geo. W. Swepson and Edward Houstoun, as will be hereinafter stated.

5th. Defendant has no knowledge of the information lately received by the complainants, as alleged in the IV paragraph of their bill, as to the fact "that part of said purchase money was accepted by said trustees in said bonds issued by the said corporations" in payment for said railroads, but avers that the fact that such payment was made and accepted has been of general notoriety since the day of said sale, and defendant further admits that said bonds, so belonging to this defendant, were cancelled and burned by the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, as alleged, but not, however, immediately after the said sale, on the 20th of March, 1869, but that said bonds were destroyed on the 26th day of February, 1872, to prevent their being pursued and reclaimed by this defendant, and the defendant further admits that the

the said $960,300 paid with the property of this defendant, was covered by a false and fraudulent check given by George W. Swepson for about $472,065, which was never paid and not intended to be paid when given, unless a fund for that purpose should be created by the sale of bonds to be issued by said railroads when reorganized into a new company by or in the name of F. Dibble and associates, and that considered in the light of a cash payment, the giving and accepting of said Swepson's check was a mere sham and fraud, but as to whether the "said Swepson was a man of good credit, reputed to be worth at least half a million of dollars, and had that amount in Florida," as alleged by complainants, this defendant has no knowledge, but this defendant denies the said trustees of the internal improvement fund acted "within the scope of their authority and in good faith" when they accepted Swepson's check in lieu of cash, and left it with him to collect and purchase up the 472,000 of outstanding Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, as alleged by the complainants' bill.

6th. This defendant denies the V, VI, VII, and VIII paragraphs of complainants' bill and the matters and things as therein alleged, because all and singular the said matters are so stated by the complainant as to studiously avoid and conceal or misrepresent the real facts as they occurred, which defendant avers were substantially as follows:

a. That when the said Dibble and his associates became the successful bidders, and hence purchasers, of said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, on the said 20th day of March, 1869, by bidding therefor $1,415,000, as aforesaid, a sum wholly beyond their means to pay, that they made such bid with the expectation of inducing said Swepson to use the said $960,300 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, so belonging to this defendant, as aforesaid, in payment for said road, which he, the said Swepson, did so use and apply as aforesaid, but not on the day of purchase, nor till about the 22d of April, 1869, following; that on the day of purchase there was in fact nothing paid; but, six days thereafter, to wit, on the 26th day of March, 1869, the said Swepson, in a gross breach of trust, and in utter disregard of his duty as the trustee, agent, and fiduciary of this defendant, entered into a written agreement whereby he, said Swepson, agreed to advance, use, and appropriate the said $960,300 bonds of this
son's check, or promise to pay for about $472,065, which, added to the said $969,800 of bonds, was to make up the total amount of $1,415,000 bid for said roads, with the addition of certain charges, as will better appear by a copy of said agreement of the 26th of March, 1869, marked Schedule No. 1.

b. That pursuant to said purchase and agreement, and on the 8th day of April, 1869, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund, in further consummation of said scheme of sale and purchase, executed and delivered a deed of conveyance of the Pensacola & Georgia Road for the express consideration of 1,220,000 dollars, which said deed is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 2, and a deed of conveyance of the said Tallahassee Railroad for the express consideration of $195,000, which said deed is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 3.

c. That said deeds, however, though executed and acknowledged on the said 8th day of April, 1869, were not, in fact, delivered to said F. Dibble and associates till on or about the 22d day of April, 1869, at which time the said $960,300 of bonds, so belonging to this defendant, as aforesaid, were paid over to said trustees of the internal improvement fund, and which was the only real payment made for such roads, as hereinbefore stated.

d. That before said bonds were so paid over by said Swepson, and before the delivery of the same, the said Swepson received from the said F. Dibble and associates, a conveyance and transfer in special trust of both the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads by the transfer and delivery to him of both of said deeds of conveyance of the 8th of April, A. D. 1869, being Schedules No. 2 and No. 3, as hereinbefore mentioned, and which were so transferred in trust to said Swepson, as provided in said agreement of the 26th of March, 1869 (Schedule No. 1), to secure the said $960,300 of bonds, and further to secure the said Swepson for giving his said check or acceptance for the said $472-065, as will more fully appear by said conveyance in trust to said Swepson, made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 4. That this trust conveyance never was recorded, but was kept secreted from the knowledge of this defendant.

e. That by the terms of said agreement of the 26th of March, 1869, and the said trust conveyance of the 22d of April, 1869, it was agreed that said F. Dibble and associates should procure an act of incorporation, with authority to issue bonds for the use of said Swepson, 588 as provided in said agreement and trust aforesaid, and that pursuant thereto, and on the 24th day of June, 1869, the legislature of the State of Florida did pass an act for the relief of said Dibble and associates, incorporating them as a body corporate and politic, under the name and style of the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," as will better appear by said act of incorporation, made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 5.

f. That by the 6th section of said act, the said Tallahassee Railroad Company was authorized to issue bonds of such denomination and at such rate of interest as it might choose to do, and secure the same by deed of trust on the franchise and property, real, personal, and mixed, of the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, incorporated by said act of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, but expressly reserving a prior equity and lien in favor of the said trust agreement and conveyance of the 22d of April, 1869, in the following words, that is to say: "Provided, That any deed of trust, mortgage, conveyance, bond or bonds, or security which may have been executed, made, created, or contracted for, as a lien on said railroads or otherwise, by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates prior to the passage of this act, shall be valid and effectual to all intents, either at law or in equity, as a lien or mortgage or security on said railroad, as if the same had been made by virtue of this act, and shall in nowise be affected by any provisions thereof;" and this defendant avers the fact to be that said statutory reservation and lien had reference solely and exclusively to said agreement of the 26th of March, 1869, and trust assignment of the 22d of April, 1869, schedules No. 1 and No. 4, respectively.

g. That pursuant to said act of incorporation, the said Dibble and associates resolved themselves into a company, as therein provided, and accepted the said charter, and resolved themselves into a body corporate, by choosing a board of directors, and electing said F. Dibble president and F. H. Flagg treasurer of said Tallahassee Railroad Company.

And that, further complying with said trust agreement, the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, so organized, authorized the issuing of, and did, in part, issue, 1,500 bonds of the denomination of 1,000 dollars each, which were signed by F. Dibble, president, secured by mortgage on said Tallahassee Railroad, and in that condition were delivered to the president and fiduciary of this defendant, who still holds the same in trust for this defendant, one of which (numbered 2) is made part hereof, marked schedule No. 6.

589 h. And this defendant, further answering, states the fact to be that the existence and a knowledge of the whereabouts of said trust assignment, schedule 5, only came to the knowledge of this defendant within the last two years, when the same was surrendered to its custody by Milton S. Littlefield, and that the said bond (schedule 5) has only come into the possession of this defendant since the commencement of this suit.

That on the same 24th of June, 1869, the day on which the said Tallahassee Railroad Company was incorporated as the owner of the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, extending from Lake City westward, to Quincy, &c., the legislature of Florida incorporated another company, called the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, of which this defendant's trustees and fiduciaries, George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, together with J. P. Sanderson, J. L. ReQua, and William H. Hunt were incorporators, but which said company was purely and entirely a mere creation upon paper, being possessed at the time of its corporation of neither road, route, or right of way, and never expected to have any railroad, but was expressly designed to become, in some way, possessed of the said Tallahassee Railroad, so purchased and paid for by this defendant's said $960,300 in bonds, as aforesaid.

i. But this defendant, further and especially answering paragraph V of complainant's bill, expressly denies the allegations therein contained, that "Afterwards, the said Tallahassee Railroad Company and said Dibble and associates conveyed the said railroads" (meaning the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads), "to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, of which George W. Swepson owned nearly the entire stock," and denies that any such conveyance ever was made at any time, and that the statements in complainants' bill, in that behalf, are wholly untrue.

j. That the only conveyance ever attempted to be made by said F. Dibble and associates was a conveyance partially executed in the year 1870, in the shape of a deed of release from said F. Dibble and associates to the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, but which never was fully executed, as will better appear by a copy of such conveyance, so partially executed, but not acknowledged and without date, except the words "day of A. D. 1870," and which was never recorded, as will be seen by a copy thereof made part of this answer, marked schedule No. 7.

k. But this defendant avers the fact to be that the money with 590 which the said Swepson and his agents purchased the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and that consequently the said bonds, when so purchased, took the place of said money and became the property of this defendant; and that when the said Swepson, further acting without the knowledge of this defendant, used the said bonds to purchase the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, that said roads took the place of said bonds and became the property of this defendant, and that the said agreement of the 26th of March, 1869, and the said trust assignment of the 22d of April, A. D. 1869, made and executed pursuant thereto, and the said 1,500 papers or tokens called bonds, signed by said F. Dibble, president, in the year 1869, and the said conveyance partially executed on the " day of A. D. 1870," and signed by F. Dibble, Alonzo Huling, J. L. ReQua, E. M. Cheney, Wilkinson Call, James M. Baker, and Silas L. Niblack (schedule No. 7), each and all inured to, and in equity vested in and became the property of this defendant, as the cestui qui trust of the said Swepson and Littlefield, and that defendant henceforth was and now is the real owner of said railroads, as this defendant will more distinctly maintain by its cross-bill, made part of this answer.

7th. And this defendant, further and more specifically answering and correcting the many misstatements, evasions, and suppressions of facts contained in the VI paragraph of complainant's bill, states the fact to be that there never was any transaction between the State of Florida or its governor and the J., P. & M. Company, as therein stated, but that the truth as to such matter is substantially as follows: That when the said J., P. & M. Company was so incorporated as aforesaid, on the said 24th day of June, A.D. 1869, that, among other provisions and by the 9th section of said act, the State of Florida was attempted to be authorized to issue and exchange the bonds of the State for the bonds of the said J., P. & M. Company to the extent of $14,000 per mile, upon the terms and conditions therein stated. But the defendant avers that said act was wholly inoperative, because, as stated, the said J., P. & M. Company did not own a foot of railroad upon which to issue or exchange a single bond; and all statements or assumptions in said complainant's bill are wholly false and untrue.

That the real transaction about said bond issue was substantially as follows:

591 a. The said J., P. & M. Company, owning no railroad whatever, was a mere paper creation gotten up by the said Swepson and Littlefield, who, as such presidents, agents, trustees, and fiduciaries of this defendant, were seeking a means to further use and fraudulently conceal and appropriate the said $960,300 of bonds belonging to this defendant, and invested in the purchase of said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, on the said 20th and 26th days of March, and 8th and 22d days of April, 1869, as hereinbefore stated; and for that purpose procured the incorporation of said J., P. & M. Company, which, as aforesaid, owned no railroad whatever, but with the intention of in some way transferring to it the actual and existing railroads of the said Tallahassee Railroad, extending from Lake City to Quincy and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's. But, as before stated, no such conveyance was ever actually made.

b. That, with a view of accomplishing such fraudulent purposes, the said Swepson, Littlefield, and others co-operating and conspiring with them in that behalf, procured the passage of an act on the 28th day of January, 1870, amending the said act of the 24th of June, 1869, incorporating the said J., P. & M. Company; and by the second section of said amended act caused the following statutory contract and agreement to be created and declared to exist, providing for the issue and exchange of bonds between the State of Florida on the one part, and the said J., P. & M. Company on the other part, and upon the terms and conditions therein stated, as follows:

"In order to aid the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road, and to aid in perfecting one of the public works embraced in the internal improvements of the State, the governor of the State is hereby directed to deliver to the president of the said company coupon bonds of the State to an amount equal to sixteen thousand dollars per mile of the whole line of road and length of railroad owned by or belonging to said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said railroad company of the denomination of one thousand dollars, when the president thereof shall certify upon his oath that the road, or part of road, for which he asks for an exchange of bonds is completed and is in good running order."

And by "section 4" of said act this further statutory contract and agreement was declared to exist, viz:

"That the governor shall, for the purpose of further aiding 592 said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in the speedy construction of its road, deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of this State of the same character as those above described in this act, to the amount of sixteen thousand dollars per mile, upon receiving for and from the president of said company first mortgage bonds of like amount on any part or portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville; provided, however, that State bonds under this section shall not be exchanged for first mortgage bonds for a greater length than one hundred miles of any part of railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville."

And this defendant states that these two statutory contracts and agreements were wholly and exclusively declared to exist between the State of Florida and the said J., P. & M. Company; that the Florida Central Railroad Company was in no manner a party, but was a total stranger to said statutory contract and agreement, as this defendant will hereinafter more fully state.

c. That under these statutory contracts and agreements, and no other, the State of Florida did, in the year 1870, make, sign, and execute 4,000 papers called bonds, of the denomination of $1,000 each, and numbered from 1 to 4000 respectively, which were recorded in a book provided for the purpose in the office of the treasurer of the State of Florida as bonds issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to no other railroad or corporation; the Florida Central Railroad not being mentioned, or in any manner included therein.

d. That of these 4,000 papers called bonds, 3,000, numbered from 1 to 3000 inclusive, were by the State of Florida delivered to the said J., P. & M. Company, during the year 1870, and not 4,000, as falsely alleged in complainant's bill. And this defendant avers that the other 1,000 papers called bonds, numbered from 3001 to 4000, never were at any time delivered to or in the possession of the said J., P. & M. Company, or by it received from the State of Florida, and never were in any manner used or applied for its benefit in any respect; but that said 1,000 papers called bonds, numbered from 3001 to 4000 aforesaid, were, by the State of Florida, through its governor, on the 11th day of January, 1871, fraudulently used and applied for the payment and discharge of private debts and obligations, as will be hereafter stated; and that the statement in complainant's bill that the said "J., P. & M. Company obtained from the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, 593 four thousand bonds of one thousand dollars each, which were signed by said governor in accordance with the laws incorporating the said J., P. & M. Company, in the year 1870," is not true as stated, or consistent with the facts.

8th. This defendant, further and more specifially answering the VII paragraph of complainant's bill. denies "that the said J., P. & M. Co. delivered to the governor of said State, in exchange for said four thousand bonds, while he received from him a like amount of bonds, three thousand of which were executed by the said J., P. & M. Co., and one thousand by the Florida Central Railroad Company," as in complainant's bill most falsely alleged. On the contrary, as before stated, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company never received from the State but 3,000 of said papers called bonds, and never delivered to the State but 3,000 of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad lease papers called bonds in exchange therefor; said State bonds so received being numbered from 1 to 3000 inclusive. That not a bond of the Florida Central Railroad Company ever was in the possession of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or by it delivered to the State for any purpose, nor was any bond of the State ever delivered in exchange for the alleged Florida Central Railroad bonds, to or for the use or benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as falsely pretended by complainant's bill.

That the said Florida Central Railroad Company was chartered on the 29th day of July, 1868; that no power was granted by said charter to issue or create $1,000,000 of 8 per cent. bonds, payable to the State of Florida for the benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or for any other purpose; as will better appear by the terms of said charter made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 8.

And this defendant further denies that said Florida Central Railroad Company ever, by any contract or agreement with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or by any order or resolution of its stockholders or directors, agreed to or bound itself to impose a debt of $1,000.000, bearing 8 per cent. interest—being nearly double the par value of its capital stock of $550,000—and which was thereby charged with a positive annual debt of $80,000 per annum, which was a burden and obligation wholly beyond its power to meet 594 or pay; and further agreeing that if this enormous debt was not paid, that the State, without notice, through the governor, should seize and sell the road of said company to pay such enormous debt, no part of which was designed to be applied or expended for the use or benefit of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or under the control of its officers, nor under or by virtue of any agreement or obligation whatever on the part of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the State, or any body else, to see that the proceeds of the said $1,000,000 of bonds thus extorted of it should be used or applied in any manner for its benefit, as falsely assumed by the said complainant's bill.

And this defendant states that the said $1,000,000 of bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company was fabricated, procured, and placed in the hands of the State of Florida by the following false and fraudulent means, and to which the said State was a party and fraudulently participated, viz:

a. That in the month of April, 1870, George W. Swepson, without any lawful right or authority, and without the knowledge or consent of the Florida Central Railroad Company, caused the said 1,000 papers called bonds to be issued in the name of said company, purporting to be issued under said act and statutory agreement of the 28th of January, 1870, between the State of Florida and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, agreeing and promising to pay the State of Florida $1,000 on the face of each bond—or, in all, one million ($1,000,000) dollars—thirty years after date, with interest at the rate of 8 per cent., or $80,000 a year interest.

b. That said Swepson signed said pretended bonds as president, but desiring to conceal the execution and existence of said $1,000,000 of bonds, did not send them to the company for the signature of its treasurer, F. H. Flagg, but caused them to be signed by one H. H. Thompson as treasurer, who, in fact, never was either treasurer or any other officer, or even a stockholder of said company, but a total stranger to its affairs, and who falsely and fraudulently assumed such office of treasurer for the purpose of circulating said bonds.

c. That after said bonds were so falsely and fraudulently signed by said Swepson and Thompson, they were brought to a place near the office of the said company, where, without its knowledge or authority, its corporate seal was affixed to said papers called bonds.

d. That said bonds were not created or designed to be used for 595 the benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but designed to pay and discharge certain private debts and transactions between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, as shown by three certain contracts, dated the 13th and 30th days of May, and 7th day of June, 1870; copies of which are made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 9, 10, and 11, respectively.

e. That for the purpose of consummating the purposes declared in these three agreements last above mentioned, and especially the agreement of the 30th of May, 1870 (Schedule 10), the said Littlefield and Houstoun convened what they called a stockholders' meeting, on the 2d day of June, 1870; there being present only 30 shares of stock besides the stock represented by said Littlefield and Houstoun, the whole of which was pledged to said Houstoun, who also held the said 1,000 papers called bonds; and without reading or spreading said bonds on the records of the company, passed a resolution pretending to adopt the bonds so signed by Swepson and Thompson, but which resolution at the same time pledged said bonds to the payment of said private debts specified in said agreement of the 30th of May, 1870 (Schedule 10), entered into just two (2) days previously, between said Houstoun and Littlefield.

f. That subsequent thereto, and on the 21st day of November, 1870, the said Florida Central Railroad Company rescinded the said resolution of the 2d of June, 1870, and ordered the said Swepson-Thompson bonds to be destroyed; as will be seen by a copy of said resolution, made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 12.

g. That said rescinding resolution was made known to the State of Florida and all parties connected with said bonds, and their use and issue was also enjoined by the Hon. R. H. Gamble and Hon. James D. Westcott, jr., when, on the 11th day of January, 1871, the State of Florida connived with said Houstoun and Thomas B. Coddington, and exchanged and delivered to said Coddington the said bonds of the State of Florida, numbered above 3000, that were so issued under said statutory contract of the 28th of January, 1870—that is, the so called State bonds numbered from 3001 to 4000—and received therefor the said false and fabricated bonds created by said Swepson and Thompson in the name of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, not, however, to be applied to the use or benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but to pay and discharge the same identical debts and obligations specified in said agreements—Nos.

596 9, 10, and 11—and certain other debts and obligations; as will more fully appear by the written agreement and receipt in trust, signed and executed between said Coddington and Houstoun, dated January 11, 1871, made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 13.

h. That said Coddington received said bonds as the agent of the State of Florida, and not for the use or benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but to be applied to the private and personal uses named in said trust receipt (Schedule 13), the governor of Florida being personally interested therein, and is responsible for the outgoing of said 1,000 papers called bonds, numbered above 3000, and which it is shown were not delivered to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as falsely pretended in complainants' bill.

i. That 224 of said State bonds numbered above 3000, to wit, those numbered from 3777 to 4000, inclusive, were cancelled, leaving but 776 of the said State bonds above 3000 outstanding, and that of these 208 were pledged by one John Collinson to pay interest on the said State bonds, and are still so pledged and never were sold, and the remaining 586 are in a bank in London, as the property of the State of Florida, which fully accounts for the 1,000 State bonds alleged to be a charge on the Florida Central Railroad Company.

j. That the said statutory agreement, as provided in said second section of the act of January 28th, 1870, made it condition precedent that said so-called State bonds should only be issued to said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company when the president thereof should "certify upon his oath" that certain facts existed, and that not such certification upon oath ever was made or given by the president of said company, so that the condition upon which said State bonds were to issue never in fact transpired.

k. That the said pretended Florida Central bonds never were fully executed, there being two blanks on the face thereof—first, a blank as to the place where said pretended bonds were executed, and a blank as to the signature certifying to the correctness of the issue of the same, as shown by the Complainants' Schedule B, and that the said bond is not a finished or executed paper.

l. That said so-called bonds are not the act and deed of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or a valid debt or obligation against its franchise and estate, and this defendant denies that "the execution and delivery of said bonds was done by the said companies 597 in order to comply with the terms of the law incorporating the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company."

9th. Defendant, further and more specifically answering paragraph VIII of complainants' bill, denies "that when the said bonds were executed by the said Florida Central Railroad Company that Milton S. Littlefield owned a large majority of its capital stock," but avers to the contrary that a large majority of the said Florida Central stock was purchased by the money belonging to this defendant, by its president, agent, and fiduciary, George W. Swepson, through said Houstoun and Littlefield, in the year 1869, and previous to the act of January 28th, 1870, creating the said statutory contract and agreement between the State of Florida and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company for the issuing and exchanging of said bonds, and that long before the defendants, or any of them, had purchased or even heard of said State bonds, this defendant was the lawful and equitable owner of full nine tenths of the capital stock of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and which never was the property of said Swepson, Houstoun, or Littlefield, but that said stock was at all times the property of this defendant, and of which it is now in the lawful possession.

And this defendant avers that it is absolutely untrue "that the one thousand bonds issued as bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and delivered to the governer, were caused to be executed by the joint action of said Houstoun and said other stockholders in order to enable the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to obtain from the governor of Florida State bonds (so called), with the understanding and agreement that said bonds should be sold, and said Littlefield should make payment for the stock purchased from said Houstoun," &c., as alleged in said complainants' bill, and defendant avers that said allegations, and the whole of the allegations of said section VIII, is the mere invention of a convenient story on the part of the complainants to avoid the effect of the fact that not one of the State bonds numbered above 3000 were ever used or pretended to be used for the benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which had no more to do with said bonds than any other total stranger.

That this defendant is advised of matter of fact, and so charges, that there is no truth whatever in the allegations in the complainants' 598 bill that in the year 1874, or at any other time, that the Florida Central Railroad, or the property and franchise of its company, ever in any manner became merged in the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or at any time, or for any purpose, formed part of its property and estate, and that all statements to that effect in complainants' bill are wholly untrue.

10th. This defendant has no knowledge of what advice the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railway Company, or its agents, gave to persons in England or elsewhere, but from information, which defendant believes to be true, it states and charges as fact that a knowledge, or the correct means of knowledge, of the real character of said State bonds was at all times accessible to the complainants, and defendant avers that complainants, in fact, had proper and legal notice of the false and fraudulent character of said bonds.

That on the 10th day of December, 1871, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company passed a resolution declaring to all the world the fraudulent character of said bonds, and caused the same to be published to the public and a copy of it addressed to John Conlinson and S. W. Hopkins & Co., the parties selling said bonds in New York and London, a copy of which said resolution is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 14.

That notice was also given as to the Florida Central Railroad bonds by the suits brought by said Gamble and Westcott, who enjoined the issue of the same on the 7th day of January, 1871, and which injunctions are still in force and were in force while said State bonds, numbered above 3000, alleged to be exchanged for Florida Central Railroad bonds, were by the fraudulent acts and connivance of the State of Florida, on the 11th day of January, 1871, removed by said Coddington from the State. And that in consequence of said notorious acts and proceedings, the said Boissevain telegraphed from Amsterdam to the governor of Florida, the 18th day of December, 1870, as follows:

Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, beg to know, by telegraph from you, whether provision made for payment of interest; whatever result of railroad traffic; financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security.

(Signed) BOISSEVAIN.

599 That to this dispatch the governor of Florida replied as follows:

Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will therefore be made for interest.

(Signed) REED, Governor.

That besides the foregoing notice to the complainants, this defendant had discovered the fraudulent use of the proceeds of about $6,000,000 of bonds paid to it by the State of North Carolina for subscription to its capital stock, which by its agents and fiduciaries, George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, and one Edward Houstoun, who co-operated with Swepson and Littlefield, with a knowledge of their position as fiduciaries and trustees and fraudulent acts, and that defendant had called for a settlement, which had occurred on the 16th day of April, 1870, showing a debt due this defendant of about $1,287,000, and that an agreement had been made for the payment of the same, which having been violated, led to suits being brought in the Supreme Court of New York in the year 1870 and 1871, against Houstoun and Littlefield and others, all of which were acts of public notoriety and legal notice of the rights and liens of this defendant to and upon the stock and bonds referred to in complainants' bill.

But this defendant, further answering, states the fact to be that when the settlement of the 16th of April and other and subsequent settlements and attempts at paying this defendant occurred on the part of said Swepson, Littlefield, and others, that this defendant supposed the bonds issued by the State of Florida, under said statutory contract and agreement, created by the said act of the 28th January, 1870, were good and valid securities, and the money to be paid this defendant would lawfully proceed therefrom, but that it subsequently transpired that the said statute and statutory contract and agreement was declared to be unconstitutional and null and void, and constitutes no consideration whatever for a means of consummating said settlement with this defendant, as will be hereafter more specially stated.

11th. This defendant, upon information, believes it is true, and therefore admits the allegations in the X paragraph of complainants' bill, that the bonds issued by the State of Florida, under said statutory agreement aforesaid, were issued alone to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and in no manner to or upon the credit of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and defendant further admits 600 that it is true that it was represented by the parties dealing in said State bonds in "England, Holland, Germany, and France," that the Florida Central Railroad was consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and further admits that the bankers in London respected such representations to the bankers in Amsterdam that such consolidation had taken place, but this defendant avers that such false representations did not constitute the fact of the consolidation alleged, or prove such to be true, and that the fact of such pretended consolidation was a matter which must be shown by record proof, and not by the assertion of bond speculators in London and Amsterdam, or elsewhere, and of which the complainants and all others dealing in said bonds must take notice and act upon at their peril, and that the statements made to them were quite sufficient to put them on the inquiry, which they failed to pursue.

That so far from there being any such consolidation of the said Florida Central with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, that at and during the very period referred to the Florida Central Railroad was acting, as it ever has acted since its incorporation on the 29th of July, 1868, as a separate and independent body corporate and politic, electing its own board of directors, president, and other officers, and by its said officers, and in its corporate name, was suing and defending suits in the courts of justice, and among other things, as alleged by the complainants' bill, was making and issuing the very $1,000,000 of bonds now in the hands of the State of Florida, and to which the complainants are now seeking to make claim, although by their own showing they expose the fact that they never gave any credit whatever or purchased any State bonds which they supposed to be secured in whole or in part by the franchise and estate of the said Florida Central Railroad Company.

12th. This defendant has no knowledge or information, and hence neither admits or denies the allegations in the XI paragraph of complainants' bill, as to the number of bonds they hold, or when purchased, or for what consideration, but will insist upon full and specific proof thereof; but defendant expressly denies the allegations as made about the agency of Charles D. Willard, or that he is authorized to speak for any considerable number of State bonds, or the holders thereof, and denies that said Willard, or his solicitor, has any authority whatever to bring this suit.

601 Defendant, further answering, admits that the interest was paid on the whole of said State bonds up to January, 1873, as alleged in said paragraph XI of complainants' bill; but this defendant at the same time avers that the admitted payment of such interest shows there was no cause for the State of Florida to seize the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company for the pretended non-payment of said interest in 1872, whereby the said roads have been kept in the hands of receivers from that time to the present, greatly to their injury.

But defendant does not admit, but denies, the allegations in complainants' bill in the last part of paragraph XI, that the complainant was advised or believed that the said interest so paid was paid by the State of Florida on its said bonds, and states that the complainants were fully advised by the proceedings in the court of chancery in England that the said interest was to be paid, and was paid, by the use or hypothecation of about 200 of the State bonds numbered above 3000, and which constitute the very bonds represented by the complainants in this suit, and in the affidavit of G. M. Boissevain, set forth in the petition of C. D. Willard to the governor of Florida, asking the seizure of the said Florida Central Railroad, and that the allegations of the complainant in reference to these bonds are not true or made in good faith.

And this defendant does not believe that the complainants, or any one of them, are aware of the existence of this suit, or the allegations made in their name. That they were not seeking to assert any such claims till urged to do so by said Gleason, Sherwin, Willard and others, as hereinafter stated, and that this whole proceeding is a fraud upon this honorable court, as it is a fraud upon the defendant, and an imposition as well as a fraud upon the complainants in whose name it is being prosecuted.

13th. This defendant has reason to believe, and does believe, that the parties referred to in the XII paragraph of complainants' bill are, or claim to be, the holders of the class of bonds called the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and defendant admits that said bonds, amounting in all to about $472,065, with interest since March 20, 1869, were attempted to be paid by a sham and fraudulent check, given by George W. Swepson, which was not intended to be paid when given, and of course was not paid at any time subsequent thereto.

602, 603 But this defendant denies that such fraudulent pretence of payment changed any right of the holder of said $472,065 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds at the time such sham and false sale and purchase was made, on the 20th day of March, 1869, or at any time subsequent thereto, and that the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds are a first and prior lien on the said road, both in law and equity, and are especially a prior lien over and above the papers called bonds issued by the State of Florida in exchange with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, even were said last-named bonds possessed of any validity, or capable of conferring or creating any rights whatever—which this defendant is advised they can do.

14th. This defendant denies that it and Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, claiming to be stockholders, held an illegal meeting to elect a board of directors, and then held an illegal directors' meeting, and chose E. M. L'Engle president, and Jas. M. Baker, W. J. Lawton, M. S. Littlefield, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Jos. B. Stewart, Charles B. Fenwick, and George R. Foster directors, none of whom were stockholders, as falsely averred in paragraph XIII of complainant's bill. On the contrary, this defendant states that being the lawful and equitable owner of more than nine-tenths of the capital stock of the said Florida Central Railroad, and finding that its affairs were wholly neglected, and that no election for directors had been held according to its charter and the requirements of law, took pains to try to find those who claimed to be directors, but could find no such persons and could not find the books, records, and archives of said company, nor the seal thereof, nor any one who could give the least information about the same, or if any of the persons inquired of had such information they refused to impart it to the counsel of this defendant, though he inquired of Edward Lewis, Robert Roche, Chas. E. Dyke, E. M. L'Engle, M. S. Littlefield, and D. S. Walker, and others not now remembered.

That, failing to find any board of directors, or any persons who admitted themselves clothed with the duties of directors, this defendant, owning full nine-tenths of the stock as aforesaid, united with other stockholders, and, after consultation, resolved to call a meeting of the stockholders to elect a board of directors, and did call such meeting for the 29th day of January, 1877, at which there convened a meeting of stock exceeding 4,800 shares, counting the 4,370 shares 604 belonging to this respondent, when it was ascertained that the complainants in this suit, or some of them, represented by one Frank R. Sherwin, had instituted a collusive suit against or with certain parties in Savannah, Georgia, for the especial purpose of embarrassing the rights of this defendant, and to make the said Florida Central Railroad Company an easier and more convenient prey to the purposes of the said memorandum plan (Exhibit D), made part of complainants' bill, which was signed by said Sherwin on the part of the complainants on the 12th day of January, 1877.

That defendant and the other stockholders (not parties to said memorandum plan) being thus fraudulently interfered with in the election of a board of directors, willing to and interested in protecting, and not parties to a scheme to wreck and destroy, the said Florida Central Railroad Company, under advice of counsel, applied by its petition to the circuit court for Duval County, State of Florida, a court of competent jurisdiction, setting forth the facts in the premises, and prayed for an alternate writ of mandamus, which was granted on the 14th and returnable on the 27th day of February, unless cause was shown to the contrary on the 26th at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, and ordered the said writ to be advertised in a daily paper for ten days, and which was kept so advertised as ordered, so that all parties might have notice.

That on the return day of said writ the granting thereof was opposed by Robert Walker, claiming to hold ten shares of stock, and P. Houstoun, claiming to hold ten shares, and by Edward Lewis, holding 50 shares; but it transpired that the name of said Lewis was used without his authority, so that the only stockholders that opposed the writ were said Walker and Houstoun, holding ten shares each, and both claiming to be directors of the said company. That besides the said Walker and Houstoun, the said writ was opposed by the complainants through said Frank R. Sherwin, for whom H. R. Jackson and Hon. H. Bisbee, jr., their counsel, interposed a demurrer to said writ and petition, which was argued for several days, when the case was taken under advisement by the court till the 9th day of March, 1877, when a decision was rendered, overruling the demurrer of the said Sherwin for the complainants and gave the complainant five days, or until the 14th of March, to make further answer to the alternate writ, and no cause being shown or further answer made, the peremptory writ was granted on the said 605 15th March, when an election was duly held and a board of directors elected according to law, and that any and all allegations of fraud set up in the name of the complainants, and sworn to by said Charles D. Willard as their attorney in fact, whether real or pretended, is wholly false and gratuitous.

And this defendant further states that an appeal was prayed in the name of the said Sherwin, and granted by the court, and ten days' time allowed to perfect the same by said Bisbee and Jackson, as counsel, but that the same was abandoned, and that after due and proper return being made thereto, the said peremptory writ was returned and discharged, as will more fully appear by said proceedings when produced and inspected.

And this defendant avers that the allegations that this suit is prosecuted in the interest of George W. Swepson, or for his benefit in any respect, is wholly false.

15th. In answering to the XIX paragraph of complainants' bill, these defendants deny all right or power of the governor to seize said railroads, or either of them, and denies that the Florida Central Railroad, now or at any time, formed part of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, as has been hereinbefore stated.

16th. Answering the XV paragraph of complainants' bill, this defendant denies that the prior lien of the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds has ceased to exist, but avers that the same remains in full force, as hereinbefore stated.

And defendant utterly denies the right of the governor to accept the said repudiated State bonds in payment for the said railroads, as the same are not a lawful consideration for any purpose, and cannot be accepted by the governor, who is required to sell said roads for lawful money of the United States, and nothing else.

17th. This defendant, in answer to the XVI paragraph of complainants' bill, admits the fact to be, as herein alleged, that Frank R. Sherwin, assuming to act in the name of the complainant, did enter into a scheme, called the "memorandum plan," for reorganizing the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile and the Florida Central Railroads, dated the 12th day of January, 1877, and further admits that by said "memo-606 randum plan" the governor of Florida was required to seize and sell said railroads to certain parties, called trustees, therein named, and to allow such persons to bid the full amount of the principal and interest of the said null and void bonds of the State of Florida, which the said governor was bound to receive as cash, and thereby violate the law or statute under which he assumed the power to seize and sell said road, which requires him to sell the same for "lawful money of the United States, and nothing else," and further admits that upon said bid any payment being made, the governor was bound to convey the whole of said railroads, with complete title, to the purchasers named in the said "memorandum plan," and put the same in immediate possession thereof, as shown by complainants' bill and Schedule D, and which is part of this answer, marked Schedule XV.

But this defendant avers the whole of said proceedings and the making of said "memorandum plan" agreement was a fraudulent scheme and conspiracy, gotten up between said Frank R. Sherwin, Charles D. Willard, and others, who, at the date thereof, had no power or authority to use the name of the complainants, or any of them, but used the seizures of the roads, which by their false and fraudulent petition, written by said Williard, and sworn to by said Sherwin, they had induced the governor to make on the 30th day of December, 1876, certified under the great seal of this State, and added to which was the said "memorandum plan," with the assurance that the governor of Florida was a party to the same, and would make the forced sale therein provided for the consummation of said plan, as the means of inducing the complainants to give them said power of attorney, none of which are dated previous to the first of March, 1877, and long after the date of said seizure and memorandum plan, which is made part of the complainants' bill (Schedule D), asking the same to be enforced by the decree of this court, though in direct violation of the law under which the governor was to assume to seize and sell said railroads.

18th. This defendant, answering the XVII paragraph of complainants' bill, avers that it is untrue as therein alleged and pretended that there was any meeting of the stockholders in the year 1875, at Tallahassee or elsewhere, who had at any time consolidated the Florida Central Railroad with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or who had at any time pledged, or who ever had the authority to 607 pledge the Florida Central Railroad to the payment of the complainants' bonds as falsely assumed in complainants' bill.

That there was no election of a board of directors made or organized at the time named.

That the attempted election which proposed to allow the executors of Edward Houstoun to assume to vote the stock, that was in truth the property of this defendant, the certificates representing which were fraudulently retained by said Houstoun before his death, was wholly false, and no board was elected and installed in office, or president or other officers chosen, and the parties in the bill, mentioned as directors, never attempted to take charge of or in any manner protect the property of the said Florida Central Railroad, but permitted the same to go to waste and its books and archives to be scattered and its seal lost, as hereinbefore stated, and in consequence of which this defendant appealed to the courts for the protection of its rights by applying for the writ of mandamus, as hereinbefore stated.

And this defendant, further answering, denies that the Florida Central Railroad Company has ever been dissolved, but, on the contrary, avers that the said company, as organized under its charter, on the 29th day of July, 1868, has ever continued to be, and now is, a lawful body corporate and politic, possessed of its franchise and estate, however much abused and neglected by those who have plundered it of its earnings or attempted to destroy its existence, and defendant avers that said company cannot be dissolved even for the laudable purpose of liquidating the repudiated and annulled bonds of the State of Florida, as claimed in the complainants' bill, and that it is happily rid of the control of the persons asked to be regarded as directors for the benefit of the complainant.

19th. This defendant, answering the XVIII and XIX paragraphs of complainants' bill, denies that the adjudications and proceedings therein alleged affects, or in any manner binds, the right of this defendant, or that the said proceedings or adjudications are of such character as to create a res adjudicata in the subject matter of this suit, or as to the parties thereto. That neither the complainants nor any other holders of the so-called Florida State bonds were parties to said suits, or either of them, and hence could not be bound thereby. That the decision rendered in the Holland case, after deciding that the act of the 28th of January, 1870, creating the statutory agreement and contract for

That in the proceedings against the Florida Central Railroad, when the court found and decided that the State of Florida had no cause of action and dismissed its bill, it had no power to make a further decision in the cause, determining the rights between the said company and any holders of the bonds of the State of Florida, which the same court had declared unconstitutional and void, and that the decision so made was extra judicial and a mere obiter dictum, and not entitled to the force and effect of law as against the rights of this defendant.

And this defendant further avers that said decision in the case of the Florida Central Railroad Company, besides being extra judicial, and a mere obiter dictum, as stated, was procured upon a wholly false assumption of facts, of which there was no proof offered before the court, but of which there is now discovered positive proof to the contrary. That among other things, there is now brought before this court written proof, discovered since the said trial, and not before the said State court, that the $1,000,000 of bonds of the State claimed to be exchanged against the Florida Central Railroad Company, were not issued to, received by, or used for the benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but, on the contrary, were by the fraudulent connivance and participation of the State of Florida, which, through its governor, conspired with Edward Houstoun and Thomas B. Coddington for that purpose, caused said $1,000,000 of bonds of the State of Florida (alleged to be exchanged for the said Swepson-Thompson bonds issued in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company) to be placed in the hands of said Coddington, as trustee for said Houstoun, and as agent for the State of Florida, to be applied to the payment of private debts and obligations of said Houstoun and others mentioned under a private and secret trust to that effect, dated the 11th day of January, 1871, as hereinbefore stated, and this defendant submits that had such proof been fully placed before said State court, that no decision so utterly in disregard of the facts and law of the case, subverting and disregarding any and every principle of right and 609 justice, could or would have been made, and denies that said decisions, or either of them, for the foregoing, as well as for other reasons, conferred any rights at law or in equity upon the complainants as alleged in their said bill.

20th. This defendant, further answering, denies that the governor of Florida was created a trustee by said statutory contract and agreement between the State of Florida and the J., P. & M. Co. by said act of the 28th January, 1870, for the complainants or any other holders of the bonds of the State of Florida. That the only trust created by said act and statutory contract was that after the treasurer of the State should invest certain moneys to be derived from a sale for cash "in the securities of the United States to be held by the State of Florida in trust for the bondholders until such bondholders shall demand the same, upon which demand the treasurer shall immediately turn over or pay said securities to the bondholders."

That this is the only trust created by said statute, and does not apply to the governor, who cannot be made or declared a trustee for any purpose according to the terms of said statute, or without the making of a totally new agreement, which this defendant is advised it is not competent to create by mere assertion or construction. That to create a trustee as between the parties is an act and fact to be proposed and assented to by both the contracting parties—that is, the State and the companies—and must be made part of the act to operate as law, or be binding on the parties, which has not been done by the legislature and cannot by the court in the present case.

21st. This defendant is not able to discover to what particular suit the J., P. & M. Co. is alleged to have been a party, in the 20th paragraph of said bill of complaint, or what denials may or may not have been made by Milton S. Littlefield, as president or otherwise, but denies, as hereinbefore stated, that said proceedings in any manner affect or conclude the rights of this defendant more than the rights of the complainants who were not parties thereto.

22d. This defendant has no knowledge what surveys of the said railroads the complainants may have caused to be made, or for what 610 purpose, but denies their right to interfere or intermeddle in the affairs of said roads or either of them, and denies the right of the complainants to claim or handle any funds in the treasury of the State derived from said roads, or either of them, and denies that the governor of the State of Florida can lawfully be made a receiver of this court for any purpose as prayed in said bill of complaint.

And this defendant is advised and so avers that if the arbitrary political intermeddling and speculating purposes now being fostered under the seizures of the governor shall be abandoned and the property surrendered to the parties who own them, and who are alone interested in taking care of them, they will soon be put in as good repair as they were five years ago when the game of arbitrary seizure commenced under cover of said void statute of the 28th January, 1870.

That the earnings of said J., P. & M. Road alone have been over $140,000 per year, if rightly handled and accounted for, and the roads should have been kept in good repair if the earnings had been lawfully used, but being under arbitrary seizure, with no personal responsibility to the companies and their stockholders, the real owners of the same, their earnings have been squandered and the roads allowed to go to ruin, while the hands of the companies are tied by the acts of the governor, who has, in truth, no power to control the persons he appoints to manage the roads, and should not be clothed with further power to do harm to the property of the companies, to whom he is in nowise responsible.

And defendant denies the right of the governor of the State to use or appropriate the said $40,000, or any portion thereof, placed in the hands of the treasurer of Florida as the earnings of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and insists, as before stated, that the earnings of the said road, if honestly used, are sufficient to keep the same in repairs, and that the said company, if restored to the control of their road (now five years out of its possession), will keep it in repair from its earnings and save a surplus besides to pay its debts with. That the said road was earning money when the State usurped control of it in 1872, and would have done so ever since had it been handled upon correct business principles, and its earnings not illegally squandered.

23d. This defendant denies the allegation in the XXII paragraph of the complainants' bill, that "the Western Division of the Western 611 North Carolina Railroad Company united with said Littlefield, said Swepson, and said S. W. Hopkins & Co. in procuring the governor, Harrison Reed, to issue and deliver said State bonds," andt charges that said allegation and every part thereof was made withou the least regard to truth.

That defendant never, at any time, or in any way, had or held any communication with the governor of Florida at or during the period of said false and fabricated bond issue, and never at any time saw, touched, or handled one of said State bonds or company's bonds.

That the first knowledge this defendant ever had that any of its moneys had been invested in the Florida railroads was at the settlement which it exacted of its agents and fiduciaries, Swepson and Littlefield, on the 16th day of April, 1870, which was reduced to writing and is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 16, and which was understood as follows:

a. That by the terms of said agreement the sum of $1,287,436 of the assets of this defendant, or the avails thereof, had been fraudulently used and appropriated by the said Swepson and Littlefield in the purchase of stock of the Florida Central Railroad and in payment for the Tallahassee Railroad, now known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad; but just how and in what manner this was done was not disclosed. All that this defendant knows is what the writings themselves contained.

b. That the said paper further disclosed that Swepson had transferred the whole of said fraudulent investments in the said Florida railroads to Littlefield, subject to the payment of said $1,287,436 of the money of this defendant, so fraudulently embezzled, used, and appropriated by its said agents and fiduciaries, as aforesaid, to pay which a lien on the said railroads was given, as provided in said paper or deed (Schedule 16). That except as stated in said paper, this defendant had no knowledge of any bond issue by the State of Florida in exchange for railroad bonds, nor was it discovered for what purpose the said bond issue was made. The declaration that "whereas said Littlefield has received authority from the legislature of the State of Florida and from the several railroads to receive bonds to be issued by and for account of the several railroad companies, which bonds are to be exchanged for the bonds of the State of Florida, to be issued for the purpose of aiding the finances of the several railroad companies, all of which bonds are now in 612 a state of preparation," was all the information this defendant had on the subject of said bonds, and being completely at the mercy of its fraudulent agents and fiduciaries, who misused its money, accepted the proposed payment as therein provided, supposing that the said bond issue referred to by the State of Florida and the railroad companies was and would be a valid and full issue of bonds, according to law, and of an unimpeachable character, and not a fraudulent creation, under an unconstitutional and void statute, whereby the pretended bonds of the State being of no value would only serve to encumber the $1,287,436 of this defendant as invested in said railroads, soon to be repudiated and declared null and void. Of these things the defendant had no knowledge or means of protecting itself, and relying upon the good faith of the acts of the State of Florida in any bond issue it might make, as stated in said agreement, acquiesced therein.

c. That on the same 16th day of April, 1870, a further writing was proposed and entered into between this defendant and its agents and fiduciaries, the said Swepson and Littlefield, which is also made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 17.

d. That by the terms of this last-named agreement the terms of the agreement above mentioned (Schedule 16) were modified as to the payments in such a way as to reduce the amount of the fraudulently appropriated funds of this defendant, to be collected out of the Florida railroads, to the sum of $880,000, by substituting for the difference over and above the last-named sum other securities, as will be seen by said last-named paper.

e. That no bonds, or the proceeds thereof, was ever paid to this defendant under said agreement, but, on the contrary, the defendant being advised that the same securities and interests had been pledged to other parties; that a scheme was in progress between Swepson, Houston, and Littlefield, concocted subsequent to the said 16th day of April, 1870, whereby the whole of defendant's stock and interest in the said Florida Central Railroad was to be sacrificed by means of a fraudulent sale, to take place in New York on the 4th day of October, 1870, in order to prevent the same and to recover possession of the stock and bonds so assigned to it as aforesaid, did, on the 3d day of October, 1870, in the supreme court of New York, institute a suit against the said Houstoun, Littlefield, and others, enjoining said attempted sale, and as part of such proceedings this defendant procured the affidavit of said Swepson, which is made part hereof, marked Schedule 18.

613 f. That by this affidavit the defendant was for the first time advised of the actual facts and manner, and for what precise purposes its money had been fraudulently used and appropriated by the said agents, trustees, and fiduciaries, as aforesaid, and henceforth adopted all the means in its power to get possession of the stock of the said Florida Central Railroad and Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Companies, which it finally did, and is now in the use and enjoyment thereof as a property to the fullest extent that the litigations involving said railroads will permit.

g. That about the time the suit above mentioned in the superior court of New York was commenced against said Houston, Littlefield and others, in October, 1870, it came to the knowledge of this defendant that the said bonds mentioned in said settlements and assignments of the 16th of April, 1870, were, in truth, in London for sale, and that not a dollar of the proceeds thereof was going to be paid to this defendant. That Nicholas Woodfin, esq., the chairman of a commission appointed to represent this defendant's interests, went to London and found it to be true, as reported, that the said bonds were on the market for sale, represented by said Littlefield, S. W. Hopkins & Co., and John Collinson, who seemed authorized to speak and act in refereuce to said bonds, when the said Woodfin made known the object of his mission and the fraud that had been perpetrated upon this defendant in the use of its money and the violation of said agreement of the 16th of April, 1870, in the removal of said bonds to London, and declared his purpose to institute legal proceedings, when on the 10th of November, 1870, and for the declared purpose of avoiding litigation and doing what was honest and just, another settlement was proposed by said Littlefield, Hopkins & Co., and others, reduced to writing, which is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 19.

h. That this last named settlement referred to and made part of the said settlement of the 16th of April, 1870, in Washington, further provided for the shipping of certain iron, and then, as a further and final closing up of the transaction, sold to and set apart to this defendant 800 of "bonds of the State of Florida of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, the number of said bonds to be designated by the party of the first part, but with the express stipulation that the said bonds are to be left with Messrs. Hopkins & Co., for sale at such prices as the said party of the second part may direct."

614 i. That, as a further part of this settlement, an order was given for the said 800 bonds by the said Littlefield to the said Hopkins & Co., and accepted by said firm under date of November 16, 1870, as follows:

LONDON, November 16, 1870.

NICHOLAS WOODFIN, Esq.,
Chairman of the Committee of the Western Division of the Western
North Carolina Railroad Company:

SIR: In accordance with my understanding with you, dated the 10th day of November, 1870, I herewith enclose you an order on Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co. for the bonds.

I remain your obedient servant,

M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

That said order, on the day of its date, viz, November 16, 1870, was presented to said Hopkins & Co., who accepted the same by the following communication:

58 OLD BROAD STREET,
London, E. C., November 16, 1870.

NICHOLAS WOODFIN, Esq.,
Chairman of the Commissioners of the Western Division of the Western
North Carolina Railroad Company:

SIR: We are in possession of your favor of this day's date, covering order from M. S. Littlefield, president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, dated November 16, 1870, for eight hundred Florida bonds. We accept the said order and agree to hold the within described bonds as agent for the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, subject to the order of the commissioners.

We remain, sir, your most obedient servants,

j. That no bonds were delivered to or ever shown the said Woodfin, as described therein; who left for America, not suspecting that the whole proceeding was a trick and fraud from the start, and a mere contrivance to get him to leave London and for no other purpose, which this defendant avers and charges is true. The said Hopkins & Co. were not the holders of a single Florida State bond, or a bond of any kind, subject to the order of said Littlefield, or that was intended to be paid to said Woodfin for this defendant, and that the giving of said order by said Littlefield for said bonds, and the order to deliver said iron, and the acceptance of said orders by said Hopkins & Co., was a mere conspiracy and fraud, concocted by said Hopkins & Co. and Littlefield to deceive and impose upon said Woodfin, who had no suspicion thereof, and that in point of fact every bond had been parted with by said Hopkins 615 & Co. previous to the giving and accepting of said order, and the proceeds thereof applied to other and different purposes, and that not a single bond, or a dollar as the proceeds thereof, was ever delivered to this defendant under said agreement of the 10th and order of the 16th of November, 1870.

k. That said commissioners, so acting on the part of this defendant, finding they were thus deceived and defrauded, sought relief in the courts of justice, when they discovered that the 1,000 bonds delivered by the State of Florida to said Houstoun and Coddington, on the 11th of January, 1870, had passed to the possession of Hopkins & Co., in London, and immediately attempted to assert the rights of this defendant thereto, when they were assured that said bonds should be held to their use to the number of 800, without further litigation, and that their draft for (£10,000) ten thousand pounds sterling would be honored and paid by said Hopkins & Co., whereupon to test the truth of this assertion, drew the following draft, as prepared for their signatures:

NEW YORK, April 3, 1871.

Messrs. S. W. HOPKINS & CO.,
58 Old Broad street, London:

GENTLEMEN: We have this day (by our chairman, N. W. Woodfin, esq.) drawn on you at sixty days' sight for (£10,000) ten thousand pounds sterling, as an advance against eight hundred (800) Florida State eight per cent. gold bonds, held by you for negotiation for account of the commissioners of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

We are, gentlemen, yours respectfully,

N. W. WOODFIN.
W. W. ROLLINS.
J. L. HENRY.

That this draft was accepted and paid at its maturity by said Hopkins & Co., but no other payment ever was made and no bonds of the State ever were delivered to or for the use of this defendant, and none of the bonds numbered above 3,000 were sold or used, except about 200 which were pledged to pay the interest due January, 1873. 560 now in bank in London, subject to the order of the State of Florida, and 224 cancelled, which accounts for the State bonds above 3,000, as aforesaid.

This defendant states that the foregoing is a correct statement of its acts and transactions in connection with the so-called Florida State bonds; that it had no knowledge of said bonds, except as disclosed in the assignment made to it on the 16th of April, 1870, and as further stipulated on the 10th day of November, 1870, in payment for its money fraudulently used in the purchase of said Florida railroads, as shown in said agreement of the 16th of April, 1870, when, to secure 616 said payment of said money to this defendant, the said assignment of the stock of said roads to this defendant was made, transferring to this defendant all and singular the stock of said companies, as hereinbefore stated, and the allegations in the complainants' bill that this defendant had anything to do with any transactions with, or made any representations, to the governor of Florida about said bonds is wholly untrue.

Further answering said bill, defendant avers that it has and does contend there was no valid bond or obligation created by or under said statutory contract and agreement of the 28th of January, 1870, either by the State or by the companies, and that none of the companies' bonds ever passed into the hands of the complainants, or has in any manner ever been their property.

24th. In answer to the XXIII and XXIV paragraphs of complainants' bill, this defendant denies the truth of the matters as therein alleged, and insists that the same are res inter alia and do not concern the complainants, who have no right to intermeddle therein.

25th. This defendant denies the allegation in the XXV paragraph of complainants' bill, that by reason of any transactions or agreements between Milton S. Littlefield and George W. Swepson that Littlefield purchased the $103,000 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds which are now deposited in the registry of this honorable court, and denies that said bonds were paid for with money received from the complainants or any one else as the purchasers of the so-called State bonds, but avers and charges the fact to be that said $103,000 of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee bonds were part of the bonds purchased by said Swepson, the president, agent and fiduciary of this defendant, who fraudulently used and appropriated a portion of the said $1,287,436 aforesaid for that purpose through said Edward Houstoun, previous to the 20th day of March, 1869, and long before the passage of the act creating and entering into the statutory agreement and contract of the 28th January, 1870, between the State of Florida, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company for the issue and exchange of bonds, and were surrendered by said Littlefield and transferred to this defendant long before the commencement of this suit, and are now held to its use by the master of this court, and will 617 not be delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund, except to be received and liquidated as the property of this defendant upon an equal footing with any other portion of said $472,075 of outstanding bonds which constitute, as in law and equity they do, a prior lien upon the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and which is the only manner in which the said trustees have any lawful right to deal with said bonds.

26th. This defendant admits that in the multitude of fraudulent transactions in using and appropriating the assets and money of this defendant, which occurred between Houston, Swepson, and Littlefield in the year 1870, that 4,370 shares out of the 5,550 shares constituting the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Co. were, about the month of May, 1870, unlawfully pledged by Swepson and Littlefield with said Houstoun, as alleged in paragraph XXVI of complainants' bill, to cover a debt contracted in the name of Littlefield to the amount of about $163,000 for the pretended purchase of about 1,300 shares of said stock, and in which same transaction the $1,000,000 of so-called bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, created without authority of law, signed by Swepson and Thompson, were also pledged with Houstoun after the same property and every part of it had by said deed and transfer of the 16th of May, 1870, been duly assigned and set apart to this defendant to secure the repayment of its $1,287,436, so fraudulently used and invested by said Swepson, Houstoun and Littlefield, each party knowing the same to be the property of this defendant, or held for its use. And defendant avers and charges that the object of said pledge to Houstoun, and the executing of the said three (3) agreements between Swepson, Houstoun, and Littlefield of the 13th and 30th days of May, and the 7th of June, 1870, were fraudulent contrivances to place said stock and bonds in an attitude to be sold beyond the reach of this defendant, and from under the said assignment of the 16th of April, 1870, and which was attempted and being done on the 3d day of October, 1870, when this defendant, by its suit in the supreme court of New York, stopped the same by suing said Houstoun and Littlefield, when the former fled from the city of New York to escape the commands of the law, as aforesaid, and never returned to that city during his lifetime.

And this defendant, further answering the complainants' allegations, 618 states that said Houstoun, after he fled from New York, was sued in New Jersey and Philadelphia by other parties, and a judgment was obtained against him by T. L. Clingman, and to avoid the said proceedings, and after he was paid by said Littlefield in full the sum of $163,000, with interest thereon, and the additional sum of $5,000 as damages arbitrarily charged upon said Littlefield for his, Houstoun's, escape from New York with said stock, making in all about $179,000 cash he received on the 12th day of April, 1871, he then, instead of delivering said stock and bonds to the defendant, to whom he knew they belonged, or instead of returning to the supreme court of New York, where he knew of the law from which he had escaped by flight, demanded them, he arbitrarily and of his own motion assigned the same in trust to one M. D. Papy, who was his counsel and adviser, and who conspired with and aided him in his schemes of peculation and misuse of the property of this defendant, by afterwards having the same seized under a collusive writ of ne exeat, sworn out in the superior court of Chatham county, Georgia, and had the stock placed in the hands of T. Mayhew Cunningham, after fraudulently transferring the certificates of stock to his own name, where, in truth, the said certificates of stock are supposed to be, and where, by another collusive suit in the same court, in the name of Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, and Charles Mueller, they were enjoined as part of the memorandum plan, on the 13th day of January, 1877.

But this defendant avers and charges that it was this very series of fraudulent practices against its right of property as a body corporate and politic that it was compelled to apply for the writ of mandamus before the circuit court for Duval County, Florida, on or about the 15th day of February, 1877, and to seek the aid of the law in causing said stock to be voted in the election of a valid board of directors for the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and then as soon as this honorable court convened in April, 1877, caused a trustee to be appointed to fill the so-called Papy trust, and which trustee at the ensuing annual election again voted said stock in the election of the present board of directors, who appear here and invoke the protection of this court in the discharge of their lawful duties.

27th. And defendant, further answering complainants' bill, states the fact to be that the title of this defendant as a body corporate and 619 politic to the 4370 shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the title to the entire capital stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad is founded upon the fact that the funds of this defendant were by its agents and fiduciaries, Swepson, Houstoun, and Littlefield, without its knowledge or authority, fraudulently invested in the purchase of the said 4,370 shares of the capital stock of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and in purchasing the $960,300 of the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, which were the sole consideration paid in the purchase of the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads on the said 20th day of March, 1869, as aforesaid, and which said roads, after the said act of incorporation of the said F. Dibble and associates, under the name of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the 24th day of June, 1869, was consolidated into and with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, incorporated on the same day, as hereinbefore stated.

28th. That as a means of refunding to this defendant its money so used and fraudulently appropriated for the purposes aforesaid, to the amount of $1,287,000, as aforesaid, the said deed of assignment and transfer was made by said Swepson and Littlefield to this defendant on the said 16th day of April, 1870, and the several subsequent assignments in further fulfilment thereof, whereby this defendant was placed in the lawful possession of the said stock of said railroad companies. That of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company this defendant is in possession of the stock represented by certificates numbers 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 57, 58, 59, 79, 80, besides stock to the amount of about 700 shares represented by other certificates held by said Littlefield and others, and making about 5,000 shares of said stock.

That of the said stock of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, this defendant, for the reasons before stated, is the lawful and equitable owner of the entire sixty thousand (60,000) shares, and is in the actual possession of fifty-one thousand six hundred and sixty-eight (51,668) shares of said stock of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, represented by certificates numbered 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 25, 27, 30, 33, 34, 35, and 36, and this defendant claims the lawful right to reclaim and reduce to possession the remainder of said 60,000 shares of said last named company.

620 And this defendant avers that the said stock above mentioned and each and every part thereof is the property of this defendant, and in its lawful possession, and that the same and no part thereof, or the said railroads or either of them, are in no manner subject to any debts, equities, or demands of the complainants or any of them, and that any and all pretenses to the contrary are unlawful, inequitable, and false.

29th. And this defendant, answering the supplemental bill filed by the complainants, says it is true that this court did appoint Aristides Doggett, esq., the master in chancery of this court, a trustee in the place of M. D. Papy, deceased, to hold and represent the said 4.370 shares of stock described in the said trust deed executed by said Edward Houstoun and S. W. Hopkins to said M. D. Papy on the 12th day of April, 1871, and that said Doggett did, as such trust and as his lawful duty required, convene with said stockholders of the said Florida Central Railroad Company at their annual meeting, convened pursuant to notice duly published, on the 11th day of April, 1877, and which stood adjourned till the 28th day of May, 1877, when the board of directors were elected, composed of the persons named in the complainant's bill, and are now in the lawful discharge of their duties as such board of directors; but this defendant denies any and all charges of fraud or combination in said election of directors, or that the same was intended to impair, hinder, or delay any rights whatever of the said complainants or any one else, and that any allegations in this behalf are untrue.

30th. This defendant, further answering, is advised that the allegations of the complainants' bill, even admitting the same to be true, are not good and sufficient in law to entitle the complainants to the relief prayed or any part thereof, and this defendant reserves the right to rely upon the insufficiency of the complainants' bill and all and singular the matters therein alleged with the same effect in law as if this defendant had specially demurred thereto in manner and form as prescribed by the rules of this court.

31st. And this defendant, further answering, avers and charges the fact to be that the said complainants are not the holders of any 621 bonds or other evidences of debt of the said Florida Central or Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company or either of them, and that said complainants are not a party to any contract, agreement, or undertaking by or on the part of said railroad companies or either of them, whereby they or either of them agreed or assumed to discharge any bond or obligation held or owned by the complainants or either of them.

32d. That the rights alleged by the complainants, as shown by their bill, are found' on the pretended statutory contract and agreement hereinbefore mentioned, created under the second and fourth sections of the act of the legislature of Florida, approved January 28, 1870, pretending to provide for the issue of bonds by the State of Florida to be exchanged for the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, at the rate of $16,000 per mile; also authorized by the same statutory agreement, as follows:

Section 2 of the act of Jan. 28, 1870.—" In order to aid the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road and to aid in perfecting one of the public works embraced in the internal improvements of the State, the governor of the State is hereby directed to deliver to the president of the said company coupon bonds of the State to an amount equal to sixteen thousand dollars per mile for the whole line of railroad owned by or belonging to said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said railroad company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars, when the president thereof shall certify upon his oath that the road or parts of road for which he asks for an exchange is completed and in good running order. The said bonds [of the State] shall be of the denomination of one thousand dollars, signed by the governor, countersigned by the treasurer, sealed with the great seal of the State; shall bear eight per cent. interest, payable to bearer. They shall be dated on the first day of January, A. D. 1870, and shall be due thirty years thereafter, and principal and interest shall be payable at such place in the city of New York as the governor shall designate. The coupons for interest shall be payable to bearer and shall be authenticated by the written or engraved signature of the treasurer."

Section 4 of said act.—"That the governor shall, for the purpose
622 of further aiding said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in the speedy construction of its road, deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of this State of the same character as those described in this act, to the amount of $16,000 per mile, upon receiving for and from the president of said company first-mortgage bonds of like amount on any part or portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville. Provided, however, the State bonds under this section shall not be exchanged for first mortgage bonds for a greater length than one hundred miles of any part of said railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville; provided that the said railroad company or companies shall not issue first-mortgage bonds to a greater amount than $16,000 per mile."

That under section two of the act above mentioned, the State of Florida agreed to issue and exchange bonds with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, "when the president thereof shall certify upon oath that the road or part of road for which he asks for an exchange of bonds is completed and in good running order."

That by the fourth section of said statutory agreement, bonds of the State of Florida of the same description and upon the same conditions as those described in section two were agreed to be exchanged and delivered "on any part or portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville; provided, however, that State bonds under this section shall not be exchanged for first-mortgage bonds, for a greater length than one hundred miles of any part of said railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville."

That defendant is advised and so charges—

a. That said act of the 28th of January, 1870, does not mention and had no reference to the Florida Central Railroad Company, but by its terms applies exclusively to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

b. That the Florida Central Railroad Company never accepted or adopted the said act of the 28th of January, 1870, or any of the provisions thereof, as before stated, and never was bound thereby.

c. That the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company never certified upon his oath in the manner provided and required by said statute and act of the legislature, whereby to justify the State of Florida in the exchange and delivery of said bonds, and that the certificate, if any was delivered by the president of said company, was not in accordance with the requirements of said statute.

d. That the president of the Florida Central Railroad Company 623 never made any certificate upon oath or otherwise asking for the exchange of any bonds under said statute, and never received any. That the use of the bonds of said company was in the false and fraudulent manner hereinbefore stated.

e. That under the said fourth section of said statute "State bonds for no greater length than one hundred miles of any part of said railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville" shall be issued and this defendant avers that a distance of one hundred miles east of Quincy does not reach the terminus of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, which is at Lake City, and hence there was never any authority conferred by the terms of the statute, to enter upon and cover the Florida Central Railroad, or any part of it, with a bond issue of said last named road.

And this defendant is further advised, and so charges the fact to be, that the said act of the 28th of January, 1870, and especially the said second and fourth sections thereof, were enacted in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and have been declared null and void by the supreme court of said State, so far as the said act pretended to make any contract or statutory agreement between the State of Florida and the said railroad company for the issue and exchange of said bonds, and that the bonds so pretended to be issued by the State are null and void.

33d. That the said bonds, being so null and void, constitute no good or lawful consideration for the receipt or delivery of said bonds of said railroad company to the State of Florida, which is in the unlawful possession of the same, and holds the same in trust for the use of this defendant if the said bonds are in any manner a charge on the said railroad company.

34th. That the complainants, as the holders of said State bonds, have by virtue of said statute (even were the same valid and not declared unconstitutional and void) no privity of relation to the said railroad company, and were in no respect by the terms or intent of said act created the creditors of said company; that the relation of debtor and creditor or principal and surety was created wholly between the State and the company, and that as between the State and the future purchaser and holder of its said proposed bonds the State alone was of the bonds of the companies, and that the State alone could deal with the company for its own protection, and not for the benefit of those who might become the purchasers of its proposed bonds, the absolute payment of which to the holders thereof in no manner depended upon what the State might be able to collect from the company's bonds which it received in exchange under said act; and that as against the bonds, property, and estate of the said railroad company, the holders of the State bonds acquired no rights whatever, and certainly no better right than the State itself acquired under said contract and statutory agreement which has been declared unconstitutional and void, and hence incapable in law or in equity of constituting a good or valid consideration for the performance of any agreement or undertaking whatever.

35th. And this defendant denies that the said statute, even was the same good and valid as a law, created or was intended to create the State of Florida a trustee for the holders of its own bonds or as to the bonds it might receive from the said company; that the State simply created itself a debtor to those who should purchase its proposed bonds and created the company a debtor to the State to the extent of its bonds issued, provided the statutory agreement created in the act was not obnoxious to the constitution of the State. That the only relation of trustee created on the part of the State was to occur after the sale provided for in the statute should take place, and that previous to such sale the State was not created a trustee for any purpose and was not authorized to make any other than a judicial sale and not an arbitrary sale without regard to law. And that in such judicial proceeding the position of the State was designed to be that of a plaintiff for the enforcement of its own rights as a creditor of the company, and not as a trustee for its own creditors, to wit, the complainants, who have no claims against the company whatever.

36th. And this defendant is further advised, and so charges, that if the said statute of the 28th day of January, 1870, created or was intended to create the State of Florida a trustee for the complainants and other holders of its bonds, that then and in that event this suit should be prosecuted in the name of the State as such trustee, and this de-625 fendant for that purpose reserving the right. will insist upon this answer as a plea in abatement to the same extent and with like effect as if the same were pleaded in due and technical form according to the rules of practice of this court.

37th. That the said statute authorizing the issue of the bonds held by the complainants being declared null and void by the supreme court of the State of Florida, and which also declared that the so called bonds issued under said act are not the bonds, debt, or obligation of, the State of Florida, this defendant is advised and so charges the fact to be that the complainants are not the holders of any bonds or obligations that are either in fact or in law a charge, lien, or demand upon which they, or any one in their name or behalf, can maintain or prosecute this suit, and this defendant, by leave now prayed, pleads the fact that said complainants are not the holders of any bonds that are a charge upon the property and estate of said company in bar of this suit on the hearing of this cause, and will rely upon the same with the same effect as if the same was pleaded as a plea in bar, in the manner prescribed by the rules of this court.

38th. And this defendant, further anwswering, submits and charges the fact to be that as the owner of the funds that purchased the whole of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad and more than nine-tenths of the capital stock of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, its right of property attached and vested in and to the stock of said companies and each of them before the passage of the said act of the 27th of January, 1870, as aforesaid, and long before the bonds claimed by the complainants were created or issued, and being in possesion of the stock of the said companies, as aforesaid, this defendant denies the rights of the complainants or any other holders of the repudiated and annulled bonds of the State of Florida to dispute or interfere with the vested rights of property of this defendant in and to said railroads or either of them.

39th. And this defendant, as hereinbefore stated, alleges and charges that the complainants and all other holders of the so-called bonds of the State of Florida had due and legal notice of the rights of this defendant and of the void, illegal, and fraudulent character of said bonds 626 so issued as aforesaid. That the litigations in New York and in London and also in Florida, imparted such notice. That the resolutions passed by both the Florida Central and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Companies on the 21st of November, 1870, and 10th of December, 1870, which were communicated to the public and to the persons dealing in said bonds in London, and also to the agents of the complainants. That such notice was given to the State of Florida before the said bonds were issued or sold, and if the State of Florida was created a trustee for the complainants, then such notice to the State was notice to the complainants and binding on them, and that the articles of impeachment by the legislature of Florida against Harrison Reed, governor, preferred on the 7th day of February, 1872, a copy of which is made part hereof, marked Schedule No. 20, were of that solemn character and public notoriety as to be a sufficient notice to all persons of the void, fraudulent, and illegal character of said bonds, and that, in consequence of which facts and notices, said bonds were forced to sale in the market at a reduced price—that is to say, the 8 per cent. gold bonds of the State of Florida were sold at about fifty per cent. of their par value, and were so purchased by the complainants, who dealt with them at their peril, and who have therefore acquired no rights or equities that are paramount to, or which can overcome and divest the prior and vested right of this defendant, either at law or in equity.

And this defendant, having fully answered the complainants' bill, and denying all fraud or combinations whatever, and denying all allegations not herein specifically denied, prays that the complainants' bill be dismissed, and that this defendant go hence with its costs in this behalf expended.

Whereas, at a sale by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida on the 20th day of March, 1869, of the Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroads, F. Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, became the purchaser thereof, bidding for the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad $1,220,000, and for the Tallahassee Railroad $195,000; and whereas George W. Swepson is the holder of a arge amount of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia nd Tallahassee Railroad Companies; and whereas said parties desire to come to an accommodation respecting their interests, the one through said purchase, and the other as the holder of said bonds: Now, therefore, it is hereby agreed between said F. Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates of the one part, and George W. Swepson of the other part, in manner and form following, that is to say:

First. That said George W. Swepson shall deliver, as he shall come into possession of them, to be surrendered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid by said F. Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates as part of the purchase-money for said roads respectively, the first mortgage bonds of said roads purchased by him, amounting to about nine hundred thousand dollars, for bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, and about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars of the Tallahassee Railroad Company; the bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Co. to be surrendered at par, and those of the Tallahassee Railroad to be surrendered at their pro rata of the amount bid for said road at the said sale, and the balance or remainder of the purchase money to be supplied by said F. Dibble and his associates.

Second. As soon as may be after the title is acquired by F. Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, from the trustees of the internal improvement fund, first mortgage bonds are to be issued in such form and to be executed in such manner as may be devised to make them legal and binding as an obligation on said roads, their equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise; said bonds shall bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable in New York semi-annually, principal and interest to be paid in gold, and having not more than thirty years to run. To secure said bonds, a proper deed of trust is to be executed by F. Dibble, in behalf of himself and associates, to Calvin B. Dibble and George W. Swepson as trustees, with the ordinaury conditions in such cases, and shall contain a provision that on default in the non-payment of any installment of interest for sixty days the principal shall become due, and that on such default the trustees shall enter upon and take possession of said railroads, their equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise without any legal process whatever, and advertise the same for sale and sell the same at public outcry for cash, the proceeds to be applied to the payment of said bonds, principal and interest, and if a sufficient amount thereof shall not be realized at such sale, then to apply the same pro rata in the payment of said bonds.

Third. The bonds to be issued shall be delivered to Calvin B. Dibble and George W. Swepson, to be sold or negotiated, and the amount thereof for that purpose shall be paid to George W. Swepson to 629 reimburse him for the amount of money he has paid out in purchasing the first mortgage bonds aforesaid, and all amounts paid or to be paid by him for commissions and attorney's fees in connection with his business with said roads, together with interest on said amounts from the time they were paid out by him until the date of his reimbursement, and also to pay him the additional sum of one hundred thousand dollars.

Fourth. The stock is to be divided and owned in the following manner: George W. Swepson is to have and own one third; Calvin B. Dibble is to have and own an amount of stock which, in connection or united with the stock of said Swepson, shall constitute a majority of the whole, and F. Dibble and his associates are to have and own the remainder, to be subdivided among themselves as they shall determine.

Fifth. Said Swepson is to have the right to appoint four directors of said roads, F. Dibble and his associates are to have the right to appoint four, and Calvin B. Dibble shall be appointed by both parties the ninth director. This provision is to expire as soon as said Swepson is reimbursed and paid the amounts hereinbefore mentioned, with interest, as provided, and thereafter the stock shall stand on a common footing, as in all other cases.

Sixth. Until the title is acquired from the trustees of the internal improvement fund, the roads are to remain as they are and to be operated as they are.

Seventh. None of the stock shall be transferable for the space of two years from this date, except as may be necessary to qualify the persons to be appointed as directors to be such directors.

Eighth. The roads are to protect the outstanding transportation notes or tickets of the Tallahassee Railroad Company to an extent not exceeding twenty-eight thousand dollars, and shall receive the same as usual for transportation, freight, or fare.

Ninth. F. Dibble is to be the president until the stock becomes transferable.

In testimony whereof, the said parties have hereunto set their hands and seals this twenty-sixth day of March, A. D. 1869.

630 SCHEDULE 2.

Whereas, by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to incorporate the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company," approved January the eighth, A. D. 1853, the said railroad company was duly incorporated;

And whereas the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of said general assembly, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January sixth, A. D. 1855, and in writing, dated January twelfth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created under said last mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company, under the provisions of this act, shall be a first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and upon the failure of any railroad company accepting the provisions of this act to provide the interest, as herein provided, on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund, as herein provided, it shall be the duties of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal, to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional security, as they may think most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders;"

And whereas the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, on the sixth of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund, as provided by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund, under the requirements of said act;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund, at a meeting of said trustees, held at the capital of said State, at the city of Tallahassee, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present his excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general; and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas, the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sinking fund of one per cent. per annum, as required by said act, to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and advertise the same to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash or additional approved security, at the office of said company, in Tallahassee afore-631 said, on Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida Union, published in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution, and until said day of sale, advertised the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the time and place and in the newspapers named, and in compliance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to said resolution, did proceed and offer said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad, subject to said sale under said act, at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, for cash, subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent. semi-annually, to the sinking fund, until all the outstanding bonds of said company are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase money paid in, and all other conditions of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State; and whereas, at said sale F. Dibble and associates were the highest and best bidders, having bid the sum of one million, two hundred and twenty thousand dollars for the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipment, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad, subject to said sale, under said act, were knocked off to said F. Dibble and his associates;

And whereas, F. Dibble and his associates have requested said trustees to execute to said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, a deed of said railroad and other property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the said purchase money bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; S. B. Conover, State treasurer; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly in relation thereto, party of the first part, and F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the second part, witnesseth: That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, as also of the said sum of one million, two hundred and twenty thousand dollars to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part, at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, sold, aliened, and confirmed, and do by these presents grant, bargain, sell, alien, confirm, and deliver unto the said party of the second part, the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all its property of every kind subject

632 to sale under the provisions of said act; to have and to hold the same, with all the rights, privileges, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, to said party of the second part, their successors or assigns forever, in as full and ample manner as the said trustees of said internal improvement fund can convey the same, and the said party of the first part will, from time to time, and all times hereafter, upon the reasonable request of the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns, make and execute all such further deeds necessary, if any, for the perfect and absolute assurance and confirmation of the said railroad and other property hereby conveyed or intended to be conveyed unto said party of the second part, their successors or assigns.

In testimony whereof, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, party of the first part, have hereunto set their hands and seals, this eighth day of April, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty nine. SCHEDULE 3.

Whereas, by an act of the legislative council of the Territory of Florida, approved February tenth, A. D. 1834, entitled "An act to incorporate the Tallahassee Railroad Company," the said railroad was duly incorporated;

And whereas, the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, A. D. 1855, and in writing presented December nineteenth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created by said last mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas, the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company, under the provisions of this act, shall be a first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and upon a failure on the part of any railroad company, accepting the provisions ot this act, to provide the interest, as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same sor sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional approved security, as they may deem most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders;"

And whereas, the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum, as a sinking fund, as provided by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund, under the requirements of said act;

And whereas, the trustees of said internal improvement fund, at at a meeting of said trustees, held at the capital of said State, at the city of Tallahassee, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present His Excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas, the Tallahassee Railroad Company has failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company and the sum of one per cent. per annum, as a sinking fund, as required by said act, to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and advertise the same to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash or additional approved security, at the office of said company, in Tallahassee, aforesaid, 635 on Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida Union, published in Jacksonville, in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee, aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution, advertise the same for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the time and place, and in the newspapers named, and in accordance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to their said resolution, did proceed and offer said Tallahassee Railroad and all its property of every kind, including road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent., semi-annually, to the sinking fund, until all the outstanding bonds are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase money paid in, and all other conditions of said act;

And whereas, at said sale, F. Dibble and his associates were the highest and best bidders, having bid the sum of one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars for the said Tallahassee Railroad and its property of every kind, including the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, the said road was knocked off to said F. Dibble and associates, as the highest bidders therefor;

And whereas, said F. Dibble and his associates requested said trustees to execute to said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, a deed of said road and all its property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the purchase price bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; S. B. Conover, State treasurer; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex-officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly of this State, in reference thereto, party of the first part, and F.

Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, as also of the said sum of one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars, to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part, at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, sold, aliened, and confirmed, and do by these presents, grant, bargain, sell, alien, confirm and deliver unto the said party of the second part, the said Tallahassee Railroad, its iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all its property of every kind subject to sale under the provisions of this act, to have and to hold the same, with all the rights, 636 privileges, and appurtenances thereto belonging or in anywise appertaining to the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns forever, in as full and ample a manner as the said trustees of said internal improvement fund can convey the same, subject, however, to the conditions and provisions stated and made known at said sale as above set forth; and the said party of the first part will, from time to time, and at all times hereafter, upon the reasonable request of the said party of the second part, their successors and assigns, make and execute all such further deeds, if any, necessary for the perfect and absolute assurance and confirmation of the said railroad and other property hereby conveyed or intended to be conveyed unto said party of the second part, their successors or assigns.

In testimony whereof the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, party of the first part, have hereunto set their hands and seals this eighth day of April, anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

Whereas George W. Swepson has paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, for and on account of F. Dibble and his associates, in payment for the Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroads, sold to said F. Dibble and his associates by said trustees on the 20th day of March last, bonds of said roads amounting at their face to nine hundred and sixty thousand and three hundred ($960,300) dollars, and has also paid to said trustees for the same parties the sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five ($472,065) dollars, being the full amount due said trustees for said roads; and whereas, said F. Dibble, for and on behalf of himself and his associates, has obligated himself and them, and does hereby obligate himself and them, to cause bonds upon said roads as now completed, as soon as further legislative authority from said State of Florida shall be obtained therefor, to be issued, the same to be secured and in every respect to be, as stated in an agreement, executed and dated the twenty-sixth day of last March, between said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, and said George W. Swepson, which bonds, when executed, are to be and shall be placed, as provided in said agreement, for the purposes therein set forth, and for the further purpose of enabling said Swepson to be reimbursed the said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars.

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the first part, and George W. Swepson, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, has granted, bargained, conveyed, and confirmed unto said party of the second part all that property of whatever name, nature, and description, conveyed to said party of the first part by said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida by two separate deeds of conveyance, each dated April 8th, A. D. 1869, which deeds for full description of property are hereby made part and portion of this instrument. The said property hereby conveyed to be held by said party of the second part in trust for the express purpose of enabling said party of the second part—which he hereby agrees and binds himself to do—to convey the same to that incorporation, consisting, or to consist as incorporators of said F. Dibble and his associates. As soon as said Dibble and his associates shall have granted to them such a similar relief as the legislature of the said State of Florida granted to Wm. E. Jackson and his associates by act for relief of Wm. E. Jackson and his associates, approved July 29th, 1868, and also for the further purpose of securing said party of the second part in all advances made, as specified and agreed upon in the said agreement between these parties, executed and dated March 26th, 1869, and the advancement, as aforesaid, of said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars, until such time as said relief shall have been granted and said party of the second part shall have conveyed said property to said incorporation, as hereinbefore prescribed.

To have and to hold said property to said party of the second part for the purposes and trusts herein declared.

SCHEDULE 5.

AN ACT for the relief of Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City, and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company.

Whereas at a sale of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad, on the 20th day of March, 1869, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under and by virture of the provisions of the internal improvement law, Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, became the purchasers thereof;

And whereas it is essential for the interests of the people of this State, that the parties aforesaid, and their associates, shall be invested with such corporate powers as are needful for the operations of said road, as well as more accurately to define their powers and duties; therefore,

The people of the State of Florida, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. That the said Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, and their successors and assigns, are hereby made a body politic and corporate, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and they, their associates and assigns, as such body politic and corporate, are hereby vested with and shall be entitled to exercise and enjoy the like powers, franchises, and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the several acts incorporating said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and said Tallahassee Railroad Company, and with the right to hold, operate, and enjoy the said railroad, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, subject to the conditions annexed to the sale of said roads by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and by and in the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, they, their associates, successors, and assigns may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods, and chattels of whatsoever character that shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroads, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of, and to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break and alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary and expedient, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the State of Florida.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of this act incorporating the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, for the protection of its roads from trespass, injury, or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who shall trespass upon or injure the same, be, and they are hereby, made applicable to all cases of trespass, injury, or intrusion on, to, or upon the aforesaid railroads, and the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall be entitled to all the benefits and protection thereof and therefrom.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That said Franklin Dibble, A.
641 Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

SEC. 4. Be it further enacted, That said Tallahassee Railroad Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, farm out, or sell any part of the said railroad to any person or persons, corporators or corporations, upon such terms as may be agreed on, provided said sale, renting or leasing shall not be made to any person or persons, or corporation, owning any railroads out of the State of Florida.

SEC. 5. Be it further enacted, That the board of directors of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall consist of nine directors, of whom the president of said company shall be one. The first directors shall be elected or appointed within one month after the passage of this act, and annually thereafter, at such time as may be fixed by resolution or law, but the said company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect or appoint its directors, so long as the said railroads shall be kept running and in operation, but the directors may be elected or appointed at the next meeting thereafter.

SEC. 6. Be it further enacted, That said company shall have the right to issue coupon bonds in such denominations and at such rate of interest, annual or semi-annual, and payable at such time and place as they may determine, and may secure the same by mortgage on said railroads, their equipments, depots, workshops, property, and franchise, executed in such form and manner as may be determined. Provided, That any deed of trust, mortgage, conveyance, bond or bonds, or security which may have been executed, made, created, or contracted for, as a lien on said railroads or otherwise, by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, prior to the passage of this act, shall be valid and effectual to all intents, either at law or in equity, as a lien or mortgage, or security on said railroad, as if the same had been made by virtue of this act, and shall in no wise be affected by any provisions thereof.

Approved June 24th, 1869.

643 SCHEDULE 7.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Duval County:

Whereas at a sale of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and of the Tallahassee Railroad on the twentieth day of March, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of the internal improvement law, the said Penscola & Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad were purchased by F. Dibble and associates, consisting of Franklin Dibble, Alonzo Huling, John L. ReQua, Edward M. Cheney, Wilkinson Call, James M. Baker and Silas L. Niblack;

And whereas by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, approved on the twenty-fourth day of June, eighteen hundred sixty-nine, the said Franklin Dibble, Alonzo Huling, Edward M. Cheney and their associates and their successors and assigns were made and constituted a body politic and corporate under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, by which said act of the general assembly it was intended that the title to the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and to the said Tallahassee Railroad, as well as the road-beds, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise unto the said Pensacola

& Georgia Railroad and Tallahassee Railroad belonging or appertaining, should vest in the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, which by said act was created;

And whereas doubts exists as to the completeness of the title the said Tallahassee Railroad Company acquired to the said property under the said act of incorporation:

Now, therefore, for the purposes of removing all doubts, and of perfecting to the said Tallahassee Railroad Company a title to the said late Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and to the said late Tallahassee Railroad; and in consideration of the sum of one dollar to them in hand paid by the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, the said Franklin Dibble, Alonzo Huling, John L. ReQua, Helen ReQua, wife of John L. ReQua, Edward M. Cheney, Maria J. Cheney, wife of Edward M. Cheney, Wilkinson Call, James M. Baker, Fanny G. Baker, wife of James M. Baker, Silas L. Niblack, and Atalie N. Niblack, wife of Silas L. Niblack, have granted, bargained, sold, released, relinquished and quit-claimed, and by these presents do grant, bargain, sell, release, relinquish and quit-claim unto the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, which was organized and framed by the act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, approved June twenty-fourth, eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, and to their successors and assigns, all their and each of their right, title, interest, estate, claim and demand, both at law and in equity, which they the said Franklin Dibble, Alonzo Huling, Lucy E. Huling, John L. ReQua, Helen ReQua, Edward M. Cheney, Maria J. Cheney, Wilkinson Call, James M. Baker, Fanny G. Baker, Silas L. Niblack, and Atalie N. Niblack, or either of them, have in and to the said late Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and the said late Tallahassee Railroad, and in and to the road-bed, iron, 644 equipments, workshop, depots and franchise unto the said late Pensacola & Georgia Railroad and the said late Tallahassee Railroad belonging or appertaining, the said Lucy E. Huling, Helen ReQua, Maria J. Cheney, Fanny G. Baker, and Atalie N. Niblack, joining their said husbands in this conveyance for the purpose of relinquishing their dower in and to the property hereinbefore described and conveyed.

In testimony whereof the said Franklin Dibble, Alonzo Huling, Lucy E. Huling, John L. ReQua, Helen ReQua, Edward M. Cheney, Maria J. Cheney, Wilkinson Call, James M. Baker, Fanny G. Baker, Silas L. Niblack and Atalie N. Niblack have hereunto set their hands and seals this day of A. D. 1870.

A BILL to be entitled an act for the relief of William E. Jackson, Edward Thomas, William Spear, John Craig, James B. Walker, and their associates, now owning and operating the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City.

Whereas at a sale of the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad and all its property and franchise on the fourth day of March, 1868, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund under and by virtue of the provisions of the internal improvement law, William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers thereof; and whereas it is essential for the interests of the people of the State that these parties should be invested with such corporate powers as are necessary for the operation of the road, as well as more accurately to define the duties of the said road: Therefore,

SECTION 1. The people of the State of Florida, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows: That the said William E. Jackson and his associates be, and they are hereby, vested with the powers and franchise granted to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad in and by an act entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, and they and their successors and assigns are hereby authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchise so far as they appertain to the railroad constructed from the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, to Lake City, in Columbia County, in this State, and that the said William E. Jackson and his associates are hereby made a body politic and corporate under the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and by that name they and their successors shall be capable to enjoy and hold the said railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City and all the benefits thereof, subject only to the condition annexed to the sale thereof by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and as such body politic and corporate shall be entitled as aforesaid to exercise all the powers and franchise granted in said above referred to act to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company, and by and in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, they, their successors and assigns, may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods and chattels, of whatsoever character the same may be, that shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroad, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of, to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break or alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be deemed necessary and expedient.

SECTION II. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of said act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company for the protection of said railroad from trespass, injury, or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who 646 shall trespass upon or injure the same be, and they are hereby, extended to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which company shall be entitled to all the benefits thereof.

SECTION III. Be it further enacted, That the said William E. Jackson and his associates shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in said Central Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

SECTION IV. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Railroad Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, or farm out all or any part of the privileges with which they are invested or the railroad itself to any person or persons, corporation or corporations for such terms as may be agreed upon.

SECTION V. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Railroad Company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect officers so long as the said railroad shall be kept running and in operation.

SECTION VI. Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed nor shall it be so operative as to divest the State of the right to make the Florida Central Railroad and all its property of every sort, character, and description the subject matter of taxation on the part of the State.

SECTION VII Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed nor shall it so operate as to give any additional validity to the bonds issued under the provisions of an "act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, or as a recognition to any extent that they are contracts which it is within the power of the State to make.

Passed the senate July 24, 1868.
Passed the assembly July 27, 1868.
Approved July 29, 1868.

SCHEDULE 9.

This memorandum of contract and agreement, made and entered into this day between Edward Houstoun, party of the first part, and Milton S. Littlefield, party of the second part, witnesseth: That Edward Houstoun has this day sold to Milton S. Littlefield, four drafts drawn by Geo. W. Swepson on Milton S. Littlefield, dated August 2d, 1869, and accepted by said Littlefield, one for twenty-six thousand five hundred and twenty dollars, ($26,520,) due at six months; one for twenty seven thousand and thirty dollars, ($27,030,) due at nine months; one for twenty-seven thousand, five hundred and forty dollars, ($27,540,) due at fifteen months, and that said Houstoun has this day sold to said Littlefield, one thousand three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. In payment for said drafts and said stocks, said Littlefield has paid said Houstoun ten thousand dollars in cash and the drafts of said Littlefield, of this date, on S. W. Hopkins & Co., of 71 Broadway, N. Y., for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and seventy and twenty-hundredths dollars, due sixty days from date. To secure the payment of said draft of $163,070 20-100, it is agreed that said Houstoun shall retain possession of said four drafts by George W. Swepson on said Littlefield, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, now in his possession as collateral, and in addition thereto, said Littlefield hereby obligates himself immediately to deposit with F. H. Porter, of the banking house of Soutter & Co., 53 William street, New York, certificate of stock for 3.110 shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, with directions to said Porter to hold said certificate till said draft of $163,070 20-100 shall fall due, and then if said draft is not promptly paid within ten days after it falls due, to deliver said certificate to said Houstoun, or his order, and in the event said certificate shall be so delivered to said Houstoun, he is hereby authorized to sell the said three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at public auction to the highest bidder, on mailing to the address of M. S. Littlefield, Tallahassee, Florida, and to the address of George W. Swepson, Haw River, North Carolina, and to the address of S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York, notice of the time and place of such sale in the city of New York, ten days previously to day of sale, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

On the payment of said drafts, said Houstoun hereby obligates himself to transfer the said shares of stock hereby sold, to deliver to said Littlefield the said 1,300 shares of stock sold, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which Houstoun now holds as collateral security for the payment of said four drafts, together with all the coupons on said bonds falling due from and after the 20th of March, 1869.

This is understood and intended to be a full, complete and final settlement of all matters between either George W. Swepson or M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houston.

648 In testimony of all which, the parties aforesaid have hereunto set their hands and seals, at Tallahassee, Florida, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1870.

649 SCHEDULE 10.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

This agreement, made and entered into at the city of Tallahassee, in the county and State aforesaid, between Milton S. Littlefield, party of the first part, and Edward Houstoun, party of the second part, witnesseth: That whereas the said Edward Houstoun owns and holds a certain draft, which is in the words and figures following, to wit:

$163,026 70-100. TALLAHASSEE, May 13, 1870.

Sixty days after date, pay to the order of Edward Houstoun one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70-100 dollars, value received, and charge the same to account of

M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

Acceptance waived.

For the payment of which said the said Edward Houstoun has and holds as security the following securities: 104 first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, amounting to one hundred and three thousand dollars of said bonds; one thousand three hundred shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad; four (4) drafts of George W. Swepson on M. S. Littlefield—accepted by said Littlefield—one draft for $26,520, due at six months; one draft for $27,030, due at nine months; one draft for $27,540, due at twelve months; one draft for $28,050, due at fifteen months; all of said drafts being dated August 2, 1869, and amounting, in the aggregate, to the sum of one hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty dollars, exclusive of interest thereon; and whereas the said draft of $163,026 70-100 was given to the said Houstoun for value received in the various transactions between the parties, relative to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company, growing out of the late Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and said Florida Central Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company; and whereas it is to the great interest of said parties of the first and second parts that moneys should be raised to promote the interests of said Florida Central Railroad Company, to extend and provide for the business of said company and to pay said draft when due; and whereas the said parties of the first and second parts are owners and proprietors of more than a majority of the capital stock of said Florida Central Railroad: Therefore, know all men by these presents, that the said parties of the first and second parts do hereby covenant and mutually agree, each with the other, that they do cause to be issued one million dollars of the first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of like denomination and effect and condition as the first mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which said one million of dollars of said bonds are to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun, as additional security for the payment of said draft for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars 650 and seventy cents, to be held by the said Houstoun, in addition to the security aforesaid, for the faithful payment of said draft at maturity. And it is further agreed, that if the said draft is not paid at maturity, then and in that event the said Edward Houstoun is hereby authorized and fully empowered to cause said one million of dollars of the bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company placed in his hands as security for said draft, as aforesaid, to be sold at public outcry in the city of New York, after default of payment of said draft, upon giving ten days' notice of said sale of said bonds and of the time and place of said sale to Milton S. Littlefield, by mail, to his residence, at Tallahassee, Florida, and by giving like notice to Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York City, by delivering said notice at their office, and by giving ten days' notice of said sale in the New York Herald, by advertisement, at which sale of said bonds the said Edward Houstoun may become the purchaser. And in the event of the sale being made as aforesaid, the said Edward Houstoun, after first paying said draft and the expenses of said sale of bonds, shall pay over all the other moneys arising from said sale and all the securities now in the hands and heretofore set forth and enumerated to the said Milton S. Littlefield, and the said Houstoun shall only retain of or from said sale of bonds and securities aforesaid sufficient to pay said draft and expenses of selling said bonds.

In witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals this 30th day of May, A. D. 1870.

(Signed) MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD,
(Signed) EDWARD HOUSTOUN.

SCHEDULE 11.

The agreement made between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, dated 30th May, 1870, is hereby modified, changed, and altered as follows, to wit:

First. In lieu of one million dollars of first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which by said agreement were to be placed in the hands of said Houstoun as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, there shall be placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, the same amount of bonds of the State of Florida, to be exchanged for the said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

Second. If said draft be not paid at maturity the said Houstoun is authorized and empowered to sell said bonds of the State of Florida at public outcry, giving the notice of sale as provided for in said agreement, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

Third. After first paying said draft and expenses of sale, said Houstoun shall out of the balance of the proceeds arising from the sale of said bonds, if sufficient for this purpose, pay to John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; to M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; to T. M. Brevard, attorney of certain holders of bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company—if certain negotiations now pending for their purchase be consummated—the sum of fifty thousand dollars; to John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, three hundred and forty thousand dollars; after these payments the balance, if any, to be paid to said Littlefield.

Fourth. When said draft shall mature said Houstoun, instead of selling said bonds of the State, shall have the option and choice of returning the same to the State, and receiving in lieu thereof the one million dollars of first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad exchanged for the State bonds aforesaid.

Fifth. If, under the option and choice given the said Houstoun, he returns the bonds of the State of Florida aforesaid to said State and receives in lieu thereof the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company as aforesaid, provided said Houstoun, upon delivering said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, received from the State as aforesaid, to the president of said company, shall receive and have executed and delivered to him in lieu thereof other first-mortgage bonds of said company, which said bonds shall be made payable to bearer, and shall be good, effectual, and first lien on said road.

Sixth. Upon receiving said first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company from the president thereof, as above provided for, the said Houstoun shall hold the same as security for the payment of said draft, and is authorized and has the power at any time after giving thirty days' previous notice to the president of said company to sell the said bonds so received from the president of said company at public outcry in the city of New York, at which said Houstoun may become a purchaser; and said Houstoun, after paying said draft and the expenses of said sale, dispose of and pay over the rest and residue of 652 the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, if any, to the persons named and for the amounts named as provided in the third clause hereof.

Seventh. If said Littlefield shall pay said draft at or before its maturity, said Houstoun shall deposit said bonds of the State of Florida placed in his hands under the first clause hereof with S. W. Hopkins & Company, No. 71 Broadway, New York, with the stipulation and agreement that they, the said Hopkins & Company, shall, in disposing of said bonds, hold the proceeds of said sale subject to the claims and for the amounts mentioned in the third clause hereof, to wit: John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; T. M. Brevard, attorney for certain holders of Pensacola and Georgia railroad bonds, if negotiations now pending for their purchase shall be consummated, the sum of forty thousand dollars; John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sum of three hundred and forty thousand dollars; said Hopkins & Company, after first paying the amounts above named to the parties above named out of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, shall pay the rest and residue, if any, of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to said Littlefield.

Witness our hand and seal this the seventh day of June, A. D. 1870, at Tallahassee, Florida.

APPENDIX.

At a meeting of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held November 21, 1870, upon motion of Mr. Papy, a committee was appointed to take in consideration the past issue of bonds, and also to report upon the policy of issuing bonds of the company, and the amount. The president appointed Messrs. Papy, Baker, and Huling said committee.

The board then adjourned to 4 p. m.

4 p. m.—The directors convened pursuant to adjournment, Colonel Sanderson, president, in the chair.

Mr. Papy presented the following report:

The committee, finding that the bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are in such form as that they cannot be used to carry out the intention of their issue when they were adopted, report the following resolution in respect thereto:

Resolved, That the resolution adopting the bonds to be issued by this company, signed by George W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, at a meeting of the board of directors held on the 2d day of June, A. D. 1870, be and the same is hereby rescinded, and that said bonds be destroyed.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foster, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Papy made the following report:

The committee report the following resolutions in reference to the issues of bonds of the company and the securing the same:

Resolved, That the president cause bonds payable to bearer to be prepared, signed, and executed in due form, which shall be issued for purposes of the company, not exceeding seven hundred thousand dollars in amount, with interest at 7 per centum per annum, not having more than thirty years to run, with coupons for interest attached, payable in New York semi-annually.

Resolved, That said bonds and the interest thereon shall be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, workshops, depots, franchises, and property of every kind, and that the president cause to be prepared and executed such deed of trust or other necessary instrument of writing under the seal of this company as may be needful to make the first lien or mortgage in favor of said bonds and the interest thereon effectual to all intents.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Huling, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

654 Adjournment to four o'clock next day, at which time the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this board approve of the form of the trust deed read to the directors, to secure the first lien or mortgage of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued, and that the president of the company is authorized to select the trustees to whom the said deed is to be made, not to exceed three in number.

Adopted.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy from the records of the board of directors.

655 SCHEDULE 13.

TALLAHASSEE, FLA., January 11, 1871.

Received from Edward Houstoun, esq., in trust and for his account, one thousand Florida Central Railroad Company first-mortgage bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for one thousand dollars each, with which I hereby undertake to arrange with General M. S. Littlefield and other parties interested, and collect from him or them the amount which it is admitted is now due to said Houstoun, viz: One hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six $\frac{70}{100}$ dollars, with interest thereon at seven per cent. from the time M. S. Littlefield's draft on S. W. Hopkins & Co for said amount fell due, and in addition thereto the sum of five thou sand dollars for costs and expenses incurred by said Houstoun in suits brought by parties against said Houstoun in relation to those bonds or other bonds and the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company; it being understood that all proceedings at law or otherwise are to be discontinued, or if that be impossible, he is to be indemnified by responsible parties against all damages or costs arising out of said proceedings; it being further understood that said Houstoun shall, when paid, transfer and assign to said Littlefield all the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or other securities which he holds or which were given him as collateral security to secure the above amounts due to said Houstoun.

And it is further understood and agreed that said Coddington is to collect the further sums of money and pay to said Houstoun for account of the parties named below, which it is understood are a lien subsequent and inferior to said Houstoun's lien on these bonds, viz:

M. D. Papy, esq., the sum of sixteen thousand dollars.

Col. R. H. Gamble, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars; who is to surrender to said Littlefield three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and seventeen hundred dollars in the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, at par.

J. P. Sanderson, esq., the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, and said J. P. Sanderson is to surrender to said Littlefield seventy shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and comply with his agreements with said Littlefield, for which a part of said sum is in consideration.

F. H. Flagg, esq., the sum of four thousand dollars; for which he is to surrender the Central Railroad Company stock and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds which he holds to said Littlefield.

And also to pay for seventy shares of stock now or lately held by J. D. Westcott, jr., esq., the sum of thirty-eight hundred and forty-five $\frac{33}{100}$ dollars, when said stock is to be delivered to said Littlefield.

This arrangement is based on the assumption that the money will be paid from the proceeds of bonds negotiated by S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York; the remainder of said proceeds is to be disposed of as directed by the parties interested.

(Signed) T. B. CODDINGTON.

I approve and assent to the same.

SCHEDULE 14.

TALLAHASSEE, December 10, 1870.

At a meeting of the directors, convened this day at the call of the vice-president, were present: Col. J. P. Sanderson, vice-president; Messrs. Hawkins, Cheney, Stearns, and Purman, directors.

After a conversation as to the objects of the meeting, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted:

"Whereas bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company have been issued, according to the provisions of the act incorporating this company and the amendments thereto, which bonds have been exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, according to the provisions of said act; and whereas said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered by the governor to the president of the company; and whereas, though previous to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with this company, authority was granted by the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to its president to issue, negotiate, dispose of, and apply the bonds for the purpose authorized by the act of incorporation, no action was had thereon, after such consolidation, either by the stockholders or directors then newly elected, authorizing the issue or disposing of bonds; and whereas, though no such action was formally taken, yet the stockholders and directors were advised that bonds had been issued and exchanged for an equal amount of State bonds, and were in the hands of the president, to be disposed of and applied, as they supposed, according to the law authorizing their issue, and they were satisfied therewith, if a proper application was to be made thereof; and whereas the directors are now advised that a contract was made by the president and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and certain persons as commissioners, appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, which contract was executed in April last, by which the bonds of the State of Florida, taken in exchange for the bonds of this company, were to be disposed of and the proceeds to be divided according to the terms of said contract between the above-named Florida railroads and the commissioners aforesaid, dollar for dollar, until an amount of over one million of dollars, with interest, should be paid to the said commissioners; and whereas said contract was unknown to the directors, and is in violation of the law of this State authorizing the issue of said bonds, and is a misapplication of said bonds or their proceeds: Therefore

"Be it resolved, That all authority in the president of this company to dispose of or negotiate said bonds is hereby withdrawn.

"Resolved, further, That a demand be made upon the president, or whomsoever else may have possession, control, or custody of said bonds, to return the same to the treasurer of this company forthwith.

657 "Resolved, further, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and these resolutions be communicated by the secretary to S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, New York, and 58 Broad street, London, and to the president of this company, and whomsoever else may have said bonds, or any part thereof, in their hands or control."

Adjourned, subject to the call of the vice-president.

F. H. FLAGG,
Secretary.

SCHEDULE 15.

Memorandum Plan.

(Bijlage A.)

For the reorganization of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Rail road Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company of Florida to be agreed upon by and between Frank R. Sherwin, agent of the owners and holders of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of said railroad companies of the first part; and the owners and holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies of said State, issued under the provisions of the act of January 6th, 1855, generally known as the "internal improvement act," respresented by Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, in the State of Georgia, and Charles H. Simonton, of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, of the second part.

The object to be sought in said reorganization shall be the formation, under the general incorporation laws of said State, of a new company, under the name and style of "the Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company," for the purpose of purchasing the present lines of constructed railroads between Jacksonville and Chattahoochee, and Tallahassee and St. Marks, with branch at Monticello Junction, together with all their rolling stock, depots, machine shops, and all their other property, and of completing the said line of road to Mobile, in the State of Alabama.

To this end it is agreed between the said parties that the line of completed railway, to wit: The roads extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the road extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, known as the Florida Central Railroad, together with all their depots, rolling stock, machine shops, and all their other saleable property, shall be sold at public outcry, in accordance with law, so soon as the following antecedent arrangements, numbered "first" and "second" shall have been completed:

First. The said the parties to this agreement, shall, within 30 days, select three persons, who shall act as trustees in discharge of the trusts hereinafter set out; any vacancy in their number occurring by death or otherwise to be filled by the surviving trustees.

Second. The said bonds and coupons of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, held by the said parties of the second part, and the said bonds and coupons of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said, the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall be placed in the hands or under the control of the said trustees so selected, for the purposes of the said trust, within thirty days from the date of the acceptance of their appointment.

The said the governor shall offer at public sale, according to law, said line of railroads, together with all their depots, rolling stock, machine shops, and all their other property, or such portions of it as may be legally saleable; and at the said sale the said trustees shall bid for the said property so to be exposed for sale, to the extent, if necessary, of the par value of the said bonds and past due coupons of the 659 State of Florida so placed under their control, the aggregate amount in dollars and cents, of which said bonds and past due coupons shall be treated and received as cash at said sale by the said governor, and if such bid be the highest made at such sale or sales the said line of railroad, together with all of its property as hereinbefore detailed, shall be struck off to the said trustees so bidding, and, upon the delivery to the said the governor of the said bonds and past due coupons last mentioned, he shall immediately cause the said trustees so bidding to be placed in the actual possession of all said railroad property, and full title shall be made to said trustees by the governor, the same to be held by them subject to the following conditions, namely: In trust to be conveyed by them to the said "Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company," after the following arrangements and conditions shall have been perfected and complied with:

First. Such title to the line of railroad now known as the Florida Central, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City; and such title to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, which extends from Lake City to the Chattahoochee River and from Tallahassee to St. Marks; and such right of franchise to continue the construction of said line of railway westward to the city of Mobile, as may not be perfected in the said selected trustees, by the said sale as hereinbefore provided, shall be perfected in the said the Jacksonville & Mobile Railroad Company, through the action and agency of the said party of the first part, and shall be so perfected as not to leave any lien or incumbrance upon said last mentioned title or property, which shall be superior to the special mortgage lien so be created, as hereinafter provided. The provisions of this clause, numbered first, to be practically carried out by the said party of the first part within six (6) months from the date of its agreement.

Second. Title having been so perfected in the said the Jacksonville, & Mobile Railroad Company, that company shall execute an obligation in writing to the said the selected trustees, stipulating that immediately after conveyance made to it, the said railroad property, so to be purchased, as aforesaid, by them (the said selected trustees), the said the Jacksonville & Mobile Railroad Company shall cause the entire line of constructed railroads heretofore named to be bonded at the rate of not more than twelve thousand dollars ($12,000) per mile, which bonds shall be due forty years from date, bearing interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually either in New York city or Amsterdam, Holland, at the option of the holders, principal and interest payable in gold, which bonds shall be a first-mortgage lien upon said line of railroad, its depots, machine shops, rolling stock, and all of its other property.

That distinct provision shall be made in said mortgage for the issue, in the first place, of a series of said bonds equal in amount only to the par value of said surrendered bonds and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, in the event that the said lines of road formerly known as the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads should be bid off by the said selected trustees at a sum below or not exceeding the aggregate amount of said last mentioned bonds and past due coupons; but should the said last mentioned roads be so bid off at a sum equal to
past due coupons and interest on said coupons, then the first series of bonds to cover the full amount of said last mentioned aggregate and this first and distinct series of bonds so issued shall constitute a prior lien upon the said line of railroad and its said property, to secure the payment of the interest and principal of the same when due; and the first said series of bonds, when so issued, shall be delivered to the owners of the said surrendered bonds and coupons of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, whereupon the said last mentioned bonds and coupons shall be held by said trustees in trust, to be delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida for cancellation, so soon as all of the same class of bonds now outstanding shall have been surrendered to the said selected trustees, whether in exchange for the said new first mortgage bonds or otherwise.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage that in case of default for one year by said new company in payment of interest on any of the bonds, foreclosure of said mortgage may be made for the entire amount of indebtedness secured by it, both principal and interest, and the said road and all of its said property may be sold, and the proceeds derived from such sale shall be first applied to the payment of the said first series of bonds, principal and interest, and the surplus, if any, shall be applied toward the payment of the remaining or second series of said bonds.

That provision shall also be made in said mortgage for the creation, at the expiration of three years from the organization of said company, of a sinking fund of one per cent. per annum in gold, payable semi-annually, upon its said bonded debt, which said sinking fund shall be semi-annually applied, as paid, to the redemption at par of the said bonds of said company, the numbers of which shall be selected by lot, and the said first series of said bonds of said company, issued as aforesaid, shall have priority of payment out of said sinking fund.

A draft of said contemplated bonds and mortgage, to be approved by the selected trustees, shall be appended as an exhibit to the said written obligation, and also a copy of the proposed charter of the said Jacksonville and Mobile Railroad Company, showing powers in the said new corporation to issue such bonds and to execute such mortgage.

It shall be further stipulated in said written obligation that a sufficient number of the second series of said bonds shall be set apart and used for the purpose of placing said line of constructed railroad in first-class order and repair as to road-bed, rolling stock, and otherwise; and that said new railroad company shall be managed by a board of directors, consisting of not more than seven nor less than five members, who shall be named by the owners or holders of said State bonds, but who shall be acceptable to said selected trustees; and that in case of vacancy in said board of directors or officers of said company, by death, resignation, or otherwise, notice of any intended new appointment shall be given to the said selected trustees; and a protest in writing, signed by the owners representing a majority of the said first series of bonds of said company shall operate to prevent the appointment to fill said vacancy; this provision to continue in operation for the period of six years from the organization of the said new company.

661 It is also further stipulated and agreed that all funds necessary to meet the costs and expenditures incurred in such sale or sales, and in perfecting said titles thereafter, shall be supplied by the said party of the first part.

In witness whereof we, the said parties to this agreement, have hereunto set our hands and affixed our seals interchangeably this 12th day of January, A. D. 1877, at Savannah, Georgia.

Bijlage B.

I, the undersigned bona fide holder of bonds 8 per cent. Florida, issued 1870, each bond of Ds. 1,000, numbered as follows: declare by these presents to accept and to join for my part to the provisions of the memorandum plan for the reorganization of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company of Florida, signed on the 12th day of January, 1877, at Savannah, Georgia, between Frank R. Sherwin, agent of the owners and holders of the bonds of the said State of Florida, issued in aid of said railroad companies on the first part, and the owners and holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company of said State, issued under the provisions of the act of January 6th, 1855, generally known as the "internal improvement act," represented by Henry R. Jackson, of Savannah, in the State of Georgia, and Charles H. Simonton, of Charleston, in the State of South Carolina, of the second part: that I do hereby appoint my lawful trustee, Adolph Engler, partner of the firm of Kremelburg & Co., at New York, handing to him herewith as trustee my said as above numbered bonds, with the power to deliver and to exchange the so in trust given bonds as aforesaid, with all the coupons attached, to a company to be formed under the general incorporation laws of the 662 State, under style of the name of the Jacksonville and Mobile
Railroad Company, for the purpose of purchasing the present lines of constructed and completed railways extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and the road extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, known as the Florida Central Railroad, together with all their depots, rolling stock, machine shops, and all their other saleable property, and such in the proportion of 33⅓ per cent. in bonds and 16⅔ per cent. in shares, lawfully and legally issued by the said new company to be formed as aforesaid, i. e. for each old bond of $1,000, with coupons attached, $333⅓ in bonds and $166⅔ shares, all, however, under the following terms and conditions:

First. That the said bonds shall be part of a first mortgage bond of a maximum not exceeding $12,000 per mile, redeemable in forty years by lot, bearing 5 per cent. interest per annum in gold; bonds and interest at maturity payable in Amsterdam and New York at the rate of f 2.50 Dutch currency per dollar; first coupon for interest to be paid on the 1*th* of July, 1878.

Second. That no expenses whatsoever already incurred or to be made for the reorganization, as per the memorandum plan aforesaid, shall be at the charge of the bonds or of the bondholders.

Third. That the exchange and delivery of the old bonds against the bonds and shares of the new company must be completed before or on the 1*th* of December, 1877.

That on or before the 1*th* of June, 1877, the directors of the new company to be formed, Messrs. Robert Walker, Hubbart L. Hart, John Clark, C. H. Allen, and Robert P. Dodge, shall depose with my said trustee an authentic act containing that they accept to execute the said memorandum plan, and that the necessary funds for the purpose of placing the said lines of the new railroad company in first-class order and to repair as to road bed, rolling stock, and otherwise is secured.

In witness whereof I have signed this day of , A. D. 1877, at Amsterdam.

663 SCHEDULE 16.

Memorandum of agreement and settlement between the Florida Central Railroad Company, George W. Swepson, president, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, president, and Milton S. Littlefield, majority owner of the stock of said companies and also of the stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, reoresented by N. W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. Pink Welsh, and W. W. Rollins, commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, approved by the stockholders of said corporation, of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas George W. Swepson, late president of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, made certain investments of the funds of said company in securities of and interests in the said Florida Central Railroad, Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad, of the said State of Florida, as per report made by the said George W. Swepson to the said commissioners, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, to bear interest from the first day of November, 1869, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum; and whereas the said George W. Swepson heretofore conveyed to the said Milton S. Littlefield, subject to the payment of the above recited claim, his interest in the above recited railroads; and whereas the said Littlefield has received authority from the legislature of the State of Florida and the several railroad companies to receive bonds to be issued by and for account of the several railroad companies, which bonds are to be exchanged for the bonds of the State of Florida to be issued for the purpose of aiding the finances of the said several railroad companies, all of which bonds are now in a state of preparation; and whereas the said Milton S. Littlefield has made a contract with S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, for the disposition of said bonds as the same may be issued, the proceeds of the issue of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of the said State of Florida, amounting to nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars, are to be applied to the payment of the existing liabilities of the said several railroad companies, including the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to be paid to the commissioners aforesaid for the purpose of paying existing liabilities of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

It is understood and agreed by the parties of the first and second part that the proceeds of the sale of the said bonds so to be issued by the said Florida railroad companies and the said State of Florida are to be equally divided, dollar for dollar, between the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and the said Florida Railroads, and as the commissioners aforesaid receive by this first sale of bonds only the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, 664 it is further understood and agreed that out of the proceeds of the sale of the issue of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad there is first to be received by the commissioners aforesaid a sum sufficient to be equal to the amount received by and on account of the said Florida railroads, and then an equal amount is to be received by the said commissioners and the said Florida railroads, dollar for dollar, until the entire amount of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand and thirty-six dollars and three cents, with interest at eight per cent., as aforesaid, being the sum reported by the parties of the first part as due to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad, is fully paid.

It is further understood and agreed by the parties of the first and second parts that all the interest owned or claimed by the said parties of the first part George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, or which they as individuals have a right to control, in the said Florida railroads, are hereby pledged for the faithful fulfilment of this contract without the right on the part of any party to interfere with our management or control of the affairs of the road.

Be it remembered that on this fifteenth day of August, the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy, before me, the undersigned, William W. Latimer, a commissioner resident in the city of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, duly commissioned by the executive authority and under the laws of the State of Florida to take the acknowledgment and proof of deeds to be used or recorded therein, personally appeared R. R. Swepson, whose name appears as subscribing witness to the foregoing instrument, and who, being duly sworn, on his oath says that George W. Swepson, president Florida Central Railroad Company; M. S. Littlefield, president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company; N. W. Woodfin, W. W. Rollins, W. G. Candler, and W. P. Welch, commissioners, duly signed, sealed, and delivered the foregoing instrument in the presence of him, the said R. R. Swepson, and of one M. W. Ransom, who then and there duly signed and attested the same in the presence of him, the said R. R. Swepson, and that they each subscribed their names as witnesses thereto.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at Baltimore, the day and year aforesaid.

665 SCHEDULE 17.

WASHINGTON CITY,
District of Columbia:

This agreement, executed on this the 16th day of April, 1870, between N. W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. W. Rollins, commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, entitled "An act to provide for the completion of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad," and "ratified March 24, 1870," which said act has been "approved" by the stockholders of the said corporation, and the said commissioners now representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company of the first part, and George W. Swepson (formerly president of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company), of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas a deed of agreement of this date has been made between George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad, and Milton S. Littlefield, in his own right as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and as majority stockholder in all of these three railroad companies, of the first part, and the aforesaid commissioners of the second part, which agreement has been signed in triplicate; and whereas by said agreement an interest in said railroads amounting to the sum of one million two hundred and eighty seven thousand four hundred and sixty six dollars and three cents has been transferred and conveyed to the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company;

And whereas the said George W. Swepson, through his brother Robert R. Swepson, has this day paid to the said commissioners the sum of fifty thousand dollars in cash;

And whereas the said George W. Swepson has this day executed and delivered to the said commissioners his obligation in the form of a draft accepted by M. S. Littlefield, as president of the J., P. & M. Railroad Co., and endorsed by M. S. Littlefield and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, for the sum of one hundred thousand dollars payable four months after date;

And whereas the said George W. Swepson has this day executed and delivered to the said commissioners his other obligations, in the form of a draft accepted by M. S. Littlefield, as president of the J., P. & M. Railroad Co., and endorsed by M. S. Littlefield, and George W. Swepson as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, for the sum of one hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars, payable twelve months after date, with interest on both of said premises at the rate of six per cent.;

And whereas as a security for the payment of the last aforesaid obligations of one hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars, the said George W. Swepson has agreed to execute a mortgage deed, or deed in trust, with full relinquishment of all rights of dower upon the following lands, viz: the marble and lime lands in Catawba County, North Carolina, owned in copartnership with Dr. A. M. Powell, his interest being one-half; an undivided half of the Eagle Hotel, in Asheville, North Carolina; the Dr. Woodfin place, in Macon County, about three 666 hundred acres; the Jarret place, on Nantahala River, about four hundred acres in Cherokee; the Gid Morris plantation, about sixteen hundred acres; the Charles Moore place, about six hundred acres; the David Hennessee place, about   acres; the Sharp place, about three hundred acres; one-half interest in fifteen trails' length Horshaw, of Burke County, all on Valley River; one-half interest in about twenty thousand acres in copartnership with M. Fair, also in Cherokee County; all of his interest in about sixty-two thousand acres in Macon County, (this land has been paid for but the grants are not yet received); about ninety thousand acres of land in Macon, Cherokee, and Clay, known as the Olmsteads lands; a lot of about fifty thousand acres held by Joseph Keener in trust for George W. Swepson;

And whereas the said George W. Swepson has agreed that the said mortgage or deed in trust, with relinquishment as aforesaid, shall be executed within the next thirty days;

And whereas R. R. Swepson and R. Y. McAden have agreed that they will guarantee that the said lands so to be mortgaged shall be relieved and discharged of all liens by reason of any judgments against George W. Swepson;

And whereas it is expressly understood that the said notes of one hundred thousand dollars and one hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars may be paid in railroad iron delivered at Portsmouth, Virginia, and if so paid before their maturity the unaccrued interest shall not be charged;

And whereas the said Robert R. Swepson has this day advanced the sum of fifty thousand dollars to aid in this settlement; and whereas it is understood that the directory of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company will resolve that all stock on which 5 per cent. has not been paid shall be forfeited to the company and the stockholders released therefrom, the said commissioners hereby, so far as they have any authority or interest therein, express their consent thereto;

And whereas it is further understood that upon the payment upon the said note of $164,000 of the sum of five thousand dollars the Eagle Hotel may be discharged of the trust; upon the payment of twelve thousand dollars the Gid Morris place may be discharged; upon the payment of seven thousand five hundred dollars the Hennessee lands may be discharged; upon the payment of six thousand five hundred dollars the Charles Moore place may be discharged; upon the payment of three thousand dollars the Sharp place may be discharged; upon the payment of two thousand dollars the Woodfin place may be discharged; upon the payment of five thousand dollars the Jarrett place on Nantahala River, upon the payment of five thousand five hundred dollars the Horshaw lands, and upon the payment of five thousand dollars the Fair lands may be discharged;

Now, therefore, considering the premises and in consideration of the said interest and security, amounting to the sum of $1,287,436.03, transferred by said agreement of George W. Swepson and M. S. Littlefield as aforesaid, special reference being here made to said agreement; and in consideration of the further sum of fifty thousand dollars, this day paid in cash as aforesaid; further, in consideration of the two obligations of $100,000 and $164,000, each respectively, in consideration 667 of the disbursements heretofore made by the said George W. Swepson for and on account of the said railroad company, the said commissioners, in their capacity as commissioners by authority of the said act of the legislature of North Carolina and its approval by the stockholders, agree and promise to execute and deliver to the said George W. Swepson a full and final release and discharge and receipt of all claims, demands, and accounts of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company against the said George W. Swepson of any character whatever, when the said Swepson shall have executed the said mortgage or deed in trust, with relinquishment of dower as aforesaid, and the said Robert R. Swepson and the said R. Y. McAden shall have given a satisfactory guarantee that the said lands shall be discharged of any and all judgments as aforesaid, and when the sum of $880,000 of the amount of $1,287,436.03 transferred in Florida railroads shall have been paid or made fully secure; provided, nevertheless, that it shall be determined by N. W. Woodfin and M. W. Ransom, and in case they cannot agree they are to call in an umpire, that George W. Swepson was not authorized to make such investments in Florida by his board of directors of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company. But if it shall be determined by the said referees, or the said referees and umpire, that G. W. Swepson was authorized to make such investments or that the said directors recognized and approved the investment, then there shall be no obligation on Mr. G. W. Swepson to guarantee the payment of the said sum of $880,000, but the compliance with the other obligations shall be his receipt and discharge.

It is further understood that the said mortgage or deed in trust will be executed and delivered within ninety days from the date of these presents, unless there should be cause sufficient and satisfactory to the said commissioners to postpone the same at their discretion.

But it is expressly understood that the said commissioners do not approve of the payment by Soutter & Co. of the expenses to attorneys, etc., in the university case, but that they protest against the same, and that nothing in this agreement shall be construed to prevent the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company from recovering the same or any part thereof from those receiving the same.

In witness whereof, the parties of the first and second parts have hereunto set their hands.

E. HOUSTOUN AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD, defendants.

To the defendants above named:

You are hereby summoned and required to answer the complaint in this action, which will be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York, and to serve a copy of your answer to the said complaint on the subscriber at his office, No. 29 Wall street, New York

City, within twenty days after the service hereof, exclusive of the day of such service; and if you fail to answer the complaint within the time aforesaid, the plaintiff in this action will apply to the court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Dated New York, October 3d, 1870.

ALGERNON S. SULLIVAN,
Plaintiff's Attorney, 29 Wall Street, New York City.

State and county of New York, supreme court.

THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD Company, for the western division, against
E. HOUSTOUN AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK, ss:

George W. Swepson, of Alamance County, in the State of North Carolina, being duly sworn, makes oath and says: From October, 1868, to October, 1869, I was president of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, for the western division. As president and for said company I received possession of over six millions of the bonds of said State. I hypothecated said bonds in the city of New York, and out of the proceeds I purchased and paid for about three thousand shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company. I did this through my agent, Mr. Edward Houstoun, who is defendant in this action. He knew, from my telling him, that I obtained the funds for said purchase, as above stated, and that in fact and in equity said western division of said Western North Carolina Railroad Company were the owners of said stock. About October, 1869, I ceased to be president of said company, and Milton S. Littlefield became the president as my successor.

669 In negotiating and making settlements as retiring president, with said Littlfield as incoming president for said railroad company, I passed over as assets for said company said three thousand shares of the Florida Central Railroad Company stock; said Littlefield said he would receive it and account to said company, he being the president thereof. At his request I transferred said stock to him in his individual name, but it was for Western Division North Carolina Railroad Company, and it was so received by said Littlefield, president of said company.

This settlement was in November, 1869. About May, 1870, said Houstoun had negotiations with said Littlefield, individually, to sell to said Littlefield his (Houstoun's) stock in the Florida Central Railroad, and also some bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company.

On that transaction there remained due to Houstoun about $160,000, and an agreement was made that Houstoun should take as collateral security a pledge from Littlefield of said three thousand shares of the Florida Central Railroad stock. Subsequently said Florida Central Railroad Company issued one million dollars of their bonds and agreed with Harrison Reed, then governor of the State of Florida, to make, as the loan allowed, an exchange of said railroad bonds for an equal amount of the bonds of the State of Florida.

But said Governor Reed refused to deliver said State bonds unless, as an additional security, they should, with said three thousand shares of stock, be placed in the hands of said Houstoun to secure payment of said debt due by said Littlefield to said Houston, as well as some other private debts of said Littlefield. That, in accordance with said requirement of said governor and the agreement to that effect between said governor and said Houston, said one million dollars of State bonds were so placed in the hands of said Houstoun. Affiant says he is informed by said Littlefield, and verily believes, that said arrangement to that effect between said Houstoun and said Governor Reed.

Affiant further says that he was informed by said Governor Reed that he, the said governor, was personally and pecuniarily interested with said Houstoun in a portion of the profits which Houstoun might make on the purchase and sale of a portion of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which Houstoun had bought at twenty cents on the dollar, and that under the agreement and sale to Littlefield of the said stock Littlefield was, as I learned, to pay par.

Affiant further says that previous to this delivery of stock and State bonds to said Houstoun by said Littlefield, he, said Littlefield, both in his individual capacity and as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, pledged the whole interest and portions held by him, said Littlefield, of every kind and nature in said railroad in Florida, or in any or all of them, to secure to said Western North Carolina Railroad Company all moneys due to said company from this affiant as aforesaid, and that pledge covered the very securities pledged subsequently, as above stated by said Littiefield to said Houstoun.

Affiant further says, that throughout all said transactions said Houstoun knew and was fully notified that all of said interest purchased by affiant in said Florida Railroad were purchased with funds 670 raised in the city of New York by the hypothecation of the bonds which belonged to the Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

Affiant further says he is informed and believes that said Houstoun intends to sell said three thousand shares of stock in New York City on the 4th of October, instant, at No. 111 Broadway, at 10½ o'clock a. m., and affiant has received from said Houstoun a written notice to that effect, of which a copy is hereto annexed, marked Exhibit No. 1.

Affiant further says he is informed and believes that the intention of the said Houstoun is to sell said stock separately, subject to said mortgage bonds, and afterwards to sell said State bonds. And he is by law, as owner of said State bonds, entitled to exchange them for said railroad mortgage bonds, so he can become by said sale owner of the majority of the stock of said company, and also owner of its mortgage debt.

Affiant further says that a knowledge of said facts above stated has become public to a great extent, and that has produced doubts and clouds upon the title and value of said stock and securities, and if allowed to be sold as proposed, they will yield scarcely anything, and said Western North Carolina Railroad Company will be defrauded and lose their entire claim, or nearly so; that it will be irreparably injurious to said Western North Carolina Railroad Company and to their just rights, and affiant knows that all of said securities represent the money and funds of said Western North Carolina Railroad Company.

Affiant further says neither said Littlefield nor said Houstoun resided in the State of New York, but they reside in Florida, as affiant is informed and believes; but affiant is informed that said Houstoun is now in New York City.

Affiant says he is informed and believes that said Houstoun had said State bonds and said certificates of stock in the city of New York a few weeks ago; but affiant does not know where they are.

GEORGE W. SWEPSON.

EXHIBIT 1.

NEW YORK, N. Y., September 23, 1870.

To GEORGE W. SWEPSON,
Hawes River, North Carolina:

SIR: On the 4th day of October next, at 10½ (ten and a half) a. m., I will cause to be sold at the Exchange sales-room, Trinity Buildings, No. 111 Broadway, in this city, at public auction, to the highest bidder, (3,110) three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the capital stock of Florida Central Railroad Company held by me, and agreement 671 heretofore entered into between Milton S. Littlefield and myself. This notice is given in compliance with aforesaid referred to agreements.

Respectfully,

E. HOUSTON.

New York supreme court, county of New York.

THE WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD Company (for the western division of said road)
against
E. HOUSTON AND MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

OCTOBER 4th, A. D. 1870.

At chambers, held at the court-house in the city of New York.

Present, Hon. George G. Barnard, justice.

On motion of Algernon S. Sullivan, attorney for said plaintiffs, and on reading and filing the affidavit of George W. Swepson, and it appearing to me that sufficient grounds thereof exist, I do hereby order that the said defendants, and each of them above named, and their agents, employees, and representatives, do all and each of them, until the further order of this court, refrain from selling or offering to sell, assigning, transferring, concealing, removing from this State, or in any way transacting business about certain certificates of stock (about three thousand shares) in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and one million dollars in bonds of the State of Florida, all of which stock and bonds were placed in the hands of said Houstoun by or through the agency of said defendant, Littlefield, as collateral security.

GEORGE G. BARNARD, J. S. C.

672 Memorandum of an agreement and final settlement made this tenth day of November, A. D. 1870, at London, England, between General Milton S. Littlefield, of the State of Florida, in the United States of America, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by Milton S. Littlefield, the president thereof, the parties of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, acting through and represented by Colonel Nicholas W. Woodfin, chairman of the commission appointed by the general assembly of the State of North Carolina, by an "act" ratified twenty-fourth day of March, A. D. 1870, to settle with George W. Swepson, and for other purposes, which "act" was approved by the stockholders of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, of the second part:

Whereas on the sixteenth day of April, A. D. 1870, at the city of Washington, in the District of Columbia, in the United States of America, a contract in writing was made and entered into by and between the Florida Railroad Company, George W. Swepson, president; General Milton S. Littlefield; the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company, by Milton S. Littlefield, the president thereof, as parties of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, represented by Nicholas W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. W. Rollins, and W. P. Welsh, commissioners appointed by the legislature of the State of North Carolina, by an "act" ratified on the twenty-fourth day of March, A. D. 1870, which "act" was duly ratified, approved, adopted, and made a part of the charter of the said party of the second part, the said corporation, a copy of which contract is attached hereto, and made a part of this contract; and

Whereas the said Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company have received certain bonds of the State of Florida under sundry acts of the legislature of the said State, which bonds, by the term of the laws authorizing the issue of the same, are made payable, both principal and interest, in the gold coin of the United States, and bearing interest at the rate of eight (8) per cent. per annum; and

Whereas by reason of the present war in Europe, all financial operations are more or less restricted, which has up to this time prevented the negotiation for the sale of the said bonds; and

Whereas the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, through and by its representative, Nicholas W. Woodfin, chairman aforesaid, is pressing the immediate payment, by the said party of the first part, of the sum of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, with interest at the rate of eight (8) per cent. per annum since the first day of November, A. D. 1869, to pay or settle the said claim now will cause a great sacrifice to the said party of the first part; and

Whereas the said Nicholas W. Woodfin, as chairman of the said commission for the Western Division of the Western North Carolina 673 Railroad Company, for the purpose of removing embarrassments out of the way, which in his judgment prevented the sale of the said bonds, and to avoid litigation, did, on the 17th day of October, 1870, contract with Henry Clews & Co., bankers in the cities of New York and London, to purchase a certain claim held by them against George W. Swepson, amounting to about twenty thousand dollars, lawful money of the United States of America, which contract was made with the knowledge and approval of the said party of the first part, for the reason it was understood by all parties to the said agreement that this would secure the full co-operation of the said Henry Clews & Co. to aid in the sale and negotiations of the said Florida bonds:

Now, therefore, be it remembered, that for and in consideration of the premises herein stated, and for various other good and sufficient considerations, and for the further purpose of aiding the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company to complete their road from the junction with the main line at Ashville to Paint Rock, at the State line between the States of North Carolina and Tennessee, and to complete their road without delay on the one hand, and to avoid a hasty sale and sacrifice of the said bonds on the other hand, it is agreed, by and between the parties of the first and second part, that in full compromise, payment, satisfaction, and accord of the obligation of the party of the first part to pay to the party of the second part the sum of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, lawful money of the United States of America, with interest thereon at the rate of eight (8) per cent. from and after the first day of November, A. D. 1869, as per terms of the said contract made and executed at the city of Washington aforesaid, and that the said party of the first part may be fully and finally discharged from all and every liability on account of the terms and conditions of the said contract, hereunto appended; the said party of the first part agree to furnish iron to the said party of the second part sufficient to lay a single track of railroad from the junction at Ashville, along the French Broad River, to Paint Rock, at the Tennessee State line, and into the State of Tennessee to the present terminus of the Cincinnati, Cumberland Gap, and Charleston Railroad, with turn-outs and side-tracks, provided that the whole of the railroad shall not exceed, including turn-outs and side-tracks, fifty-three miles in length. The iron shall be of good quality of English iron, weighing not less than fifty pounds per lineal yard, with the necessary chairs and spikes to lay the same, the iron to be shipped in the quantities and at the terms and places as follows, to wit:

To Norfolk, Virginia, on or before the tenth day of December, A. D. 1870, three hundred tons; to the same place on or before the tenth day of January, A. D. 1871, five hundred tons; to the same place on or before the first day of April, 1871, one thousand tons; and the rest to be shipped to New York, in the State of New York, on or before the first day of September, A. D. 1871; but the said party of the first part may ship the iron as fast as he may wish, all duties and freights on the above-described iron to be paid by the party of the first part.

And it is further agreed by the party of the first part that he will ship in addition to the above-mentioned quantity of iron, one 674 thousand tons of the same weight and quality as the above-described iron, with the necessary chairs and spikes to lay the same, to New York, duties and frieghts paid, on or before the first day of September, A. D. 1871, the shipping of which iron Messrs. S. W.
Hopkins & Co., are to guarantee.

In addition to the shipment of the iron, the said party of the first part does hereby sell and deliver unto the said party of the second part, by placing, to the order of the party of the second part, with Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., eight hundred bonds of the State of Florida of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, numbers of said bonds to be designated by the said party of the first part, but upon the express stipulation and conditions that the said bonds are to be left with Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co. for sale at such price as the said party of the second part may direct.

And it is further agreed by the party of the first part that he will pay to the party of the second part two hundred pounds sterling, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged.

And it is further agreed by the party of the first part to assume and discharge the obligation of the party of the second part to Henry Clews & Co., of about twenty thousand dollars, lawful money of the United States of America.

Now, when the foregoing undertakings and agreements of the party of the first part are fully accomplished and performed, it is to be taken as a full compliance with and final discharge of the parties of the first part to this contract, as well as all parties of the first part, to the said contract executed at the city of Washington aforesaid, a copy of which is hereto attached, and this shall operate as a receipt and final discharge thereof from all obligations growing out of the same.

Memorandum of agreement and settlement between the Florida Central Railroad, George W. Swepson, president; and the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, president; and Milton S. Littlefield, majority owner of the stock of said companies, and also of the stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad; Company represented by N. W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. Pink Welsh, and W. W. Rollins, commissioners appointed by an act of 675 the legislature of North Carolina, approved by the stockholders of said corporation of the second part.

M. S. L,
N. W. W.

Witnesseth: That whereas George W. Swepson, late president of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, made certain investments of the funds of said company in securities of and interests in the said Florida Central Railroad, Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad, of the State of Florida, as per report made by the said George W. Swepson to the said commissioners, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, to bear interest from the first day of November, 1869, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum; and

Whereas the said George W. Swepson heretofore conveyed to the said Milton S. Littlefield, subject to the payment of the above recited claim, his interest in the above recited railroads; and, whereas, the said Littlefield has received authority from the legislature of the State of Florida and the said several railroad companies to receive bonds to be issued by and for account of the several railroad companies, which bonds are to be exchanged for the bonds of the State of Florida, to be issued for the purpose of aiding the finances of the several railroad companies, all of which bonds are now in a state of preparation; and

Whereas Milton S. Littlefield has made a contract with S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, for the disposition of the said bonds as the same may be issued, the proceeds of the issue of the bonds of the Central Railroad Company of the said State of Florida, amounting to nine hundred and sixty   dollars, are to be applied to the payment of existing liabilities of the said several railroad companies, including the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, to be paid to the commissioners, as aforesaid, for the purpose of paying existing liabilities of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company:

It is understood and agreed by the parties of the said first and second parts that the proceeds of the sale of the said bonds so to be issued by the said Florida railroad companies and the said State of Florida, is to be equally divided, dollar for dollar, between the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and the said Florida railroads, and as the commissioners aforesaid receive by this first sale of bonds only the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, it is further understood and agreed that out of the proceeds of the sale of the issue of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad there is first to be received by the commissioners aforesaid a sum sufficient to be equal to the amount received by and on account of the said Florida railroads, and then an equal amount is to be received by the said commissioners and the said Florida railroads, dollar for dollar, until the entire amount of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand and thirty-six dollars and three cents, with interest at eight per cent., as aforesaid, being the sum reported by the parties of the first part as due to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad is fully paid.

676 It is further understood and agreed by the parties of the first and second parts that all the interests owned or claimed by the said parties of the first part, both George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, or which they as individuals have a right to control in the said Florida railroads, are hereby pledged for the faithful fulfilment of this contract, without the right on part of any party to interfere with our management or control of the affairs of the roads.

Articles of impeachment exhibited by the assembly of the State of Florida, in the name of themselves and of all the people of Florida, against Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, in maintenance and support of their impeachment against him for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, for incompetency and malfeasance, and conduct detrimental to good morals.

* * * * * * *

ARTICLE II. That in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, said Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, of his oath of office, and in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and contrary to the provisions of an act entitled an act to alter and amend an act entitled an act to perfect the public works of the State, approved June 24th, A. D. 1869, approved January 28th, 1870, did then and there, with intent to violate the constitution of the State, and the act aforesaid, and without authority of law, fraudulently conspire to issue State bonds to the amount of one million of dollars ($1,000,000) for the purpose of purchasing the stock of the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the use and benefit of persons and parties, and with full knowledge of and consent to said purpose, and in collusion with such persons and parties for his and their pecuniary benefit, whereby said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, did then and there commit and was guilty of a high crime in office, and of incompetency and malfeasance.

* * * * * * *

ARTICLE IV. That said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, and of his oath of office, and in violation of the constitution and laws of the State, and especially of an act entitled An act to alter and amend, &c., did cause to be issued, and did himself sign his official signature as governor, to four million dollars of State bonds for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, in the State of Florida, having full notice of the fraudulent title of said company to the property of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, and with intent to violate the constitution and laws of the State of Florida, and especially of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida entitled An act to alter and amend an act entitled An act to perfect the public works of the State, approved June 24, A. D. 1869, approved January 28, A. D. 1870, whereby the said Harrison Reed, governor, &c., J. FRED. SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, HEINRICH Ulrici, Elias Fuld, et al., complainants,

vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, et al., defendants.

The joint and several answer of the defendants, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Milton S. Littlefield, W. J. Lawton, and Joseph B. Stewart, directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

The defendants, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Milton S. Littlefield, W. J. Lawton, and Joseph B. Stewart, not admitting all or any of the allegations of complainants' bill to be true in manner and form as therein alleged, for answer thereto or such parts thereof as they are advised are material for them as a board of directors to answer unto, answering, say—

I. That it is true that these respondents are directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company. That they were first elected such directors on or about the 15th day of March, A. D. 1877, at a stockholders' meeting held in obedience to a writ of mandamus issued from the honorable circuit court for Duval County, Florida, pursuant to a judgment in that behalf rendered by said court upon proceedings therein previously instituted, and which said judgment then was and still is in full force and effect, and unreversed, and to which respondents crave leave to refer when necessary for the purposes of this suit.

681 II. These respondents, each for himself, denies that said judgment was obtained by fraud, or deception, or collusion of any kind practiced on said court. That the said suit and proceedings for mandamus was instituted by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by its petition filed, supported by proofs, on the 15th day of February, 1877, whereupon, and after due consideration thereof, the alternate writ was issued by order of the judge of said court, returnable on the 27th day of February, 1877, unless cause was shown to the contrary on the 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m., which said proceeding, and as due notice thereof to all the parties interested, was ordered to be, and in fact was, duly published in the Florida Sun, a daily paper published in the city of Jacksonville, for the period of ten days previous to the return day of said writ.

III. That on the day named to show cause, to wit, on the said 26th day of February, 1877, there appeared on the part of the complainants, and all other holders of the Florida State bonds, as alleged in their said bill, Frank R. Sherwin, G. M. Bossevain, A. J. Mildeus, and also appeared Robert Walker, Edward Lewis, and Patrick Houstoun, claiming to be stockholders as well as directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, each of which said parties, by H. R. Jackson and H. Bisbee, esq'r's, their joint counsel, appeared as defendants, and interposed their joint and several demurrer to said petition and alternate writ, whereupon an issue of law was tendered, and tried, and argued before said court, when after due consideration of the premises the said court gave judgment, overruling said demurrer, as will better appear by a copy of said demurrer, and judgment rendered thereupon, made part hereof, marked Exhibit A.

IV. That an appeal was prayed on behalf of said defendants 682 and granted, and time given to make a further reply or return to said alternate writ, but no further reply being made, and the said appeal being abandoned by complainants' counsel, final judgment was given, and a peremptory mandamus was adjudged and granted to the petitioner on the 15th day of March, 1877, returnable on the 17th, commanding the holding of said election, whereupon said election was held, and these respondents were elected directors, as alleged in said complainants' bill.

V. These respondents aver that said election was held in strict accordance with law, and for lawful purposes, and was not designed to affect or impair any lawful right the complainants might have in and to the franchises or property of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, as falsely alleged in their said bill.

Further answering, these respondents say that on entering upon their duties as directors of said company, they could not fail to see the eminent necessity there was for such an election. That the archives of said company were scattered in every direction and could not be found; that its property was much neglected and exposed to destruction, to protect and preserve which from further injury these respondents have done and are doing all in their power as directors, as their proceedings in that behalf will show.

That before such election these respondents, and each of them, were invested with the possession and lawful ownership of stock of said Florida Central Railroad Company sufficient to qualify them for the position of directors, and that the allegations of the complainants' bill to the contrary are not true and are contrary to the facts.

VI. Further answering, these respondents say it is not true that they, after being so elected directors, proceeded to issue and distribute stock or bonds in the manner and for the purposes alleged in the complainants' bill. On the contrary, these respondents passed orders for the issue of stock and bonds in such manner and for such purposes as in 683 their judgment seemed lawful and proper and for the best interests of said company, taking great pains to make a correct record of their proceedings, carefully guarding the rights and interests of all parties. But these respondents deny that their actions as such directors in any manner affected the rights of the complainants, as set forth in their bill of complaint, who do not show or allege any facts showing that they have any lawful rights that have been, or could be, impaired or imperiled by the election of these respondents, directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

VII. Further answering, these respondents admit that it is true that they were re-elected directors by the stockholders of said Florida Central Railroad Company on the 28th day of May, 1877, as alleged in the complainants' bill. That the annual meeting of the stockholders of said company for the election of directors is fixed for the second Wednesday in April of each year, and in the present year occurred on the 11th day of April, 1877, which was duly announced by publication in the usual way, and on which day the meeting of stockholders convened, but adjourned from day to day, awaiting the appointing of a trustee by this honorable court upon a motion then pending, in the place of M. D. Papy, deceased, which motion was set for hearing on the 26th day of April, 1877, at which time counsel representing the interests of the complainants and also the executors of Edward Houstoun, deceased, H. R. Jackson, esq., appeared and opposed the appointing of said trustee, one of the declared objects of which appointment was to qualify a party as

The joint and several answer of the defendants, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Milton S. Littlefield, W. J. Lawton, and Joseph B. Stewart, directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

The defendants, James M. Baker, George R. Foster, N. K. Sawyer, J. C. L'Engle, Charles B. Fenwick, Milton S. Littlefield, W. J. Lawton, and Joseph B. Stewart, not admitting all or any of the allegations of complainants' bill to be true in manner and form as therein alleged, for answer thereto or such parts thereof as they are advised are material for them as a board of directors to answer unto, answering, say—

I. That it is true that these respondents are directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company. That they were first elected such directors on or about the 15th day of March, A. D. 1877, at a stockholders' meeting held in obedience to a writ of mandamus issued from the honorable circuit court for Duval County, Florida, pursuant to a judgment in that behalf rendered by said court upon proceedings therein previously instituted, and which said judgment then was and still is in full force and effect, and unreversed, and to which respondents crave leave to refer when necessary for the purposes of this suit.

681 II. These respondents, each for himself, denies that said judgment was obtained by fraud, or deception, or collusion of any kind practiced on said court. That the said suit and proceedings for mandamus was instituted by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, by its petition filed, supported by proofs, on the 15th day of February, 1877, whereupon, and after due consideration thereof, the alternate writ was issued by order of the judge of said court, returnable on the 27th day of February, 1877, unless cause was shown to the contrary on the 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m., which said proceeding, and as due notice thereof to all the parties interested, was ordered to be, and in fact was, duly published in the Florida Sun, a daily paper published in the city of Jacksonville, for the period of ten days previous to the return day of said writ.

III. That on the day named to show cause, to wit, on the said 26th day of February, 1877, there appeared on the part of the complainants, and all other holders of the Florida State bonds, as alleged in their said bill, Frank R. Sherwin, G. M. Bossevain, A. J. Mildeus, and also appeared Robert Walker, Edward Lewis, and Patrick Houstoun, claiming to be stockholders as well as directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, each of which said parties, by H. R. Jackson and H. Bisbee, esq'r's, their joint counsel, appeared as defendants, and interposed their joint and several demurrer to said petition and alternate writ, whereupon an issue of law was tendered, and tried, and argued before said court, when after due consideration of the premises the said court gave judgment, overruling said demurrer, as will better appear by a copy of said demurrer, and judgment rendered thereupon, made part hereof, marked Exhibit A.

IV. That an appeal was prayed on behalf of said defendants 682 and granted, and time given to make a further reply or return to said alternate writ, but no further reply being made, and the said appeal being abandoned by complainants' counsel, final judgment was given, and a peremptory mandamus was adjudged and granted to the petitioner on the 15th day of March, 1877, returnable on the 17th, commanding the holding of said election, whereupon said election was held, and these respondents were elected directors, as alleged in said complainants' bill.

V. These respondents aver that said election was held in strict accordance with law, and for lawful purposes, and was not designed to affect or impair any lawful right the complainants might have in and to the franchises or property of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, as falsely alleged in their said bill.

Further answering, these respondents say that on entering upon their duties as directors of said company, they could not fail to see the eminent necessity there was for such an election. That the archives of said company were scattered in every direction and could not be found; that its property was much neglected and exposed to destruction, to protect and preserve which from further injury these respondents have done and are doing all in their power as directors, as their proceedings in that behalf will show.

That before such election these respondents, and each of them, were invested with the possession and lawful ownership of stock of said Florida Central Railroad Company sufficient to qualify them for the position of directors, and that the allegations of the complainants' bill to the contrary are not true and are contrary to the facts.

VI. Further answering, these respondents say it is not true that they, after being so elected directors, proceeded to issue and distribute stock or bonds in the manner and for the purposes alleged in the complainants' bill. On the contrary, these respondents passed orders for the issue of stock and bonds in such manner and for such purposes as in 683 their judgment seemed lawful and proper and for the best interests of said company, taking great pains to make a correct record of their proceedings, carefully guarding the rights and interests of all parties. But these respondents deny that their actions as such directors in any manner affected the rights of the complainants, as set forth in their bill of complaint, who do not show or allege any facts showing that they have any lawful rights that have been, or could be, impaired or imperiled by the election of these respondents, directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

VII. Further answering, these respondents admit that it is true that they were re-elected directors by the stockholders of said Florida Central Railroad Company on the 28th day of May, 1877, as alleged in the complainants' bill. That the annual meeting of the stockholders of said company for the election of directors is fixed for the second Wednesday in April of each year, and in the present year occurred on the 11th day of April, 1877, which was duly announced by publication in the usual way, and on which day the meeting of stockholders convened, but adjourned from day to day, awaiting the appointing of a trustee by this honorable court upon a motion then pending, in the place of M. D. Papy, deceased, which motion was set for hearing on the 26th day of April, 1877, at which time counsel representing the interests of the complainants and also the executors of Edward Houstoun, deceased, H. R. Jackson, esq., appeared and opposed the appointing of said trustee, one of the declared objects of which appointment was to qualify a party as such trustee to vote said stock. That after a protracted argument and due consideration of the said motion, this court did appoint Aristides Doggett, esq., such trustee, on or about the 7th day of May, 1877, as will better appear by said order, made part hereof, marked Schedule B.

That after said appointment, and on the said 28th day of May, 1877, the said trustee did attend the stockholders' meeting adjourned to that day, and united with the other stockholders in the election of a board of directors, when these respondents were re-elected, as stated, for the year expiring on the second Wednesday of April, 1878, each 684 one receiving a vote of about 5,046 shares out of a total capital stock of about 5,550 shares, and are now in the discharge of their lawful duties as such directors.

And these respondents, and each for himself, denies and repels the allegation in the complainants' bill that they combined or colluded with said Doggett, as trustee, or otherwise, in any manner or for any purpose, or that they, by such election, have in any manner sought to interfere with the lawful rights of the complainants, or to defeat or impair their equities, as falsely alleged in their said bill of complaint.

That these respondents, in their said last election, as in their previous election, were each qualified and eligible according to law to be elected directors of said company, and that all statements to the contrary are false and unwarranted.

And these respondents having answered so far as they are advised it is material for them to answer as directors, and denying all fraud and combination, pray that complainants' bill may be dismissed, and these respondents go hence with their costs in this behalf expended.

685 SCHEDULE A.

In the circuit court, Duval County.

WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN NORTH Carolina Railroad Company
vs.
MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD ET AL.

And now came Joseph H. Durkee, the master duly appointed and now in possession of the railroad property involved in the said suit; Frank R. Sherwin, in his own right as a holder of bonds secured by a lien upon railroad property and agent for other holders of said bonds, to wit, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian Stoop, and Adrian J. Mildeus, citizens of Amsterdam; and Robert Walker, Edward Lewis, Patrick Houstoun, stockholders and directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company; and with leave of court first had and obtained, demur to it alternate writ issued in said cause, and to the petitions upon which said writ was issued, and for causes of demurrer say that said writ and petition do not state facts sufficient to enable petitioners to a mandamus.

Second. The petition of relator does not set forth a legal title free from reasonable doubts.

Third. The petition of relator expressly avers that its title, if any, is an equitable title.

Fourth. Because the relator's petition shows he has a complete and adequate remedy by a suit at law for damages.

Fifth. Because petitioner avers in his petition for mandamus that it is prosecuting a bill in equity for the redress of its wrongs complained of.

Sixth. Because by laches and negligence petitioner has lost its right to a mandamus, if ever it had any.

Seventh. Because a writ of mandamus does not lie to compel a stockholder of a corporation to vote his stock.

Eighth. On other good and sufficient grounds, apparent upon the face of said writ and petition.

SCHEDULE B.

In the circuit court, fifth circuit of the United States, northern district of Florida. In equity.

ROBERT J. WASHINGTON
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Lawrence P. Bayne, Henry J. Rogers, Thomas L. Clingman, Fanny S. Papy, executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased; Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and T. Mayhew Cunningham.

Now comes the complainant, by E. M. L'Engle, his counsel, and moves the court for the appointment of a trustee or trustees in the place of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, to hold the shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company mentioned in the bill. And came also the defendants the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; Thomas L. Clingham, Lawrence P. Bayne, and Henry Rogers, by Joseph B. Stewart, their attorney, and consented to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants Fanny S. Papy, as executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, and made no objection to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and T. Mayhew Cunningham, who had made defaults, and after argument of counsel and consideration by the court, it is decreed and adjudged that Mariano D. Papy was, in his lifetime, the trustee of the four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, described as follows, that is to say:

100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 40, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 41, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 42, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 43, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 44, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 45, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
688 100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 47, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 48, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 49, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 50, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 51, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 57, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Eliza Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 58, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Claudia Houstoun.
20 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 59, standing in the name of Jas. P. S. Houstoun.
30 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 79, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
3,110 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 89, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

Four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of said stock.

It is further decreed that said trust still subsists for the purposes set forth in the indenture creating it, and for the further purpose of this suit, and that the office of trustee has been made vacant by the death of said Mariano D. Papy.

It is, therefore, further ordered and decreed that A. Doggett, esquire, of the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, State of Florida, be and he is hereby appointed trustee of the said four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company in the place and stead of the said Mariano D. Papy, to hold the same upon the trusts declared in the indenture mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, whereby the said trust was created and the said Mariano D. Papy appointed trustee; and, further, to hold the same for the purposes of this suit and until the further order of this court, and subject to the decrees of Judge Woods in this behalf.

It is further ordered that the decrees pro confesso heretofore taken against the defendants, James P. S. Houstoun, Raymond M. Demere, and James H. Johnson, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and against James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and against T. Mayhew Cunningham be opened, and that the said defendant be allowed to answer the said bill by the rule day of June, 1877, on the following terms and not otherwise, that is to say, that the said defendants file in this cause with the clerk of this court the above mentioned certificates of shares of said capital stock which were taken from the possession of the trustee, Mariano D. Papy, at the suit of Edward Houstoun, deceased, as set forth in the bill filed in this cause.

(Signed) THOMAS SETTLE, Judge.

689 Plea of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to the bill of complaint filed in the name of J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, and others, complainants, against the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and others, defendants, in the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

The defendant, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by protestation not confessing all or any of the matters and things in said bill of complaint mentioned and as therein contained to be true in point of fact or good and sufficient in law, to be more fully answered, pleads thereto, or to so much of said bill as pretends to allege that the complainants are the lawful holders of any papers or obligations of this defendant called bonds or promises to pay money, or bonds or obligations of the State of Florida which are a lawful charge upon this defendant or its franchise and estate, as in said bill alleged; and for plea says that the said bonds, if any such are in fact held by the complainants, were pretended to be created under and by virtue of a statute passed and approved by the legislature of Florida on or about the twenty-eighth day of January, A. D. 1870, entering into a certain statutory contract and agreement between the said State of Florida and this defendant for the exchange of the bonds of the said State of Florida with and for the bonds of this defendant, each to be created and issued under said statute at the rate of sixteen bonds to the mile, of one thousand dollars each, the said State bonds to be issued and exchanged for the said bonds of this defendant, upon certain conditions in said statute contained, the material and contracting portion of which said statute is in the second section thereof, and is in the following words, that is to say:

"In order to aid the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road, and to aid in perfecting one of the public works embraced in the internal improvements of the State, the governor of the State is hereby directed to deliver to the president of the said company coupon bonds of the State to an amount equal to sixteen thousand dollars per mile for the whole line of railroad owned by or belonging to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said railroad company of the denomination of one thousand dollars, when the president thereof shall certify upon his oath that the road or parts of road for which he asks for an exchange is completed and in good running order. The said bonds (of the State) shall be of the denomination of one thousand dollars, signed by the governor, countersigned by the treasurer, sealed with the great seal of the State, shall bear eight per cent. interest, payable to bearer. They shall be dated on the first day of January, A. D. 1870, and shall be due thirty years thereafter, and principal and interest shall be payable at such place in the city of New York as the governor shall designate. The coupons for interest shall be payable to bearer, and shall be authenticated by the written or engraved signature of the treasurer."

690 That pursuant to the said statute and the section or portion thereof herein-above quoted, the State of Florida pretended to make and cause to be signed bonds in the name of said State to the amount of four millions of dollars; and pursuant to the same statute, and not otherwise, the bonds of this defendant, or papers called bonds, representing the par value of one thousand dollars each, and the total amount of three million dollars, were pretended to be issued and signed, each bond of this defendant being made payable to the State of Florida and not assignable, and an exchange of bonds was made to the amount of three millions of dollars, the said State delivering three millions of dollars of its said bonds as a consideration and equivalent for three millions of dollars of this defendant's so-called bonds, and for such consideration and no other the State of Florida still holds the said three millions of dollars of said bonds so issued in the name of the defendant, under and by virtue of said statute and statutory agreement aforesaid, and not otherwise.

That since the said exchange of bonds and the receiving of the bonds of this defendant by the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said statute of the 28th day of January, A. D. 1870, the said State of Florida, by its supreme court, hath caused said statute to be declared and pronounced unconstitutional and null and void, and that the same as a matter of fact is not and never was a law or a statute having the force and effect of law in said State of Florida or elsewhere, and that the said papers called bonds of the State of Florida, in complainants' bill mentioned, were created, issued, and exchanged in violation of the constitution of said State, and were not and never were possessed of any legal valdity, and were not and never were the bonds or obligations of the State of Florida, and are not and never were possessed of any value in the hands of the complainants or any other holders of said bonds.

That by reason of said statute being so unconstitutional, null, and void, and by reason of said so-called bonds of the State being so unconstitutional, null, and void, no bonds of the State of Florida, as proposed and agreed by said statute, in fact or in lawful effect, ever were made, executed, and delivered to the defendant, and that no consideration ever was paid or passed to the defendant by the State of Florida in exchange for the so-called bonds of the defendant, so created, issued, and delivered to the State of Florida under and by virtue of said statute, and that the State of Florida holds the said so called bonds of this defendant for no consideration and without authority of law, because of the fact of said statute and the said statutory agreement being in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, is therefore to be treated as if it had never been enacted, or never had existed for any purpose, and creates no liability whatever against this defendant as a body corporate, and confers no right whatever upon the complainants to have and maintain this suit.

Wherefore this defendant sets up and pleads the fact that said statute is and ever was unconstitutional and void, and the fact that the so-called bonds issued thereunder are and ever were null and void and have been declared to be unconstitutional and void by the supreme court of the State of Florida, and being so void could constitute no lawful agreement or transaction whatever or consideration therefor between the State of Florida and this defendant or any one else whomsoever, in bar of the complainants' bill, or to so much thereof as pretends to allege that the holders of any bonds or obligations of the State of Florida or of this defendant, issued under said statute, or as 691 part of said statutory agreement, are or ever were a lawful demand or charge upon the franchise, property, and estate of this defendant, or for or on account of which the complainants can maintain this suit; and prays the judgment of this honorable court whether this defendant shall be compelled to make any further answer to the said bill, and prays to be hence dismissed, with its reasonable costs and charges, in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

Solicitor for Defendant.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, ADRIANUS Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, et al.,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, et al.

Separate answer of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

The defendant the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, by protestation, not admitting all or any of the matters of the complainant's bill to be true, as therein alleged, for answer thereto, or to such parts thereof as this defendant is advised it is material for it to answer unto, but at all times saving and omitting the parts and portions of said bill to which this defendant hath filed its plea in bar, and now and hereby answering in support of said plea, and especially excepting from this answer all and every part of the complainant's bill that alleges the complainants to be the holders and owners of any bonds of the State of Florida, or bonds of this defendant, issued under the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved January 28th, A. D. 1870, which are a charge upon the property and estate of this defendant, as by it pleaded in bar set forth, answering, says:

I. This defendant admits that the 1st, 2d, 3d and 4th paragraphs of the complainants' bill states what is substantially correct, as mere matters of fact, but does not describe correctly the manner, or with certainty how the matters and things therein alleged occurred, and which defendant is advised are not material to any issue affecting the rights of this defendant in this suit; but defendant reserves the right to state and prove the actual facts in relation thereto, should such hereafter be deemed material to the rights of the defendant.

695 II. It is not true that F. Dibble and associates ever executed any conveyances as are mentioned in the 5th paragraph of complainants' bill; and defendant denies that the complainants have any interest in the conveyances there referred to.

III. It is not true that the defendant obtained from the State of Florida or its governor, Harrison Reed, 4,000 bonds of the State of Florida; but it is true that 3,000 of said bonds were delivered to this defendant, and no more.

IV. It is not true that this defendant ever delivered to the State of Florida 4,000 bonds, of which 3,000 were the bonds of this defendant and 1,000 were bonds issued to the Florida Central Railroad, as alleged in paragraph 7 of complainants' bill. That this defendant never was at any time in possession of, or had any right to be possessed of said 1,000 so-called bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or was ever possessed of any right, title, or interest in or to the same. That this defendant has no knowledge whatever of the bond or paper in the complainants' bill mentioned, marked B, no such paper or bond ever having been in the possession of this defendant.

V. And this defendant, further answering, says it is not true that the Florida Central Railroad, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, was ever at any time consolidated with the railroad of this defendant, as alleged in paragraph 8 of complainants' bill; and that it is not true that this defendant ever was, at any time, the owner of a continuous line of railroad from Jacksonville to Quincy, and that any and all statements and assumptions to that effect in complainants' bill are wholly devoid of truth.

And this defendant most positively denies the further statement
696 in said 8th paragraph of complainants' bill that the said
1,000 papers, called bonds, were issued "by the joint action of said Houstoun and said other stockholders in order to enable the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company (this defendant) to obtain from the governor the said Florida State bonds (so called), and with the understanding and agreement that said bonds should be sold, and said Littlefield should make payment for the stock purchased from said Houstoun and said other stockholders out of the proceeds," because no such transaction ever occurred to which this defendant was a party or had any knowledge whatever, and that the statement of the same in complainants' bill is a mere pretense for the purposes of this suit.

That, as before stated, this defendant never, at any time, received or delivered, touched or handled a bond, or promise to pay in the shape of a bond, issued by or in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and that any and all attempts to impose upon this defendant any such transactions or dealings with the Florida Central Railroad Company, or any responsibility therefor, is false and fraudulent.

And, further answering, this defendant says that the pretended deed of trust mentioned in the same paragraph of complainants' bill in the name of this defendant, pretending to cover the Florida Central Railroad, was a desperate adventure without authority of law or the least regard to facts, and was necessarily abandoned by those who conceived the scheme, because no lawful right to execute or create such a trust ever existed, and the said trust deed was a mere nullity.

VI. That it is true the bonds, or papers called bonds, of the State of Florida, to the number of 3,000, which were delivered to persons acting in the name of this defendant, were sent to England, where they were by some means disposed of for a trifling consideration to persons unknown to this defendant, and may have been to the complainants and their associates, as set forth in the 9th paragraph of complainants' bill, but this defendant denies that said bonds sold for "eighty-one per cent. gold, in United States coin," as alleged in said bill. But this defendant avers that whatever the said bonds brought, either in gold or in currency, their proceeds were of no use or benefit to this defendant.

697 VII. That the statement in the 10th paragraph of complainants' bill, that "the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company (this defendant) represented to the public in England, Holland, Germany, and France that said bonds were the veritable and lawful bonds of the State of Florida; that the interest thereon would be punctually paid by said State; that there was provided by law of said State, as security for the payment of said bonds, a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville, west, which line was represented to be owned by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company (this defendant) alone," is wholly and absolutely destitute of truth. That no such representations were made by any corporate act or authorized by publication on the part of this defendant, as known to its records or corporate proceedings.

And this defendant, further answering, states that the matters of fact as to the ownership of the road "from Jacksonville west," or the ownership of the Florida Central Railroad by this defendant, would involve matters and acts of notoriety so easy of access to the complainants or to any one else choosing to make inquiry with a view to the purchase of bonds issued by or secured upon such a line of railway, that the statement or publication of a falsehood so palpable could and would deceive no one, or secure any advantage or good results to this defendant by making or causing to be made any such misrepresentations. That the representations made or caused to be made, if such be true, by persons in England, Holland, France, or Germany, who were speculating in the so-called bonds of the State of Florida, at reduced and varying prices, to affect the market one way or the other, were matters and acts over which this defendant could exercise no restraint, 698 even had it been advised thereof. But be the representations referred to what they may, or by whomsoever made, they were not the acts or representations of this defendant.

And, further answering, this defendant says, as to the bonds referred to as issued by the State of Florida, that it is advised they were engraved and printed documents, signed by the governor of Florida, countersigned by the treasurer of Florida, and were issued under the great seal of said State, and that those who bought them were governed by what the said sealed documents themselves proclaimed upon their face, and not upon the faith of the representations of this defendant, had it made any, or its agents, whomsoever they were; and that if its agents made false representations, pretending that it owned a line of road which it did not own, it was their wrongful act, for which this defendant, as a body corporate, is not responsible.

VIII. This defendant has no knowledge as to what bonds of the State of Florida the complainants and their associates may own, or from whom they obtained them, or for what consideration, but this defendant does know, and so avers and charges, that the complainants never purchased and are not in possession of any of the bonds of this defendant, and never gave any credit on account of any bonds issued by this defendant. And this defendant utterly denies the right of the complainants to have the railroad of this defendant seized and sold to pay said bonds of the State of Florida, or for any other purpose.

That as between the complainants and this defendant, as a body corporate, there is not and never was any privity of relation whatever, by contract or otherwise, and that the complainants are total strangers to the affairs of this defendant. That the complainants are creditors of the State of Florida, if of any one, and not the creditors of this defendant, and that their demands upon this defendant, as alleged in their bill, are without the authority of law.

IX. This defendant has no knowledge of the matters alleged in the 12th paragraph of the complainants' bill, as to the parties and 699 persons who dealt, or the manner of their dealing, in the said Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds therein referred to. But this defendant denies that there was any trust created between this defendant and the State of Florida, or between the complainants and the State of Florida, or a contract or agreement of any sort between the complainants and this defendant by the said statute of the 28th day of January, A. D. 1870, as pretended, and alleged in the complainants' bill.

X. This defendant has no knowledge of the matters and things stated in the 13th paragraph of the complainants' bill, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

And as to the matters alleged in the 14th paragraph of the complainants' bill, this defendant denies the same, and charges that the said allegation perverts and misrepresents the real facts in relation thereto; and this defendant especially denies the right of the governor of Florida to seize and sell the railroad of this defendant for any purpose, and further and again denies that the said Florida Central Railroad ever formed part of or was consolidated with the railroad of this defendant, as is repeatedly and falsely asserted and pretended in said bill.

XI. This defendant is advised, and admits the fact to be true, as alleged in the 16th paragraph of complainants' bill, that a scheme called "the memorandum plan," was concocted, signed, and executed at Savannah, Georgia, on or about the 12th day of January, A. D. 1877, whereby Frank R. Sherwin and Charles D. Willard, assuming to represent the complainants in this suit, and all other alleged holders of the Florida State bonds on the one part, and Henry R. Jackson and Charles H. Simonton, acting on the part of certain parties, who allege themselves to be the holders of a class of bonds known as Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, on the other part, united together for the declared purpose of "reorganizing" the railroad of this defendant and the said Florida Central Railroad, upon the principle and 700 division of allowing one-third to the complainants and their associates and keeping two-thirds for the reorganizers, upon a forced sale to be made by the governor of Florida of both of said railroads under an agreement, made in advance, to receive in payment therefor the unconstitutional, null, and void bonds issued by the State of Florida under said unconstitutional and void statute of the 28th day of January, A. D. 1870, in full both of principal and accrued interest, as cash at said sale, to be paid by certain particular persons agreed upon in said scheme, as will better appear by said "memorandum plan" marked D, filed with and made part of the complainants' bill.

But this defendant charges the fact to be that said "memorandum plan" was the result of a scheme and conspiracy entered into by the said Sherwin, Willard and others, for the purpose of appropriating the franchise and property of this defendant under color of representing the alleged rights of the complainants, from whom they had in truth no authority whatever to act, but assumed such authority in order to induce the governor of Florida to co-operate with them and their associates in the said proposed "memorandum plan," and to continue the seizure of the railroad of this defendant and the Florida Central Railroad, which they succeeded in doing, and then used the evidence of seizure in official form to induce the complainants and others to grant to them, the said Sherwin and Willard, the power and authority which they pretended to have in the months of December, 1876, and January, 1877, and, by such false pretences and fraudulent scheming, to usurp and appropriate the franchise and property of this defendant as aforesaid.

XII. This defendant is advised it has no interest in the matters alleged in the 17th paragraph of the complainants' bill, and therefore neither admits or denies the same except to further deny the assumption therein contained that the said Florida Central Railroad ever was consolidated with or formed a part of the railroad of this defendant.

XIII. This defendant, further answering, denies the matters 701 and things pretended and alleged in the 18th, 19th, and 20th paragraphs of complainants' bill, as therein alleged, and charges the same to be false or perverted in every respect.

That the statement in the 18th paragraph of said bill tending to show that the suit therein mentioned against the Florida Central Railroad Company was intended to subject the franchise and property of that company to the payment of State bonds chargeable to it which were issued by the State of Florida to this defendant or for its use and benefit, are wholly false and fraudulent, because no such bonds were ever issued to or received by any one for, or applied to its use, and that no one ever had the right or authority to receive or receipt for any bonds issued or pretended to be issued to or for the Florida Central Railroad Company, to be used by this defendant in any respect.

That the suits referred to were fraudulent and collusive, there being no real defense made for the Florida Central Railroad in point of fact. That those whose duty it was to defend the said suits and set up the real facts in the premises, failed and neglected to do so, but on the contrary were in secret collusion with those prosecuting said suits, and that those who attempted to make real defense thereto in good earnest and to set up the material facts in the premises, to wit, E. M. L'Engle, esq., and others, were denied the right to do so. That the complainants were not parties to said suits or either of them, or lawfully bound thereby, and hence can claim no benefit from said pretended adjudications in any respect, as in their said bill alleged, because they were not parties thereto.

XIV. This defendant is not advised of any surveys being procured by the complainants as to the condition of the railroad of this defendant, as alleged in the 21st paragraph of their bill, and denies the right of the complainants, or those assuming to represent them, to interfere or intermeddle in the matter of repairing the railroad of this defendant, and denies the right of the complainants to ask that the governor of Florida be created a receiver for that purpose, either general or special.

That the railroad of this defendant has been in the usurped
702 possession of the governor of Florida or some other adverse control for about six years, without the least regard to the lawful rights of this defendant. That the railroad of this defendant was in good condition and earning money when so seized and taken possession of by the governor of Florida and the other successive custodians referred to, its net earnings amounting to about $140,000 per annum, all of which has been squandered and lost, without even keeping the railroad of this defendant in repair, while the governor of Florida still holds possession thereof, and the complainants now ask that he may be permitted, not only to appropriate the earnings of the railroad of this defendant, but also contract debts to an indefinite amount, by the appointment of the governor as a special receiver, clothed with special authority for that purpose, which this defendant is advised, and so charges, is contrary to law.

XV. This defendant has no knowledge of the matters alleged in the 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th paragraphs of complainants' bill, except as therein contained, but denies that it ever had any dealings, as a body corporate, with the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and denies that S. W. Hopkins & Co., Governor Harrison Reed, George W. Swepson, M. S. Littlefield, or anybody else, as alleged and pretended in complainants' bill, ever had any lawful right to use, appropriate, or pledge any assets belonging to this defendant, or the proceeds thereof, to the payment of any debt to the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, as pretended in complainants' bill, and this defendant avers that any and all such uses of its assets and property, if any such ever occurred (and of which it has no knowledge, as aforesaid), were fraudulent and illegal, and in no manner bound or affected the rights of this defendant.

That this defendant, as before stated, never had any dealings with the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and never at any time received, handled or used any bonds or promises to pay of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that any and all allegations to that effect, whenever and however made, are false and wholly untrue.

703 XVI. This defendant has no knowledge of the matters and things set up and alleged in the supplemental bill filed by the complainants, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

And this defendant having fully answered so far as it is advised is material as to matters not covered by its said plea in bar to the complainants' title to or lawful interest in the bonds described in their said bill, and as to such matters of title, still relying on its said plea and denying all fraud and combination, and denying all rights, titles and equities on the part of the complainants, prays that their said bill may be dismissed and that this defendant may go hence with its costs in this behalf wrongfully sustained.

704 Answer of Edward M. L'Engle.

In the United States circuit court, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

J. FRED SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, HEINRICH Ulrici, and others, complainants,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Florida Central Railroad Company, and others, defendants.

705 In the United States circuit court, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

J. FRED SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, ADRIANUS Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, and others,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Florida Central Railroad Company, Edward M. L'Engle, and others.

The answer of Edward M. L'Engle, one of the defendants, to the bill of complaint filed in the above stated cause.

This defendant, saving to himself all manner of benefit or advantage of exception that can be had to the many errors and imperfections in the said bill contained, for answer thereto, or to so much thereof as this defendant is advised it is material or necessary for him to make answer unto, answering, says as follows:

That under and by virtue of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to incorporate the Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and for other purposes," approved January 24th, 1851, and of the provisions of another act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate 706 the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company was incorporated, and by that name the stockholders and members of said company, their successors and assigns, were authorized "to construct and operate a railroad from some tributary of the Atlantic Ocean, within the limits of the State of Florida, having a sufficient outlet to the ocean to admit of the passage of sea steamers; thence running through the State, in the most eligible direction, to some point, bay, arm, or tributary of the Gulf of Mexico, west of the Apalachicola River, in West Florida, having a sufficient outlet for sea steamers."

That, in accordance with the rights conferred by these acts, said company constructed a railroad from the town of Jacksonville, in Florida, to the town of Lake City, in said State, and operated the same for a number of years, and surrendered their right to build any portion of the line west of Lake City.

That, in accordance with the authority granted by an act of the legislature of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, the said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the purpose of constructing the railroad authorized by its charter, issued a large amount of bonds.

That, under the provisions of the said act, and the contract therein expressed, these bonds constituted a first lien or mortgage on the said road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise of the company.

That, by said act and contract, it was provided that on the failure of the company to pay the sinking fund of one per cent., the trustees named in the act should take possession of and sell the said road and all the property of said company.

That said company failed to comply with all the requirements of the statute aforesaid, and the trustees took possession of the road and sold it, in conformity with the statute and contract aforesaid, at public auction, on the 4th of March, 1868.

That, at said sale, William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers of said road and other property of said company.

That the said purchasers, by an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved July 29th, 1868, were vested with the powers and franchises granted to the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, by the act aforesaid, entitled "An act to amend 707 an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, and they and their successors and assigns were authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchises so far, and only so far, as they appertained to the railroad constructed, as aforesaid, by the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, from Jacksonville to Lake

City, in Florida, and were made a body politic and corporate under the name of the "Florida Central Railroad Company."

That the said road, if a public work at all, is and has long been a completed public work.

That the Florida Central Railroad Company, under its charter (which charter is a contract between the individual stockholders upon the one side, and the State and the corporation on the other side), is invested with no functions, rights, or powers, except such as pertain to a completed road; and that, in point of fact, the sole purpose for which the corporation exists, and for which the charter was granted, is the operation, control, management and maintenance of a completed line of railroad extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, aforesaid.

That the defendant is a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad Company and a member of said corporation, and is also a stockholder in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in said bill mentioned, and a member of that corporation.

That on the 20th of March, 1869, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company was a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railroad completed from Lake City, Florida, to Quincy, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That on the day aforesaid, the Tallahassee Railroad Company was a corporation, existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railway completed from Tallahassee, Florida, to St. Mark's, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That said corporations had constructed their roads between the terminal points above mentioned under the provisions of their charters and of the act of the legislature of Florida known as the internal improvement act, and had surrendered all rights to build any greater length of railroad under the provisions of said last-mentioned act than they had already built; and said railroads, if public works at all, were and had long been completed public works.

708 That both of said railroad companies accepted and issued bonds, under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, and became subject to all the provisions of said act.

That on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under the authority vested in them by the third section of the said act of the legislature of the State of Florida, upon and because of a failure on the part of the two last-mentioned railroad companies to provide and pay the sinking fund as required in said act, on the bonds issued by the said companies, duly sold at public sale the aforesaid two companies' railroads and all the property of each of said companies of every kind for the sum of $1,415,000; and at that sum one Franklin Dibble and his associates became the purchasers of the said railroads and of all the property of each of said two companies.

And that, on the 8th day of April, 1869, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida made and delivered to said purchasers deeds of conveyance of said two railroads and property, which deeds were duly recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Leon County, Florida, on the 22d and 23d days of October, A. D. 1869.

That the purchasers aforesaid paid the said trustees $960,000 on account of the purchase money of said two roads in first mortgage bonds of said companies (issued under the said act of January 6th, 1855), at the par value thereof, and the said purchasers received credit therefor.

That the remainder of said purchase money never has been paid, nor the payment thereof in any manner secured, as this defendant is informed and believes.

That on the 24th of June, 1869, the legislature of Florida passed an act entitled "An act for the relief of Franklin Dibble, E. M. Cheney and their associates, purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City," and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company, by which the said purchasers and their associates were created a body corporate under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and were vested with like powers, franchises and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the acts incorporating said companies.

709 That on the 24th of June, 1869, by an act of the legislature of Florida, approved on that day, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of this State," and by an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, 1870, a corporation called the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was created, empowered to build and operate a railroad from Quincy to Pensacola in said State, and to consolidate its road or line of intended road with those of the beforementioned Tallahassee Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and to exercise other powers and privileges.

That the Tallahassee Railroad Company, already mentioned, and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as this defendant is informed and believes, did, in the manner provided for by said last-mentioned act, consolidate their said roads under the name of the latter company, and redistributed the stock.

But the Florida Central Railroad Company never accepted any of the provisions of the said last-mentioned acts, and neither that company nor its railroad has ever been consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company or its road, or with the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company or its railroad, or with the Tallahassee Company or its railroad, or with any other railroad or company by whatever name called.

This defendant denies that Milton S. Littlefield or other persons concerned in the management of the Jacksonville, Pennsacola and Mobile Railroad Company ever had any authority to treat the line of railroad between Lake City and Jacksonville, Florida, known as the Florida Central Railroad, as the property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and as constituting a portion of that company's line of railroad, though it is true that said Littlefield, during a portion of the twelve months that he was president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, wrongfully permitted its earnings to be misappropriated and diverted from the use of that corporation.

This defendant denies that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company has, since the pretended consolidation or at any other time, received the earnings of the Florida Central Railroad Company as its own.

This defendant denies that the Florida Central Railroad Company has at any time been without a complete, substantial, and perfect organization, in fact, separate and apart and distinct from any other organization by whatever name called.

710 He denies that said company has, during the time alleged, been under the control or management of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. He alleges, on the contrary, that during a portion of said time (to wit, from and after the 12th day of December, 1870, until about the 13th day of May, 1871) the Florida Central Railroad Company managed and controlled the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad; that is to say, the railroad from Lake City to Quincy and St. Mark's, as lessee thereof, and that during other portions of said time the Florida Central Railroad was managed by its own officers, separate and distinct from any other organization, and that if it was during any portion of time managed by the officers of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as a portion of that company's road, or otherwise than as a distinct corporation, it was by the wrongful connivance of Milton S. Littlefield during the time from April, 1871, to April, 1872, that he was president of said Florida Central Railroad Company.

This defendant denies that at the time said securities were exchanged, or immediately thereafter, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was using, occupying, or enjoying as part of its own road any portion of the line of railroad between Jacksonville and Lake City, and he denies that it was then or ever has been officered by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but he admits that for a short time it was managed by the latter company.

And he alleges that if any contracts or business affecting the railroad from Lake City to Jacksonville were made or done by said Milton S. Littlefield, or any other person, in the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company as one corporation with the other, it was a fraud upon the rights and interests of the Florida Central Railroad Company and of the stockholders therein. While the two roads were operated by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company the interest of each company was kept separate and apportioned by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. The operation of the entire line was by understanding of both companies, and the separate existence of each was well understood. It was never contended or understood that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company operated the entire line as its own road, or as one corporation, by consolidation or otherwise.

This defendant denies that in the year 1871, or at any other time, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company conveyed 711 the line of railroad from Lake City to Jacksonville to trustees as alleged, but avers that on or about the 2d of October, 1871, Milton S. Littlefield, without authority of the stockholders first had and obtained, as this defendant is informed and believes, executed, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a lease of said company's road for the term of two years to Converse L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, for the purposes specified in said lease; among which were that they should receive the income and profits of said road and apply the same to the payment of certain specified indebtedness thereof, and to the extension of said road westward.

That under said lease one J. H. Gardiner was appointed superintendent of said road, and that under color of said lease the said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg and J. H. Gardiner assumed, with the wrongful consent of said Littlefield, its president, the management and control of the Florida Central Railroad, and received its income, and applied it, or a portion of it, as this defendant is informed and believes, to other purposes than those of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

This defendant denies that the said acts of said Littlefield, Chase, Flagg and Gardiner, and their confederates, and their possession of the Florida Central Railroad was without any interference on the part of any bona fide stockholders of the said company. He denies that no holder of shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company took any steps to prevent the consummation of the acts and designs mentioned in paragraph VIII of the bill in this cause. And he denies that the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company remained inactive and acquiesced as stated.

On the contrary, this defendant alleges the facts to be that he and other stockholders did dissent therefrom, and expressed their dissent by vigorous suits in court, viz, this defendant, by his suit in the circuit court of the State of Florida for Duval County, a copy of the complaint in which is hereto attached as a part of this answer, and marked Exhibit A, (in which action he obtained an injuction which still stands in force), and by a similar suit brought by this defendant in Columbia County, Florida, wherein he caused the said railroad to be placed in the hands of a receiver, where it remained several months; and by a suit brought by this defendant in Leon County, Florida.

Francis P. Porcher, another stockholder, expressed his dissent by a suit brought in the United States circuit court, northern district of Florida, by his attorney, this defendant (who was also at the 712 same time the attorney-at-law for other non resident and dissenting stockholders), wherein a writ of injunction was awarded.
All of these suits were for the purpose of maintaining the integrity and rights of said Florida Central Railroad Company as a separate and distinct corporation, and none of them have been dismissed, but all are still pending.

This defendant, as counsel for the said corporation, also expressed his dissent, and the dissent of the corporation, on the 8th February, 1871, by a letter written for the corporation to a banking house in Amsterdam, Holland, exposing and protesting against the frauds which had been practiced upon the corporation, a copy of which letter is hereto attached, marked Exhibit B.

The corporation itself expressed its dissent to the uses which had been made of its bonds and its right to control them by resolutions passed by its directory on the 21st of November, A. D. 1870, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit C. The bonds mentioned in said exhibit as bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are the same bonds which, in the bill in this cause, are alleged to have been delivered to the State of Florida. And even the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company expressed by resolutions, passed by its directory December 10th, 1870, its dissent to the uses which had been made of its bonds and credit by its President, Milton S. Littlefield. A copy of said resolutions is hereto attached, marked Exhibit D.

Defendant says that Milton S. Littlefield, himself, who owned, as is alleged, the majority of the stock of said Florida Central Railroad Company, did not acquiesce in any pretended consolidation of said Company, or pretend that any consolidation had been made or attempted, but on the contrary asserted the separate and independent existence of said corporation. In corroboration of this allegation this defendant refers to an agreement in writing, under seal, made by said Littlefield with J. P. Sanderson on the 17th day of May, 1870, wherein said Littlefield covenanted in these words: "That he will secure the said J. P. Sanderson the position of vice-president in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the term and period of five years, or as president thereof, as the said Littlefield may desire, and to pay to said Sanderson the sum of $10,000 per annum for his services in that position; and the said Littlefield further covenants and agrees to secure to said Sanderson the position of president of the Central Railroad Company during the same period, unless said Company in which case the said Sanderson shall have the position aforesaid, of the whole line of road from Jacksonville to Mobile."

For the same purpose this defendant refers to an affidavit made by said Littlefield on the 12th day of September, 1873, before J. E. Townsend, clerk of the United States circuit court for the northern district of Florida, and filed in said court, the cause wherein James E. Searls, for himself and others, is the complainant, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, J. C. McGehee, trustee, Milton S. Littlefield and others are the defendants; in which affidavit the said Littlefield uses the following language: "That in the month of June, 1869, the legislature of the State of Florida, by its enactments, authorized the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company in one road and corporation known as the Tallahassee Railroad Company. That the due and proper organization was made and had by the purchase of said roads under the said act, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, in virtue of its said organization, operated said road as a new corporation until the spring of 1870, when in accordance with a power and authority contained in the charter of the said The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, granted in the month of June, 1869, the said The Tallahassee Railroad Company and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company were consolidated as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and has since been operated as such corporation. That this affiant had no knowledge or participation in any of the frauds alleged to have been perpetrated; never owned any stock in the old Tallahassee Railroad Company, nor in the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, but did in good faith and for a valuable consideration, in the fall of 1869, purchase stock in said The Tallahassee Railroad Company after its organization, as aforesaid, and held the same at the time of its organization with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and still owns the same. That the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company commences at Lake City, in the county of Columbia, in said Florida, and is completed to the Chattahoochee River, in the county of Gadsden, in said State."

And for the same purpose this defendant refers to a letter written by said Littlefield to this defendant, under date of October 28th, 1873, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit E.

714 This defendant further says, that the State of Florida, in a bill of complaint filed by it in the Supreme Court of the United States in December, 1873, against Edward C. Anderson and others, admitted and asserted the separate and independent existence of the Florida Central Railroad Company and its railroad, as will appear on reference thereto.

Defendant says, that in the year 1874 the circuit court of Florida for Duval County, in an action brought by the State of Florida against the Florida Central Railroad Company and others, made a decree adjudging that the Florida Central Railroad had been and was consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, which decree being appealed from by the Florida Central Railroad Company in that respect was reversed by the supreme court of Florida, in the year 1875, since which no person or court has asserted or attempted to maintain that the Florida Central Railroad Company or its railroad is, or has ever been, consolidated with or merged into any other corporation or railroad, nor has the State of Florida asserted any such position.

Further answering, this defendant says that he is, and for more than six years has been, a bona fide holder of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company.

That on the 9th day of April, 1873, which was the regular day for the annual meeting of stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, a meeting of stockholders convened at Tallahassee, Florida, the duly appointed place of meeting, and adjourned from day to day. At this meeting there were represented more than a majority of the shares of the capital stock of said company, the whole number of its shares being 5,550.

That Edward Houstoun, of Savannah, Georgia, was the legal holder of about 4,410 shares, which stood in his name on the books of the company, and which he acquired and held in the manner hereinafter stated.

That this defendant was present in said meeting as a stockholder, and that one Charles E. Dyke, of Tallahassee, appeared there and presented the duly executed and regular power of attorney of said Edward Houstoun, to vote the said about 4,410 shares of stock, which power of attorney was recognized and admitted to be obligatory upon the meeting and the company.

That said meeting adjourned on the 13th of May, 1873, subject to the call of the managing director, who was this defendant.

715 That on the 27th day of October, 1873, the stockholders of said company again convened in Tallahassee, at the call of the managing director, and adjourned from day to day till the 30th day of October, 1873, when a large majority of the stock being represented, and Edward Houstoun being there by Charles E. Dyke, his proxy, an election was held for nine directors to serve during the current year, which resulted in the choice of Charles E. Dyke, P. Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, E. Lewis, Edward Houstoun, F. F. L'Engle, B. Williams, T. Hartridge, and this defendant.

That at a meeting of said nine directors, held on the same day, this defendant was elected president of said company, and George R. Foster was elected its secretary and treasurer.

That said railroad and all the property of said company remained in the possession of this defendant as president until about the 14th of April, 1874, when they were seized by J. C. Greeley, a receiver, appointed by the circuit court of Florida, for Duval County, from whom the same were taken by Robert Walker, a receiver appointed by the Supreme Court of the United States. They remained in said Walker's possession until June, 1876.

Defendant further says that no legal and valid election of directors of said company was held after the 30th of October, 1873, until the time next stated, but the directors and other officers then elected remained in office under the charter until their successors were qualified.

That on the 15th day of March, 1877, at an election of directors for the then current year, held by stockholders under a peremptory writ of mandamus, awarded by the circuit court of Florida for Duval County, a copy whereof is hereto attached, marked Exhibit F, the following persons were elected directors, viz, M. S. Littlefield, E. M. L'Engle, J. C. L'Engle, W. J. Lawton, N. K. Sawyer, G. R. Foster, J. M. Baker, J. B. Stewart, and C. B. Fenwick.

By these directors this defendant was elected president and Charles

B. Fenwick secretary and treasurer of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the said directors, president, and secretary and treasurer, continued to hold and exercise their said offices by virtue of said election until the 28th day of May, 1877, when, as has been already stated, another election was had of directors for said company.

This defendant denies that the judgment in mandamus of the circuit court of Florida, aforesaid, was procured by fraud, and denies 716 that no bona fide stockholders were parties to said proceeding, but alleges the contrary of both assertions to be true. But whether the said allegations be true or untrue can be of no interest to the complainants, none of whom are, or claim to be, stockholders in said Florida Central Railroad Company, or even citizens of the State of Florida. This defendant fails to perceive any right that holders of even bona fide undisputed bonds would have to impeach the regularity of the company's organization. He claims that only stockholders can have such standing in court as may entitle them to be heard on that point, there being no allegation of waste by such organization, and of insufficiency of the property in consequence thereof to pay bonds.

Further answering, this defendant says as to the allegations of paragraph of said bill numbered XVII, that during the year 1875 one Robert Walker, at that time receiver of the United States Supreme Court, in charge of the Florida Central Railroad, and a few other persons claiming to be stockholders in the said corporation, and to represent a majority of its whole stock, met as stated, and pretended to elect the persons named in said paragraph as directors of said company. But defendant denies that he ever accepted such election, and he believes that some others of those named refused to accept the office or meet as directors under said election. And this defendant denies that said election was legal or valid, and he denies that said directory ever had any existence in fact, or that the said persons ever exercised any corporate functions. On the contrary, this defendant asserts the facts to be, that at the time the said meeting was held, Edward Houstoun, who was a trustee in fact of more than four-fifths of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and in whose name the said large majority of the stock stood on the books of this company, had departed this life, and no person was authorized to vote said stock. But the executors of said Houstoun, who lived in Savannah, Georgia, assumed the right to authorize one James L. Taylor, of Tallahassee, to vote the stock which stood in the name of their testator, and this they did, although they had not taken up said stock as assets of their testator, and claimed no right, title, or interest herein. The said Taylor thereupon undertook to represent, and was allowed by those participating in the meeting to represent and vote, without right to do so, 4,410 or 4,370 shares of stock standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

This defendant further states, on information and belief, that the books and other records of said corporation had gone into said 717 Robert Walker's possession as receiver aforesaid, and he retained possession of them after June, 1876, and still retains and withholds them on the false pretense that he is the legally authorized representative of the corporation, as this defendant is informed and believes.

This defendant further says the said Edward Houstoun acquired and held the said 4,410 shares of capital stock, and they were situated and affected in this manner, viz: Milton S. Littlefield purchased from Edward Houstoun about 1,300 shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and about $103,000 of railroad bonds, and gave his obligation in writing, amounting to about $163,000, therefor. To secure payment of this obligation, Houstoun retained possession of the bonds and of the 1,300 shares of stock, and Littlefield, for further security, deposited with him the certificates for about 3,110 other shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, owned by said Littlefield, which stock and bonds said Houstoun was to hold till he should be paid. Houstoun caused the registry of all the shares of Littlefield's stock to be changed to himself, and new certificates to be issued to him therefor. This contract is evidenced by a writing dated May 13th, 1870, of which a copy is hereto attached, marked Exhibit G.

About the 13th of April, 1871, said Littlefield caused the said obligation to be paid, and instructed said Houstoun to transfer said stock and deliver said certificates to S. W. Hopkins & Co., said Littlefield's agents. But said Houstoun delivered the certificates to one Mariano D. Papy instead, and constituted him, by indenture, a trustee to hold said stock for the purposes declared in the trust. A copy of said indenture is hereto attached, marked Exhibit H.

Said Houstoun, however, although he delivered the certificates of the stock to said Papy, retained the registry thereof in his own name, and assumed to control and vote the shares of stock embraced in the certificates until his death, in the month of , A. D. 1875.

Said certificates of stock being in one of the banks of Savannah, from which said Papy had never removed them, and said Papy being in said city of Savannah in July, 1872, he was arrested under a writ of ne exeat, issued at the suit of Edward Houstoun by the superior court of Chatham County, in Georgia, the ostensible purpose of said suit being to prevent the removal of said certificates and bonds from said State by said trustee, M. D. Papy, which is the same suit mentioned in paragraph XXVI of the bill in this cause. Said Papy declining to give the required 718 bond, the said court ordered that the certificates be delivered to one T. Mayhew Cunningham, of Savannah, Georgia, cashier of the bank in which they had been deposited, where, as this defendant is informed and believes, they still are.

But in January, 1876, one Robert J. Washington, a defendant to this bill, who claimed to have an interest in the 4,410 shares of stock embraced in said certificates, as purchaser at a sale of Milton S. Littlefield's interest therein, made under a decree of this court, filed his bill to have a trustee of said stock appointed in the place of said Papy, who had died, claiming that said court in Georgia could not acquire any jurisdiction over stock in a railroad in Florida, and claiming that no person was, after the death of said Houstoun, authorized to vote said stock, as said Papy declined to have it transferred to his name and to vote it.

On the 7th of May, 1877, this honorable court made its decree in said cause (a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit I), whereby the said shares of stock were set forth and particularly described, and the legal title thereof was vested in Aristides Doggett, esq., who was appointed trustee thereof in the place of M. D. Papy, which appointment the said Aristides Doggett accepted.

This defendant, further answering, says that on the 11th day of April, 1877, which was the regular day appointed for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the stockholders convened in the company's office, at Jacksonville, Florida, to which city the place for meeting of the stockholders had been regularly and duly changed since the last preceding meeting of stockholders; that said meeting was adjourned from day to day and from time to time till the 28th day of May, 1877, when they proceeded to transact the business for which they had convened, and took such action, as is shown by the record of the meeting, a certified copy whereof is hereto attached, marked Exhibit J, showing that Milton S. Littlefield. James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, George R. Foster, John C. L'Engle, Nathan K. Sawyer, Joseph B. Stewart, W. J. Lawton, and this defendant, were elected directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company for the current year.

Afterwards the said directors convened and elected this defendant president of said company, and Charles B. Fenwick secretary and treasurer thereof, as is shown by the records of said meeting, a certified copy whereof is hereto attached, and marked Exhibit K.

719 And this is the title whereby this defendant and his co-directors of said corporation claim to hold their offices, and not through the action of any illegal meeting.

Further answering, this defendant denies that he or any of his codirectors have issued any certificates of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, or any certificates purporting to be certificates of such stock, to themselves or any other person whomsoever.

This defendant admits that it is the purpose of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company to make a mortgage and issue bonds as soon as it can be done to the advantage of the company, but he denies that they intend to do so in any other manner or for any other purpose than as related in the resolution authorizing the making of said mortgage and issuing of said bonds, a certified copy of which resolutions is hereto attached, marked Exhibit L.

Further answering, this defendant denies that he has illegally possessed himself of any shares of stock whatsoever. He admits that he brought several suits for himself and other stockholders in the Florida Central Railroad Company and in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; the objects of said suits being to rescue the property and management of said corporations from the control of dishonest and incompetent persons, and to resist the assaults upon said corporations of immoral speculators and "wreckers," like those who have organized and are making the attack in this suit under the cover of nominal bondholders as plaintiffs.

As to the pretence of said bill, that this defendant pursues his litigation, or intends to pursue it, in order "to compel the complainants to pay him a large sum of money to buy their peace," this defendant says that the allegation is false and slanderous. He repels it with indignation, and is constrained by this unjustifiable and indecent assault to express his belief that such charge was not made under any instructions given to complainant's solicitor, but is the invention of his malice to give this feeble expression to his personal enmity against this defendant.

As to the allegations of paragraph numbered XXIV of said bill, this defendant says that they are absolutely false and without any foundation, except as to the allegation that R. J. Washington has, by his attorney, this defendant, brought a suit in this court for the protection and advantage of certain shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which he claims to be interested in as the purchaser of Milton S. Littlefield's interest therein at a sale made under decree of this court, as has been already stated.

720 This defendant, further answering, says that if the allegations in the paragraphs of said bill, numbered XIII, XVII, XXIII, XXIV, XXVI, were true (which they are not), the facts stated would be no legal or equitable causes of complaint by the complainants, and cannot be inquired into in this action.

That the complainants have no interest in the matters averred in said paragraphs and no right to investigate them. Especially is this true as to the allegations that this defendant and others unlawfully assume to exercise corporate existence and functions, which is a matter that can be inquired into only by the State of Florida, or under its authority, and within its own courts, by a direct proceeding instituted for that purpose.

Wherefore this defendant submits that all the allegations contained in the respective paragraphs of the bill numbered XIII, XVII, XXIII, XXIV, and XXVI are matters with respect to which the complainants are not entitled to any relief from a court of equity, and this defendant prays that he may have the benefit of this defense as to each of said paragraphs as fully as if he had interposed it by demurrer to each of them.

Answering further, defendant denies that any bonds delivered to the governor of the State of Florida by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company are a lien upon the Florida Central Railroad from Lake City to Jacksonville, or are obligations of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

He denies that any bonds of the State of Florida were ever legally issued or delivered to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and that any interest is due thereon as is charged.

He denies that any representations made by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as mentioned in paragraph numbered X of the bill, are of any force or validity against this defendant or other stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or against that corporation. All such representations are res inter alios actæ.

But this defendant denies that the purchasers of the bonds mentioned in the said paragraph were without notice of the illegal and fraudulent character of said bonds. On the contrary, this defendant says that they had notice by a letter from this defendant, written and sent in February, 1871, to a banking house in Amsterdam, in Holland, which is hereto attached and marked Exhibit B, which letter was duly received 721 by the person to whom it was addressed, and the contents thereof were communicated by him to other persons interested in the sale of said bonds, among others, to John Collinson, of London, who admitted to this defendant about the month of May, 1871, that he had read the said letter.

The said persons had such notice also from T. W. Brevard, of Tallahassee, Florida, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit M. The said notice was enclosed in an envelope, addressed as is shown therein, and sent by mail prepaid, as this defendant is informed and believes.

Said persons had such notice also from the publicity and notoriety of the impeachment by the assembly of the State of Florida, early in February, 1872, of the governor of Florida for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, the 1st, 2d, 3d, and 4th articles of impeachment exhibited against him being for fraud in the issue of the said bonds. The said articles are hereto attached as Exhibit N.

The said persons also had such notice by the resolutions hereto attached as Exhibit C.

This defendant denies that the governor of the State of Florida has eized the line of railroad owned by the Florida Central Railroad Company, or any portion of its property. On the contrary, defendant says that before this suit was commenced, the said governor had by decree of this court been enjoined from making or attempting to make any such seizure.

As to the allegations of paragraph numbered XVIII of said bill, this defendant denies that the decision referred to is correctly stated, and refers for its true meaning to the decision itself, and submits whether this court shall be governed by the rulings of that tribunal, if they are erroneous.

Answering the allegations of the paragraph numbered XXI, this defendant says that if the condition of the said railroad is truly represented, which this defendant does not admit, such condition results from the aggressive litigation which has been carried on against the corporation for the last four or five years, some of which litigation has been just and meritorious, to redeem the corporations and their property from mismanagement and waste, which efforts are about to culminate in success, as to the Florida Central Railroad Company at least, whose property is about to go into the possession and control of its directors elected on the 28th of May, 1877, said property having for the last three years been in the hands of receivers of courts. Other of said litigations have been, as this suit is, unjust, vexatious, and without merit, and greatly injurious to the company's resources and credit. 722 And this defendant says that the action proposed in said paragraph is that which has caused the evils complained of. If, during the several years that said properties have been in the hands of receivers of courts who have been authorized to expend, and have expended upon the properties, all the money that they could get, the said properties have, notwithstanding, depreciated and come to the dilapidated condition represented, it demonstrates that the proposed remedy would be futile, and that the roads can be best managed by their own officers, elected by bona fide stockholders, as the Florida Central Railroad Company's directors now are, which directors being men of good character capable of efficiently managing their trust, and likely to do so, will, more surely than any receiver can, repair and keep in good condition the said railroad.

The credit of every corporation is injured by having a receiver placed over its property. It is an injurious reflection upon the corporation, and this defendant says that no cause exists to warrant any such order as is prayed as to either corporation.

And this defendant denies all and all manner of unlawful combination and confederacy, wherewith he is by the said bill charged, without this, that there is any other matter, cause, or thing in the said complainant's said bill of complaint contained, material or necessary for this defendant to make answer unto, and not herein and hereby well and sufficiently answered, confessed, traversed, and avoided or denied, is true to the knowledge or belief of this defendant. All which matters and things this defendant is ready and willing to aver, maintain, and prove as this honorable court shall direct; and humbly prays to be hence dismissed with his reasonable costs and charges in this behalf most wrongfully sustained.

725 EXHIBIT A.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

In the U. S. circuit court.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

In circuit court, Duval County, Florida.

EDWARD M. L'ENGLE, PLAINTIFF,
vs.
MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD, AARON BARNETT, Edward Houstoun, Mariano D. Papy, George W. Swepson, The Florida Central Railroad Company, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Converse L. Chase, Francis H. Flagg, J. H. Gardiner, Harrison Reed, the governor of the State of Florida; J. P. C. Emmons, the attorney-general of said State; Robert H. Gamble, the comptroller of said State; Simon B. Conover, the treasurer of said State, and John S. Adams, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State, who are, as such officers, trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, the Gulf Steamship Company, and Sidney W. Hopkins, L. Lewis Spring, Charles Fouke, Frank H. Collins and Robert J. Carpenter, merchants and copartners doing business in the city and State of New York under the firm name of S. W. Hopkins & Co., defendants.

The plaintiff, in behalf of himself and of all others, who, being stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall, in due time, come in and eek relief by and contribute to the expense of this action, complaining, lleges as follows:

That under and by virtue of the provisions of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to incorporate the 726 Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and for other purposes," approved January 24, 1851, and of the provisions of another act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7, 1853, the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company was incorporated, and by that name the stockholders and members of said company, their successors and assigns, were authorized to construct and operate a railroad from some tributary of the Atlantic Ocean, within the limits of the State of Florida, having a sufficient outlet to the ocean to admit of the passage of sea steamers; thence running through the State, in the most eligible direction, to some point, bay, arm, or tributary of the Gulf of Mexico, west of the Apalachicola River, in West Florida, having a sufficient outlet for sea steamers.

That, in accordance with the rights conferred by these acts, said company constructed a railroad from the town of Jacksonville, in Florida, to the town of Lake City, in said State, and operated the same for a number of years, and surrendered their right to build any portion of the line west of Lake City.

That in accordance with the authority granted by an act of the legislature of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6, 1855, the said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the purpose of constructing the railroad authorized by its charter, issued a large amount of bonds.

That, under the provisions of the said act and the contract therein expressed, these bonds constituted a first lien or mortgage on the said road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise of the company.

That, by said act and contract, it was provided that on failure of the company to pay the sinking fund of one per cent., the trustees, named in the act, should take possession of and sell the said road and all the property of said company.

That said company failed to comply with the requirements of the statute aforesaid, and the trustees took possession of the road and sold it, in conformity with the statute and contract aforesaid, at public auction, on the 4th of March, 1868.

That at said sale William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers of said road and other property of said company.

That the said purchasers, by an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved July 29, 1868, were vested with the powers and franchises granted to the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, by the act aforesaid, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7, 1853, and they, and their successors and assigns, were authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchises, so far, and only so far, as they appertained to the railroad constructed as aforesaid by the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, from Jacksonville to Lake City, in Florida, and were made a body politic and corporate, under the name of the "Florida Central Railroad Company."

That the said road, if a public work at all, is, and has long been, a completed public work.

727 That the Florida Central Railroad Company, under its charter (which charter is a contract between the individual stockholders upon the one side, and the State and corporation on the other side), is invested with no functions, rights or powers, except such as pertain to a completed road, and that, in point of fact, the sole purpose for which the corporation exists, and for which the charter was granted, is the operation, control, management and maintenance of a completed line of railroad extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, aforesaid.

That the plaintiff is a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad and a member of said corporation, and is also a stockholder in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, hereafter mentioned, and a member of that corporation.

That, on the 20th of March, 1869, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company was a corporation, organized and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railroad completed from Lake City, Florida, to Quincy, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That, on the day aforesaid, the Tallahassee Railroad was a corporation, existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railway completed from Tallahassee, Florida, to St. Mark's, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That both of said railroad companies accepted and issued bonds under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6, 1855, and became subject to all the provisions of said act.

That, on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under the authority vested in them by the third section of said act of the legislature of the State of Florida, upon and because of a failure on the part of said railroad companies to provide and pay the sinking fund as required in said act, on the bonds issued by the said companies, duly sold, at public sale, the aforesaid railroads, and all the property of each of said companies of every kind, for the sum of $1,415,000, and, at that sum, one Franklin Dibble and his associates became the purchasers of the said railroads and of all the property of each of said companies.

And that, on the 8th day of April, 1869, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida made and delivered to said purchasers deeds of conveyance of said railroads and property, which deeds were duly recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Leon County, Florida, on the 22d and 23d days of October, A. D. 1869.

That the purchasers aforesaid paid the said trustees $960,000 on account of the purchase money of said roads, in first mortgage bonds of said companies (issued under the said act of January 6, 1855), at the par value thereof, and the said purchasers received credit therefor.

That the remainder of said purchase money never has been paid, nor the payment thereof in any manner secured, as the plaintiff is informed and believes.

That one George W. Swepson, in consideration of a large and controlling interest in the stock transferred and conveyed to him by the said Franklin Dibble, and the other persons associated with him in said 728 purchase, and by the consent of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, acting by their duly appointed agents, and for other considerations, promised to and received by him, undertook to pay the remainder of said purchase money, and to do other things for the benefit of said purchasers, (and of the corporation which they, in conjunction with other persons acting with them, intended to be created into by act of the legislature.) And the said trustees, acting by their duly appointed agents, accepted said Swepson as their debtor in the place of the said purchasers.

That, on the 24th of June, 1869, the legislature of Florida passed an act entitled "An act for the relief of Franklin Dibble, E. M. Cheney and their associates," purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City, and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company, by which the said purchasers and their associates were created a body corporate, under the name of the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," and were vested with like powers, franchises and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the acts incorporating said companies.

That, on the 24th June, 1869, by an act of the legislature of Florida, approved on that day, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of this State," and by an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, 1870, a corporation called the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was created, empowered to build and operate a railroad from Quincy to Pensacola in said State, and to consolidate its road or line of intended road with those of the beforementioned Tallahassee Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and to exercise other powers and privileges.

That the Tallahassee Railroad Company already mentioned, and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, did, in the manner provided for by said last mentioned act, consolidate their said roads, under the name of the latter company, and re-distributed the stock.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that, before said consolidation, or afterwards, the said George W. Swepson, in consideration that the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, would pay to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida the remainder of said purchase money of the said railroad, which remainder, or any part thereof, the said Swepson has not paid as he undertook to do, and for other considerations undertaken by said Littlefield to be performed, he, the said Swepson, transferred and conveyed to said Littlefield all of his, the said Swepson's, property and interest in the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and in the Florida Central Railroad Company (one of these defendants), in which last mentioned company, as in the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, he, the said Swepson, had a majority of the stock interest.

And the property so transferred and conveyed was of value much greater than the unpaid purchase money due to the said trustees.

That, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, said Littlefield received said transfer of interest, with and upon the distinct promise made 729 by him that he would, out of his own resources, pay such unpaid purchase money. And the plaintiff avers, on his own knowledge, that when the said Littlefield received the said transfer and conveyance, and always before that time, he knew that the said Swepson had not paid said remainder of the purchase money of the said railroad, or any part thereof.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield was elected president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company at the time of its organization, and has continued to be president ever since. And that afterwards he was elected president of the Florida Central Railroad Company; and that defendant, Aaron Barnett, claims now to be the president thereof, and to have been elected as such on the 9th or 10th of April, 1872.

That the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was granted, by the acts incorporating it, the right to build a railroad from Quincy, Florida, westward to the Alabama State line, and that to aid it in doing so the governor of the State of Florida was, by said acts, directed to deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of the State, to an amount equal to $16,000 per mile, for the whole length of railroad owned by said company, in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said company; and said acts provided that the State should have a statutory lien on said road as security against loss.

That said acts also provide that the governor, for the purpose of further aiding said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to speedily construct its road, shall deliver to the president of said company other coupon bonds of the State of Florida, to the amount of $16,000 per mile, upon receiving from the president of said company first-mortgage bonds of like amount on any portion of the line of railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville, not exceeding one hundred miles of any part of railroad between those points, which provision is contained in the 4th section of the act approved January 4th, 1870.

That, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the said Littlefield received from the governor of Florida four million dollars of said bonds of said State, of which one million were issued in exchange for a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor, by said Milton S. Littlefield, which one million of State bonds were issued under section 4 of the act of 1870 above referred to.

That it is claimed by said Littlefield, and by the governor of the State of Florida, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor, and in exchange for which the million of State bonds were delivered to said Littlefield, constitute a lien upon the line of said road and the property owned by the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or are valid, legal, and subsisting obligations of said company to the State of Florida.

Plaintiff says further, on information and belief, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company were deposited with the State about the 4th of January, 1871, without the knowledge or consent of the stockholders or directors, generally, of said company, or of its president, and against the wishes of them, or some of them; and that it was done with the knowledge and consent, and secretly, and by the contrivance of the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, and in fraud of said company and of the stockholders and creditors thereof, 730 and in violation of its charter and of the powers and privileges thereof, which never contemplated that said company should engage in the building of any other than its own line of road, or incur any obligation, or pledge its credit, for any other than the purposes mentioned in the charter.

And the plaintiff says that the State of Florida, acting through its officers, was a party to the fraud, and cannot allege ignorance of the facts, or of the law governing said corporation.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield, through himself and his agents, sold most of the said four million dollars of bonds, and, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, received a very large amount of money therefor; the plaintiff cannot say with positiveness or certainty how much, but to the best of his information and belief more than $1,000,000.

That said bonds were issued by the State and received by the said

Littlefield, as president of the said railroad company, for the purposes stated in said act of the legislature, which were to aid the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road westward from Quincy to the Alabama line. And the stockholders and creditors of said company confided in him to receive the said funds and apply them to the purposes for which they were intended. But, instead of carrying out that trust and confidence, the said Milton S. Littlefield has received the said money, or a large proportion of it, and has diverted it from the legitimate uses of the corporation, and has misapplied it to his own personal and private uses and purposes, and has applied only a small proportion thereof to the purposes for which said bonds were issued.

That said Milton S. Littlefield has not given, and fails to give, any sufficient account of the application of said funds; that he has made no report of his receipts and disbursements, or of his administration of said roads, and of the affairs of said companies, since he has been president of them respectively. And holding as he does the majority of the stock in both companies he exercises an arbitrary and absolute control over their affairs, and by his votes shapes the directory of each company as he pleases.

That he makes, or permits to be made, nominal transfers of small amounts of stock in each company to such persons owning no stock, or insufficient thereof, as he wants elected directors thereof, in order to give them an apparent qualification as such, and causes them, by his votes, to be elected directors, when, in fact, they do not in good faith own any, or, if any, a sufficiency of stock in said companies, and are not really qualified to act as directors in the respective companies under the respective charters thereof; and causes himself, or such person as he may select, thus to be elected president, and thus he shuns and escapes all investigation into his, or such other person's conduct, as president of said companies respectively.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield has purchased, and claims as his own property, a large amount of the capital stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and a large number of the first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or of both (for the non-payment of the sinking fund of which bonds the said roads were, as has been herein stated, 731 sold by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida), which stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or a large amount of which he obtained by purchase with money realized and obtained from the assets and earnings of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, and not with his individual private funds, all of which purchases so paid for belong to the said corporations.

That the following are some of the purchases of stocks of said railroad made by said Littlefield, with funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or to the Florida Central Railroad Company, or to both, and claimed now by said Littlefield to be his own property, viz:

From James M. Baker, Silas L. Niblack, and Wilkinson Call purchased 3,750 shares of stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, being 1,250 shares from each of them.

On information and belief, plaintiff further says, that said Littlefield also in the same manner purchased stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from Alonzo Huling, F. Dibble, Calvin Dibble, and other persons, paying for the same, directly or indirectly, with funds belonging to the said corporation.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that the stock so purchased by Milton S. Littlefield, and paid for, or contracted to be paid for, directly or indirectly, out of the funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to the Florida Central Railroad Company, constitute, with that which he has otherwise acquired, a majority of the stock of said companies respectively, claimed by the said Littlefield as his property, and by voting which, directly or indirectly, he controls the organization and management of said companies respectively, and upon which he claims and assumes the right to receive the dividends, if any there be.

All of which stock, so purchased, belongs to the corporations respectively, to be divided among the several stockholders pro rata, or has become extinct as stock, thereby increasing by so much the value of each of the remaining shares of stock.

Plaintiff further says, that said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in the latter part of the year 1860, or early in the year 1870, made a contract in writing, with certain commissioners representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, whereby more than one million dollars of the funds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company were contracted by said Littlefield, as president, to be paid to said commissioners in satisfaction of a debt due by said Littlefield personally and individually, or which was contracted by said Swepson and assumed by said Littlefield, and for which the said railroad company was in no wise responsible.

On information and belief, plaintiff says, that a part of said money has been paid out of proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, under the act aforesaid, approved June 24, 1869, and that said contract is still subsisting.

Plaintiff further says, that among the many other misappropriations and diversions by the said Milton S. Littlefield, of the funds
732 belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, he recites, on information and belief, the following, viz:

He caused to be paid out of said funds the following amounts to the following persons, viz: To Jennie Hunter, $300; Alonzo Huling, $5,000; F. A. Dockray $5,000; J. L. ReQua, $5,000; A. G. Cattel, $735.60; J. B. Clark, $75,000; to some persons unknown, "for balance of judgment vs. Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, with interest," $30,000; to J. S. Meech, $12,600; to R. R. Swepson, $50,000; to First National Bank of Knoxville, $19,684.36; to C. F. Bruton, $10,000; John Rankin, $9,225.17; J. R. Campbell, $1,976.87; W. W. Hubbard, $500; W. Cummings & Co., $466; Drew & Davis, $377.53; to some unknown person for "Grocers' Bank judgment vs. Road," $5,790; Mrs. E. Holland, $300; John T. Deweese, $20.000; to some unknown person, "balance due on Jacksonville property," $2.590.04; to Governor Reed "on account," $3.500; D. P. Holland "on account," $4,630; T. B. Coddington, $57,895.33; S. W. Hopkins, T. B. Coddington, R. Stewart and others, "for traveling expenses to and from Florida, hotel fares, ocean cables, and other expenses while there," $6,216.38; J. B. Clark, for expenses to Florida, $100; G. B. Carse, do., do. $60; R. Stewart, Washington, $100; to divers unknown persons for "legal expenses, defending suits by N. W. Woodfin and L. P. Bayne," $17,850; to a person unknown, having a "draft from Florida," £4,433.19.3 (in English currency); to Baring Brothers & Co., for A. Barnett's claim, £19,349.14.1 (in English currency); to Clews, Habrecht & Co., for G. W. Swepson, £3,717.18.7 (in English currency); to the Commissioners of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, £10,000.00.0 (English currency).

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Littlefield has, as president aforesaid, pledged the proceeds of said State bonds for the payment of the following additional amounts to or on account of the following persons, viz: R. H. Gamble, $15,000; F. H. Flagg, $4,000; T. B. Coddington, $25,000; L. P. Bayne & Co., $200,000; J. H. Porter, $10,000; D. P. Holland, $17,365; Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, $350,000; Governor Harrison Reed, $223,750; and that all of said additional amounts are gross and fraudulent misapplications sought to be made of said proceeds.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Milton S. Littlefield has drawn for himself, upon the proceeds of said bonds, at one time $1,178.50, and at various other times £4,981.10.5 (English currency), and the plaintiff says, on information and belief, that nearly all, if not the entire amount of the last stated sums, were misapplied and squandered by said Littlefield for his own purposes.

The plaintiff further says, on the information of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York and London, that the said Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, offered to them, and sold to them, the said four million of State bonds, being four thousand bonds, at the price of £100 sterling for each bond, when, at that very time, said Littlefield knew that said bonds were contracted to be sold, or were sold by his agents, for the price of £138.1.10 sterling.

That on or about the 2d of October, 1871, the said Milton S.
733 Littlefield, without authority of the stockholders, first had and obtained, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, executed, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a lease of said company's road for the term of two years, to the defendants Converse L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, for the purposes specified in said lease; among which were, that they should receive the income and profits of said road, and apply the same to the payment of certain specified indebtedness thereof, and to the extension of said road westward.

That under said lease one J. H. Gardiner was appointed superintendent of said road, and that under color of said lease the said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg, and J. H. Gardiner assumed, with the consent of said Littlefield, its president, the exclusive management and control of the Florida Central Railroad, and received its income, and applied it, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, to the payment of the debts of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to the extension of said railroad westward, and to other purposes of said last-mentioned corporation.

That said lease provides that the proceeds, when realized, of the one million dollars of bonds, before mentioned, issued by the State of Florida and received by said Littlefield, as president aforesaid, in exchange for a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, deposited with the governor of said State, should be applied to the extension of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad westward, and not to legitimate purposes of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

That, as plaintiff is informed and believes, said million, or thereabouts, of said bonds are deposited with or under the control of John Collinson, of London, in the kingdom of England, and have not yet been sold.

Plaintiff states, on information and belief, that the said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg, and J. H. Gardiner have not accounted to the respective companies for the receipts of said roads respectively.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that on or about the 30th of November, 1871, the said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said C. L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, as trustees, under the lease or deed of trust heretofore mentioned, dated October 2d, 1871, did, by their attorneys duly authorized thereto, and in fraud of the rights of the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of said Florida Central Railroad Company, enter into a written agreement with one L. P. Bayne, and L. P. Bayne & Co., and one S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York, and with one N. W. Woodfin, of North Carolina, representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, whereby it was provided, among other things, that out of the proceeds accrued and to accrue of $1,200,000 of bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by said State, under and for the purposes specified in the act of the legislature of said State, already mentioned, approved June 24, 1869, which bonds were then in the hands or under the control of said John Collinson, and of which the million of bonds issued upon the security of a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central 734 Railroad Company, as already stated, were a portion, there should be paid to the said L. P. Bayne, for himself, and L. P. Bayne & Co., $200,000; and to said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, $300,000; and by the same contract it was agreed that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company undertook to secure to the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company the payment of the further sum of $300,000, and to the said L. P. Bayne and L. P. Bayne & Co. the further sum of $140,000.

The plaintiff further says that all of the money above mentioned, provided by said contract to be paid, was for the payment of debts of said Milton S. Littlefield, as an individual, and not of debts of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company or of the Florida Central Railroad Company; and that, in entering into said contract, the said Milton S. Littlefield and the said C. L. Chase and F. H. Flagg committed a fraud upon the rights of stockholders in said companies respectively.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that the performance of the terms of said contract, has, thus far, been prevented by the intervention of other parties having interests in said fund, but that the same may, unless prevented by this court, be still carried out.

The plaintiff further states, on information and belief, that said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, without the advice or consent of the stockholders or directors of said companies (and in violation of section four of the act of the legislature of Florida, already mentioned, approved June 24, 1869, for the incorporation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company) and the said Aaron Barnett, claiming to be a large stockholder and the president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and one John Scriven, and other persons unknown to the plaintiff, are negotiating together to effect a lease of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad and of the said Florida Central Railroad, to said John Scriven, who is a citizen of the State of Georgia, and owns a large interest in a railroad out of the State of Florida, or to the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of Georgia; among the terms whereof, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, it is designed that the said Milton S. Littlefield shall surrender and assign to such lessee, or to some one else for him, a moiety or a majority of the stock claimed by the said Littlefield as belonging to him in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and in the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that all the assets of said companies, including unexpended proceeds of bonds of the State of Florida issued to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as herein stated, and such of said bonds as may still be unsold, shall be delivered to said lessee for the purpose of paying to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida the remainder of the purchase money, still unpaid, of the Pensacola and Georgia and the said Tallahassee Railroads, and for which, not the said corporations, but the individual purchasers of the said last mentioned roads, especially said George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, who took their stock, as herein stated, with the charge that they should pay the said debt, are liable to the said trustees.

735 Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that another proposition which the said persons who are negotiating together are considering, in violation of said section of said act of the legislature, is that the said John Scriven, or the said Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company, shall lease, for a long term of years, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the said Florida Central Railroad, paying yearly a stipulated rental, all of the funds and assets of said companies now in hand being left with said companies to be applied, by said Littlefield, to the payment of the unpaid purchase money of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, and of said Tallahassee Railroad, and to other debts, for which, as the plaintiff claims, neither the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, nor the said Florida Central Railroad Company, is liable.

On information and belief, plaintiff also says, that said Littlefield or said Barnett, or both of them, are negotiating with C. L. Chase and others to make another lease of said railroads to him and those acting with him, the terms of which are similar to those already stated.

And the plaintiff says that unless the relief hereby prayed is granted, or a portion of it, one of the said propositions, or some other equally injurious to the stockholders of said road, and in violation of said act, and which may work a forfeiture of the charter of the company created by said act, may be adopted and carried into effect to the great damage of the plaintiff as a stockholder in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railway Company, and in said Florida Central Railroad Company.

The plaintiff further says, that under the management of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and of the Florida Central Railroad, as it now is, and for twelve or more months has been, the incomes thereof are improvidently used and applied. The said Milton S. Littlefield, as president, is receiving an extravagant salary of, as the plaintiff is informed, ten thousand dollars per year, and has clerks and servants in his employ at an expense to the said companies, as the plaintiff is informed, of several thousand dollars a year; that, as plaintiff is informed, said Littlefield employs in England, New York, Florida and elsewhere, at the expense of said companies, but for the advancement of his own individual purposes, and not for the advantage of the companies, one or more attorneys-at-law in each of said countries and places, and that said president, clerks, servants, and attorneys are of no use or benefit to said companies.

That on or about the 19th of May, 1871, said Littlefield transferred and assigned to defendant Aaron Barnett, by indenture, recorded in Leon County, Florida, in the clerk's office thereof, 41,963 shares of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, (which he, the said Littlefield, claimed and claims to own), and all other shares which he then owned, or thereafter might acquire, in the stock of said road, and 4,410 shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which he, the said Littlefield, claimed and claims to own, and all other shares in the said company's capital stock which he then owned, or thereafter might acquire; which transfer and assignment was in trust, to secure a certain company, known as the Gulf Steamship Company (a corporation created by the laws of Florida, but whose charter, as plaintiff is informed, has been repealed), in the payment by moneys which might come due thereafter by said railroad company to said Gulf Steamship Company, for work done by said company, in extending the railway of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company westward from the Chattahooche River.

That, by the terms of said assignment and transfer, said Milton S. Littlefield reserved the right to vote said stock so assigned at all proper times and places.

That said stock of both companies, so assigned, is made up, in large part, of the stock purchased and paid for, or contracted to be paid for, by said Littlefield, with money, belonging to the said companies, as herein stated; and plaintiff says, on information, as to a large portion of said stock so acquired, that the said Barnett knew when he received said stock that said Littlefield had purchased it with money belonging to the said corporations.

That said Gulf Steamship Company has not done any work in extending the said railway westward from Chattahooche River, and has in nowise become entitled to receive any compensation therefor, or upon any other consideration, from said railroad company. That said Aaron Barnett was a member of said Gulf Steamship Company, and, as its agent, received said stock in trust, and, at the time of receiving it, had notice that the said unpaid purchase money of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, had not been paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida.

Plaintiff states, on information and belief, that the defendants, M. D. Papy or Edward Houstoun, or both of them, also claim to hold, or in some way have control over, a portion of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which said Milton S. Littlefield claims to own, which, as herein stated, has been assigned and transferred to said A. Barnett, in trust, and that said Papy or Houstoun, or both of them, claim the right to vote, and do vote, the said stock, or some of it.

That, as plaintiff is informed, said Papy, or Edward Houstoun, or both of them, claim to hold or control said stock, or a portion of it, and also a number of the first mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, which are claimed so be the property of said Littlefield, or in which he has some legal or equitable interest by virtue of, and for the performance of, some trust, unknown to plaintiff, and which plaintiff calls on them to set forth and substantiate.

And he says further, that, if the stock and bonds belong to the said Littlefield, they and all stock owned by him, as well as all of his other property, should be held subject to payment of demands of the said corporations and of the stockholders whose money and assets he has misapplied and converted to his own use.

Plaintiff further says, on information, that the defendants herein named, as constituting the mercantile firm of S. W. Hopkins & Co., claim, or are alleged to have, an interest in the last mentioned trusts, and in the bonds and stocks affected, or claimed to be affected, by these trusts, and also in the bonds of the State of Florida, herein mentioned, and that therefore they are made parties defendant to this suit.

Plaintiff further says that the trustees of the internal improve-737 ment fund of the State of Florida have commenced suit against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and other defendants, to recover the sum of $472,000, unpaid purchase money, due as herein stated, and interest thereon from the day of the sale of said roads, and have prayed for and obtained the appointment of a receiver of the said roads, and of the other property of said company, and have prayed for and obtained an order that said receiver take the absolute and exclusive control of not only the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but also of the Florida Central Railroad, and the receiver, who is Jonathan C. Greeley, has so taken possession and control of said railroads, and the said trustees seek to have the net earnings, not only of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but also of the Florida Central Railroad, go into the hands of said Greeley and be applied, under the order of the court, to the payment of the purchase money still unpaid, and have obtained an order to that effect.

Plaintiff further says that said Milton S. Littlefield and said Aaron Barnett, in violation of their duty as president of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and in disregard of the interests of said company, and of stockholders therein, have permitted and still permit said receiver to take and hold possession of said railroad, and have made no attempt to recover it, nor to defend said suit.

That said Littlefield, as president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, has made no attempt to recover possession of said road, nor, as plaintiff is informed, does he intend to defend said action, but will allow judgment to be had by default against said corporation.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that Aaron Barnett, one of these defendants, has received from Milton S. Littlefield, individually, or as president of one of the said railroad corporations, a large sum of money, amounting to about $100,000, for the purchase from him, the said Barnett, of steamboats, and for other considerations, uses and purposes which were not intended in and by the act of the legislature of Florida entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869, and the amendments thereto.

That the payments and advances, so made to said Aaron Barnett, were made out of the proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as herein stated, under said act; and that said Barnett, at the time he sold said steamboats and received said money therefor, and for other considerations, uses and purposes not contemplated by said act, knew that said money was the proceeds of the said bonds, and was affected and charged with the trust imposed by said act, and that said trust was violated by the payments made to him.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Aaron Barnett received from said Littlefield, individually or as president of said railroad company, a large number of the said bonds of the State issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the purposes specified in said act of June 24th, 1869. That said bonds were not delivered to said Barnett for any legitimate lawful purpose or use of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, un-under the authority of the said act, but for speculative purposes outside of said act, and for uses and upon considerations foreign thereto; all of which was well known to said Littlefield and to said Barnett.

738 And the plaintiff says that said Barnett has not applied either said money or said bonds, or the proceeds of said bonds, to the legitimate uses of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company as intended and prescribed by the act aforesaid.

Wherefore the plaintiff demands judgment—

1st. That the delivery of one million dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company to the governor of the State of Florida, in exchange for one million dollars of the State bonds, be declared to be a fraud perpetrated upon said company and the stockholders; and that said bonds be declared to have no binding legal validity as obligations of said company.

2d. That the defendant Milton S. Littlefield be required to render a full, true, and accurate statement in detail of his receipts and expenditures, and of those of his agents, from the proceeds of the State bonds, and from the income and assets of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and said Florida Central Railroad Company, respectively, and a statement of the considerations upon which such expenditures were made; and that a reference be had to ascertain and report such receipts and expenditures, and the sources thereof and consideration therefor.

3d. That the defendant Milton S. Littlefield be required to surrender all stock in either of said railroads, and all railroad bonds and other property purchased or paid for, in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, with the receipts or assets of said railroad companies, or either of them; and that such purchases be declared to inure to the benefit of said railroad companies, respectively, with whose funds, wholly or partly, the purchase may have been made; and that such stocks, bonds, and other property be delivered for safe keeping to the receiver who may be appointed in this suit, and be held subject to the order of this court.

4th. That the defendants Papy and Houstoun be required by the final decree of this court to deliver to a receiver all stock and evidences of title thereto in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and all bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, held or controlled by them, or either of them, wherein the said Milton S. Littlefield, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or the said Florida Central Railroad Company, has a legal or equitable interest. That the said Barnett be required to deliver to a receiver all stocks, and evidences of title thereto, in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and all bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and all other property held or controlled by him wherein the said M. S. Littlefield, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or the Florida Central Railroad Company, has a legal or equitable interest, and all bonds of the State of Florida, issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, received by him from that company, or from its president, or its or his agents or attorneys, or from Milton S. Littlefield, or George W. Swepson, or their agents, or the agent of either of them; and all proceeds of such bonds of the State of Florida, so received by him, the consideration for the reception of which by him was different from the purposes for which said bonds were issued.

739 That the lease of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, made on the 2d October, 1871, by defendant Milton S. Littlefield, be annulled and set aside. That said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg, and J. H. Gardener be required to render a full and accurate statement of the receipts from, and the expenditures on account of, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and of the Florida Central Railroad, severally and respectively, and a statement of the sources of such receipts, and of the considerations and purposes of such expenditures; and to pay to a receiver or other person, under the order of this court, all moneys received from the income or assets of said roads, respectively, and not expended legitimately and legally for the sole and exclusive use, benefit, and advantage of said corporations, respectively, from which moneys may have been received, and that a reference be had to ascertain these facts.

6th. That the defendants F. H. Flagg and C. L. Chase be enjoined from receiving any of the proceeds of State bonds of Florida issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and from expending any of such proceeds in their hands.

7th. That the said M. S. Littlefield, president as aforesaid, and his successors, and the said F. H. Flagg and C. L. Chase, their agents and attorneys, be enjoined from carrying out, or attempting to carry out, any part of the agreement made by them through themselves or their attorneys on the 30th day of November, 1871, or about that time, with L. P. Bayne, L. P. Bayne & Co., and S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York, and N. W. Woodfin, of North Carolina, representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, which provided for the payment to the parties above mentioned, or any of them, of any portion of the unexpended proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, under the act of the legislature of Florida approved June 24th, 1869, and the amendments thereto; or for the payment to any of said parties of any other moneys by said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, from any other source which said agreement may provide for the payment of.

8th. That the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the successors of each of them, and the said corporations, be enjoined from leasing said roads, or either of them, or any part thereof, to John Scriven or his associates, or to the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company, or any other person or corporation, until the ownership of the stock of said companies be determined by the court, and until duly qualified directors and other officers of said companies have been elected by the votes of holders of a legal and bona fide majority of shares of stock, to be ascertained and determined by the court; and that under all circumstances the said corporations, and their officers, respectively, be enjoined from leasing said railroads on terms violative of the rights or interests of any stockholder or creditor, or violative of the law governing said corporations, and that if any lease has already been made that it be vacated and set aside.

9th. That the defendants Aaron Barnett, M. D. Papy and Edward Houstoun be enjoined from selling, transferring, assigning, pledging, making advances upon, or charging, or otherwise disposing 740 of or encumbering any of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or any of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company's bonds, or of the Tallahassee Railroad Company's bonds, or any of the bonds of the State of Florida, which they, or either of them, may hold or control in the manner hereinbefore set forth, and especially that the said Barnett may be enjoined from selling, assigning, transferring, hypothecating, charging, making advances upon, or otherwise disposing of or encumbering any of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which he holds or held in trust, by indenture to him by M. S. Littlefield executed on or about the 19th of May, 1871, to secure the Gulf Steamship Company in certain undertakings then had by and between said Littlefield and said Gulf Steamship Company. And that said Papy, Houstoun, and Barnett be enjoined from voting any of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's, or Florida Central Railroad Company's stock, in any meeting of stockholders of said companies, or either of them.

10th. That said Milton S. Littlefield be enjoined, until further order of the court, from selling, transferring, assigning, pledging, or otherwise disposing of or encumbering any of the stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or in the Florida Central Railroad Company, owned or claimed by him, or in which he has, or claims to have, an interest, legal or equitable.

That he be enjoined from voting, in any stockholders' meeting, any stock in either of said companies which was purchased or paid for, in part or in whole, directly or indirectly, with any money or assets of said railroad corporations, or either of them. And that he be required to deliver to a receiver, to be appointed by the court, all such stocks and bonds, to be held subject to the judgment in this suit.

11th. That the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the president of each of said companies, and the said Milton S. Littlefield, and said Aaron Barnett, be enjoined, until the further order of this court, from using or in any wise disturbing the bonds of the State of Florida, if unsold, or their proceeds if sold, which were issued in exchange for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

12th. That the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida be enjoined from proceeding in their said suit, or upon their alleged cause of action, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, till they have exhausted George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield. And that they be enjoined from proceeding at all, and under any circumstances, against the Florida Central Railroad Company.

13th. That the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the said Florida Central Railroad, be taken out of the hands of the receiver appointed in said suit of said trustees and that they be put in the custody and control of a receiver, to be appointed for the purposes of this suit; and that the order in said suit appointing a receiver be vacated; and that the earnings of said roads, and all property of said companies in the hands of the receiver, appointed at the instance of the said trustees, be delivered and paid to the receiver herein prayed 741 to be appointed.

14th. That Aaron Barnett be required to deliver and pay to the receiver herein prayed for, or to such other person as the court may name, the money received by him out of the proceeds of bonds of the State of Florida issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or out of the funds or assets of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, with interest thereon from the time of his receiving the same.

15th. That a receiver, or receivers, be appointed for the purposes of this suit, with the necessary and usual powers, and that he or they be instructed and empowered as herein prayed.

16th. That the plaintiff may have such other relief as may be just and requisite for the protection or enforcement of his rights, and that he may recover his costs in this suit.

J. FRED SHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., February 8th, 1871.

Messrs. HOLJE BOISSEVAIN,
Bankers, Amsterdam, Holland:

GENTLEMEN: On December 18th, 1870, Governor Harrison Reed, of Florida, received a telegraphic dispatch from you substantially as follows:

"Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment interest, whatever result railroad traffic. Financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?"

To this dispatch Governor Reed replied as follows:

"Bonds recently recalled by the company, no provision will therefore be made for interest."

743 It was hoped that Governor Reed's telegram would have the effect of causing the bonds to be returned, as the railroad companies desired they should be. This has not been done, but on the contrary more bonds than were then out have been sent to Europe for negotiation, though no money I infer has yet been realized. I feel it to be my duty, therefore, to make a statement of facts to you, which I hope that you will lay before others who may be interested with you in the negotiations.

When the legislature of Florida enacted the laws under which the bonds your telegram inquired about were issued, it was believed by the two railroad companies, hereafter named, that the proceeds of the State bonds when sold would be honestly and legitimately applied to the extension, through the western portion of this State, of the lines of railroad already built from the eastern to the middle portion. That extension was so much desired by the two companies owning the completed railroads that they were willing to mortgage, and did mortgage, their roads to the State, in order to secure the issuing of State bonds upon which to raise money to enable the newly organized company to build said extension. The railroads which so pledged their mortgage bonds to the State were the Florida Central Railroad, sixty miles long, and the Tallahassee Railroad, one hundred and fifty miles long. The former gave its mortgage bonds to the amount of one million dollars, the latter to the amount of three million dollars: and this latter road consolidated its line with that proposed to be built westward from the completed road, and the two companies became one, under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. But the Florida Central Railroad, commencing at Jacksonville and running westward sixty miles, was not included in the consolidation. Subsequently, and after three million of the State bonds had been sent to Europe, it was discovered that the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who had been active in procuring the legislation and inducing the completed roads to give to the State their bonds in exchange for the State's bonds which were issued to him, had made, even before he got the bonds, secret contracts with some of his creditors, by which the larger portion of the proceeds were to be diverted from the purposes for which the bonds were issued, and were to be applied in payment of individual debts. This produced such dissatisfaction, and caused such investigations by the companies which had mortgaged their roads to the State, as resulted in both of the companies, through their several directories, rescinding the action by which their roads were mortgaged, and recalling the bonds. The million of bonds issued by the State, on the security of a like amount pledged to the State by the Florida Central Railroad, had not then gone into the hands of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but were held by a party till certain conditions precedent were performed, before delivery to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. That million of bonds then were returned to the State, and the bonds of the company, upon the security of which the others were issued, were withdrawn from deposit with the State, and were in the hands of the party already referred to, to be returned to the company for cancellation, when they were by that party, without the authority or knowledge of 744 the railroad company, or of any of its officers, and in violation of the company's resolutions of recall and rescission, delivered to an agent of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who by influences best known to himself effected with the governor of the State their re-exchange for the State bonds, which latter were hurriedly and secretly sent out of the State and to Europe before any legal process could be obtained for their detention. This re-delivery to the governor of Florida of the Florida Central Railroad Company's million of bonds is a gross fraud on that company, and none who are advised of it, and buy or advance money on the State's bonds for which they were exchanged, will have any legal or moral right to ask that they receive any benefit or advantage from the security so wrongfully obtained.

The same may be said of the three million of State's bonds issued on the pledge of the same amount of bonds of the Tallahassee or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. No one who, having notice of that company's rescission of its action and recall of its bonds, advances money on or buys the State's bonds for which the others were pledged, will have legally, or morally, any locus standi in curia as against that railroad company. The creditors and stockholders of the railroad companies will assert their right, resist the wrongs that have been perpetrated and attempted, and seek, successfully, redress in the judicial tribunals. You have had the above-mentioned action of the railroad companies brought to your notice by the telegram from Governor Reed, who sent it after consulting with the said companies, and at their instance, and you have incurred all the legal disqualifications to urge against the railroad companies any claim based on their supposed suretyship for any bonds of the State.

An examination of the law under which the State's bonds were issued discloses that the governor has caused half a million more of bonds to be issued than the law provides for. The law allows the issue of $16,000 per mile upon so much of said roads as may be completed and in running order; only 210 miles were, when the bonds were issued, completed, and only a mile and a half have been completed since, and no more is being completed. This would allow of an issue at the time it was made of only $3,360,000. Add the liberal allowance of ten miles for side tracks, &c., if such unreasonable construction of the law be claimed, and it legalizes only $3,520,000 of the bonds.

To secure the principal and interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's bonds (but not of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad), the law gives the State of Florida a statutory lien, valid as a first mortgage, on that company's road and property, and authorizes the governor, on failure of the company in any payment of principal or interest, to seize and sell the road at auction, and authorizes the State to purchase and to pay for it with any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against the road, while every other bidder would, in case of purchase, have to pay cash. This summary process is not applicable to the Florida Central Railroad, but to the other road only. What would be the result in case of failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to pay principal or interest on its bonds?

The State, if no resistance, or if unsuccessful resistance through 745 the courts were had, might seize, sell, and buy, paying for the purchase with the road's obligations, while the State might not, perhaps could not, or would not, pay her own; nor is there any way known to our system of government by which a State can be compelled to pay its obligations. You will thus perceive the character of the securities offered you, and the taints of fraud that affected them from their first issue, and that still do, and will act advisedly. This communication is made in the interests of the stockholders of the companies whose bonds have, by misrepresentation and bad faith, been obtained and exchanged with the State of Florida for the State's bonds, which you have been, and may still be, negotiating for. The stockholders do not intend to submit to the fraud which has been attempted on them. They seek to have the State's bonds brought back, and a re-exchange effected, and it is to that end that this letter is written. Such a course will prevent litigation. Persistence in the wrong will insure it. Attempts may be made to give credit to the bonds by professional and perhaps by judicial opinions from this State, but the facts that I state are incontestible, and I can give you much more and more detailed information concerning the worthlessness of the securities that you are negotiating for, and I will do so if desired. But I have said enough to make discreet men repudiate the securities and abandon negotiations.

I will say further that since the mortgage of the railroads to the State, 128 miles of the completed road, being all except twenty-two miles on which the State has any statutory lien, have been sold by the United States under a judicial process in their favor, issued from a United States court; thus divesting the company's title, and vesting it in the individual purchaser. That sale of course relieves that much of the road of the lien created in favor of the State of Florida by the mortgage before mentioned. You are at liberty to show this letter to whom you please, and to give it the widest publicity, and will oblige me by acknowledging its receipt. I will presume on a very slight acquaintance, to refer you, touching myself, to Hon. H. S. Sanford (late U. S. minister to Belgium) at Brussels.

Respectfully,

E. M. L'ENGLE,

Of Counsel for the Florida Central Railroad Company.

746 EXHIBIT C.

In the U. S. circuit court.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

At a meeting of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held November 21, 1870, upon motion of Mr. Papy, a committee was appointed to take in consideration the past issue of bonds, and also to report upon the policy of issuing bonds of the company and the amount.

The president appointed Messrs. Papy, Baker, and Huling said committee.

The board then adjourned to 4 p. m.

4 p. m.—The directors convened pursuant to adjournment, Colonel Sanderson, president, in the chair.

Mr. Papy presented the following report:

The committee finding that the bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are in such form as that they cannot be used to carry out the intention of their 747 issue when they were adopted, report the following resolution in respect thereto:

Resolved, That the resolution adopting the bonds to be issued by this company, signed by George W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, at a meeting of the board of directors held on the 2d of June, A. D. 1870, be, and the same is hereby, rescinded, and that said bonds be destroyed.

M. D. PAPY,

Chairman.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foster, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Papy made the following report:

The committee report the following resolutions in reference to the issue of bonds of the company and the securing the same:

Resolved, That the president cause bonds, payable to bearer, to be prepared, signed, and executed in due form, which shall be issued for purposes of the company, not exceeding seven hundred thousand dollars in amount, with interest at seven per centum per annum, not having more than thirty years to run, with coupons, for interest, attached, payable in New York semi-annually.

Resolved, That said bonds and the interest thereon shall be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, workshops, depots, franchises, and property of every kind; and that the president cause to be prepared and executed such deed of trust or other necessary instrument of writing, under the seal of this company, as may be needful to make the first lien or mortgage in favor of said bonds, and the interest thereon, effectual to all intents.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Huling the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Adjourned to 4 o'clock next day, at which time the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this board approve of the form of the trust deed read to the directors to secure the first lien or mortgage of the bonds and interest thereon authorized to be issued, and that the president of this company is authorized to select the trustees to whom said deed is to be made, not to exceed three in number.

Adopted.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy from the records of the board of directors.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY
et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

At a meeting of the directors of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, held December 10th, A. D. 1870, the following preamble and resolutions were offered and adopted:

"Whereas bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company have been issued according to the provisions of the act incorporating this company, and the amendments thereto, which bonds have been exchanged for bonds of the State of Florida, according to the provisions of said act. And whereas said bonds of the State of Florida were delivered by the governor to the president of this company. And whereas though previous to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with this company, authority was granted by the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to its president to issue, negotiate, dispose of and apply the bonds for the purpose authorized by the act of incorporation, no action was had thereon after such consolidation, either by the stockholders or directors, then newly elected, authorizing the issue or disposal of bonds. And whereas though no such action was formally taken, yet the stockholders and directors were advised that bonds had been issued and exchanged for an equal amount of State bonds, and were in the hands of the president to be disposed of and applied, as they supposed, according to the law authorizing their issue, and they were satisfied therewith if a proper application was to be made thereof; and whereas the directors are now advised that a contract was made by the president and George W. Swepson, as president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and certain persons as commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, which contract was executed in April last, by which the bonds of the State of Florida, taken in exchange for the bonds of this company, were to be disposed of, and the proceeds to be divided, according to the terms of said contract, between the above-named Florida railroads and the commissioners aforesaid, dollar for dollar, until an amount of over one million of dollars, with interest, should be paid to said commissioners. And whereas said contract was unknown to the directors, and is in violation of the law of this State authorizing the issue of said bonds, and is a misapplication of said bonds or their proceeds: Therefore, be it 749 "Resolved, That all authority in the president of this company to dispose of or negotiate said bonds is hereby withdrawn.

"Resolved further, That a demand be made upon the president, or whomsoever else may have possession, control, or custody of said bonds, to return the same to the treasurer of this company forthwith.

"Resolved further, That a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolutions be communicated by the secretary to S. W. Hopkins & Co., 71 Broadway, New York, and 58 Broad street, London, and to the president of this company, and whomsoever else may have said bonds or any part thereof, in their hands or control."

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy from the minutes of the board.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

OFFICE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD,
Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 28th, 1873.

E. M. L'ENGLE,
Managing Director Florida Central Railroad Company:

MY DEAR SIR: In 1869 I purchased of A. Huling lots at Jacksonville, Florida, deeds of which were made to the Florida Central Railroad Company. I paid the money, $5,000; also, in 1869, I paid several thousand dollars to the late President Sanderson to pay for the locomotives Lee and Stonewall, none of which has been refunded to me, nor has the company taken any action on either case. While I know the condition of the company is such that they cannot now refund, I do not call for immediate repayment, but I do want some action taken by the company in relation to the future payment.

There being a meeting of the board of directors called, I address this note to you, that it may be called up for action.

Truly yours,

M. S. LITTLEFIELD.

751 EXHIBIT F.

In the circuit court, fourth judicial circuit of Florida, Duval County.

In the name of the State of Florida: To Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Julia B. Coffin, William Redmond, Henry Gourdin, Geo. M. Merrill, F. Parker, C. B. Coddington, Louis J. Dupre, Charles B. Fenwick, and Edward M. L'Engle, stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company:

Whereas it has been suggested to us by the petition of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, or corporation, created by and under the laws of the State of North Carolina, that it is in equity and good conscience the owner of four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of stock of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, claimed to be owned by you, the said Milton S. Littlefield, said stock being a large majority of all the stock of said last-named company; that said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company has now depending in the circuit 752 court of the United States for the northern district of Florida its bill in equity, wherein it avers its right to said stock, and seeks to maintain the same; that a long period of time must elapse before the said suit can be determined and a final decree obtained thereon; that in the meantime the interests of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company in the said stock, as well as the property of all kinds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, is suffering serious detriment; that the forfeiture of its franchise may occur and take place; that the interest of the people of the State of Florida in the said railroad as a public thoroughfare of trade, travel, and commerce, and in the preservation of said franchise, as well as the aforesaid interest of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company therein, is exposed to the hazard of irreparable damage, and perhaps of entire destruction; that the said railroad is in pressing need of repairs, and that no material for such repairs can be obtained by reason of the failure, neglect, and refusal of you the said stockholders of the said Florida Central Railroad Company to assemble together and elect directors of the said Florida 753 Central Railroad Company, and that it is made the duty of you the said stockholders of said company, by the charter thereof, to meet once in each year and elect nine directors of said company, and that said directors being so elected shall thereupon choose a president, &c. And whereas it is further suggested by the petition of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, that no election of such directors, president, or other officers has been had or holden by you for more than two years last past; and that you the said Littlefield, and other stockholders, did on the 29th day of January, A. D. 1877, meet at the principal office of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in the city of Jacksonville, for the averred purpose of electing directors and other officers, as provided in the said charter; that the said meeting was adjourned without said election, and still stands adjourned, and so continues from day to day, upon the pretense, on the part of you, or some of you, that the corporate seal and stock-book of the said Florida Central Railroad Company stock standing in the name of the said Littlefield and not now in his possession, although the said Littlefield (as suggested in said petition) has heretofore represented said stock at the regular election of directors of said company.

And whereas it is further suggested by the said petition that without the interposition of this court by the process of mandamus, the intent of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company in the said Florida Central Railroad Company and its franchise and property of all kinds, as well as the interests of the people of the State of Florida therein, hereinbefore set forth, are in great jeopardy, exposed to the hazard of irreparable damage, and perhaps entire destruction, as well as for divers other good and sufficient reasons, in the said petition expressed, (for the more particular detail of which reference is here made to the said petition.) we, being willing that full and speedy justice should be done in the premises, do command you, or such number of you as may be found to be the owners or holders together of 755 stock of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, amounting in the aggregate to more than one-half of all the stock of said company, that is to say, to more than one-half of five thousand five hundred & fifty shares thereof; that you do meet and assemble together at the principal office of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in the city of Jacksonville aforesaid, on the 27th day of February, A. D. 1877, and that you then and there proceed to the election of nine directors for the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that you do then and there choose and elect from among the stockholders of said company the said nine directors, and that such of you as may be thus elected directors shall then and there choose and elect from among this number a president and such others officers as by the provisions of said charter they may be required to elect, said directors to be so elected to serve until the first Tuesday of May, A. D. 1877, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and that in all things you do observe the 756 charter of said company and the provisions thereof, or else that you appear before me at the court-house in the said city of Jacksonville, at 10 o'clock a. m. on the 26th day of February, A. D. 1877, to show cause why you refuse to do so. It is further ordered that notice of this order be published at least three times each week in a newspaper published in the city of Jacksonville, Florida, until the 26th day of February, 1877.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

This memorandum of contract and agreement, made and entered into this day between Edward Houstoun, party of the first part, and Milton S. Littlefield, party of the second part, witnesseth: That Edward Houstoun has this day sold to Milton S. Littlefield four drafts drawn by George W. Swepson on Milton S. Littlefield, dated August 2, 1869, and accepted by said Littlefield, one for twenty-six thousand five hundred and twenty dollars ($26,520), due at six months; one for twenty-seven thousand and thirty dollars ($27,030), due at nine months; one for twenty-seven thousand five hundred and forty dollars ($27,540), 762 due at fifteen months, and that said Houstoun has this day sold to said Littlefield one thousand three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. In payment for said drafts and said stocks, said Littlefield has paid said Houstoun ten thousand dollars in cash, and the drafts of said Littlefield, of this date, on S. W. Hopkins & Co., of 71 Broadway, N. Y., for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and seventy and twenty hundredths dollars, due sixty days from date. To secure the payment of said draft of $163,070 20-100, it is agreed that said Houstoun shall retain possession of said four drafts by George W. Swepson on said Littlefield, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, now in his possession as collateral, and in addition thereto, said Littlefield hereby obligates himself immediately to deposit with F. H. Porter, of the banking-house of Soutter & Co., 53 William street, New York, certificate of stock for 3,110 shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, with directions to said Porter to hold said certificates till said draft of $163,070 20 100 shall fall due, and then if said draft is not promptly paid within ten days after it falls due, to deliver said certificate to said Houstoun, or his order, and in the event said certificate shall be so delivered to said Houstoun, he is hereby authorized to sell the said three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at public auction to the highest bidder, on mailing to the address of M. S. Littlefield, Tallahassee, Florida, and to the address of George W. Swepson, Haw River, North Carolina, and to the address of S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York, notice of the time and place of such sale in the city of New York, ten days previously to day of sale, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

On the payment of said drafts said Houstoun hereby obligates himself to transfer the said shares of stock hereby sold, to deliver to said Littlefield the said 1,300 shares of stock sold, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which Houstoun now holds as collateral security for the payment of said four drafts, together with all the coupons on said bonds falling due from and after the 20th of March, 1869.

This is understood and intended to be a full, complete and final settlement of all matters between either George W. Swepson or M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun.

In testimony of all which, the parties aforesaid have hereunto set their hands and seals, at Tallahassee, Florida, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1870.

It is also agreed that the one hundred and three thousand dollars of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the Tallahassee Railroad, which said Houstoun has heretofore held as security for draft in his favor, given by M. S. Littlefield, president, &c., on S. W. Hopkins & Co.. dated May 13th, 1870, be also depositited with M. D. Papy, to be delivered only on the same terms and directions as declared with respect to the delivery of the said stock certificates aforesaid.

It is agreed, in addition, that the delivery of said certificates and said bonds is not to be made to said Littlefield unless, in addition to the requirements aforesaid, the suit instituted in New York against said Edward Houstoun and others, by the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, claiming the stock represented by said certificates, No. 80 for three thousand one hundred and ten shares, and the suits brought against said Houstoun by T. L. Clingman in Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and by Rogers and Bayne and L. P. Bayne, in New York, shall have been dismissed.

It is further agreed, that the four drafts of George W. Swepson on M. S. Littlefield, accepted by Littlefield, and amounting in the aggregate to the sum of one hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty dollars, exclusive of interest thereon, be likewise deposited with M. D. Papy, and are not to be delivered to said Littlefield unless and until directed to do so by said S. W. Hopkins.

Said Edward Houstoun has delivered to said S. W. Hopkins three certificates of stock of said Florida Central Raialroad Company—one, No. 77, in the name of James M. Baker, for ten shares, transferred in blank by said Baker; one, No. 78, in name of George R. Foster, for ten shares, transferred in blank by said Foster, and one, No. 82, in name of Edward Houstoun, for twenty shares, transferred in blank, making together forty shares. The said certificates are delivered to said Hopkins in order that they may be transferred to enable persons to become directors in said Florida Central Railroad Company, but the same are to be held by whomsoever said Hopkins directs as part of the securities growing out of the advance made by said Hopkins & Co., to take up the draft in favor of said Houstoun, given by M. S. Littlefield, and the new certificates in lieu thereof are likewise to delivered to M. D. Papy, and are to be subject to the joint direction of said Hopkins and Littlefield, or of either of them, in favor of the other, as prescribed in regard to the other certificates and bonds deposited with M. D. Papy as aforesaid.

Witness my hand this 12th day of April, 1871.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

In the circuit court, fifth circuit of the United States, northern district of Florida. In equity.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Lawrence P. Bayne, Henry J. Rogers, Thomas L. Clingman, Fanny S. Papy, as executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased; Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and T. Mayhew Cunningham.

Now comes the complainant, by E. M. L'Engle, his counsel, and moves the court for the appointment of a trustee or trustees in the 766 place of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, to hold the shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, mentioned in the bill. And came also the defendants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Thomas L. Clingman, Lawrence P. Bayne, and Henry J. Rogers, by Joseph B. Stewart, their attorney, and consented to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants, Fanny S. Papy, as executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, and made no objection to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants, Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and T. Mayhew Cunningham, who had made defaults, and after argument of counsel and consideration by the court, it is decreed and adjudged that Mariano D. Papy was, in his lifetime, the trustee of the four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, described as follows; that is to say:

100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 40, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 41, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 42, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 43, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 44, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 45, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 47, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 48, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 49, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 50, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 51, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 57, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Eliza Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 58, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Claudia Houstoun.
20 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 59, standing in the name of James P. S. Houstoun.
30 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 79, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
3,110 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 80, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

Four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of said stock.

767 It is further decreed that said trust still subsists for the purposes set forth in the indenture creating it, and for the further purposes of this suit, and that the office of trustee has been made vacant by the death of said Mariano D. Papy.

It is, therefore, further ordered and decreed that A. Doggett, esquire, of the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, State of Florida, be and he is hereby appointed trustee of the said four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company in the place and stead of the said Mariano D. Papy, to hold the same upon the trusts declared in the indenture mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, whereby the said trust was created and the said Mariano D. Papy appointed trustee; and further to hold the same for the purposes of this suit and until the further order of this court, and subject to the orders and decrees of Judge Woods in this behalf.

It is further ordered that the decrees pro confesso heretofore taken against the defendants, James P. S. Houstoun, Raymond M. Demere, and James H. Johnson, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and against James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and against T. Mayhew Cunningham, be opened, and that the said defendant be allowed to answer the said bill by the rule day of June, 1877, on the following terms and not otherwise, that is to say, that the said defendants file in this cause, with the clerk of this court, the above-mentioned certificates of shares of said capital stock which were taken from the possession of the trustee, Mariano D. Papy, at the suit of Edward Houstoun, deceased, as set forth in the bill filed in this cause.

Stockholders' meeting.

OFFICE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY,
March 20, 1877.

The meeting convened pursuant to adjournment, a majority of the stock being represented.

E. M. L'Engle was called to the chair, and C. B. Fenwick acted as secretary.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The following preamble and resolutions were presented by J. B. Stewart, esq., and adopted without dissent:

Whereas the Florida Central Railroad Company has, for several years, been involved in ruinous litigation, arising from conflicting claims to the possession or control of its road and other property, and to a majority of its shares of capital stock, which litigation and the causes thereof still continue and have involved the said company in indebtedness greater than the company is able to pay from its net earnings in the present condition of its property;

And whereas the iron and rolling-stock of said company's railroad is worn out and inadequate to the demands of its business;

And whereas the preservation of said company's existence, as a common carrier, demands that the above mentioned conflicting claims be adjusted, and said litigation be terminated, and said indebtedness be paid, that new iron and new and sufficient rolling-stock and material be provided; therefore, be it

Resolved, That for the purposes above recited this company shall issue forthwith coupon bonds of the par value of $1,000 each, due thirty years after date, to an amount not exceeding $590,000, bearing seven per cent. interest per annum, principal and interest being payable in gold—which bonds shall be secured in their payment by a first-mortgage lien on all the property of said company.

Be it further resolved, That the bonds to be issued in accordance with the resolution of the stockholders of this company be appropriated to the several purposes recited in the said resolution in such amounts as the directory shall determine.

Florida State bonds.

TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, June, 1871.

To Chairman States and Corpor'tions Arrears Committee, 193, 194, 195,
Gresham House, London:

SIR: It is understood here that General M. S. Littlefield, the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a corporation existing under the laws of Florida, Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., financial agents and representatives of the corporation, and perhaps others in the same interest, are endeavoring, with a prospect of success, to negotiate a sale of a very large number of bonds of the State of Florida, issued under the provisions of the act of the legislature of this State, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," and subsequent acts amending the acts named.

It is only fair that capitalists who have been induced to think favorably of these State bonds as an investment should be informed as to the character of the securities in which they are about to embark their means, and the purpose of this letter is to place you, and through you others concerned, in possession of such facts connected with the history of these bonds, and the law under which they were issued, as it may be to their interest to know.

776 The Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, were railroad corporations existing under the laws of this State. These corporations having availed themselves of the benefits of the act of the legislature of this State, commonly called the internal improvement act, approved January 6th, 1855, and having failed afterwards to comply with its requirements, by payments of the semi-annual interest and sinking fund due upon the debt contracted on account of the first-mortgage bonds issued by the companies under the provisions of the said act, these road-beds, property, and franchises were, in accordance with the requirements of the said act, taken possession of by the trustees of the internal improvement fund and sold, after due advertisement, to the highest bidder, on the day of , 1869. This sale was, in one essential feature, a fraud. The law permitted that the trustees sell either for cash, or for additional approved security, as they might think of most advantage to the fund and the first-mortgage bondholders, to satisfy whose claim the sale was made. In this case the trustees elected to sell for cash, and so advertised to the world up to the moment of sale. And the sale purported to be a cash sale. In point of fact, however, the purchasers did not pay cash, but only made partial payment by a surrender to the trustees of about $1,000,000 of the first mortgage bonds. The entire first-mortgage debt of the two companies was about $1,473,000, and this payment of $1,000,000 in the bonds left a balance due upon the price bid which was in amount equal to the entire bonded debt, of about $473,000, which amount on payment would have been at once applicable to take up and pay off the balance of bonds outstanding, about $473,000 in amount. The trustees, however, delivered possession of the railroad property to the purchasers upon this partial compliance by them with the terms (cash) of the sale. This indebtedness, which has never been paid except in small part (there being still about $300,000 of first-mortgage bonds outstanding and unsatisfied), has a legal priority, and has been always so recognized by the parties now in possession, through this purchase, as a first lien, anterior to all others now existing, or that may be created upon the property and franchise of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, (formerly, as will appear hereafter, the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies.) The parties in possession of the property have constantly promised payment, and doubtless have induced persons abroad to believe that they have already paid off this debt. After the sale of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, referred to above, the parties in possession, through this incomplete sale, procured the passage by the legislature of several acts for their benefit, and first among them, of the "Act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869. This act consolidated the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and incorporated the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and authorized aid to be given by the State of Florida to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by the issue to the company of bonds of the State to the amount of $14,000 per mile. The act, however, provided that the State, as a condition precedent to the issue of its bonds, should be made secure by a lien to be taken by the State upon the property and franchise of the corporation for whose benefit this aid 777 was to be given. This was a condition fixed by the act, and with this provision it passed the legislature; and when, some time after the act had passed, it appeared that by its fraudulent enrollment the provisions securing the State had been omitted, and that a forged law had been filed in the office of the Secretary of State, and officially published as a law of the State, certain citizens of the State, property-holders and tax-payers, filed their bill on the chancery side of the circuit court of Leon County, second judicial circuit of Florida, praying for an order of injunction against Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, and against S. B. Conover, treasurer of the State, and for an order of the court against these officers, to restrain and enjoin them from signing, countersigning, or delivering the bonds authorized by this fraudulent law, and from doing any acts whatever under the pretended act, upon the ground of the forgery and fraud practiced, in omitting from the enrolled bill the clause which required a security to the State, in the issue of its bonds by a mortgage upon the railroad property and franchise. You will readily perceive, in view of the fact that the balance of $473,000 first mortgage debt referred to was unpaid, that the purpose in this fraud was to relieve the railroad company of the necessity of paying off its existing incumbrances before getting the benefit of the funds to be raised on the State bonds.

The court acted favorably and at once upon this application, and granted, without hesitation, the injunction prayed for; and so patent was the fraud that no answer was ever made to the bill, and no effort was ever made to dissolve the injunction. So matters rested until the next convening of that great and good body of law-givers—the Florida legislature. This next legislature, which assembled on the day of , 1870, passed an act to alter and amend the aforesaid act, which last act validified and made of force the "Act to perfect the public works of the State," which had been enjoined, except as amended and modified by the last law. Under these two acts Messrs. Littlefield and associates, parties in present possession of the railroad property, are now endeavoring to raise money upon State bonds. These acts authorized the aid to be given to the corporation, but required, as a condition precedent to the granting this aid, and the delivery of the State bonds, that the State be made secure by a lien, to be taken in the manner pointed out by the acts, on the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad property and franchise, and of course that corporation could not be in a condition to comply with the requirement and give this lien until incumberances, already existing and resting on the property, should be removed by payment of the outstanding first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies.

That the statement as to this liability is correct there is not the least doubt, and in order to show you that it is admitted to be correct, I refer you to the annexed copy of a letter addressed by me to Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, to whom it was entrusted under the law to see that the State was protected before the delivery of its bonds, and his reply endorsed. In both the letter and the pledge endorsed in reply, the position is taken that the unpaid first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, outstanding, constitute a first-lien upon the railroad 778 property and franchise, and that no issue of the State bonds could or would be made until these lien incumberances, resting upon the property, should be removed by payment and satisfaction of the first-mortgage bonds outstanding, after which the company would acquire the power to mortgage unincumbered property to the State. Notwithstanding these admitted opinions of Governor Reed, this solemn, written pledge, and his full knowledge that this first-mortgage bonded indebtedness outstanding against the railroad was unpaid, after quieting the apprehensions of the holders of the unpaid first-mortgage railroad bonds by this pledge, he signed, at a time when he had lulled suspicion, and delivered the State bonds, thus imposing upon the State a security which he knew to be imperfect. Can you suppose that a vast indebtedness, placed upon a people already insolvent under these circumstances, will ever be paid?

The principal security which those who may invest in the bonds of this State will have, must be that security which has been given to the State. The principal security for any investment to be made in railroad securities of this State must be the road-bed and franchise. In the light of the past and present history of this State, you cannot rely either upon its willingness or ability to pay a security of the character of these bonds when all the benefits result to stockholders in the corporation. In this case, the chief security being incumbered by prior mortgages, it is clearly the interest of the purchaser of the State bonds to see that such an amount of the money paid as may be necessary be applied to the discharge of this prior indebtedness. The bonds representing this prior incumbrance may be purchased at reasonable rates, but they will not be sacrificed by the holders. In the meantime suit has been instituted and is now pending in the United States circuit court for the district of Florida, for the purpose of subjecting the railroad property to sale, unless the original first-mortgage debt outstanding be paid up. You may have been advised that the purchaser of the State bonds will have nothing to do with the corporation, and may look entirely to the State; but a very little reflection must show the error into which this view may lead those who may purchase the State bonds. It is true, a bond of this character is a State bond, and imports a State liability; but the law makes no specific provisions by which the holder of the bond can collect either the principal or interest from the State, and in the absence of such a provision any intelligent lawyer will advise you that the bondholder has no remedy in the courts by which principal or interest can be collected by judicial process from the people or out of their property. And even if such provision existed as a part of the law, it could not be enforced in a case where the bonds have been issued by means of a fraud upon that requirement of it which stipulates that the State should have been made secure by a good lien on unincumbered property as a precedent condition.

The sole reliance, then, of a holder of State bonds must be the good faith of the State, and that good faith under all the circumstances connected with the issue of these bonds will not be measured by the letter of the contract, but will be fixed entirely by the value of the security which the corporation has placed in the hands of the State, to indemnify it against loss, and that security should be the road-bed and franchise of the road itself, unsaddled by anterior laws.

I especially direct attention, in connection with this consideration 779 of the State's security, to the provisions of section 13 of the "Act to perfect the public works of the State," which gives to the railroad company the privilege of paying off and discharging the lien taken by the State, at any time before maturity of the debt, in the State's own paper, now immensely depreciated by reason of the great quantity issued during the past few years beyond its capacity to pay. It is very evident, and ought to be patent to every one who will be at the pains to examine this provision, that it is to the interest of the railroad company to depreciate all the paper of the State—to depreciate the very bonds they are now selling, and the moment the bonds shall be sold, Littl'field and associates will become the enemies of the holders; for their interest will clearly be to buy up the paper of the State—these very bonds will answer as good a purpose as any other, and thus relieve their mortgage to the State, and the result will be that the purchasers will be left looking to the State, when the security of the State is gone. Littlefield to-day can force $500,000 of State bonds upon the market and buy them at 25 cents, and can with them destroy the State security to the extent of a half million. You may rest assured that to that extent the people will think your bonds should be retired also. You must perceive that it would be great folly to make any investment in the State bonds, unless those investing shall secure an application of a sufficient amount of the money paid, to a settlement of the incumbrances existing on the railroad property on account of the original first-mortgage bonded debt now outstanding.

But even after this shall have been done, it concerns the interest of capitalists to reflect upon the following facts, additional to those already set forth.

1. The people of Florida have not the ability to pay this debt.

2. The legislature which passed the acts referred to did not, to any extent, represent the tax-payers and property-holders of the State, and the legislature which fixed this indebtedness upon the State was notoriously corrupt, and in the interest of a few railroad speculators, not identified even by citizenship with the people of Florida; and these men manipulated the votes of the legislators by corruption so open and flagrant that there are at this time indictments pending in the circuit court of Leon County against several of the legislators for receiving, and against General Littlefield for paying, bribes to secure the passage of the very acts under the provisions of which these State bonds were issued.

3. The whole series of acts, both in and out of the legislature, including and beginning with the sale of railroads referred to in the first part of this communication, connected with the issue of these State bonds, has been dishonest, flagrantly corrupt, and going solely to aggrandize Littlefield, Hopkins, and a few others, their co-schemers and confederates; and it cannot be matter of surprise that the entire property-holding and tax-paying part of the people of Florida are not only adverse but hostile to the payment of a debt which they know to have been put upon the State by the combined fraud of their governor, their indigent legislators, and a set of sharks and financial free-lances, under the leadership of Milton S. Littlefield, now president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. The people of this State, while they earnestly desire the success of any railroad enterprise regret if foreign capitalists should make so injudicious an investment as a purchase of these State bonds must be. The State bonds, without the road as a security available for the benefit of the bondholders (which now is not the case), amount to nothing. And if there be any truth in a report now current, that certain persons abroad have been already induced to make advances upon the State bonds, they should require such legislation to be had as will enable them to get this security. As a matter of course, they can, by refusing to advance further, force the corporation to make any just contract within its corporate powers, or that the legislature will authorize. If the holders of the State bonds had the simple authority to exchange securities with the State it would be a great advantage to them. It is certainly advisable, at any rate, that they get all the security they can. One hundred and sixty miles of completed road, after being relieved of its existing incumbrances, can certainly be made a good security for the cost of constructing a road of same distance, and this, with a mortgage also upon the newly constructed road, will be safe security. I ask that these suggestions may be considered.

Respectfully,

T. W. BREVARD, JR.,
Counsel for holders of first-mortgage bonds of P. & G. & T. R. R. Cos.

P. S.—I enclose herewith copies of the acts of the legislature referred to in the above communication, as officially published; also majority report of a committee of the assembly of the legislature of Florida, appointed under resolutions of that body to examine and take evidence concerning the conduct of Harrison Reed, governor, pending proceedings then inaugurated to impeach the governor upon charges of corruption in office, certain portions of which will be of some interest to you in connection with the history of the railroad manipulations to which reference is made in the above.

TALLAHASSEE, February 21, 1870.

His Excellency HARRISON REED,
Governor of Florida:

DEAR SIR: On behalf of parties holding original first-mortgage bonds of the (late) Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, I have been authorized to institute legal proceedings by an application for an injunction to restrain the issue of the State bonds in exchange for first-mortgage bonds upon the railroad property under the provisions of the act of the legislature passed at its late session, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act to perfect the public works of the State," the parties whom I represent apprehending that by such issue of bonds as that proposed by the said law their rights of lien would be imperiled.

I am satisfied, however, that such proceedings will not be necessary if your excellency shall agree with me in the following proposi-
781 tions, viz: (1st), That the original first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which remain outstanding and unpaid, incumber the said property with a lien prior to all others now existing, or that may be created; and (2d), That there can be properly no issue of first-mortgage bonds upon the said property until the outstanding unpaid first-mortgage bonds of the original issue shall be paid up (at the pro rata valuation fixed by the sale) and cancelled.

I am sure that should your excellency agree with me in these views, no bonds of the State will be signed and delivered to the parties who are the beneficiaries under the said act until after a redemption of the outstanding bonds referred to, in which event the right of the new company to rebond the property cannot be disputed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. W. BREVARD, JR.

Reply endorsed:

"I concur in the view of Colonel Brevard, and shall issue no bonds under the new law until the lien upon the road is satisfied."

(Signed) "HARRISON REED,
Governor."

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Answer of E. M. L'Engle.

Articles of impeachment, exhibited by the assembly of the State of Florida, in the name of themselves and of all the people of Florida, against Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, in maintenance and support of their impeachment against him for high crimes and misdemeanors in office, for incompetency and malfeasance, and conduct detrimental to good morals.

ARTICLE I. That said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, of his oath of office, and of the requirement of the constitution that he shall see that the laws are faithfully executed, did unlawfully and in violation of the constitution and laws of the State of Florida, cause to be issued, and did himself sign his official signature as governor, to a large number of State bonds to the amount of five hundred and twenty-eight thousand ($528,000) dollars in excess of the amount of bonds authorized to be issued by the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled an act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24, A. D. 1869, approved January 28, A. D. 1870, with intent, then and there, to violate the said act, whereby the said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, did then and there commit and was guilty of a high crime in office, of incompetency, and malfeasance.

ARTICLE II. That in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, of his oath of office, and in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and contrary to the provisions of an act entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled an act to perfect the public works
783 of the State," approved June 24, A. D. 1869, approved January
28, 1870, did then and there, with intent to violate the constitution of the State and the act aforesaid, and without authority of law, fraudulently conspire to issue State bonds to the amount of one million of dollars ($1,000,000) for the purpose of purchasing the stock of the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the use and benefit of persons and parties, and with full knowledge of and consent to said purpose, and in collusion with such persons and parties, for his and their pecuniary benfit, whereby said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, did then and there commit, and was guilty of a high crime in office, and of incompetency and malfeasance.

ARTICLE III. That said Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, and of his oath of office, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, at Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, did cause to be issued and did himself sign his official signature, as governor, to one million dollars of State bonds, for the purpose of purchasing the stock of the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the use and benefit of persons and parties, contrary to and in violation of the constitution of the State of Florida, and of the laws of the State of Florida, and especially in violation of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24, A. D. 1869, approved January 28, A. D. 1870, and with intent to violate the laws of the State of Florida, and especially said act, whereby the said Harrison Reed, govornor of the State of Florida, did then and there commit, and was guilty of a high crime in office, and of incompetency and malfeasance.

ARTICLE IV. That Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, in Tallahassee, in the State of Florida, unmindful of the high duties of his office, and of his oath of office, and in violation of the constitution and laws of the State, and especially of an act entitled "An act to alter and amend, &c.," did cause to be issued, and did himself sign his official signature, as governor, to four million dollars of State bonds, for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in the State of Florida, having full notice of the fraudulent title of said company to the property of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, and with intent to violate the constitution and laws of the State of Florida, and especially of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida entitled "An act to alter and amend an act entitled an act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24, A. D. 1869, approved January 28, 1870, whereby the said Harrison Reed, governor, &c.

J. FRED SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, ADRIANUS Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, et al., complainants,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, et al., defendants.

The defendant, the Florida Central Railroad Company, by protestation, not admitting the matters and things alleged in complainants' bill to be true in point of fact, or good and sufficient in law to be answered unto, for answer to the same, or such parts thereof as this defendant is advised it is material for it to answer, says:

I. This defendant is advised it is true that the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads were sold by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida on the 20th of March, 1869, as alleged in paragraph I of complainants' bill.

II. This defendant has no knowledge whether said sale was fairly conducted or not, and neither admits nor denies the same.

III. It is admitted that F. Dibble and associates purchased said railroad at said sale, and received deeds for the property.

786 IV. This defendant has no knowledge of the alleged cancelling of bonds, or the giving of any promises to pay on the part of George W. Swepson, or his acting as agent for the trustees of the internal improvement fund, as alleged in paragraph IV of complainants' bill.

V. Defendant admits that F. Dibble and associates were incorporated after the said purchase, to wit, on the 24th day of June, 1869, into a body corporate and politic, as the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," but denies that said Dibble and associates ever conveyed the said railroads comprising the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, as incorporated in 1869, to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as alleged in paragraph V of complainants' bill, but avers the said Tallahassee Railroad Company consolidated its road with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which was incorporated on the same 24th day of June, 1869, as will better appear by the said articles of consolidation, dated on or about the 24th day of May, 1870, made part hereof, marked Schedule A.

VI. This defendant has no knowledge whatever about the exchange of bonds of any description being made by Harrison Reed, the governor of Florida, with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but is advised that the said allegations in that behalf, as made in the VI paragraph of complainants' bill, are false, and, therefore, denies the same, and demands proof thereof.

VII. This defendant has no knowledge as to whether the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company exchanged three thousand (3,000) of its bonds with the State of Florida for the bonds of 787 said State, but this defendant denounces and denies as utterly false the allegation in the VII paragraph of complainants' bill, that one thousand (1,000) of this defendant's bonds ever were at any time delivered to the State of Florida in exchange for bonds of said State, to be delivered to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or for any other purpose, and denies that this defendant ever issued any such bonds to be delivered to or exchanged with the said State, or for any other purpose.

VIII. This defendant denies the allegation in the VIII paragraph of the complainants' bill, as to this defendant ever having executed or authorized the execution of the bonds therein mentioned. And this defendant, further answering, avers that it never at any time authorized the creating or executing of the said 1,000 papers called bonds of this defendant, described in the complainants' bill.

That this defendant exists as a body corporate and politic under and by virtue of its charter, created by an act of the legislature of Florida, passed and approved on or about the 29th day of July, 1868, a copy of which is made part hereof, marked Schedule B. That said charter conferred no right or authority on this defendant to issue $1,000,000 of bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or for any other purposes. That no such body corporate as the last named company then existed, and did not until about a year later, to wit, the 24th day of June, 1869.

That the capital stock of this defendant was fixed by its corporators at about 5,550 shares of $1,000 each, representing a par value of about $555,000. That the railroad of this defendant extends from Jacksonville to Lake City, a distance of about sixty miles. That its said road was finished previous to the incorporation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Co., on the 24th of June, 1869, and before the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, incorporated on the same day, and hence had no necessity to create a debt of $1,000.000, paying 8 per cent. interest, or the enormous sum of $80,000 per annum, a sum of money wholly beyond its capacity to pay, 788 and that not for the benefit of this defendant, but for the alleged benefit of another corporation, over the affairs of which this defendant could exercise no control, and which bonds, constituting this destructive debt (about double its capital stock), this defendant could not secure the application of to the purpose for which it was pretended they were created.

And this defendant, further answering, denies that any meeting of stockholders ever was held whereby the said 1,000 papers, called bonds of this defendant, were authorized to be issued, or that such paper as complainants' Schedule B ever was in the custody of this defendant, or exhibited at any stockholders' or directors' meeting, or that any such bonds ever were known to or spread upon the records of this defendant, and defendant avers that said papers, called bonds, never were signed by any officer of this defendant, with its knowledge or by its authority. It is informed that George W. Swepson signed such papers fraudulently for his own purposes. That it was done without the authority or knowledge of this defendant, and not at its business office, nor in the State of Florida.

And defendant, further answering, states that the signature of H. H. Thompson was false and fraudulent, and his signing his name as treasurer of this defendant to said papers, called bonds, was a corrupt and forged signature for fraudulent purposes. That said Swepson, and Littlefield, and others, intending to create said bonds for their own use and purposes, and in order to conceal their intention and acts, did not venture to bring said pretended bonds to the attention of this defendant, or to procure the signature of the lawful and bona fide treasurer of this defendant, F. H. Flagg, who was then, and during the whole of said period, the treasurer of this defendant, and at all times present at his office ready to affix his signature to all lawfully and authorized papers, but that said so called bonds never were presented for his signature as treasurer, but, on the contrary, were carefully concealed and kept out of sight, as aforesaid.

That the corporate seal of this defendant was affixed to said so-called bonds without its authority, knowledge, or consent. This defendant is informed that said so-called bonds, after being so fabricated and fraudulently signed by said Swepson and Thompson, were delivered to said Edward Houstoun, as part of certain private transactions between said Houstoun, Swepson, and Littlefield, which were in no man-789 ner for the benefit of this defendant, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. That said pretended bonds of this defendant were, by those conspiring to have them uttered, carried secretly to a place near the office of this defendant, and those who had access to the corporate seal of this defendant were induced to take said seal out of its office, and to a place where said bonds were concealed, and then and there affix said seal to the same as a further means of fraudulently circulating said pretended bonds. All of which was done without the authority or knowledge of this defendant, as aforesaid.

That said bonds were never fully executed, there being two blanks on the face of the same, one as to where the said bonds were issued, and showing that they were not issued from the office of this defendant, then situated at Tallahassee, and a further blank as to the signature of the governor of the State of Florida, certifying that said pretended bonds were issued under the said act of the 28th of January, 1870, as required in order to complete and fully execute said bonds, and that the same are not and never were in such condition as to impart notice to persons dealing with the same, and that they are not the act and deed of this defendant, as will better appear by the inspection of said imperfect and unfinished paper, made part hereof, marked E.

IX. And this defendant, further answering, denies that it at any time was consolidated with, or formed part of, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and charges that all and singular the allegations of the complainants' bill in that behalf and all pretenses of consolidation are absolutely false; that there never was any stipulation or agreement made or entered into by and between this defendant and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Co. for the purpose of such consolidation, and never was any authority conferred by law upon this defendant authorizing such consolidation, even had the same been desired by this defendant, which was not the case.

That this defendant, in its corporate capacity, has been subject to many abuses at the hands of those who have, in disregard of law, trespassed upon its franchises and property as is now attempted to 790 be done by those conducting the suit in the name of the complainants, but this defendant denies that it has ever at any time been deprived of, or surrendered, its existence as a body politic and corporate, or that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company ever at any time acquired the right to make, execute, or circulate any debt, bond, or obligation as a charge upon the franchise and property of this defendant.

That this defendant never at any time issued or delivered any bond or promise to pay money to or for the use of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or to anybody to be applied to or for its use; and never by its president or other officer applied to the State of Florida for the exchange of any bonds in manner and form as alleged in complainants' bill, or otherwise. That the president of this defendant never executed or delivered to the governor of Florida any certificate, upon oath or otherwise, asking for any exchange of bonds under said act of the 28th of January, 1870, or any other act for the use of this defendant, or for the use of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Co., or for any other purpose; and that no bonds of the State of Florida ever were issued or delivered to the president of this defendant or to any one else for its use or benefit; or at its request to anybody else for the use and benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as falsely pretended in complainants' bill.

X. Further answering, on information, this defendant states, that after the fabricating and signing and sealing said pretended bonds of this defendant by the said Swepson and Thompson, the same were placed with said Houstoun pursuant to a certain private contract between said Houstoun and Littlefield, dated May 30, 1870, and that just three days after the date of said contract, to wit, on the 2d day of June, 1870, the said Littlefield, with other parties who were privy to the fraudulent intent, held what for their purposes they called a stockholders' meeting, and passed a pretended resolution adopting the said Swepson-Thompson bonds as the bonds of this defendant, and at the same time directed the same to be applied to the payment of private debts, but in no manner for the use and benefit of the said Jacksonville, Pen-791 sacola & Mobile Railroad Company; that said meeting was a mere fraud and scheme to serve the purposes of the said Houstoun, Littlefield, and others; that said meeting was not regularly convened according to the requirements of the law, and was not attended by bona fide stockholders.

That subsequent thereto, and about the 21st day of November, 1870, when the fraudulent character of said Swepson-Thompson bonds became known, the directors of this defendant passed a resolution ordering the said papers, called bonds, of this defendant to be destroyed, which resolution was made known to said Houstoun, who still had possession of said papers, called bonds, and also to the State of Florida, through its governor and comptroller. That after this resolution was passed, and due notice thereof given to said State of Florida and said Houstoun, the said State, through its governor, fraudulently and corruptly conspired with said Houstoun and one Thomas B. Coddington, whereby the said Coddington pretended to receive from said Houston, in trust and for his account, the said pretended one thousand bonds of this defendant, being the same bonds so fraudulently signed by said Swepson and Thompson, as aforesaid. The declared "trust" and "account" for which said bonds were received was to pay certain private debts specified in said trust receipt so signed by said Coddington, dated the 11th day of January, 1871, made part hereof, marked Schedule F.

XI. Further answering on information, this defendant says, with a full knowledge of the fact above stated, the State of Florida corruptly delivered to the said Coddington certain other papers, called bonds, of the State of Florida, which purported to be issued to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, under said act of the 28th of January, 1870, numbered from 3,001 to 4,000 inclusive, and received therefor the 1,000 papers aforesaid, signed and fabricated by said Swepson and Thompson in the name of this defendant; the said State of Florida, through its said governor, at the time of such exchange and delivery of said bonds, well knowing the false and fraudulent 792 character of the same, and well knowing that the said so called bonds were not intended to be used or applied for the benefit of either this defendant or the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, but for the express and stipulated purpose of paying and discharging a large amount of private debts between said Milton S. Littlefield and others, being the same debts specified in three written agreements, dated the 13th and 30th of May and 7th of June, 1870, respectively, and of which fraudulent appropriation of said State bonds the State of Florida and its governor had a guilty knowledge, as this defendant is advised and charges to be true.

XII. On information, defendant further says that at the time said Coddington got possession of said so-called bonds of this defendant on the said 11th day of January, 1871, the same were under an injunction in suits brought by Hon. James D. Westcott, jr., and Hon. Robert Gamble against Houstoun, forbidding the handling and delivery of said bonds, and of which suit and injunction the State of Florida and said Coddington had due notice, and which injunction has never yet been dissolved. That in disregard of the resolution of this defendant ordering said pretended bonds, so issued in its name, to be destroyed as aforesaid, and in violation of said injunction. the State of Florida delivered its bonds, numbered above 3,000, to said Coddington for the illegal and corrupt purposes aforesaid; when the said Coddinton, in order to avoid further injunctions on the part of other stockholders of this defendant, made haste to depart from the State of Florida secretly in a private conveyance, carrying with him the said 1,000 bonds, numbered from 3,001 to 4,000, all of which was wholly unknown to this defendant and without its authority or consent.

XIII. Defendant further, on information, says that after surrendering the pretended bonds of this defendant to the State of Florida and receiving the said State bonds, numbered from 3,001 to 4,000, and said Coddington took the said State bonds to London, where they at once became involved in litigation, but none of them were sold in that market. That for some reason 224 of said bonds were cancelled, including those numbered from 3,777 to 4,000 inclusive, leaving outstanding but 776 of the said last named State bonds. That of the said 776, about 208 were pledged to raise money to pay interest on the other portion of said pretended State bonds, numbered from 1 to 3,776 inclusive, that is, to pay interest on bonds that were not sold, and 568 were placed in a bank in London, where they still remain, subject to the order of the State of Florida. That the said 568 of said bonds so held in said bank in London, and the 208 pledged to pay interest, and the 224 cancelled, constitute and account for the whole of said so-called State bonds numbered above 3,000, and which were so illegally and corruptly exchanged for the pretended bonds of this defendant, as aforesaid.

XIV. And this defendant, further answering, states that, as has been already stated, it was chartered as a body corporate and politic on the said 29th day of July, 1868, which charter was duly accepted, and this defendant organized as a corporation under the same. That said charter has never been amended, or altered, and hence this defendant possesses and can exercise just such powers as are centred in its said charter, and no other. That there was no power conferred by its said charter to issue said 1,000 papers called bonds, payable to the State of Florida, as a donation to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or for any other purpose.

That said so-called bonds purport to have been issued under the second and fourth sections of the act of the legislature of Florida passed January 28, 1870, creating a statutory contract between the State of Florida and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company for the exchange of bonds at the rate of $18,000 per mile upon certain conditions therein stated, but that said statute was not intended to amend, enlarge, or alter the charter of this defendant, and that this defendant never accepted or adopted any of the provisions of said statute, which it in truth had no right or power to do, and is in all respects a total stranger to the same.

794 That the said statute was never a binding or a valid law, because the said agreement and undertaking to exchange the bonds of the State for the bonds of the company, or this defendant, had there in truth ever been any such agreement entered into, was prohibited by the constitution of the State of Florida, and has so been declared by the supreme court of the said State; and that the said so-called bonds, had they been free from all other objections, are null and void, and could not constitute a lawful consideration for any agreement or undertaking whatever, and certainly said null and void State bonds could constitute no good or lawful consideration for imposing said bonded debt of $1,000,000 on this defendant, from the creation of which it was not possible this defendant could derive any good or benefit whatever.

That the proviso in the fourth section of the said statute limited the power of the State to issue and exchange its bonds on any finished portion of said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad for a greater distance than one hundred miles east of Quincy, which limit of one hundred miles after leaving Quincy is exhausted long before reaching Lake City, the terminus of the railroad of this defendant, which is more than 155 miles east of Quincy, and that were it possible to otherwise apply said statute to this defendant, and were it not declared unconstitutional, null, and void, it still could not reach or affect the railroad of this defendant.

XV. Further answering, this defendant says that the complainants are not the holders of any lawful bonds or obligation of the State of Florida, and are not, and never were, the holders of any bonds or obligations of this defendant. That the said statutory agreement, created under the said act of January 28th, 1870, had it been valid as a law, did not create any relation, such as debtor and creditor, pledger and pledgee, between this defendant and the holders of the bonds of the State; that the complainants are the creditors of the State of Florida only, if of any one, and have no right to intermeddle with the affairs of this defendant in any event, and certainly could have no better legal demand against this defendant than their supposed debtor, the said State of Florida, could have and maintain under said statute.

795 That the so-called bonds of the State of Florida did not depend for the payment of either principal or interest upon the property, credits or receipts of this defendant, and that complainants, as the alleged purchasers thereof, did not purchase with reference to any liability of this defendant, to whose corporate existence and transactions they were and are total strangers, and they have no right in law or in equity to make or pretend any demands whatever against this defendant.

XVI. Answering the IX paragraph of the complainants' bill, this defendant says it has no knowledge in what manner the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company sent the bonds it received from the State of Florida to England, but denies, as before stated, that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company ever sent any of the bonds numbered above 3,000, which are pretended to be a charge upon this defendant, and sold them through any agents or otherwise; that said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company never touched or handled one of said bonds, nor was one of them ever sold for its use, as falsely pretended in complainants' bill, but that said bonds were attempted to be fraudulently used and appropriated by the State of Florida and said Houstoun and Coddington for the discharge of private debts, as aforesaid, and in no manner for the benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, or this defendant.

That said Coddington acted as the agent of the State of Florida in taking said State bonds, numbered from 3,001 to 4,000, to London, and not as the agent of said company, and that both the said State and the said Coddington knew that the whole proceedings were fraudulent.

And this defendant, upon information, denies that said so-called State bonds sold in London for high prices, or ever brought as high as eighty-one per cent. On information, defendant avers that though the bonds of the State of Florida were payable in gold coin of the United States, they were sold for less than sixty per cent., and some as low as forty per cent. because of the notoriously fraudulent character of said bonds. That as to how long the interest was paid on said State bonds, this defendant is not advised, but charges the fact to be, that 796 whenever paid, it was not done by the State of Florida, but by the procurement of said Coddington, Collinson, Boissevain, Mildens, and others, who were speculating in said bonds, so as to force their sale in the market, well knowing the false and fraudulent character thereof.

XVII. This defendant has no knowledge of what representations were made through the agents of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to the public in England, Holland, Germany, and France, as stated in the X paragraph of complainants' bill; or whether the said bonds were alleged to be a veritable and lawful obligation of the State of Florida; or whether it was represented that "there was provided by law of said State, as a security for the payment of said bonds, a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville west," or whether said "line was represented to be owned by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company alone," as alleged in complainants' bill, but this defendant avers that such false representations, by whomsoever made, could not bind or affect this defendant. It was competent for as well as the duty of the complainants to examine the alleged law, and ascertain the facts as to whether this defendant, then a subsisting body corporate, was, or had become the property of, and "owned by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company alone," all of which were acts and facts of such notoriety, that the said complainants and all others were bound to take notice of or be advised, at their peril. Their mistakes could not forfeit to their use and relief the franchise and property of this defendant, or the just and lawful owners of its stock as a body corporate.

XVIII. Defendant has no knowledge of what amount of bonds issued by the State of Florida to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company the complainants may own, as alleged in the XI paragraph of the complainants' bill, but defendant denies they are the owners of any bonds of the State of Florida issued to or upon the credit of this defendant, or that are a charge at law or in equity upon its franchises and estate.

797 This defendant admits that a petition was written by Charles D. Willard, and sworn to by Frank R. Sherwin on the 22d day of September, 1876, wherein it was alleged and sworn to as true, that said Sherwin was the accredited agent of the complainants and others, the holders of 3,206 of said bonds issued by the State of Florida, as will better appear by said petition, made part hereof, marked Schedule G.

That upon the said petition, and upon no other facts, and without the exhibition of one word of written authority from any one, addressed to the said Sherwin, the governor of Florida, on the 30th day of December, 1876, assumed to seize and advertise for sale, the railroad of this defendant, without either notice or demand of any sort.

That a few days thereafter, to wit, on the 10th day of January, 1877, the governor of Florida addressed to said Sherwin a letter, stating that the grounds upon which the railroad of this defendant had been seized where wholly insufficient, but at the same time advising him how and in what manner the said seizure would be continued or renewed, as will better appear by said letter, made part hereof, marked Schedule H. That the letter was addressed to said Sherwin, then present in Tallahassee, and who had then made known to the governor a scheme "for reorganizing" the railroad of this defendant, and which being approved by the governor, the said Sherwin took the same to Savannah, Georgia, where the same was signed on the 12th day of January, 1877, just two days after the governor's letter to the said Sherwin (who, with said Willard, appeared as the representatives of the complainants); that said scheme, which was described as the "memorandum plan," was signed by said Sherwin, H. R. Jackson, and Charles H. Simonton, who on the same day addressed the governor a letter, made part hereof, marked Schedule I, advising him of the signing and executing of the said "memorandum plan" between themselves and said Sherwin on that day, and that they were advised of the intention of the governor to make a forced sale of said road, according to the terms of said scheme, and which, among other things, provided that in the sale of the railroad of this defendant, together with the railroad of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the said governor should 798 receive in payment therefor the said annulled and repudiated bonds of the State of Florida as cash at par for the principal and accumulated interest thereon, as will better appear by the terms of said "memorandum plan," made part of complainants' bill, marked D.

That after the signing of this "plan," according to the provisions of which the railroad of this defendant was to be seized and sold, the said Sherwin, just seven days later, to wit, on the 19th of January, 1877, addressed the governor another letter, urging the sufficiency of his facts to justify the seizure and sale of the railroad of this defendant, and designating a time therefor, as will be seen by said letter, made part hereof, marked Schedule J; and again, on the next day, to wit, the 20th of January, 1877, addressed the governor a personal and private letter referring to and discussing their proposed mode for appropriating and using the railroad of this defendant after the same should have been reorganized, as will better appear by the terms of the same, made part hereof, marked Schedule K; and just three days after this, to wit, the 23d day of January, 1877, the said Charles D. Willard, the associate of said Sherwin in this adventure, addressed a letter to George P. Rainey, the attorney-general of Florida, referring to the former letters and proofs, and again urging the sale of the railroad of this defendant on the first Monday in May, 1877, as will better appear by said letter, made part hereof, marked Schedule L; all of which said letters and papers propose to sell the railroad of this defendant in such manner as that the corresponding parties shall become the purchasers without the payment of any money, but shall be allowed to pay in said repudiated and annulled Florida State bonds to the full amount of the principal and interest thereof, and this, too, though the same was in direct violation of the law under which the said governor was urged to exercise the extraordinary power of seizing and selling the railroad of this defendant, without the least regard to law, as shown by the complainants' bill.

Further answering, this defendant states it has no knowledge about the payment of interest on said State bonds, or up to what time the same was paid, as alleged in the said XI paragraph of complainants' bill, except that this defendant is advised that 208 of the said State bonds, or the greater part thereof, were pledged by one John Col- 799 linson after the month of August, 1872, to raise the money to pay the interest on the whole of said State bonds due on the first of January, 1873. But no demand for the payment of interest on any bonds ever was made on this defendant on account of said bonds or any of them.

XIX. This defendant has no knowledge of the matters alleged in the XII paragraph of complainants' bill, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

XX. The statements made in the XIII paragraph of complainants' bill are not true as therein alleged and set forth. No election of directors of this defendant was held for some three years, though an attempt at holding an election was made in 1875, but was abandoned. In January, 1877, a stockholders' meeting was called for the 29th day of that month to elect a board of directors, which, defendant is informed, was prevented by certain fraudulent and collusive proceedings on the part of the complainants, through their representatives and agents, Frank R. Sherwin and others, which rendered it necessary, in the opinion of those claiming to be the lawful and equitable owners of the stock of this defendant, to apply to the honorable circuit court for Duval County, Florida, for a writ of mandamus, upon allegations stated in a petition presented in that behalf, which was granted on the 15th, returnable on the 27th, unless cause was shown at 10 o'clock a. m. on the 26th of February. That on the said last-named day the complainants, by their agents and representatives, Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, by their counsel, H. R. Jackson and H. Bisbee, jr., esqs., appeared and demurred to said alternate writ; as also appeared R. Walker, Edward Lewis, and Patrick Houstoun, who claimed to be directors of this defendant, under said alleged election of 1875, and joined with the complainants in said demurrer, which, upon argument, was overruled and the peremptory 800 writ of mandamus was thereafter issued, and a board of directors for this defendant was elected in obedience to the judgment of said court, in a manner that was just and lawful, and any and all charges of fraud made by complainants against the said judicial proceedings and the judgment rendered thereon, and the election held pursuant thereto, are wholly and absolutely false and gratuitous, as will appear by the inspection of said proceedings, to which this defendant craves leave to refer when necessary for the purposes of this suit. Defendant denies that it has issued any new certificates of stock, as charged.

XXI. Defendant denies that the governor of Florida has yet seized the railroad or other property of this defendant, but admits that he attempted to do so, and admits that he is ready and willing at all times to do so.

This defendant is in no manner concerned in the matters alleged in the XV paragraph of the complainants' bill, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

XXII. This defendant has no knowledge as to whether the complainants' are averse to litigation, or as to what they were advised were their full rights, or to what extent they were advised the railroad of this defendant was in a state of dilapidation, as alleged in the XVI paragraph of their bill, but defendant charges that about the 12th day of January, 1877, the parties, or some of them who are using the names of the complainants in the prosecution of this suit, did execute the paper mentioned in said paragraph, marked D, whereby they proposed a scheme "for the reorganization" of the railroad of this defendant by dividing the same into about three parts, and giving one part to the complainants and taking two parts to the said Sherwin, Willard, and others for their trouble in reorganizing this defendant's railroad, as the inspection of the said complainants' Schedule D will show to be true.

XXIII. Further answering, this defendant says it is not true 801 "that some time in the year 1875 the persons who held a majority of the shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at the time when the transactions took place, whereby the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City became consolidated with the one owned by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and by which means said railroad became pledged for the complainants' bonds, met in Tallahassee and elected certain persons directors" of thi defendant, as is in the XVII paragraph of complainants' bill is alleged; that no such persons met and elected any board of directors, and that such consolidation never occurred, as hereinbefore stated.

And this defendant denies that it ever has been dissolved, or ceased to exist and act in its corporate name and capacity, and defendant denies that the persons mentioned in said paragraph were ever at any time elected a board of directors of this defendant, or ever acted as such.

XXIV. And this defendant denies the allegation of the XVIII paragraph of the complainants' bill as to the fact of the character and effect of the litigation therein contained. The said decisions and each of them, so far as they attempted to create any liability of this defendant to complainants for or on account of their being the holders of the null and void bonds of the State of Florida, or attempted to make or create any contract between the complainants and this defendant, who, in fact, never had contracted with each other, was wholly extrajudicial and mere obiter dictum, as the issue so alleged to have been decided was not raised by the pleadings and the parties to be bound and affected by such decision, to wit, among others, the complainants, or any other holders of said bonds were not parties to the said suits or either of them, or before the court, and that said decision had not the force or effect of law, and does not in any manner conclude the right of this defendant, as alleged in the XVIII and the said XIX paragraphs of complainants' bill. And defendant denies all and singular the allegations therein in that behalf made. The only lawful decision made in said court, so far as this defendant is concerned, was that the State of Florida had no cause of action against this 802 defendant; that none of the said State bonds claimed to be a lien upon the railroad of this defendant, had been sold, and judgment was given in favor of this defendant, dismissing the bill of the State of Florida, and is a bar to this suit on the part of the complainants, if they were parties to or beneficiaries under said judgment.

XXV. Defendant has no knowledge of, or interest in, the matters alleged in the XX paragraph of the complainants' bill, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

XXVI. Further answering, this defendant states that it has no knowledge of any surveys caused to be made by the complainants of the railroad of this defendant, or for what ultimate object the same was done, but denies the right of the complainant, or those using their names, to intermeddle with the railroad of this defendant in any way, or for any purpose.

XXVII. That as to the matters contained in XXII, XXIII, XXIV, and XXV paragraphs of complainants' bill, this defendant is advised it is not therein concerned, and therefore neither admits or denies the same.

XXVIII. Defendant admits that its capital stock is 5,550 shares, and that about 4,370 thereof stood in the name of Edward Houstoun on the books of this defendant at the time of his death. But defendant denies that said Houstoun was the owner thereof, and refers to the answer of its co-defendant, Edward M. L'Engle, for a correct statement of the manner in which said Houstoun acquired and held said shares of capital stock, and of the manner in which they were and are situated and affected. Defendant denies that the title to said stock is involved in any suit pending in the State of Georgia, and denies that any court out of the State of Florida has or can acquire any jurisdiction over 803 this defendant's stock. This defendant admits, however, that the said shares of stock are claimed as the property of its co-defendant, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, and as the property of other claimants by titles adverse to each other, and says that said stock is now held by Aristides Doggett, esq., as trustee, under judicial proceedings, for the benefit of the true owner of said stock.

XXIX. And this defendant, further answering, and in response to the supplemental bill filed on behalf of the complainants, says it is true that the stockholders of this defendant whose annual meeting is fixed for the second Wednesday in April of each year, did convene pursuant to notice duly advertised therefor on the day named, to wit, on the 11th day of April, 1877, and adjourned from time to time until the 28th day of May, 1877, when an election was held according to law, and a board of directors elected for the year expiring on the said second Wednesday in April, 1878.

That at said election Aristides Doggett, esq., who had been duly appointed by the order of this honorable court a trustee in the place of M. D. Papy, deceased, to represent the stock of this defendant described in the trust deed or appointment signed by Edward Houstoun and S. W. Hopkins, dated the 12th day of April, 1871, to the amount of 4,370 shares, did convene with the stockholders of this defendant, as it was his lawful duty to do, and as such trustee did vote said stock in the election of said board of directors.

That the appointment of said Doggett as such trustee was for the especial and declared purpose, among others, of voting said stock, and that in consequence thereof the counsel and representatives ot the complainants appeared and opposed the said appointment; that the said stockholders' meeting was then standing adjourned, and awaiting the action of this court in making the appointment of a trustee; that the appointment was made upon due notice, and the said stockholders' meeting and proposed election were duly advertised and were held according to law, and were not intended to affect any rights or equities 804 of the complainants, as alleged in their said bill of complaint, and that all charges of combination and fraud in said election are entirely false.

And for further answer this defendant relies upon and adopts, so far as is material to its rights, all and singular the allegations and denials in the separate answer of the defendant, E. M. L'Engle, esq., and the separate answer of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company filed in this cause, which are consistent herewith.

And this defendant, denying all and singular the allegations of the complainants' bill not herein specifically denied, and denying all charges of corruption and fraud, prays that the complainants' bill shall be dismissed and that defendant have judgment for its costs in this behalf expended.

SCHEDULE A.

Proceedings of a meeting of the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, held on the 24th of May, 1870.

TALLAHASSEE, May 24th, 1870.

Pursuant to adjournment, the stockholders convened at the office of the company.

Col. J. P. Sanderson was called to the chair and F. H. Flagg appointed secretary.

Gen. Littlefield moved that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to confer with a similar committee on the part of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, to take into consideration the manner and terms and conditions of a consolidation of the two companies; which was adopted, and the chair appointed Messrs. Cheney, Stearns, Wentworth, Holland, and Purman said committee.

The meeting then adjourned over until 9 o'clock a. m. on to-morrow.

TALLAHASSEE, May 25th, 1870.

The stockholders came together this day, Col. Sanderson in the chair.

The stock being represented as follows, viz: M. S. Littlefield, 9,930 shares; J. P. Sanderson, 10 shares; M. L. Stearns, 10 shares; G. E. Wentworth, 10 shares; E. M. Cheney, 10 shares; W. J. Purman, 10 shares: J. L. ReQua, by Cheney, 10 shares; D. P. Holland, 10 shares—10,000 shares.

Mr. Cheney then made the following report:

Report of the committee appointed by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company to arrange and report upon a basis of consolidation with the Tallahassee Railroad Company.

We, the undersigned, would respectfully report as follows:

We have agreed with the committee appointed by the Tallahassee Railroad Company, that the capital stock of this company shall be $3,000,000, to be divided into 30,000 shares. That the capital stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company shall be $3,000,000, also divided into 30,000 shares. That the capital stock of the two companies be put together, making the whole stock of the consolidated companies $6,000,000, divided into 60,000 shares.

That the sixty thousand shares be divided among the stockholders as follows, viz: M. S. Littlefield, 38,433 shares; E. M. Cheney, 4,166 shares; J. L. ReQua, 4,166 shares; J. P. Sanderson, 5,250 shares; A. Huling, 1,875 shares; J. M. Baker, 1,250 shares; S. L. Niblack, 1,250 shares; C. B. Dibble, 2,330 shares; F. Dibble, 1,250 shares; M. L. Stearns, 10 shares; Geo. E. Wentworth, 10 shares; W. J. Purman, 10 shares—60,000 shares.

806 That the liabilities of the Tallahassee Railroad Company created since its organization shall be assumed by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

Respectfully submitted,

E. M. CHENEY, Chairman,
GEO. E. WENTWORTH,
W. J. PURMAN,
D. P. HOLLAND,
M. L. STEARNS, Committee.

All of which was adopted, and the terms therein recited were unanimously agreed to.

A committee appointed by the Tallahassee Railroad Company appeared before the meeting, and by M. D. Papy, their chairman, stated as follows:

"We have been appointed a committee of the stockholders of the Tallahassee Railroad Company to notify the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company that the stockholders of that company have unanimously agreed to the terms of consolidation proposed by the committee, (before that time appointed to consult with the committee appointed by this company), and that they have resolved, according to the terms of the fourteenth section of the act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of the State,' to consolidate with this company upon those terms and upon the condition that the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company shall assume all debts incurred by that company since its organization, and especially the transportation tickets issued by that company, and we submit to this meeting a copy of the resolution adopted by that company:

[Copy.]

"Whereas by the fourteenth section of an act entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of this State' it was made lawful for this company to consolidate with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company by a vote of the owners of a majority of its stock in interest so as to become one corporation under the name of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, on such terms as may be agreed on: Be it therefore

"Resolved, That the Tallahassee Railroad Company be and the same is hereby consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and merged in the same under the corporate name of said company, and that the Tallahassee Railroad shall hereafter be merged in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, upon the terms agreed on by the parties in interest.

"Resolved further, That as a condition to the consolidation aforesaid, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company shall assume all debts and obligations created by this company since its organization, and especially that it shall resume the redemption of the 807 transportation tickets issued by the said Tallahassee Railroad Company."

Whereupon Gen. Littlefield offered the following:

"Whereas by the fourteenth section of an act entitled entitled 'An act to perfect the public works of this State' it was made lawful for the several roads from Quincy to Jacksonville and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, &c., by a vote of the owners of a majority of the stock in interest, and with the consent of the owners of a majority of stock in interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, to consolidate with said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company so as to become one corporation under its name on such terms as may be agreed upon; and whereas the Tallahassee Railroad Company have agreed to consolidate with this company by virtue of the provisions of said section: Be it therefore

"Resolved, That the consent of the owners of the stock in this company is hereby given to such consolidation, and that the said Tallahassee Railroad Company be, and the same is hereby, consolidated with this company, and that hereafter the said Tallahassee Railroad shall be merged in the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad.

"Resolved further, That upon such consolidation the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company will assume all debts and obligations created by the said Tallahassee Railroad since its organization, including the transportation tickets issued by said company."

All of which was unanimously adopted and agreed to.

On motion, Messrs. Holland, Purman, and Wentworth were appointed to report to the stockholders of the Tallahassee Railroad Company the acceptance of the terms of consolidation, and that the directors be authorized to receive from the Tallahassee Railroad Company the Tallahassee Railroad, with all its engines, cars, material, and property of every kind belonging to said company.

The meeting then adjourned to meet in a joint stock meeting of the two companies as consolidated.

I certify the foregoing to be true and correct extracts from the minutes of the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

F. H. FLAGG, Secretary.

808 SCHEDULE B.

A bill to be entitled an act for the relief of William E. Jackson, Edward Thomas, William Spear, John Craig, James B. Walker, and their associates, now owning and operating the railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City.

Whereas at a sale of the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad, and all its property and franchise, on the fourth day of March, 1868, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under and by virtue of the provisions of the internal improvement law, William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers thereof; and

Whereas it is essential for the interests of the people of the State that these parties should be invested with such corporate powers as are necessary for the operation of the road, as well as more accurately to define the duties of the said road: Therefore,

SECTION 1. The people of the State of Florida, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows: That the said William E. Jackson and his associates be and they are hereby vested with the powers and franchise granted to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad in and by an act entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, and they and their successors and assigns are hereby authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchise so far as they appertain to the railroad constructed from the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, to Lake City, in Columbia County, in this State, and that the said William E. Jackson and his associates are hereby made a body politic and corporate under the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and by that name they and their successors shall be capable to enjoy and hold the said railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City, and all the benefits thereof, subject only to the condition annexed to the sale thereof by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and as such body politic and corporate shall be entitled as aforesaid to exercise all the powers and franchise granted in said above referred to act to the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company, and by and in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company they, their successors and assigns, may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods and chattels of whatsoever character the same may be, that shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroad, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of, to sue and be sued, to plead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break or alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be deemed necessary and expedient.

809 SECTION 2. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of said act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic & Gulf Central Railroad Company for the protection of said railroad from trespass, injury, or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who shall trespass upon or injure the same, be and they are hereby extended to said Florida Central Railroad Company, which company shall be entitled to all the benefits thereof.

SECTION 3. Be it further enacted, That the said William E. Jackson and his associates shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in said Central Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

SECTION 4. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Rail road Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, or farm out all or any part of the privileges with which they are invested, or the railroad itself, to any person or persons, corporation or corporations, for such term as may be agreed upon.

SECTION 5. Be it further enacted, That the said Florida Central Rail road Company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect officers so long as the said railroad shall be kept running and in operation.

SECTION 6. Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed, nor shall it be so operative as to divest the State of the right to make the Florida Central Railroad and all its property of every sort, character, and description the subject matter of taxation on the part of the State.

SECTION 7. Be it further enacted, That nothing in this act shall be so construed, nor shall it so operate as to give any additional validity to the bonds issued under the provisions of an "act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, or as a recognition to any extent that they are contracts which it is within the power of the State to make.

Passed the senate July 24, 1868.
Passed the assembly July 27, 1868.
Approved July 29, 1868.

SCHEDULE F.

TALLAHASSEE, FLA., January 11, 1871.

Received from Edward Houstoun, esq., in trust and for his account, one thousand Florida Central Railroad Company first mortgage bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for one thousand dollars each, with which I hereby undertake to arrange with General M. S. Littlefield and other parties interested, and collect from him or them the amount which it is admitted is now due to said Houstoun, viz, one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70-100 dollars, with interest thereon at seven per cent. from the time M. S. Littlefield's draft on S. W. Hopkins & Co. for said amount fell due, and in addition thereto the sum of five thousand dollars for costs and expenses incurred by said Houstoun in suits brought by parties against said Houstoun in relation to those bonds or other bonds and the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company; it being understood that all proceedings at law or otherwise are to be discontinued, or if that be impossible, he is to be indemnified by responsible parties against all such damages or costs arising out of said proceedings; it being further understood that said Houstoun shall, when paid, transfer and assign to said Littlefield all the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or other securities which he holds or which were given him as collateral security to secure the above amounts due to said Houstoun.

And it is further understood and agreed that said Coddington is to collect the further sums of money and pay to said Houstoun for account of the parties named below, which it is understood are a lien subsequent and inferior to said Houstoun's lien on these bonds, viz:

M. D. Papy, esq., the sum of sixteen thousand dollars.

Col. R. H. Gamble, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars; who is to surrender to said Littlefield three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and seventeen hundred dollars in the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, at par.

J. P. Sanderson, esq., the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, and said J. P. Sanderson is to surrender to said Littlefield seventy shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and comply with his agreements with said Littlefield, for which a part of said sum is in consideration.

F. H. Flagg, esq., the sum of four thousand dollars; for which he is to surrender the Central Railroad Company stock and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds which he holds, to said Littlefield.

And also to pay for seventy shares of stock now or lately held by J. D. Westcott, jr., esq., the sum of thirty-eight hundred and forty-five 33/100 dollars, when said stock is to be delivered to said Littlefield.

This arrangement is based on the assumption that the money will be paid from the proceeds of bonds negotiated by S. W. Hopkins &
813 Co., of New York; the remainder of said proceeds is to be disposed of as directed by the parties interested.

(Signed) T. B. CODDINGTON.

I approve and assent to the same.

(Signed) M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
Pres't J. P. & M. R. R. Co.

814 SCHEDULE G.

To his excellency Hon. M. L. STEARNS,
Governor of the State of Florida:

The undersigned respectfully represents:

That he is the duly authorized and accredited agent in this country of the committee of foreign bondholders in the city of Amsterdam, in the kingdom of Holland, having in charge the interest of Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildeus, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, and others of said kingdom, who are bona-fide purchasers and holders for a valuable consideration to a very large amount, to wit, to the amount of more than three million two hundred thousand dollars of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued by said State in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company of said State, which bonds bear date the first day of January, 1870, payable on the first day of A. D. 1900, which were issued by the said State of Florida in pursuance of an act of the legislature thereof, passed June 24th, 1869, and the act amendatory thereof, approved January 28, 1870, in which act and amendment it was and is, among other things, provided that in exchange for the bonds so issued by the said State, the said companies should execute and deliver to the said State its own first-mortgage bonds, embracing all and singular its railroad property and appurtenances, and which latter-named bonds were so issued and delivered to the said State in compliance with the laws aforesaid, and are now held by the said State as a trustee, for the benefit of the purchasers of the said State bonds as an additional security for payment of the same.

The undersigned further represents, in the name and on behalf of the said committee of foreign bondholders and the holders of the said bonds of the State of Florida that the said State has failed to pay the interest thereon at maturity, according to the tenor of its obligation, and has so failed to pay said interest for a period of more than twelve (12) months thereafter, or that is to say, for the period of about five (5) years on all of said bonds.

The undersigned further represents that your excellency has, in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature of said State, taken possession of and advertised for sale the said the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, together with all its property and appurtenances.

The undersigned further represents that as yet no provisions have been made, as required by law, for the payment of the bonds of said State issued in exchange for the said bonds of the said the Florida Central Railroad Company; that your petitioner further says he has recently arrived in this country from Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, for the purpose hereinbefore referred to; that before so doing he spent much time in consultation with the said committee of foreign bondholders and its counsel and various holders of the said bonds of the said State of Florida, and in the examination of the books, cor-
815 respondence, and other data in the possession of said committee and its counsel, pertaining to this subject, and your petitioner, from his own personal knowledge, derived from such examination, says that there is now held and owned in the said kingdom of Holland more than three million two hundred thousand dollars of the said bonds of the State of Florida, purchased and held for a valuable consideration, of which said amount more than two hundred thousand dollars of said bonds were issued by the said State in exchange for the bonds of the said the Florida Central Railroad Company, and that the said State has failed to pay any part of the interest thereon for a period of about five years. Your petitioner further represents that he received a cablegram from the said Gideon Maria Boissevain, J. Wertheim, the latter being counsel for the said committee of foreign bondholders, and Charles Mueller, the American consul, dated at Amsterdam, in the said kingdom of Holland, on the 20th day of September, eighteen hundred and seventy-six, which states the number of said State bonds sold absolutely in the said kingdom of Holland, to be at least three million two hundred and six thousand dollars ($3,206,000), which said cablegram your petitioner begs leave to attach herewith as a part of his said petition. Your petitioner further says that all of the said State bonds were sold in the market through the said Gideon Maria Boissevain, one of the late leading and principal banking houses in the said city of Amsterdam, and that the said Charles Mueller, now and for many years past the American consul at the said city of Amsterdam, has extensive knowledge of the sale in said market of said bonds of the State of Florida by reason of having been selected to make an examination of the books, papers, and other data in the possession of the said banking house of the said Boissevain relating to the sale of the same. Your petitioner, in the name and on behalf of the holders and owners of the said bonds of the said State, to the extent of two hundred thousand dollars or more, issued in exchange for the bonds of the said The Florida Central Railroad Company, therefore demands that your excellency shall, with due diligence, make provision for the prompt payment of said bonds and overdue coupons thereon, and to this end that your excellency shall enter upon and take possession of the Florida Central Railroad, together with all of its appurtenances and franchise, and sell the same at public auction for the benefit of the holders and bona-fide owners of said bonds in pursuance of the said acts of the legislature hereinbefore referred to.

Your petitioner further represents to your excellency that he will hold himself ready at any and all times to maintain and make proof in such manner as your excellency shall see fit to indicate as to the holders and owners of said bonds of the said State of Florida. And you petitioner will ever pray.

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
County and City of Washington, ss:

816 I, Jos. T. K. Plant, a commissioner of the State of Florida for said District, certify that before me personally came Frank R. Sherwin, who, being first duly sworn, says the facts set forth as of his own knowledge in the foregoing petition are true, and those stated on information and belief he believes to be true.

Witness my hand and official seal, Sept. 22, 1876.

817 SCHEDULE H.

STATE OF FLORIDA, EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 10, 1877.

SIR: The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad having been seized and advertised for sale under the act of February, A. D. 1870, entitled an act to alter and amend an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State, approved June 24th, A. D. 1869," and the act of June 24th, 1869, so amended, it is my intention to sell the same according to the present advertisement, and such intention will be carried out unless, upon representation of the bondholders, it should be shown that such sale should be postponed for a very short time. It is not the intention of this office to encumber its administration with the operation or management of a road, which it is the purpose of the law it should seize only for the purpose of selling.

As to the Florida Central Railroad, I am without sufficient testimony of there being any bona fide holders for value of State bonds issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and shall not seize the Florida Central Railroad and property by the lien of its bonds held by the State, until such evidence of bona fide ownership as would at least satisfy a judicial tribunal, has been presented by such bona fide owners for value of such State bonds or their duly authorized agents.

I must respectfully say that the affidavit made by yourself, filed, as to your being the representative of the foreign bondholders, is not sufficient evidence of such agency. I would not be willing to act on such evidence in such matters coming from any one claiming to be such agent.

Should I seize the Florida Central Railroad, I should sell it just as soon as the law permits. All evidence of any matters involving the roads, their seizure or sale, must be submitted in writing.

It is my desire that the State be released as soon as possible of all railroad trusts and complications, and my disposition shall be to perform all my duties promptly.

Governor of Florida.

To Frank R. Sherwin, Esq.,
Tallahassee, Fla.:

I, Geo. P. Rainey, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a correct copy of the originial on file in my office.

To His Excellency George F. Drew,
Governor of Florida:

Sir: The undersigned beg leave to call your attention to the fact that they are the attorneys in fact of a very large majority of the holders of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company of Florida, and that a plan has been agreed upon between the holders of said bonds and Frank R. Sherwin, the agent of the holders of the bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, which it is believed can and will be carried into effect, thereby resulting in the return to the State of its bonds now held in Europe, and the speedy settlement of the litigation, and place the railroad upon a substantial business basis. We are gratified to learn that it is your intention, as trustee for the holders of said State bonds, to sell the said railway property at as early a day as practicable for the benefit of all concerned, thus rendering a great public service to the State as well as an act of justice, long deferred, to both classes of bondholders.

With consideration of high respect, we remain, sir, very respectfully,

HENRY R. JACKSON.

New York, January 19, 1877.

To His Excellency George F. Drew,
Governor of Florida:

Sir: I have the honor to enclose herewith the affidavit of Gideon Maria Boissevain, of Amsterdam, Holland, explicitly stating the number of Florida bonds purchased and now held there by bona fide holders. It confirms my affidavit in all details except that the number of bonds which are a lien upon the Florida Central Railroad proves to be 208 instead of 206. Mr. Willard will also transmit you from Washington the certificate of the American consul at Amsterdam, corroborating the affidavit of Boissevain, which I trust, when received by you, will be deemed sufficient evidence to warrant the seizure and advertisement of the Florida Central Railroad, and the postponement of the sale of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to take place on the same day.

I remain, with great respect, your obedient servant,

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

P. S.—I would request that your reply to this be addressed to me, care of Mr. Willard, at Washington, who will read and forward it.

820 SCHEDULE K.

Personal.] NEW YORK, January 20, 1877.

To His Excellency GEORGE F. DREW:

DEAR GOVERNOR: I desire, before sailing, to reiterate to you personally, in writing, the assurance which I have verbally given, that the railroads reorganized by me will be managed in a liberal spirit, with the view, so far as may be consistent with business principles, of fostering and developing State interests. To be explicit, it is my belief that the permanent prosperity and increasing value of the road can be best secured by competing sharply with all rivals for the Gulf and up-river trade, and by favoring Jacksonville and Fernandina as our outlets, and discriminating in their favor, if at all, as between them and Georgia ports. I have said as much to Gen. Jackson, and he recognizes it as impossible that I should favor Savannah. My plans for the development of the State are comprehensive, and render me not less earnest than yourself in the desire and determination to advance the material prosperity by every legitimate means, and I am confident you will find the endeavors of my associates and myself, to that end, a valuable aid to your administration, under which, I predict, Florida will enjoy great prosperity.

With every assurance of esteem and support, I am, sir, faithfully yours,

FRANK R. SHERWIN.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

821 SCHEDULE L.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 23, 1877.

Hon. GEO. P. RAINEY,
Attorney General, Tallahassee, Fla:

DEAR SIR: The enclosed certificate of Charles Mueller, U. S. Consul at Amsterdam, previously referred to, states of his own knowledge that

"Boissevain and co-operators had, in good faith and at fair prices, purchased, of one John Collinson, 3,206 of above-named bonds of Florida." This, in connection with the sworn statement of said Boissevain, previously mailed to you by me from New York, would now seem to be full and explicit enough to establish the fact that there are 208 of the State bonds now in the hands of bona fide holders, and I therefore trust you may seize the Central Road and advertise the same for sale on the first Monday in May, and postpone the sale of the J., P. & M. R. R., to take place at the same time.

Hoping that I may hear from you upon this subject at your earliest convenience, I remain very respectfully,

C. D. WILLARD.

I certify that the foregoing is a correct and true copy of the original on file in my office.

822 Cross-bill of the Fla. Central R. R. Co.

In the United States circuit court, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, HEINRICH ULRICI, and others, complainants,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Florida Central Railroad Company, and others, defendants.

THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY, complainant,
vs.
J. FRED. SCHUTTE, JAN PRINS, HEINRICH Ulrici, The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Geo. F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, and others, defendants.

823 In the circuit court of the United States, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

To the judges of said court:

The Florida Central Railroad Company, a citizen of the State of Florida, brings this, its cross-bill of complaint, against J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, H. Van Booven, Dr. Nicholas Jacob den Tex, Van Taer, C. Both, L. L. Wertheim, Wysman de Vogt, T. P. Roeloptz, Jan Tichelaar, jr., Jacobus

Wertheim, P. Van Reyser, Mey de Beneditby Beer, Gerard A. Heineken, T. Colone, Charles Gosewinkel, Boon Hartsink, Van Tyeo, N. J. Franket, Johannes William Donk Vander Stoop, and Bery, who are aliens and subjects of the King of the Netherlands. The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of said State, and a citizen thereof; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, and a citizen thereof; George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida, citizens of the State of Florida; and Robert J. Washington, a citizen of the State of Virginia.

Complainant files this cross-bill in the case of J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, and others, vs. the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; the Florida Central Railroad Company, and others. defendants. The said original bill has been filed 824 in the United States circuit court, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida, and among other things alleges that the Florida Central Railroad has been consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and is therefore liable to be seized and sold for the payment of certain bonds claimed to be the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, exchanged for State bonds, and that this company has no legal organization, and has no right to perform corporate functions, and prays, among other things, that the complainants in said bill may be deemed to be the bona fide holders of the bonds of this company; that the entire line of the said companies' may be treated as consolidated as to their liability for payment of certain bonds, and that the governor be authorized to seize and sell the said entire line of road from Jacksonville to Chattahoochee; that the present organization of the board of directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company be deemed to be illegally constituted, and that they be enjoined from acting as such, and that George F. Drew, governor, be appointed special receiver of said railroad.

And thereupon your orator complains and says:

That under and by virtue of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to incorporate the Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and for other purposes," approved January 24th, 1851, and of the provisions of another act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and for other purposes," approved January 7th, 1853, the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company was incorporated, and by that name the stockholders and members of said company, their successors and assigns, were authorized to construct and operate a railroad from some tributary of the Atlantic Ocean, within the limits of the State of Florida, having a sufficient outlet to the ocean to admit of the passage of sea steamers, thence running through the State in the most eligible direction to some point, bay, arm or tributary of the Gulf of Mexico west of the Apalachicola River, in West Florida, having a sufficient outlet for sea steamers.

That, in accordance with the rights conferred by these acts, said company constructed a railroad from the town of Jacksonville, in Florida, to the town of Lake City, in said State, and operated the same for a number of years, and surrendered their right to build any portion of the line west of Lake City.

That in accordance with the authority granted by an act of the legislature of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage 825 a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, the said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the purpose of constructing the railroad authorized by its charter, issued a large amount of bonds.

That under the provisions of the said act, and the contract therein expressed, these bonds constituted a first lien or mortgage on the said road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchises of the company.

That by said act and contract it was provided that on the failure of the company to pay the sinking fund of one per cent. the trustees named in the act should take possession of and sell the said road and all the property of said company.

That said company failed to comply with the requirements of the statute aforesaid, and the trustees took possession of the road and sold it in conformity with the statute and contract aforesaid, at public auction, on the 4th of March, 1868. That at said sale William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers of said road and other property of said company.

That the said purchasers, by an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved July 29th, 1868, were vested with the powers and franchise granted to the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company by the act aforesaid, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7th, 1853, and they and their successors and assigns were authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchises so far, and only so far, as they appertained to the railroad constructed, as aforesaid, by the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, from Jacksonville to Lake City, in Florida, and were made a body politic and corporate under the name of the "Florida Central Railroad Company."

That the said road, if a public work at all, is and has long been a completed public work.

That the Florida Central Railroad Company, under its charter (which charter is a contract between the individual stockholders upon the one side, and the State and corporation on the other side), is invested with no functions, rights, or powers except such as pertain to a completed road, and that in point of fact the sole purpose for which the corporation exists and for which the charter was granted is the operation, control, management, and maintenance of a completed line of railroad, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, aforesaid.

826 That on the 20th day of March, 1869, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company was a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railroad completed from Lake City, Florida, to Quincy, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers. That on the day aforesaid the Tallahassee Railroad Company was a corporation existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railway completed from Tallahassee, Florida, to Saint Mark's, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That said corporations had constructed their roads between the terminal points above mentioned, under the provisions of their charters and of the act of the legislature of Florida known as the internal improvement act, and had surrendered all rights to build any greater length of railroad under the provisions of said last-mentioned act than they had already built.

And said railroads, if public works at all, were and have long been completed public works.

That both of said railroad companies accepted and issued bonds under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, 1855, and became subject to all the provisions of said act.

That on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under the authority vested in them by the third section of the said act of the legislature of the State of Florida, upon and because of a failure, on the part of said two last-mentioned railroad companies to provide and pay the sinking fund, as required in said act, on the bonds issued by the said companies, duly sold, at public sale, the aforesaid two companies' railroads, and all the property of each of said companies of every kind, for the sum of $1,415,000, and, at that sum, one Franklin Dibble and his associates became the purchasers of the said railroads and of all the property of each of said two companies.

And that on the 8th day of April, 1869, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida made and delivered to said purchasers deeds of conveyance of said two railroads and property, which deeds were duly recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Leon County, Florida, on the 22d and 23d days of October, A. D. 1869. That the purchasers aforesaid paid the said trustees 827 $960,000, on account of the purchase money of said two roads, in first-mortgage bonds of said companies (issued under the said act of January 6th, 1855), at the par value thereof, and the said purchasers received credit therefor. That the remainder of said purchase money has never been paid, nor the payment thereof in any manner secured, as this cross-complainant is informed and believes.

That on the 24th of June, 1869, the legislature of Florida passed an act entitled "An act for the relief of Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City, and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company;" by which the said purchasers and their associates were created a body corporate under the name of the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," and were vested with like powers, franchises, and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the acts incorporating said companies.

That on the 24th of June, 1869, by an act of the legislature of Florida, approved on that day, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of this State," and by an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, 1870, a corporation called the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was created, empowered to build and operate a railroad from Quincy to Pensacola in said State, and to consolidate its road, or line of intended road, with those of the before-mentioned Tallahassee Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and to exercise other powers and privileges.

That the Tallahassee Railroad Company, already mentioned, and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as this complainant is informed and believes, did, in the manner provided for by said last mentioned act, consolidate their said roads under the name of the latter company, and redistributed the stock. But the Florida Central Railroad Company never accepted any of the provisions of the said last mentioned acts, and neither that company nor its railroad has ever been consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or its road, or with the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or its railroad, or with the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or its railroad, or with any other railroad or company by whatever name called.

Your orator further states that the Florida Central Railroad, ever since its organization under said charter mentioned, has maintained a substantial organization in fact, separate, apart, and distinct from 828 any other organization by whatever name called. That no person concerned in the management of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company ever had any right or authority to treat the line of road between Lake City and Jacksonville, known as the Florida Central Railroad, as the property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or as constituting a part of said road, or to permit the earnings of the Florida Central Railroad to be used for the benefit of that company.

That, on the contrary, during the time from the 12th day of December, 1870, until the 13th day of May, 1871, the Florida Central Railroad Company managed and controlled the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, that is to say, the line of railroad from Lake City to Quincy and to St. Mark's, as lessee thereof, and that during other portions of the time since its organization the Florida Central Railroad was managed and controlled by its own officers. And if it ever was apparently under the management of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, it was not in default of a distinct organization, but on account of connivance of M. S. Littlefield, during part of the year 1872, when he was the president of the Florida Central Railroad Company. That if any contract effecting the road between Lake City and Jacksonville was made by any person whomsoever, in the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, recognizing a consolidation of the two companies, it was fraud upon the rights and interests of the Florida Central Railroad Company and its stockholders. That the interests and accounts of both companies were always kept separate and apportioned to each by the company having the management. The operation of the entire line by either company was by the understanding of both companies, and the separate existence of each was understood.

That the pretended lease of said road to Converse L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, on the 2d day of October, 1871, was made, as your orator is informed and believes, by the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, without authority of the stockholders, and contrary to their interests and wishes.

That some of said stockholders expressed their dissent to said illegal lease, by vigorously prosecuted suits in the courts for the protection of their interests.

That E. M. L'Engle, a stockholder, commenced a suit in the circuit court of the State of Florida, in Duval County. A copy of the 829 complaint in said suit is herewith filed, marked Exhibit A, to which reference is prayed. That an injunction was issued in said cause and is still in force.

That said L'Engle brought a similar suit in the circuit court of Columbia County, and procured the appointment of a receiver, in whose hands the Florida Central Railroad remained for several months. That the railroad went from the hands of the receiver into the hands of the company, and the said alleged trustees never after exercised, or attempted to exercise, any control over the said Florida Central Railroad.

That Francis P. Porcher, another stockholder in this company, expressed his dissent to said lease, by a suit brought in the United States circuit court for the northern district of Florida, by the said E. M. L'Engle, his attorney, wherein a writ of injunction was granted.

That all said suits by stockholders were instituted for the purpose of maintaining the integrity and rights of the Florida Central Railroad Company, as a separate and distinct corporation.

That none of said suits have been dismissed, but are all still pending.

That on the 8th day of February, 1871, the dissent of the said Florida Central Railroad Company was expressed by its attorney, E. M. L'Engle, esq., in a letter addressed to a banking-house in Amsterdam, in Holland, asserting on behalf of said company its distinctive rights, and protesting against the frauds practiced upon it as a corporation, a copy of which is herewith filed, marked Exhibit B.

Your orator further shows that Milton S. Littlefield, who claimed to own a majority of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. did not acquiesce in any pretended consolidation of said companies, but asserted the independent and separate existence of this corporation in a contract under seal with J. P. Sanderson, dated May the 17th, 1870. An extract of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit C, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator further shows, that an affidavit was made by said M. S. Littlefield, in the United States circuit court, on the 12th day of September, 1873, in the case of James E. Searles and others, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, M. S. Littlefield and others, in which, among other things, said Littlefield swears that "the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad commences at Lake City, in the county of Columbia, in said State of Florida, and is completed to the Chattahoochee River, in Gadsden County, in said State."

830 That the State of Florida, in a bill filed in the Supreme Court of the United States, in December, 1873, against Edward C. Anderson and others, admitted the separate and independent existence of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and its railroad, as will appear by reference thereto.

Your orator further shows, that in a case brought by the State of Florida, against the Florida Central Railroad Company and others, in the year 1874, in the circuit court for Duval County, a decree was made adjudging, among other things, that said companies were consolidated, which decree being appealed from by the Florida Central Railroad Company to the Supreme Court in 1875, was then, in that respect, reversed, and all questions of such consolidation of said company finally settled and determined.

That on the 9th day of April, 1873, which was the regular day for the annual meeting of stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, a meeting of stockholders convened at Tallahassee, Florida, the duly appointed place of meeting, and adjourned from day to day. At this meeting there were represented more than a majority of the shares of the capital stock of said company, the whole number of its shares being 5,550.

That Edward Houstoun, of Savannah, Georgia, was the legal holder of about 4,410 shares, which stood in his name on the books of the company, and which he acquired in the manner hereinafter stated.

That at said meeting one Charles E. Dyke, of Tallahassee, appeared there and presented the duly executed and regular power of attorney of said Edward Houstoun, to vote the said about 4,410 shares of stock, which power of attorney was recognized and admitted to be obligatory upon the meeting and the company.

That said meeting was adjourned on the 13th of May, 1873, subject to the call of the managing director, who was E. M. L'Engle.

That on the 27th day of October, 1873, the stockholders of said company again convened in Tallahassee, at the call of the managing director, and adjourned from day to day, till the 30th day of October, 1873, when a large majority of the stockholders being represented, and Edward Houstoun being there by Charles E. Dyke, his proxy, an election was held for nine directors, which resulted in the choice of Charles E. Dyke, P. Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, E. Lewis, Edward Houstoun, F. F. L'Engle, B. Williams, T. Hartridge, and E. M. L'Engle.

That at a meeting of said nine directors, held on the same day, 831 E. M. L'Engle was elected president, and George R. Foster was elected its secretary and treasurer.

That said railroad, and all the property of said company, remained in the hands of E. M. L'Engle, as president, until about the 14th of April 1874, when they were seized by J. C. Greeley, a receiver, appointed by the circuit court of Florida, for Duval County, from whom the same were taken by Robert Walker, a receiver appointed by the Supreme Court of the United States. They remained in said Walker's possession until June, 1876.

Complainant further says that no legal and valid election of directors of said company was held after the 30th day of October, 1873, until the time next stated, but the directors and other officers then elected remained in office under the charter until their successors were qualified.

That on the 15th day of March, 1877, at an election of directors for the then current year, held by stockholders under a peremptory writ of mandamus, awarded by the circuit court of Florida, for Duval County, a copy whereof is hereto attached, marked Exhibit D, the following persons were elected directors, viz: M. S. Littlefield, E. M. L'Engle, J. C. L'Engle, W. J. Lawton, N. K. Sawyer, G. R. Foster, J. M. Baker, J. B. Stewart, and C. B. Fenwick.

By these directors E. M. L'Engle was elected president, and Charles B. Fenwick secretary and treasurer of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the said directors, president, and secretary and treasurer continued to hold and exercise their said offices by virtue of said election until the 28th day of May, 1877, when, as has been already stated, another election was had of directors for said company.

Your orator further shows that during the year 1875 one Robert Walker, he being receiver of the United States Supreme Court, in charge of the Florida Central Railroad, and a few persons claiming to be stockholders in said corporation, assembled in Tallahassee, and pretending to represent a majority of stock, proceeded to the election of directors, as follows: Robert Walker, Edward Lewis, P. Williams, Patrick Houstoun, R. H. Gamble, C. E. Dyke, sr., E. M. L'Engle, C. A. Cowgill, and G. W. Betten.

That said election was illegal and invalid; that in fact a majority of the stock was not represented at said election. That about four-fifths of said stock stood on the books of said company in the name of Edward Houstoun, deceased. That the executors of said Houstoun, who lived in Savannah, Georgia, assumed the right to authorize one James L. 832 Taylor to vote the stock standing in the name of their testator, although they had not taken up said stock as assets of said testator, and claimed no right, or title, or interest therein. That the said Taylor thereupon undertook to represent said stock, and was allowed by those participating in said meeting to represent and vote the said 4,370 shares of stock standing in the name of said Houstoun, deceased, illegally, and with no right to do so.

This complainant further states, on information and belief, that the books and other records of said corporation had gone into said Robert Walker's possession as receiver aforesaid, and he retained possession of them after June, 1876, and still retains and withholds them on the false pretense that he is the legally authorized representative of the corporation, as this complainant is informed and believes.

This complainant further says, the said Edward Houstoun acquired and held the said 4,410 shares of capital stock, and they were situated and affected in this manner, viz: Milton S. Littlefield purchased from Edward Houstoun about 1,300 shares of the capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, and about $103,000 of railroad bonds, and gave his obligation in writing, amounting to about $163,000, therefor; to secure payment of this obligation Houstoun retained possession of the bonds and of the 1,300 shares of stock, and Littlefield, for further security, deposited with him the certificates for about 3,110 other shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, owned by said Littlefild, which stock and bonds said Houstoun was to hold till he should be paid. Houstoun caused the registry of all the shares of Littlefield's stock to be changed to himself, and new certificates to be issued to him therefor. This contract is evidenced by a writing dated May 13th, 1870, of which a copy is hereto attached, marked Exhibit E.

About the 13th of April, 1871, said Littlefield caused the said obligations to be paid, and instructed said Houstoun to transfer said stock and deliver said certificates to S. W. Hopkins & Co., said Littlefield's agents.

But said Houstoun delivered the certificates to Marianno D. Papy instead, and constituted him, by indenture, a trustee to hold said stock for the purpose declared in the trust. A copy of said indenture is hereto attached, marked Exhibit F.

Said Houstoun, however, although he delivered the certificates of the stock to said Papy, retained the registry thereof in his own name, 833 and assumed to control and vote the shares of stock embraced in the certificates until his death, in the month of , A. D. 1875.

Said certificates of stock being in one of the banks of Savannah, from which said Papy had never removed them, and said Papy being in said city of Savannah in July, 1872, he was arrested under a writ of ne exeat, issued at the suit of Edward Houstoun, by the superior court of Chatham County, in Georgia, the ostensible purpose of said suit being to prevent the removal of said certificates and bonds from said State by said trustee, M. D. Papy; said Papy declining to give the required bond, the said court ordered that the certificates be delivered to one T. Mayhew Cunningham, of Savannah, Georgia, cashier of the bank in which they had been deposited, where, as this complainant is informed and believes, they still are.

But in January, 1876, one Robert J. Washington, a defendant to this bill, who claimed to have an interest in the 4,410 shares of stock embraced in said certificates, as purchaser at a sale of Milton S. Littlefield's interest therein, made under a decree of this court, filed his bill to have a trustee of said stock appointed in the place of said Papy, who had died, claiming that said court in Georgia could not acquire any jurisdiction over stock in a railroad in Florida, and claiming that no person was, after the death of said Houstoun, authorized to vote said stock, as said Papy declined to have it transferred to his name and to vote it.

On the 7th day of May, 1877, this honorable court made its decree in said cause, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit G (for Exhibit G see Exhibit H), whereby the said shares of stock were set forth and particularly described, and the legal title thereof was vested in Aristides Doggett, esq., who was appointed trustee thereof in the place of M. D. Papy, which appointment the said Aristides Doggett accepted.

This complainant further says, that on the 11th day of April, 1877, which was the regular day appointed for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the stockholders convened in the company's office, at Jacksonville, Florida, to which city the place for meeting of the stockholders had been regularly and duly changed since the last preceding meeting of stockholders. That said meeting was adjourned from day to day and from time to time till the 28th day of May, 1877, when they proceeded to transact the business for which they had convened, and took such action as is shown by 834 the record of the meeting, a certified copy whereof is hereto attached, marked Exhibit H, showing that Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, Charles B. Fenwick, George R. Foster, John C. L'Engle, N. K. Sawyer, Joseph B. Stewart, W. J. Lawton, and E. M. L'Engle were elected directors of said Florida Central Railroad Company for the current year.

Afterwards the said directors convened and elected E. M. L'Engle president of said company, and Charles B. Fenwick secretary and treasurer thereof, as is shown by the record of said meeting, a certified copy whereof is hereto attached, and marked Exhibit K.

Your orator further shows, that the Florida Central Railroad Company is not liable or responsible for the payment of the one thousand bonds claimed to have been issued under the provisions of an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved January 28th, 1870, for $1,000 each; a copy of one of said bonds is herewith filed, marked Exhibit L, to which reference is prayed, which said bonds are now in the possession of Walter Gwynn, treasurer of the State of Florida.

That said bonds are not the bonds of the company. They were not executed by this company, nor by its authority, and are fraudulent and void.

Your orator charges, on information and belief, that said bonds were signed by George W. Swepson, as president of this company, and by one H. H. Thompson, as treasurer, whereas, in truth, the said Thompson was not at that time, and never was, treasurer of this company, and had no authority to act as such, or to sign said bonds. That F. H. Flagg was at that time the treasurer of this company, and the only person who had any right or authority to represent this company as such officer.

That he was the custodian of the seal of this company, which, as this complainant is informed, was secretly, and without his knowledge or consent, taken from his office by some person unknown, and fraudulently used to attest said bonds.

Your orator further shows, that the said act of January 28th, 1870, under which it is pretended that said bonds were issued, creates, or attempts to create, a statutory contract between the State of Florida and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the exchange of State for railroad bonds of this company, at the rate of $16,000 per mile, upon the certain conditions therein stated, but the 835 said statute was not intended to apply to this company, and did not affect its character.

Said act conferred no powers or privileges on this company, and imposed upon it no additional burdens, obligations or sacrifices. That this company had no authority in law under the said act or under its charter, or otherwise, to issue said bonds as claimed for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; such an act would have had no legal or binding force, and would have created no lien upon said railroad or the company's property.

That to issue bonds to the amount of $16,000 per mile, drawing interest at eight per cent., and to deliver the same to the said company without consideration or benefit, either given or promised, would have resulted in the utter ruin and bankruptcy of this company.

Your orator further shows that the said act was not a valid law, and would have had no binding force on this complainant if it had been applicable, and if it had been accepted and acted upon in the issue of bonds in accordance with its provisions.

That the agreement and undertaking to exchange bonds with the State for the purposes mentioned in said act have been declared to be unconstitutional by the supreme court of the State, and the said bonds, had they been free from all other objections, were null and void, and could constitute no lawful consideration for any agreement or undertaking whatever.

And had the said bonds been legally issued, their exchange for the bonds of the State, adjudged to be unconstitutional and void by the supreme court, would have been a transfer of said bonds without consideration, and hence a void contract.

But this complainant denies that any bonds or pretended bonds of the State ever were received by it in exchange for any bonds whatever; that any bonds, or pretended bonds, of this company were ever delivered by this company, or by its authority, to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the purpose of being exchanged for State bonds, or for any other purpose, and further, upon information, denies that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company ever received any bonds of the State, or any obligations purporting to be bonds of the State, in exchange for any bonds, or pretended bonds, of this company.

Your orator further shows that the said bonds, signed by Swepson, as president, and said Thompson, as treasurer, were not issued, 836 as pretended, under the said act of January 28th, 1870, for the use and benefit of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but were issued under an agreement made and entered into between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun on the 30th day of May, 1870, for their benefit and that of George W. Swepson, who jointly claimed to be owners of the majority of the stock of this company.

That in said contract they mutually covenanted and agreed to issue "one million dollars of the first-mortgage bonds of this (the Florida Central Railroad) company of like denomination, and effect, and condition as the first-mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun as additional security for the payment of the said draft of $163,026.70, to be held by the said Houstoun in addition to the securities aforesaid. That is to say, to be held in addition to 4,400 shares of the stock of this company, and $103,000 of the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company. That the said Houstoun was fully authorized by said contract upon failure or default in the payment of said draft to offer said million dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, so agreed to be issued, for sale at public outcry, in the city of New York, upon giving ten days' notice of such sale, all which will appear by reference to said contract herewith filed, marked Exhibit M. to which reference is prayed, also to copies of contracts explanatory thereof, marked Exhibits E and N.

Your orator further shows that the said one million dollars of bonds, purporting to be the bonds of this company, were issued, signed and executed in the manner aforesaid, and were delivered to the said Houstoun (but not by this complainant, or by its authority), as covenated and agreed by the terms of the said contract.

That on the 11th day of January, 1871, the said Houstoun, with the approval and consent of the said Littlefield, delivered the said bonds over to T. B. Coddington, to be held and disposed of by him for the benefit of said Houstoun, in the payment of said draft, and for other purposes and trusts specified in the receipt of the said Coddington given for said bonds, a copy of which is herewith filed, marked Exhibit P, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator charges that said bonds were not intended to be given in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, to be exchanged for the bonds of the State, as fraudulently and 837 falsely expressed on the face or body of said bonds, but that they were intended to be in accordance with the terms of the said contract and to be given to the said Houstoun to secure a personal debt of said Milton S. Littlefield.

That the said bonds, a specimen copy of which, under the certificate of George F. Drew, governor, is herewith filed as Exhibit L, were not issued and completed as required. That two blanks appear on the face thereof, one as to the place where they were issued, raising a strong presumption that they were not issued at the office of the company, then in Tallahassee, and that there was some motive for concealing the place of issue. The other blank, where the name of Harrison Reed, governor, should have been signed, certifying that said bonds were issued under the provisions of the act of January 28th, 1870. That the said certificate attached to said bonds, to be signed by the governor of the State, was necessary to give said bonds identity and credit, as having been lawfully issued under said act; and the fact that the said governor did not and could not certify to the legality of the issue of said bonds was sufficient to impart notice to all persons interested in or dealing with said bonds or bonds, exchanged therefor, that they were not the lawful bonds of this company.

Your orator further shows that subsequent to the fraudulent signing and sealing of said bonds, purporting to be the bonds of this company, by the said Swepson and Thompson, the same were placed in the hands of said Houstoun, pursuant to the contract between Houstoun and Littlefield aforesaid, dated May 30th, 1870.

That soon thereafter the parties interested in the making and carrying out said contract caused a meeting of the board of directors to be called for that purpose, and passed a resolution adopting the said Swepson and Thompson bonds, which had been illegally issued as aforesaid, as the bonds of this company, and directed the same to be applied to the payment of private debts, and not to be used in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

That said meeting was irregular and unlawful, and was convened without the notice required in such cases. That subsequent thereto, when the fraudulent character of said bonds became known, at a meeting of the directors of this company on the 21st day of November, 1870, the said resolutions were rescinded and the said bonds ordered to be destroyed, as will more fully appear by a copy of said resolutions herewith filed, marked Exhibit R.

838 Your orator further shows that the bonds of the State of Florida, authorized to be issued under the said act of January 28th, 1870, to be exchanged for the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, were executed, countersigned, and placed in the hands of Harrison Reed, then governor of the State of Florida, being 4,000 bonds of $1,000 each, and numbered from one to four thousand inclusive.

Your orator, upon information, shows that after the action had by this company, recalling said bonds and ordering them to be destroyed, the said Harrison Reed, governor, with full knowledge of the fact, did unlawfully and fraudulently exchange one million dollars of the bonds of this company so illegally issued and so revoked and ordered to be destroyed by this company, and did deliver said State bonds to the said T. B. Coddington, not as the agent or in any way representing or pretending to represent the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but as the agent and trustee for said Houstoun under said contract, and the receipt of said Coddington so shows, and the said Coddington removed the said bonds secretly from the State of Florida.

Your orator further shows that George F. Drew, now governor of the State of Florida, claims the right and has threatened and attempted to seize the Florida Central Railroad and sell the same to satisfy and pay certain bonds of the State claimed to have been issued in exchange for the bonds of this company in manner aforesaid, amounting to 206 in number, of $1,000 each, alleged to have been sold in Europe and to be now in the possession of defendants to this cross-bill. But your orator denies that any of the bonds of the State so exchanged have been sold to bona-fide purchasers, and if sold, denies that this company is in any way responsible for or liable for payment thereof. That the bonds issued in exchange for said State bonds were not the bonds of this company, and were not executed by this company or by its authority. That the company had no legal power or authority to issue said bonds, either under the terms of its charter or under the provisions of the act of January 28th, 1870, to secure the completion of the public works of the State.

That the company's railroad was long before that time a completed railroad, and the issuing of said bonds was not within the legitimate power granted to this company, and was not for the interest or improvement of this company's railroad. That said bonds were not delivered to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and were not exchanged for State bonds either by or for them.

839 Your orator further shows that the said defendants, the pretended holders of said bonds, had due notice of the illegality of said bonds, and of the fraudulent means used to secure them. That they had notice by a suit then and still pending in the county of Leon, State of Florida, in which R. H. Gamble and J. D. Wescott, jr., were complainants, and Robert Houstoun et al. were defendants, in which the illegality of said bonds was charged and an injunctional order restraining the delivery of the said bonds to the State was granted.

That the defendants, the holders of said bonds, had notice by a dispatch sent to Europe in reply to enquiries made in relation to said bonds, by one Boissevain, a banker in Amsterdam, and one of the defendants, dated in December, 1870, as follows:

Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will be made for interest.

REED, Governor.

That they received further notice by a letter written to Boissevain, a banker in Amsterdam, and defendant to this suit, by E. M. L'Engle, and signed as counsel for this company, dated February 8th, 1871, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked Exhibit B, to which reference is prayed.

Your orator further shows, upon information, that none of the State bonds exchanged for said bonds of this company are claimed to have been sold prior to July, 1872, more than one year after said notices had been sent to the persons in Europe interested in like bonds. That, in consequence of such notices, complainant alleges that no bona fide sale was made of the State bonds exchanged for the said bonds of this company.

Your orator further shows that, in the suit of the State of Florida vs. the Florida Central Railroad Company et al., instituted in Duval County, for the collection of interest due on said bonds so held by the State, it became a material question whether any of the bonds of the State exchanged for said company's bonds had been sold, upon which issue was joined and trial and judgment had in the circuit court, and upon appeal to the Supreme Court it was adjudged and determined that there was no evidence that any of said State bonds had been sold, and the suit was thereupon, by order of said court, dismissed.

Your orator, therefore, says that the question of liability of this company to the State of Florida for the payment of said bonds has 840 been fairly put in issue before a court of competent jurisdiction, and, after a fair trial, was decided in favor of your orator, and is now res adjudicata.

Your orator further shows that the act of January 28th, 1870, which authorized the governor of the State to seize and sell certain railroads, on failure to pay interest on bonds exchanged by them for State bonds, gave to the governor such extraordinary power only to protect the State, in its sovereign capacity, from loss on the bonds so exchanged.

But the State bonds having been declared unconstitutional and void, such right of seizure no longer exists, the State having incurred no liability by reason of such exchange of bonds. That no power of seizure has been given to the governor, or any State officer, for the protection of private rights, as trustee or otherwise, and no such power can be conferred by this court.

Your orator further states, upon information, that the said governor still claims the right to seize and sell the said Florida Central Railroad, and it has good reasons to believe that he would endeavor to do so unless restrained by an injunctional order of this court.

Your orator hereby tenders and offers to pay, or cause to be paid, to the said defendants, or to any holder of the said 206 bonds, the interest that may be due thereon whenever the same is adjudged to be the act, deed, bond, obligation, or debt of the Florida Central Railroad Company, in such manner as this court may direct.

Inasmuch as your orator is without remedy at law, and can only have adequate protection and relief in a court of chancery, your orator prays that the United States writ of subpœna may be issued from this court to J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, Heinrich Ulrici, Elias Fuld, J. Borzo, H. Van Booven, Dr. Nicholas Jacob den Tex, H. J.

Brunnerkruff, J. H. Green, Willenmier Van Tyer, Van Taer C. Both, L. L. Wertheim, Wysman de Voogt, J. B. Roelopz, Jan Tichelaar, jr., Jacobus Wertheim, P. Van Reysen, Mey de Benedithy, Beer, Girard A. Heineken, T. Colom, Charles Gosewinckel, Boon Hartsink Van Tyen, N. J. Frankel, Johannes William Donk, Vander Stoop, and Berg, who are aliens and subjects of the King of the Netherlands; the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the said State, and a citizen thereof; the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, and a citizen thereof; Walter Gwynn, 841 treasurer of the State of Florida, George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, citizens of the State of Florida; and Robert J. Washington, a citizen of the State of Virginia.

Your orator further prays that the said bonds, purporting to be the bonds, of your orator, issued as aforesaid, and exchanged for the State bonds as alleged, may be deemed to be illegal and void, and ordered to be returned to the company and cancelled.

Your orator further prays that the holders of the State bonds, so exchanged, may be deemed to have no claim against your orator, and that the said bonds may be decreed to constitute no lien upon the said Florida Central Railroad.

Your orator further prays that an injunction may be issued by order of this court restraining the defendant George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida, his officers and agents, from seizing, or attempting to seize, the said Florida Central Railroad, and from advertising the same for sale, and from interfering, in any way, with the use and possession of said railroad by the said company, or with any of said company's property.

Your orator further prays that the said J. Fred Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins, and other defendants holding bonds of the State, exchanged as alleged, their agents and attorneys, may be enjoined perpetually from using or uttering said State bonds and from sueing your orator for payment thereof.

Your orator further prays that it may have such other relief in the premises as to this honorable court may seem meet and proper.

842 STATE OF FLORIDA,
County of Duval:

Personally appeared before me, Philip Walter, clerk of the United States circuit court, fifth judicial circuit, northern district of Florida, Charles B. Fenwick, who, being sworn, deposes and says that he has read the foregoing cross-bill, and is acquainted with the contents thereof; that the statements therein made are true to this affiant's knowledge, except as to those things which are stated on information and belief, and as to those things he believes them to be true.

REC. 667—28

843 EXHIBIT A.

Cross-bill of Florida Central Railroad Company.

In circuit court, Duval County, Florida.

EDWARD M. L'ENGLE, PLAINTIFF,
vs.
MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD, AARON BARNET, Edward Houstoun, Mariano D. Papy, George W. Swepson, The Florida Central Railroad Company, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Converse L. Chase, Francis H. Flagg, J. H. Gardiner, Harrison Reed, the governor of the State of Florida, J. P. C. Emmons, the attorney general of said State, Robert H. Gamble, the comptroller of said State, Simon B. Conover, the treasurer of said State, and John S. Adams, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State, who are, as such officers, trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, The Gulf Steamship Company, and Sidney W. Hopkins, L. Lewis Spring, Charles Fouke, Frank H. Collins, and Robert J. Carpenter, merchants and copartners doing business in the city and State of New York under the firm name of S. W. Hopkins & Co., defendants.

The plaintiff, in behalf of himself and of all others who, being stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, shall, in due time, come in and seek relief by and contribute to the expense of this action, complaining, alleges as follows:

That, under and by virtue of the provisions of an act of the legislature of the State of Florida entitled "An act to incoporate the 844 Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, and for other purposes," approved January 24, 1851, and of the provisions of another act of the legislature of the State of Florida entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7, 1853, the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company was incorporated, and by that name the stockholders and members of said company, their successors and assigns, were authorized to construct and operate a railroad from some tributary of the Atlantic Ocean, within the limits of the State of Florida, having a sufficient outlet to the ocean to admit of the passage of sea steamers; thence running through the State, in the most eligible direction, to some point, bay, arm, or tributary of the Gulf of Mexico, west of the Apalachicola River, in West Florida, having a sufficient outlet for sea steamers.

That, in accordance with the rights conferred by these acts, said company constructed a railroad from the town of Jacksonville, in Florida, to the town of Lake City, in said State, and operated the same for a number of years, and surrendered their right to build any portion of the line west of Lake City.

That, in accordance with the authority granted by an act of the legislature of Florida entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6, 1855, the said Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, for the purpose of constructing the railroad authorized by its charter, issued a large amount of bonds.

That, under the provisions of the said act, and the contract therein expressed, these bonds constituted a first lien or mortgage on the said roadbed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise of the company.

That, by said act and contract, it was provided that on failure of the company to pay the sinking-fund of one per cent., the trustees named in the act should take possession of and sell the said road and all the property of said company.

That said company failed to comply with the requirements of the statute aforesaid, and the trustees took possession of the road and sold it, in conformity with the statute and contract aforesaid, at public auction, on the 4th of March, 1868.

That, at said sale, William E. Jackson and his associates became the purchasers of said road and other property of said company.

That the said purchasers, by an act of the legislature of the State of Florida, approved July 29, 1868, were vested with the powers and franchises granted to the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, by the act aforesaid, entitled "An act to amend an act to incorporate the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company," approved January 7, 1853, and they, and their successors and assigns, were authorized and empowered to exercise the said powers and franchises, so far, and only so far, as they appertained to the railroad constructed, as aforesaid, by the Florida, Atlantic and Gulf Central Railroad Company, from Jacksonville to Lake City, in Florida, and were made a body politic and corporate, under the name of the "Florida Central Railroad Company."

That the said road, if a public work at all, is, and has long been, a completed public work.

845 That the Florida Central Railroad Company, under its charter (which charter is a contract between the individual stockholders upon the one side, and the State and corporation on the other side), is invested with no functions, rights, or powers, except such as pertain to a completed road, and that, in point of fact, the sole purpose for which the corporation exists, and for which the charter was granted, is the operation, control, management, and maintenance of a completed line of railroad extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, aforesaid.

That the plaintiff is a stockholder in said Florida Central Railroad and a member of said corporation, and is also a stockholder in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, hereafter mentioned, and a member of that corporation.

That, on the 20th of March, 1869, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company was a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railroad completed from Lake City, Florida, to Quincy, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That, on the day aforesaid, the Tallahassee Railroad Company was a corporation, existing under the laws of the State of Florida, with a line of railway completed from Tallahassee, Florida, to St. Mark's, Florida, and engaged in the business of common carriers.

That both of said railroad companies accepted and issued bonds under the provisions of the act of the legislature of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6, 1855, and became subject to all the provisions of said act.

That, on the 20th of March, 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under the authority vested in them by the third section of said act of the legislature of the State of Florida, upon and because of a failure on the part of said railroad companies to provide and pay the sinking fund as required in said act, on the bonds issued by the said companies, duly sold at public sale, the aforesaid railroads, and all the property of each of said companies of every kind, for the sum of $1,415,000, and, at that sum, one Franklin Dibble and his associates became the purchasers of the said railroads and of all the property of each of said companies.

And that, on the 8th day of April, 1869, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida made and delivered to said purchasers deeds of conveyance of said railroads and property, which deeds were duly recorded in the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Leon County, Florida, on the 22d and 23d days of October, A. D. 1869.

That the purchasers aforesaid paid the said trustees $960,000 on account of the purchase money of said roads, in first-mortgage bonds of said companies (issued under the said act of January 6, 1855), at the par value thereof, and the said purchasers received credit therefor.

That the remainder of said purchase money never has been paid, nor the payment thereof in any manner secured, as the plaintiff is informed and believes.

That one George W. Swepson, in consideration of a large and controlling interest in the stock transferred and conveyed to him by the said Franklin Dibble, and the other persons associated with him 846 in said purchase, and by the consent of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, acting by their duly appointed agents, and for other considerations, promised to and received by him, undertook to pay the remainder of said purchase money, and to do other things for the benefit of said purchasers (and of the corporation which they, in conjunction with other persons acting with them, intended to be created into by act of the legislature). And the said trustees, acting by their duly appointed agents, accepted said Swepson as their debtor the place of the said purchasers.

That, on the 24th of June, 1869, the legislature of Florida passed an act entitled "An act for the relief of Franklin Dibble, E. M. Cheney, and their associates," purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and of the railroad from Quincy to Lake City, and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company, by which the said purchasers and their associates were created a body corporate, under the name of the "Tallahassee Railroad Company," and were vested with like powers, franchises, and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the acts incorporating said companies.

That, on the 24th June, 1869, by an act of the legislature of Florida, approved on that day, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of this State," and by an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, 1870, a corporation called the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was created, empowered to build and operate a railroad from Quincy to Pensacola in said State, and to consolidate its road or line of intended road with those of the beforementioned Tallahassee Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and to exercise other powers and privileges.

That the Tallahassee Railroad Company already mentioned, and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, did, in the manner provided for by said last-mentioned act, consolidate their said roads, under the name of the latter company, and redistributed the stock.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that, before said consolidation, or afterwards, the said George W. Swepson, in consideration that the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, would pay to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida the remainder of said purchase money of the said railroad, which remainder, or any part thereof, the said Swepson had not paid as he undertook to do, and for other considerations undertaken by said Littlefield to be performed, he, the said Swepson, transferred and conveyed to said Littlefield, all of his, said Swepson's property and interest in the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, or in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and in the Florida Central Railroad Company (one of these defendants), in which last mentioned company, as in the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, he, the said Swepson, had a majority of the stock interest.

And the property so transferred and conveyed was of value much greater than the unpaid purchase money due to the said trustees.

That, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, said Littlefield received said transfer of interest with and upon the distinct 847 promise made by him that he would out of his own resources, pay such unpaid purchase money. And the plaintiff avers, on his own knowledge, that when the said Littlefield received the said transfer and conveyance, and always before that time, he knew that the said Swepson had not paid said remainder of the purchase money of the said railroad, or any part thereof.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield was elected president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company at the time of its organization, and has continued to be president ever since. And that afterwards he was elected president of the Florida Central Railroad Company; and that defendant, Aaron Barnett, claims now to be the president thereof, and to have been elected as such on the 9th or 10th of April, 1872.

That the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company was granted, by the acts incorporating it, the right to build a railroad from Quincy, Florida, westward to the Alabama State line, and that to aid it in doing so the governor of the State of Florida was, by said acts, directed to deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of the State to an amount equal to $16,000 per mile for the whole length of railroad owned by said company, in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said company; and said acts provided that the State should have a statutory lien on said road as security against loss.

That said acts also provide that the governor, for the purpose of further aiding said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to speedily construct its road, shall deliver to the president of said company other coupon bonds of the State of Florida, to the amount of $16,000 per mile, upon receiving from the president of said company first-mortgage bonds of like amount on any portion of the line of railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville, not exceeding one hundred miles of any part of railroad between those points, which provision is contained in the 4th section of the act approved January 4th, 1870.

That, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the said Littlefield received from the governor of Florida four millions of said bonds of said State, of which one million were issued in exchange for a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor by said Milton S. Littlefield, which one million of State bonds were issued under section 4 of the act of 1870 above referred to.

That it is claimed by said Littlefield, and by the governor of the State of Florida, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor and in exchange for which the million of State bonds were delivered to said Littlefield, constitute a lien upon the line of said road and the property owned by the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or are valid, legal, and subsisting obligations of said company to the State of Florida.

Plaintiff says further, on information and belief, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company were deposited with the State about the 4th of January, 1871, without the knowledge or consent of the stockholders or directors, generally, of said company, or of its president, and against the wishes of them, or some of them; and that it was done with the knowledge and consent, and secretly, and by the contrivance of the defendant Milton S. Littlefield, and in fraud of said company and of the stockholders and creditors thereof, and in violation of its charter and of the powers and 848 privileges thereof, which never contemplated that said company should engage in the building of any other than its own line of road, or incur any obligation, or pledge its credit, for any other than the purposes mentioned in the charter.

And the plaintiff says that the State of Florida, acting through its officers, was a party to the fraud, and cannot allege ignorance of the facts, or of the law governing said corporation.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield, through himself and his agents, sold most of the said four million dollars of bonds, and, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, received a very large amount of money therefor, the plaintiff cannot say with positiveness or certainty how much, but to the best of his information and belief, more than $1,000,000.

That said bonds were issued by the State and received by the said Littlefield, as president of the said railroad company, for the purposes stated in said act of the legislature, which were to aid the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road westward from Quincy to the Alabama line. And the stockholders and creditors of said company confided in him to receive the said funds and apply them to the purposes for which they were intended. But, instead of carrying out that trust and confidence, the said Milton S. Littlefield has received the said money, or a large proportion of it, and has diverted it from the legitimate uses of the corporation, and has misapplied it to his own personal and private uses and purposes, and has applied only a small proportion thereof to the purposes for which said bonds were issued.

That said Milton S. Littlefield has not given, and fails to give, any sufficient account of the application of said funds; that he has made no report of his receipts and disbursements, or of his administration of said roads, and of the affairs of said companies, since he has been president of them respectively. And holding, as he does, the majority of the stock in both companies, he exercises an arbitrary and absolute control over their affairs, and by his votes shapes the directory of each company as he pleases.

That he makes, or permits to be made, nominal transfers of small amounts of stock in each company, to such persons owning no stock, or insufficient thereof, as he wants elected directors thereof, in order to give them an apparent qualification as such, and causes them by his votes, to be elected directors, when, in fact, they do not in good faith own any, or, if any, a sufficiency of stock in said companies, and are not really qualified to act as directors in the respective companies, under the respective charters thereof; and causes himself, or such person as he may select, thus to be elected president, and thus he shuns and escapes all investigation into his, or such other person's conduct, as president of said companies respectively.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield has purchased, and claims as his own property, a large amount of the capital stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and a large number of the first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or of both (for the non-payment of the sinking fund of which bonds the said roads were, as has been herein stated, sold 349 by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida), which stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or a large amount of which, he obtained by purchase with money realized and obtained from the assets and earnings of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and Florida Central Railroad Company, and not with his individual private funds, all of which purchases so paid for belong to the said corporations.

That the following are some of the purchases of stocks of said railroad made by said Littlefield with funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company or to the Florida Central Railroad Company, or to both, and claimed now by said Littlefield to be his own property, viz:

From James M. Baker, Silas L. Niblack, and Wilkinson Call he purchased 3,750 shares of stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, being 1,250 shares from each of them.

On information and belief plaintiff further says that said Littlefield also in the same manner purchased stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from Alonzo Huling, F. Dibble, Calvin Dibble, and other persons, paying for the same, directly or indirectly, with funds belonging to the said corporation.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that the stock so purchased by Milton S. Littlefield and paid for or contracted to be paid for, directly or indirectly, out of the funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to the Florida Central Railroad Company, constitute, with that which he has otherwise acquired, a majority of the stock of said companies, respectively, claimed by the said Littlefield as his property, and by voting which, directly or indirectly, he controls the organization and management of said companies, respectively, and upon which he claims and assumes the right to receive the dividends, if any there be.

All of which stock so purchased belongs to the corporations, respectively, to be divided among the several stockholders pro rata, or has become extinct as stock, thereby increasing by so much the value of each of the remaining shares of stock.

Plaintiff further says that said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in the latter part of the year 1869, or early in the year 1870, made a contract in writing with certain commissioners representing the Western Division

That, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the said Littlefield received from the governor of Florida four millions of said bonds of said State, of which one million were issued in exchange for a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor by said Milton S. Littlefield, which one million of State bonds were issued under section 4 of the act of 1870 above referred to.

That it is claimed by said Littlefield, and by the governor of the State of Florida, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, delivered to said governor and in exchange for which the million of State bonds were delivered to said Littlefield, constitute a lien upon the line of said road and the property owned by the said Florida Central Railroad Company, or are valid, legal, and subsisting obligations of said company to the State of Florida.

Plaintiff says further, on information and belief, that the said million of dollars of bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company were deposited with the State about the 4th of January, 1871, without the knowledge or consent of the stockholders or directors, generally, of said company, or of its president, and against the wishes of them, or some of them; and that it was done with the knowledge and consent, and secretly, and by the contrivance of the defendant Milton S. Littlefield, and in fraud of said company and of the stockholders and creditors thereof, and in violation of its charter and of the powers and 848 privileges thereof, which never contemplated that said company should engage in the building of any other than its own line of road, or incur any obligation, or pledge its credit, for any other than the purposes mentioned in the charter.

And the plaintiff says that the State of Florida, acting through its officers, was a party to the fraud, and cannot allege ignorance of the facts, or of the law governing said corporation.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield, through himself and his agents, sold most of the said four million dollars of bonds, and, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, received a very large amount of money therefor, the plaintiff cannot say with positiveness or certainty how much, but to the best of his information and belief, more than $1,000,000.

That said bonds were issued by the State and received by the said Littlefield, as president of the said railroad company, for the purposes stated in said act of the legislature, which were to aid the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to complete, equip, and maintain its road westward from Quincy to the Alabama line. And the stockholders and creditors of said company confided in him to receive the said funds and apply them to the purposes for which they were intended. But, instead of carrying out that trust and confidence, the said Milton S. Littlefield has received the said money, or a large proportion of it, and has diverted it from the legitimate uses of the corporation, and has misapplied it to his own personal and private uses and purposes, and has applied only a small proportion thereof to the purposes for which said bonds were issued.

That said Milton S. Littlefield has not given, and fails to give, any sufficient account of the application of said funds; that he has made no report of his receipts and disbursements, or of his administration of said roads, and of the affairs of said companies, since he has been president of them respectively. And holding, as he does, the majority of the stock in both companies, he exercises an arbitrary and absolute control over their affairs, and by his votes shapes the directory of each company as he pleases.

That he makes, or permits to be made, nominal transfers of small amounts of stock in each company, to such persons owning no stock, or insufficient thereof, as he wants elected directors thereof, in order to give them an apparent qualification as such, and causes them by his votes, to be elected directors, when, in fact, they do not in good faith own any, or, if any, a sufficiency of stock in said companies, and are not really qualified to act as directors in the respective companies, under the respective charters thereof; and causes himself, or such person as he may select, thus to be elected president, and thus he shuns and escapes all investigation into his, or such other person's conduct, as president of said companies respectively.

That the said Milton S. Littlefield has purchased, and claims as his own property, a large amount of the capital stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and a large number of the first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, or of both (for the non-payment of the sinking fund of which bonds the said roads were, as has been herein stated, sold 849 by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida), which stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or a large amount of which, he obtained by purchase with money realized and obtained from the assets and earnings of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and Florida Central Railroad Company, and not with his individual private funds, all of which purchases so paid for belong to the said corporations.

That the following are some of the purchases of stocks of said railroad made by said Littlefield with funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company or to the Florida Central Railroad Company, or to both, and claimed now by said Littlefield to be his own property, viz:

From James M. Baker, Silas L. Niblack, and Wilkinson Call he purchased 3,750 shares of stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, being 1,250 shares from each of them.

On information and belief plaintiff further says that said Littlefield also in the same manner purchased stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from Alonzo Huling, F. Dibble, Calvin Dibble, and other persons, paying for the same, directly or indirectly, with funds belonging to the said corporation.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that the stock so purchased by Milton S. Littlefield and paid for or contracted to be paid for, directly or indirectly, out of the funds belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to the Florida Central Railroad Company, constitute, with that which he has otherwise acquired, a majority of the stock of said companies, respectively, claimed by the said Littlefield as his property, and by voting which, directly or indirectly, he controls the organization and management of said companies, respectively, and upon which he claims and assumes the right to receive the dividends, if any there be.

All of which stock so purchased belongs to the corporations, respectively, to be divided among the several stockholders pro rata, or has become extinct as stock, thereby increasing by so much the value of each of the remaining shares of stock.

Plaintiff further says that said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in the latter part of the year 1869, or early in the year 1870, made a contract in writing with certain commissioners representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, whereby more than one million dollars of the funds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company were contracted by said Littlefield, as president, to be paid to said commissioners in satisfaction of a debt due by said Littlefield personally and individually, or which was contracted by said Swepson and assumed by said Littlefield, and for which the said railroad company was in no wise responsible.

On information and belief plaintiff says that a part of said money has been paid out of proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company under the act aforesaid, approved June 24, 1869, and that said contract is still subsisting.

Plaintiff further says that among the many other misappropriations and diversions by the said Milton S. Littlefield of the funds
850 belonging to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company, he recites, on information and belief, the following, viz:

He caused to be paid out of said funds the following amounts to the following persons, viz: To Jennie Hunter, $300; Alonzo Huling, $5,000; F. A. Dockray, $5,000; J. L. KeQua, $5,000; A. G. Cattel, $735.60; J. B. Clark, $75,000; to some persons unknown, "for balance of judgment vs. Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, with interest," $30,000; to J. S. Meech, $12,600; to R. R. Swepson, $50,000; to First National Bank of Knoxville, $19,684.36; to C. F. Bruton, $10,000; John Rankin, $9,225.17; J. R. Campbell, $1,976.87; W. W. Hubbard, $500; W. Cummings & Co., $466; Drew & Davis, $377.53; to some unknown person for "Grocers' Bank Judgment vs. Road," $5,790; Mrs. E. Holland, $300; John T. Deweese, $20,000; to some unknown person, "balance due on Jacksonville property," $2,590.04; to Governor Reed, "on account," $3,500; D. P. Holland, "on account," $4,630; T. B. Coddington, $57,895.33; S. W. Hopkins, T. B. Coddington, R. Stewart, and others, "for traveling expenses to and from Florida, hotel fares, ocean cables, and other expenses while there," $6,216.38; J. B. Clark, for expenses to Florida, $100; G. B. Carse, do. do., $60; R. Stewart, Washington, $100; to divers unknown persons for "legal expenses defending suits by N. W. Woodfin and L. P. Bayne," $17,850; to a person unknown having a "draft from Florida," £4,433.19.3 (in English currency); to Baring Brothers & Co., for A. Barnett's claim, £19,349.14.1 (in English currency); to Clewes, Habrecht & Co., for G. W. Swepson, £3,717.18.7 (in English currency); to the commissioners of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, £10,000.00.0 (English currency).

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Littlefield has, as president aforesaid, pledged the proceeds of said State bonds for the payment of the following additional amounts to or on account of the following persons, viz: R. H. Gamble, $15,000; F. H. Flagg, $4,000; T. B. Coddington, $25,000; L. P. Bayne & Co., $200,000; J. H. Porter, $10,000; D. P. Holland, $17,365; Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, $350,000; Governor Harrison Reed, $223,750; and that all of said additional amounts are gross and fraudulent misapplications sought to be made of said proceeds.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Milton S. Littlefield has drawn for himself upon the proceeds of said bonds at one time $1,178.50, and at various other times £4,981.10.5 (English currency); and the plaintiff says, on information and belief, that nearly all, if not the entire amount of the last stated sums were misapplied and squandered by said Littlefield for his own purposes.

The plaintiff further says, on the information of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York and London, that the said Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, offered to them and sold to them the said four million of State bonds, being four thousand bonds, at the price of £100 sterling for each bond, when, at that very time, said Littlefield knew that said bonds were contracted to be sold, or were sold by his agents, for the price of £138.1.10 sterling.

851 That on or about the 2d of October, 1871, the said Milton S. Littlefield, without authority of the stockholders first had and obtained, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, executed, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a lease of said company's road for the term of two years to the defendants, Converse L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, for the purposes specified in said lease; among which were that they should receive the income and profits of said road and apply the same to the payment of certain specified indebtedness thereof, and to the extension of said road westward.

That under said lease one J. H. Gardiner was appointed superintendent of said road, and that under color of said lease the said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg, and J. H. Gardiner assumed, with the consent of said Littlefield, its president, the exclusive management and control of the Florida Central Railroad, and received its income; and applied it, as this plaintiff is informed and believes, to the payment of the debts of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and to the extension of said railroad westward, and to other purposes of said last-mentioned corporation.

That said lease provides that the proceeds, when realized, of the one million dollars of bonds, before mentioned, issued by the State of Florida and received by said Littlefield, as president aforesaid, in exchange for a like amount of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company deposited with the governor of said State, should be applied to the extension of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad westward, and not to legitimate purposes of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

That, as plaintiff is informed and believes, said million, or thereabouts, of said bonds are deposited with or under the control of John Collinson, of London, in the kingdom of England, and have not yet been sold.

Plaintiff states, on information and belief, that the said C. L. Chase F. H. Flagg, and J. H. Gardiner have not accounted to the respective companies for the receipts of said roads, respectively.

The plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that on or about the 30th of November, 1871, the said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the said C. L. Chase and F. H. Flagg, as trustees, under the lease or deed of trust heretofore mentioned, dated October 2d, 1871, did, by their attorneys duly authorized thereto, and in fraud of the rights of the stockholders of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of said Florida Central Railroad Company, enter into a written agreement with one L. P. Bayne, and L. P. Bayne & Co., and one S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York, and with one N. W. Woodfin, of North Carolina, representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, whereby it was provided, among other things, that out of the proceeds accrued and to accrue of $1,200,000 of bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by said State, under and for the purposes specified in the act of the legislature of said State, already mentioned, approved June 24, 1869, which bonds were then in the hands or under the control of said John Collinson, and of which the million of bonds issued upon the security of a like amount of bonds of the 852 Florida Central Railroad Company, as already stated, were a portion, there should be paid to the said L P. Bayne, for himself, and L. P. Bayne & Co., $200,000; and to said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, $300,000; and by the same contract it was agreed that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company undertook to secure to the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company the payment of the further sum of $300,000, and to the said L. P. Bayne and L. P. Bayne & Co. the further sum of $140,000.

The plaintiff further says that all of the money above mentioned provided by said contract to be paid was for the payment of debts of said Milton S. Littlefield, as an individual, and not of debts of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company; and that, in entering into said contract, the said Milton S. Littlefield and the said C. L. Chase and F. H. Flagg committed a fraud upon the rights of stockholders in said companies, respectively.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that the performance of the terms of said contract has, thus far, been prevented by the intervention of other parties having interests in said fund, but that the same may, unless prevented by this court, be still carried out.

The plaintiff further states, on information and belief, that said Milton S. Littlefield, as president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, without the advice or consent of the stockholders or directors of said companies (and in violation of section four of the act of the legislature of Florida, already mentioned, approved June 24, 1869, for the incorporation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company), and the said Aaron Barnett, claiming to be a large stockholder and the president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and one John Scriven and other persons unknown to the plaintiff, are negotiating together to effect a lease of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and of the said Florida Central Railroad, to said John Scriven, who is a citizen of the State of Georgia, and owns a large interest in a railroad out of the State of Florida, or to the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company, a corporation created by and existing under the laws of the State of Georgia; among the terms whereof, as the plaintiff is informed and believes, it is designed that the said Milton S. Littlefield shall surrender and assign to such lessee, or to some one else for him, a moiety or a majority of the stock claimed by the said Littlefield as belonging to him in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and in the said Florida Central Railroad Company, and that all the assets of said companies, including unexpended proceeds of bonds of the State of Florida issued to said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as herein stated, and such of said bonds as may still be unsold shall be delivered to said lessee for the purpose of paying to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida the remainder of the purchase money, still unpaid, of the Pensacola and Georgia and the said Tallahassee Railroads, and for which, not the said corporations, but the individual purchasers of the said last-mentioned roads, especially said George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, who took their stock, as herein stated, with the charge that they should pay the said debt, are liable to the said trustees.

853 Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that another proposition which the said persons who are negotiating together are considering, in violation of said section of said act of the legislature, is that the said John Scriven, or the said Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company shall lease, for a long term of years, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and the said Florida Central Railroad, paying yearly a stipulated rental, all of the funds and assets of said companies now in hand being left with said companies to be applied, by said Littlefield, to the payment of the unpaid purchase money of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, and of said Tallahasse Railroad, and to other debts, for which, as the plaintiff claims, neither the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, nor the said Florida Central Railroad Company, is liable.

On information and belief, plaintiff also says, that said Littlefield or said Barnett, or both of them, are negotiating with C. L. Chase and others to make another lease of said railroads to him and those acting with him, the terms of which are similar to those already stated.

And the plaintiff says, that unless the relief hereby prayed is granted, or a portion of it, one of the said propositions, or some other equally injurious to the stockholders of said road, and in violation of said act, and which may work a forfeiture of the charter of the company created by said act, may be adopted and carried into effect to the great damage of the plaintiff as a stockholder in the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railway Company, and in said Florida Central Railroad Company.

The plaintiff further says, that under the management of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and of the said Florida Central Railroad, as it now is, and for twelve or more months has been, the incomes thereof are improvidently used and applied. The said Milton S. Littlefield, as president, is receiving an extravagant salary of, as the plaintiff is informed, ten thousand dollars per year, and has clerks and servants in his employ at an expense to the said companies, as the plaintiff is informed, of several thousand dollars a year; that, as plaintiff is informed, said Littlefield employs in England, New York, Florida and elsewhere, at the expense of said companies, but for the advancement of his own individual purposes, and not for the advantage of the companies, one or more attorneys-at-law in each of said counties and places, and that said president, clerks, servants and attorneys are of no use or benefit to said companies.

That, on or about the 19th of May, 1871, said Littlefield transferred and assigned to defendant, Aaron Barnett, by indenture, recorded in Leon County, Florida, in the clerk's office thereof, 41,963 shares of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company (which he, the said Littlefield, claimed and claims to own), and all other shares which he then owned, or thereafter might acquire, in the stock of said road, and 4,410 shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which he, the said Littlefield, claimed and claims to own, and all other shares in the said company's capital stock which he then owned, or thereafter might acquire; which transfer and assignment was in trust to secure a certain company, known as the Gulf Steamship Company (a corporation created by the laws of Florida, but whose charter, as plaintiff is informed, has been repealed), in the payment by 854 the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company of all moneys which might come due thereafter by said railroad company to said Gulf Steamship Company, for work done by said company, in extending the railway of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company westward from the Chattahoochee River.

That by the terms of said assignment and transfer said Milton S. Littlefield reserved the right to vote said stock so assigned at all proper times and places.

That said stock of both companies, so assigned, is made up, in large part, of the stock purchased and paid for, or contracted to be paid for, by said Littlefield, with money belonging to the said companies, as herein stated; and plaintiff says, on information, as to a large portion of said stock so acquired, that the said Barnett knew when he received said stock that said Littlefield had purchased it with money belonging to the said corporations.

That said Gulf Steamship Company has not done any work in extending the said railway westward from Chattahoochee River, and has in no wise become entitled to receive any compensation therefor, or upon any other consideration, from said railroad company. That said Aaron Barnett was a member of said Gulf Steamship Company, and, as its agent, received said stock in trust, and, at the time of receiving it, had notice that the said unpaid purchase money of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, had not been paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida.

Plaintiff states, on information and belief, that the defendants, M. D. Papy or Edward Houston, or both of them, also claim to hold, or in some way have control over, a portion of the stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, which said Milton S. Littlefield claims to own, which, as herein stated, has been assigned and transferred to said A. Barnett, in trust, and that said Papy or Houston, or both of them, claim the right to vote, and do vote, the said stock, or some of it.

That, as plaintiff is informed, said Papy, or Edward Houstoun, or both of them, claim to hold or control said stock, or a portion of it, and also a number of the first-mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, or of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, which are claimed to be the property of said Littlefield, or in which he has some legal or equitable interest by virtue of, and for the performance of, some trust, unknown to plaintiff, and which plaintiff calls on them to set forth and substantiate.

And he says further, that, if the said stock and bonds belong to the said Littlefield, they and all stock owned by him, as well as all of his other property, should be held subject to payment of demands of the said corporations and of the stockholders whose money and assets he has misapplied and converted to his own use.

Plaintiff further says, on information, that the defendants herein named, as constituting the mercantile firm of S. W. Hopkins & Co., claim or are alleged to have an interest in the last mentioned trusts, and in the bonds and stocks affected, or claimed to be affected, by these trusts, and also in the bonds of the State of Florida, herein mentioned, and that therefore they are made parties defendant to this suit.

Plaintiff further says, that the trustees of the internal improve-855 ment fund of the State of Florida have commenced suit against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and other defendants to recover the sum of $472,000 unpaid purchase money, due as herein stated, and interest thereon from the day of the sale of said roads, and have prayed for and obtained the appointment of a receiver of the said roads and of the other property of said company, and have prayed for and obtained an order that said receiver take the absolute and exclusive control of not only the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but also of the Florida Central Railroad, and the receiver, who is Jonathan C. Greeley, has so taken possession and control of said railroads, and the said trustees seek to have the net earnings, not only of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but also of the Florida Central Railroad, go into the hands of said Greeley and be applied, under the order of the court, to the payment of the purchase money still unpaid, and have obtained an order to that effect.

Plaintiff further says that said Milton S. Littlefield and said Aaron Barnett, in violation of their duty as president of said Florida Central Railroad Company, and in disregard of the interests of said company and of stockholders therein, have permitted and still permit said receiver to take and hold possession of said railroad, and have made no attempt to recover it nor to defend said suit.

That said Littlefield, as president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, has made no attempt to recover possession of said road, nor, as plaintiff is informed, does he intend to defend said action, but will allow judgment to be had by default against said corporation.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that Aaron Barnett, one of these defendants, has received from Milton S. Littlefield, individually or as president of one of said railroad corporations, a large sum of money, amounting to about $100,000, for the purchase from him, the said Barnett, of steamboats, and for other considerations, uses, and purposes which were not intended in and by the act of the legislature of Florida, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869, and the amendments thereto.

That the payments and advances so made to said Aaron Barnett were made out of the proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company as herein stated under said act, and that said Barnett at the time he sold said steamboats and received said money therefor, and for other considerations, uses, and purposes not contemplated by said act, knew that said money was the proceeds of the said bonds, and was affected and charged with the trust imposed by said act, and that said trust was violated by the payments made to him.

Plaintiff further says, on information and belief, that said Aaron Barnett received from said Littlefield, individually or as president of said railroad company, a large number of the said bonds of the State issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company for the purposes specified in said act of June 24th, 1869. That said bonds were not delivered to said Barnett for any legitimate lawful purpose or use of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company under the authority of the said act, but for speculative purposes outside of said act, and for uses and upon considerations foreign thereto, all of which was well known to said Littlefield and to said Barnett.

856 And the plaintiff says that said Barnett has not applied either said money or said bonds or the proceeds of said bonds to the legitimate uses of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company as intended and prescribed by the act aforesaid.

Wherefore the plaintiff demands judgment—

1st. That the delivery of one million dollars of bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company to the governor of the State of Florida, in exchange for one million dollars of the State bonds, be declared to be a fraud perpetrated upon said company and the stockholders, and that said bonds be declared to have no binding legal validity as obligations of said company.

2d. That the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, be required to render a full, true, and accurate statement in detail of his receipts and expenditures, and of those of his agents from the proceeds of the State bonds and from the income and assets of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and said Florida Central Railroad Company, respectively, and a statement of the considerations upon which such expenditures were made, and that a reference be had to ascertain and report such receipts and expenditures and the sources thereof and considerations therefor.

3d. That the defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, be required to surrender all stock in either of said railroads and all railroad bonds and other property purchased or paid for, in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, with the receipts or assets of said railroad companies or either of them, and that such purchases be declared to inure to the benefit of said railroad companies, respectively, with whose funds, wholly or partly, the purchase may have been made, and that such stocks, bonds, and other property be delivered for safe keeping to the receiver who may be appointed in this suit, and be held subject to the order of this court.

4th. That the defendants, Papy and Houstoun, be required by the final decree of this court to deliver to a receiver all stock and evidences of title thereto in the Florida Central Railroad Company and all bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, held or controlled by them, or either of them, wherein the said Milton S. Littlefield, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or the said Florida Central Railroad Company has a legal or equitable interest. That the said Barnett be required to deliver to a receiver all stocks and evidences of title thereto in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and in the Florida Central Railroad Company; and all bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company; and all other property held or controlled by him wherein the said M. S. Littlefield, or the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or the Florida Central Railroad Company has a legal or equitable interest, and all bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company received by him from that company, or from its president, or its or his agents or attorneys, or from Milton S. Littlefield, or George W. Swepson, or their agents, or the agent of either of them; and all proceeds of such bonds of the State of Florida so received by him, the consideration for the reception of which by him was different from the purposes for which said bonds were issued.

857 5th. That the lease of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, made on the 2d October, 1871, by defendant, Milton S. Littlefield, be annulled and set aside. That said C. L. Chase, F. H. Flagg and J. H. Gardener be required to render a full and accurate statement of the receipts from, and the expenditures on account of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, and of the Florida Central Railroad, severally and respectively, and a statement of the sources of such receipts, and of the considerations and purposes of such expenditures; and to pay to a receiver or other person, under the order of this court, all moneys received from the income or assets of said roads, respectively, and not expended legitimately and legally for the sole and exclusive use, benefit and advantage of said corporations, respectively, from which moneys may have been received, and that a reference be had to ascertain these facts.

6th. That the defendants, F. H. Flagg and C. L. Chase, be enjoined from receiving any of the proceeds of State bonds of Florida, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and from expending any of such proceeds in their hands.

7th. That the said M. S. Littlefield, president, as aforesaid, and his successors, and the said F. H. Flagg and C. L. Chase, their agents and attorneys, be enjoined from carrying out, or attempting to carry out, any part of the agreement, made by them through themselves or their attorneys on the 30th day of November, 1871, or about that time, with L. P. Bayne, L. P. Bayne & Co., and S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York, and N. W. Woodfin, of North Carolina, representing the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, which provided for the payment to the parties above mentioned, or any of them, of any portion of the unexpended proceeds of the bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, under the act of the legislature of Florida, approved June 24th, 1869, and the amendments thereto; or for the payment to any of said parties of any other moneys by said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, from any other source which said agreement may provide for the payment of.

8th. That the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the successors of each of them, and the said corporations, be enjoined from leasing said roads, or either of them, or any part thereof, to John Scriven or his associates, or to the Atlantic and Gulf Railroad Company, or any other person or corporation, until the ownership of the stock of said companies be determined by the court, and until duly qualified directors and other officers of said companies have been elected by the votes of holders of a legal and bona fide majority of shares of stock, to be ascertained and determined by the court; and that under all circumstances the said corporations, and their officers, respectively, be enjoined from leasing said railroads on terms violative of the rights or interests of any stockholder or creditor, or violative of the law governing said corporations, and that if any lease has already been made that it be vacated and set aside.

9th. That the defendants, Aaron Barnett, M. D. Papy, and Edward Houstoun, be enjoined from selling, transfer'ing, assigning, pledging, making advances upon, or charging, or otherwise disposing of, 858 or encumbering any of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or any of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company's bonds, or of the Tallahassee Railroad Company's bonds, or any of the bonds of the State of Florida, which they, or either of them, may hold or control in the manner hereinbefore set forth, and especially that the said Barnett may be enjoined from selling, assigning, transferring, hypothecating, charging, making advances upon, or otherwise disposing of, or encumbering any of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which he holds, or held, in trust, by indenture to him by M. S. Littlefield, executed on or about the 19th of May, 1871, to secure the Gulf Steamship Company, in certain undertakings then had by and between said Littlefield and said Gulf Steamship Company. And that said Papy, Houstoun, and Barnett be enjoined from voting any of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's, or Florida Central Railroad Company's stock, in any meeting of stockholders of said companies, or either of them.

10th. That said Milton S. Littlefield be enjoined, until further order of the court, from selling, transferring, assigning, pledging, or otherwise disposing of, or encumbering any of the stock in the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or in the Florida Central Railroad Company, owned or claimed by him, or in which he has, or claims to have, an interest, legal or equitable.

That he be enjoined from voting, in any stockholder's meeting, any stock in either of said companies, which was purchased or paid for, in part or in whole, directly or indirectly, with any money or assets of said railroad corporations, or either of them. And that he be required to deliver to a receiver, to be appointed by the court, all such stocks and bonds, to be held subject to the judgment in this suit.

11th. That the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, and the president of each of said companies, and the said Milton S. Littlefield, and said Aaron Barnett, be enjoined, until the further order of this court, from using, or in any wise disturbing the bonds of the State of Florida, if unsold, or their proceeds if sold, which were issued in exchange for bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

12th. That the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida be enjoined from proceeding in their said suit, or upon their alleged cause of action, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, till they have exhausted George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield. And that they be enjoined from proceeding at all, and under any circumstances, against the Florida Central Railroad Company.

13th. That the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad and the said Florida Central Railroad be taken out of the hands of the receiver appointed in said suit of said trustees, and that they be put in the custody and control of a receiver to be appointed for the purposes of this suit; and that the order in said suit appointing a receiver be vacated; and that the earnings of said roads, and all property of said companies in the hands of the receiver, appointed at the instance of the said trustee, be delivered and paid to the receiver 859 herein prayed to be appointed.

14th. That Aaron Barnett be required to deliver and pay to the receiver herein prayed for, or to such other person as the court may name. the money received by him out of the proceeds of bonds of the State of Florida, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or out of the funds or assets of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, with interest thereon from the time of his receiving the same.

15th. That a receiver or receivers be appointed for the purposes of this suit, with the necessary and usual powers, and that he or they be instructed and empowered as herein prayed.

16th. That the plaintiff may have such other relief as may be just and requisite for the protection or enforcement of his rights, and that he may recover his costs in this suit.

860 EXHIBIT B.

Cross-bill of Florida Central Railroad Company.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., February 8th, 1871.

Messrs. HOLJE BOISSEVAIN, Bankers,
Amsterdam Holland:

GENTLEMEN: On December 18th, 1870, Governor Harrison Reed, of Florida, received a telegraphic dispatch from you, substantially as follows:

"Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment interest, whatever result railroad traffic. Financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?"

To this dispatch Governor Reed replied as follows:

"Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will, therefore, be made for interest."

861 It was hoped that Governor Reed's telegram would have the effect of causing the bonds to be returned, as the railroad companies desired they should be. This has not been done, but on the contrary more bonds than were then out have been sent to Europe for negotiation, though no money I infer has yet been realized. I feel it to be my duty, therefore, to make a statement of facts to you, which I hope that you will lay before others who may be interested with you in the negotiations.

When the legislature of Florida enacted the laws under which the bonds your telegram inquired about were issued, it was believed by the two railroad companies, hereafter named, that the proceeds of the State bonds when sold would be honestly and legitimately applied to the extension, through the western portion of this State, of the lines of railroad already built from the eastern to the middle portion. That extension was so much desired by the two companies owning the completed railroads that they were willing to mortgage, and did mortgage, their roads to the State, in order to secure the issuing of State bonds upon which to raise money to enable the newly organized company to build said extension. The railroads which so pledged their mortgage bonds to the State were the Florida Central Railroad, sixty miles long, and the Tallahassee Railroad, one hundred and fifty miles long. The former gave its mortgage bonds to the amount of one million dollars; the latter to the amount of three million dollars; and this latter road consolidated its line with that proposed to be built westward from the completed road, and the two companies became one, under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. But the Florida Central Railroad, commencing at Jacksonville, and running westward sixty miles, was not included in the consolidation. Subsequently, and after three million' of the State bonds had been sent to Europe, it was discovered that the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who had been active in procuring the legislation, and inducing the completed roads to give to the State their bonds in exchange for the State's bonds which were issued to him, had made, even before he got the bonds, secret contracts with some of his creditors, by which the larger portion of the proceeds were to be diverted from the purposes for which the bonds were issued, and were to be applied in payment of individual debts. This produced such dissatisfaction, and caused such investigations by the companies which had mortgaged their roads to the State, as resulted in both of the companies, through their several directories, rescinding the action by which their roads were mortgaged, and recalling the bonds. The million of bonds issued by the State, on the security of a like amount pledged to the State by the Florida Central Railroad, had not then gone into the hands of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but were held by a party till certain conditions precedent were performed, before delivery to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad; that million of bonds then were returned to the State, and the bonds of the company, upon the security of which the others were issued, were withdrawn from deposit with the State, and were in the hands of the party already referred to, to be returned to the company for cancellation, when they were by that party without 862 the authority or knowledge of the railroad company, or of any of its officers, and in violation of the company's resolutions of recall and rescission, delivered to an agent of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who by influences best known to himself effected with the governor of the State their re-exchange for the State bonds, which latter were hurriedly and secretly sent out of the State to Europe before any legal process could be obtained for their detention. This re-delivery to the governor of Florida of the Florida Central Railroad Company's million of bonds is a gross fraud on that company, and none who are advised of it, and buy or advance money on the State's bonds, for which they were exchanged, will have any legal or moral right to ask that they receive any benefit or advantage from the security so wrongfully obtained.

The same may be said of the three million of State's bonds issued on the pledge of the same amount of bonds of the Tallahassee or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. No one who, having notice of that company's rescission of its action and recall of its bonds, advances money on, or buys the State's bonds for which the others were pledged, will have legally, or morally, any locus standi in curia as against that railroad company. The creditors and stockholders of the railroad companies will assert their right, resist the wrongs that have been perpetrated and attempted, and seek, successfully, redress in the judicial tribunals. You have had the above mentioned action of the railroad companies brought to your notice by the telegram from Governor Reed, who sent it after consulting with the said companies, and at their instance, and you have incurred all the legal disqualifications to urge against the railroad companies any claim based on their supposed suretyship for any bonds of the State.

An examination of the law under which the State's bonds were issued discloses that the governor has caused half a million more of bonds to be issued than the law provides for. The law allows the issue of $16,000 per mile upon so much of said roads as may be completed and in running order; only 210 miles were, when the bonds were issued, completed, and only a mile and a half have been completed since, and no more is being completed. This would allow of an issue at the time it was made of only $3,360,000. Add the liberal allowance of ten miles for side tracks, &c., if such unreasonable construction of the law be claimed, and it legalizes only $3,520,000 of the bonds.

To secure the principal and interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's bonds (but not of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad), the law gives the State of Florida a statutory lien, valid as a first mortgage, on that company's road and property, and authorizes the governor, on failure of the company in any payment of principal or interest, to seize and sell the road at auction, and authorizes the State to purchase and to pay for it with any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against the road, while every other bidder would, in case of purchase, have to pay cash. This summary process is not applicable to the Florida Central Railroad, but to the other road only. What would be the result in case of failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to pay principal or interest on its bonds?
The State, if no resistance, or if unsuccessful resistance through 863 the courts were had, might seize, sell, and buy, paying for the purchase with the road's obligations, while the State might not, perhaps could not, or would not, pay her own; nor is there any way known to our system of government by which a State can be compelled to pay its obligations. You will thus perceive the character of the securities offered you, and the taints of fraud that affected them from their first issue, and that still do, and will act advisedly. This communication is made in the interests of the stockholders of the companies whose bonds have, by misrepresentation and bad faith, been obtained and exchanged with the State of Florida for the State's bonds, which you have been, and may still be, negotiating for. The stockholders do not intend to submit to the fraud which has been attempted on them. They seek to have the State's bonds brought back, and a re-exchange effected, and it is to that end that this letter is written. Such a course will prevent litigation. Persistence in the wrong will insure it. Attempts may be made to give credit to the bonds by professional and perhaps by judicial opinions from this State, but the facts that I state are incontestable, and I can give you much more and more detailed information concerning the worthlessness of the securities that you are negotiating for, and I will do so if desired. But I have said enough to make discreet men repudiate the securities and abandon negotiations.

I will say further, that since the mortgage of the railroads to the State, 128 miles of the completed road, being all except twenty-two miles on which the State has any statutory lien, have been sold by the United States under a judicial process in their favor, issued from a United States court; thus divesting the company's title, and vesting it in the individual purchaser. That sale of course relieves that much of the road of the lien created in favor of the State of Florida by the mortgage before mentioned. You are at liberty to show this letter to whom you please, and to give it the widest publicity, and will oblige me by acknowledging its receipt. I will presume on a very slight acquaintance, to refer you, touching myself, to Hon. H. S. Sanford (late U. S. minister to Belgium), at Brussels.

Respectfully,

E. M. L'ENGLE,
Of Counsel for the Florida Central Railroad Company.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY
et al.

In the circuit court, fourth judicial circuit of Florida, Duval County.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN
vs.
MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD ET AL.

In the name of the State of Florida:

And now, at the session of the court, began and held at 10 o'clock a. m., on the 15th day of March, A. D. 1877, pursuant to adjournment, comes the petitioner, by its attorneys, Joseph B. Stewart and E. M. Thompson, and no further return or answer being made to the alternate writ of mandamus heretofore granted and argued and determined, on the demurrer interposed to the sufficiency thereof by Henry R. Jackson and H. Bisbee, jr., esq., on the part of Joseph H. Durkee, receiver, Frank R. Sherwin, as agent of G. M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildens, and Adrian Stoop, claiming to be bondholders, and Robert Walker and Patrick Houstoun and Edward Lewis, stockholders, the same having been overruled upon argument, and leave granted until Wednesday, the 14th instant, at 12 o'clock m., if the respondents, or any of them, should elect so to do, or have further answer to make; and the court having met pursuant to said adjournment, at 12 o'clock m., and the counsel for respondents not appearing, was further adjourned by the court until the session now held for the further hearing and final order in said alternate writ; and the court being advised in the premises, and in order that speedy justice may be done, doth now issue this, its further command and peremptory writ of mandamus, to you, Milton S. Littlefield, James M. Baker, William Red- 865 mond, George M. Merrill, Henry Gourdine, Julia B. Coffin, F. Porcher, T. B. Coddington, Lewis J. Dupre, Charles B. Fenwick, and Edward M. L'Engle, stockholders of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and thereupon do now command you, or such number of you as may be found to be owners or holders together of stock of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, amounting, in the aggregate, to more than one half of five thousand five hundred and fifty shares thereof, that you do meet and assemble together at the principal office of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, in the city of Jacksonville, aforesaid, in the manner heretofore commanded, pursuant to your adjournment for that purpose made, not to exceed one day from this date, to wit, on or before the expiration of this 16th day of March, A. D. 1877, and that you do then and there proceed to election of nine directors for the Florida Central Railroad Company, and that you do then and there choose and elect from among the said stockholders of said company the said nine directors, and that such of you as may then be chosen directors shall then and there choose and elect from among their number a president and such other officers as by the provisions of said charter they may be required to elect, said directors to be so elected to serve until the first Tuesday of May, A. D. 1877, or until their successors are elected and qualified, and that in all of this you observe the said charter of said company and the provisions thereof, and do you return and make answer to your proceedings in obedience to this writ, on or before Saturday, the 17th day of March, A. D. 1877, at 12 o'clock m. of that day. Herein fail not.

March 15, 1877.

(Signed) R. B. ARCHIBALD, Judge.

In testimony whereof, I, Thomas E. Buckman, clerk of said circuit court for the fourth judicial circuit of Florida, in and for Duval County, have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court on the 15th day of March, A. D. 1877.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a full and correct copy from the original now on file in my office.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal of said court this 10th day of May, A. D. 1877.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

This memorandum of contract and agreement, made and entered into this day between Edward Houstoun, party of the first part, and Milton S. Littlefield, party of the second part, witnesseth: That Edward Houstoun has this day sold to Milton S. Littlefield four drafts drawn by George W. Swepson on Milton S. Littlefield, dated August 2, 1869, and accepted by said Littlefield, one for twenty-six thousand five hundred and twenty dollars ($26,520), due at six months; one for twenty-seven thousand and thirty dollars ($27,030), due at nine months; one for twenty seven thousand five hundred and forty dollars ($27,540), 867 due at fifteen months, and that said Houstoun has this day sold to said Littlefield one thousand three hundred shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company. In payment for said drafts and said stocks, said Littlefield has paid said Houstoun ten thousand dollars in cash and the drafts of said Littlefield of this date, on S. W. Hopkins & Co., of 71 Broadway, N. Y., for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and seventy and twenty-hundredths dollars, due sixty days from date. To secure the payment of said draft of $163,070 20-100, it is agreed that said Houstoun shall retain possession of said four drafts by George W. Swepson on said Littlefield, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, now in his possession as collateral, and in addition thereto, said Littlefield hereby obligates himself immediately to deposit with F. H. Porter, of the banking house of Soutter & Co., 53 William street, New York, certificate of stock for 3,110 shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, with directions to said Porter to hold said certificates till said draft of $163,070 20-100 shall fall due, and then if said draft is not promptly paid within ten days after it falls due, to deliver said certificate to said Houstoun, or his order, and in the event said certificate shall be so delivered to said

Houstoun, he is hereby authorized to sell the said three thousand one hundred and ten shares of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company at public auction to the highest bidder, on mailing to the address of M. S. Littlefield, Tallahassee, Florida, and to the address of George W. Swepson, Haw River, North Carolina, and to the address of S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York, notice of the time and place of such sale in the city of New York, ten days previously to day of sale, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

On the payment of said drafts, said Houstoun hereby obligates himself to transfer the said shares of stock hereby sold, to deliver to said Littlefield the said 1,300 shares of stock sold, and also the one hundred and ten bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which Houstoun now holds as collateral security for the payment of said four drafts, together with all the coupons on said bonds falling due from and after the 20th of March, 1869.

This is understood and intended to be a full, complete and final settlement of all matters between either George W. Swepson or M. S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun.

In testimony of all which, the parties aforesaid have hereunto set their hands and seals, at Tallahassee, Florida, the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1870.

ROBERT J. WASHINGTON
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Lawrence P. Bayne, Henry J. Rogers, Thomas L. Clingman, Fanny S. Papy, as executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and T. Mayhew Cunningham.

Now comes the complainant, by E. M. L'Engle, his counsel, and moves 869 the court for the appointment of a trustee or trustees in the place of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, to hold the shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, mentioned in the bill. And came also the defendants, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, Thomas L. Clingman, Lawrence P. Bayne, and Henry J. Rogers, by Joseph B. Stewart, their attorney, and consented to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants, Fanny S. Papy, as executrix of the last will and testament of Mariano D. Papy, deceased, and the Florida Central Railroad Company, and made no objection to the granting of the said motion. And came also the defendants Raymond M. Demere, James H. Johnson, and James P. S. Houstoun, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and T. Mayhew Cunningham, who had made defaults, and after argument of counsel and consideration by the court, it is decreed and adjudged that Mariano D. Papy was, in his life-time, the trustee of the four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of capital stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company, described as follows, that is to say:

100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 40, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 41, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 42, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 43, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 44, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 45, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 47, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 48, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 49, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
100 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 50, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 51, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate No. 57, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Eliza Houstoun.
70 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 58, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun, guardian of Claudia Houstoun.
20 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 59, standing in the name of James P. S. Houstoun.
30 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 79, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.
3,110 shares of said stock, embraced in certificate numbered 80, standing in the name of Edward Houstoun.

Four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of said stock.

870 It is further decreed that said trust still subsists for the purposes set forth in the indenture creating it, and for the further purposes of this suit, and that the office of trustee has been made vacant by the death of said Mariano D. Papy.

It is, therefore, further ordered and decreed that A. Doggett, esquire, of the city of Jacksonville, in Duval County, State of Florida, be and he is hereby appointed trustee of the said four thousand three hundred and seventy shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company in the place and stead of the said Mariano D. Papy, to hold the same upon the trusts declared in the indenture mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, whereby the said trust was created and the said Mariano D. Papy appointed trustee; and further to hold the same for the purposes of this suit and until the further order of this court, and subject to the orders and decrees of Judge Woods in this behalf.

It is further ordered, that the decrees pro confesso heretofore taken against the defendants James P. S. Houstoun, Raymond M. Demere, and James H. Johnson, as executors of the last will and testament of Edward Houstoun, deceased, and against James P. S. Houstoun, in his own right, and against T. Mayhew Cunningham, be opened, and that the said defendant be allowed to answer the said bill by the rule day of June, 1877, on the following terms and not otherwise, that is to say, that the said defendants file in this cause, with the clerk of this court, the above mentioned certificates of shares of said capital stock which were taken from the possession of the trustee, Mariano D. Papy, at the suit of Edward Houstoun, deceased, as set forth in the bill filed in this cause.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY
et al.

Cross bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

STATE OF FLORIDA,
Leon County:

This agreement, made and entered into at the city of Tallahassee, in the county and State aforesaid, between Milton S. Littlefield, party of the first part, and Edward Houstoun, party of the second part, witnesseth: That whereas the said Edward Houstoun owns and holds a certain draft, which is in the words and figures following, to wit:

$163,026 70-100.] TALLAHASSEE, May 13, 1870.

Sixty days after date pay to the order of Edward Houstoun one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six 70-100 dollars, value received, and charge the same to account of—

M. S. LITTLEFIELD,
President J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

Acceptance waived.

For the payment of which the said Edward Houstoun has and holds as security the following securities: 104 first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, amounting to one hundred and three thousand dollars of said bonds; one thousand three hundred shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad; four (4) drafts of George W. Swepson on M. S. Littlefield, accepted by said Littlefield; one draft for $26,520, due at six months; one draft for $27,030, due at nine 880 months; one draft for $27,540, due at twelve months; one draft for $28,050, due at fifteen months; all of said drafts being dated August 2, 1869, and amounting, in the aggregate, to the sum of one hundred and nine thousand one hundred and forty dollars, exclusive of interest thereon; and whereas the said draft of $163,026 70-100 was given to the said Houstoun for value received in the various transactions between the parties, relative to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the Florida Central Railroad Company, growing out of the late Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and said Florida Central Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company; and whereas it is to the great interest of said parties of the first and second parts that moneys should be raised to promote the interests of said Florida Central Railroad Company, to extend and provide for the business of said company, and to pay said draft when due; and whereas the said parties of the first and second parts are owners and proprietors of more than a majority of the capital stock of said Florida Central Railroad:

Therefore, know all men by these presents that the said parties of the first and second parts do hereby covenant and mutually agree, each with the other, that they do cause to be issued one million dollars of the first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of like denomination and effect and condition as the first-mortgage bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, which said one million of dollars of said bonds are to be placed in the hands of the said Edward Houstoun as additional security for the payment of said draft for one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars and seventy cents, to be held by the said Houstoun, in addition to the securities aforesaid, for the faithful payment of said draft at maturity. And it is further agreed that if the said draft is not paid at maturity, then and in that event the said Edward Houstoun is hereby authorized and fully empowered to cause said one million of dollars of the bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company, placed in his hands as security for said draft, as aforesaid, to be sold at public outcry in the city of New York, after default of payment of said draft, upon giving ten days notice of said sale of said bonds and of the time and place of said sale to Milton S. Littlefield, by mail, to his residence, at Tallahassee, Florida, and by giving like notice to Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, New York City, by delivering said notice at their office, and by giving ten days notice of said sale in the New York Herald, by advertisement, at which sale of said bonds the said Edward Houstoun may become the purchaser. And in the event of the sale being made as aforesaid, the said Edward Houston, after first paying said draft and the expenses of said sale of bonds, shall pay over all the other moneys arising from said sale and all the securities now in the hands and heretofore set forth and enumerated to the said Milton S. Littlefield, and the said Houstoun shall only retain of or from said sale of bonds and securities aforesaid sufficient to pay said draft and expenses of selling said bonds.

In witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals this 30th day of May, A. D. 1870.

MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD.

881 EXHIBIT N.

In the U. S. circuit court, northern district of Florida.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY et al.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

The agreement made between Milton S. Littlefield and Edward Houstoun, dated 30th May, 1870, is hereby modified, changed, and altered as follows, to wit:

First. In lieu of one million dollars of first mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, which by said agreement were to be placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as security for the payment of the draft in the said agreement mentioned, there shall be placed in the hands of said Houstoun, as security for the payment of the draft in said agreement mentioned, the same amount of bonds of the State of Florida, to be exchanged for the said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

Second. If said draft be not paid at maturity, the said Houstoun is authorized and empowered to sell said bonds of the State of Florida at public outcry, giving the notice of sale as provided for in said agreement, and said Houstoun may become a purchaser at said sale.

Third. After first paying said draft and expenses of sale, said Houstoun shall, out of the balance of the proceeds arising from the sale of said bonds, if sufficient for this purpose, pay to John P. Sanderson the sum of fifty seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; to M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; to T. W. Brevard, attorney of certain holders of bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, if certain negotiations now pending for their purchase be consummated, the sum of fifty thousand dollars; to John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, three hundred and forty thousand dollars; after these payments the balance, if any, to be paid to said Littlefield.

882 Fourth. When said drafts shall mature said Houstoun, instead of selling said bonds of the State, shall have the option and choice of returning the same to the State, and receiving in lieu thereof the one million dollars of first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad exchanged for the State bonds aforesaid.

Fifth. If, under the option and choice given the said Houstoun, he returns the bonds of the State of Florida, aforesaid, to said State, and receives in lieu thereof the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, as aforesaid, provided said Houstoun, upon dilivering said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, received from the State, as aforesaid, to the president of said company, shall receive and have executed and delivered to him in lieu thereof other first-mortgage bonds of said company, which said bonds shall be made payable to bearer, and shall be good, effectual, and first lien on said road.

Sixth. Upon receiving said first-mortgage bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company from the president thereof, as above provided for, the said Houstoun shall hold the same as security for the payment of said draft, and is authorized and has the power at any time after giving thirty days previous notice to the president of said company, to sell the said bonds so received from the president of said company at public outcry in the city of New York, at which said Houston may become a purchaser; and said Houstoun, after paying said draft and the expenses of said sale, dispose of and pay over the rest and residue of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, if any, to the persons named and for the amounts named as provided in the third clause hereof.

Seventh. If said Littlefield shall pay said draft at or before its maturity, said Houstoun shall deposit said bonds of the State of Florida placed in his hands under the first clause hereof with S. W. Hopkins & Company, No. 71 Broadway, New York, with the stipulation and agreement that they, the said Hopkins & Company, shall, in disposing of said bonds, hold the proceeds of said sale subject to the claims and for the amounts mentioned in the third clause hereof, to wit: John P. Sanderson, the sum of fifty-seven thousand five hundred and sixty dollars; M. D. Papy, sixteen thousand dollars; T. W. Brevard, attorney for certain holders of Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, if negotiations now pending for their purchase shall be consummated, the sum of forty thousand dollars; John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company, the sum of three hundred and forty thousand dollars; said Hopkins & Company, after first paying the amounts above named to the parties above named out of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds, shall pay the rest and residue, if any, of the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to said Littlefield.

Witness our hand and seal this the seventh day of June, A. D. 1870, at Tallahassee, Florida.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL.

Cross-bill of Florida Central Railroad Company.

TALLAHASSEE, January 11, 1871.

Received from Edward Houstoun, esq., in trust and for his account, one thousand Florida Central Railroad Company first-mortgage bonds, payable to the State of Florida, for one thousand dollars each, which I hereby undertake to arrange with General M. S. Littlefield and other parties interested, and collect from him or them the amount which it is admitted is now due to said Houstoun, viz, one hundred and sixty-three thousand and twenty-six dollars and seventy cents, with interest thereon, at seven per cent., from the time M. S. Littlefield's draft on S. W. Hopkins & Co. for said amount fell due, and in addition thereto the sum of five thousand dollars for costs and expenses incurred by said Houstoun in suits brought by parties against said Houstoun in relation to those bonds or other bonds and the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, it being understood that all proceedings at law or otherwise are to be discontinued, or if that be possible he is to be indemnified by responsible parties against all damages or costs arising out of said proceedings; it being further understood that said Houstoun shall, when paid, transfer and assign to said Littlefield all the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or other securities which he holds, or which were given him as collateral security, to secure the above amounts due to said Houstoun.

And it is further understood and agreed that said Coddington is to collect the further sums of money and pay to said Houstoun for account of the parties named below, which, it is understood, are a lien subsequent and inferior to said Houstoun's lien on these bonds, viz:

Colonel R. H. Gamble, the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, who is to surrender to said Littlefield three hundred shares of stock in the 884 Florida Central Railroad Company, and seventeen hundred dollars in the bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, at par.

J. P. Sanderson, esq., the sum of fifty thousand five hundred and sixty dollars, and said J. P. Sanderson is to surrender to said Littlefield seventy shares of stock in the Florida Central Railroad Company and comply with his agreements with said Littlefield, for which a part of said sum is in consideration.

F. H. Flagg, esq., the sum of four thousand dollars, for which he is to surrender the Central Railroad Company stock and the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds which he holds to said Littlefield, and also to pay for seventy shares of stock now or lately held by J. D. Westcott, jr., esq., the sum of thirty-eight hundred and forty five dollars and thirty-three cents, when said stock is to be delivered to said Littlefield.

This arrangement is based on the assumption that the money will be paid from the proceeds of bonds negotiated by S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York. The remainder of said proceeds is to be disposed of as directed by the parties interested.

T. B. CODDINGTON.

I approve and assent to the same.

vs.
THE FLORIDA CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY ET AL.

Cross-bill of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

At a meeting of the directors of the Florida Central Railroad Company, held November 21, 1870, upon motion of Mr. Papy, a committee was appointed to take in consideration the past issue of bonds, and also to report upon the policy of issuing bonds of the company and the amount.

The president appointed Messrs. Papy, Baker, and Huling said committee.

The board then adjourned to 4 p. m.

4 p. m.—The directors convened pursuant to adjournment, Colonel Sanderson, president, in the chair.

Mr. Papy presented the following report:

The committee finding that the bonds signed by G. W. Swepson, president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer, are in such form as that they cannot be used to carry out the intention of their 886 issue when they were adopted, report the following resolution in respect thereto:

Resolved, That the resolution adopting the bonds to be issued by this company, signed by George W. Swepson, president, and H. H. Thompson, treasurer, at a meeting of the board of directors, held on the 2d of June, A. D. 1870, be, and the same is hereby, rescinded, and that said bonds be destroyed.

M. D. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Foster, the resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Papy made the following report:

The committee report the following resolutions in reference to the issue of bonds of the company, and the securing the same:

Resolved, That the president cause bonds, payable to bearer, to be prepared, signed and executed in due form, which shall be issued for purposes of the company, not exceeding seven hundred thousand dollars in amount, with interest at seven per centum per annum, not having more than thirty years to run, with coupons, for interest, attached, payable in New York semi-annually.

Resolved, That said bonds and the interest thereon shall be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, workshops, depots, franchises, and property of every kind; and that the president cause to be prepared and executed such deed of trust or other necessary instrument of writing, under the seal of this company, as may be needful to make the first-lien or mortgage in favor of said bonds, and the interest thereon, effectual to all intents.

M. P. PAPY,
Chairman.

On motion, the report was received and adopted.

On motion of Mr. Huling, the resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Adjourned to 4 o'clock next day, at which time the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That this board approve of the form of the trust deed read to the directors to secure the first lien or mortgage of the bonds, and interest thereon, authorized to be issued, and that the president of this company is authoized to select the trustees to whom said deed is to be made, not to exceed three in number.

Adopted.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy from the records of the board of directors.

888 J. FRED SCHUTTE, JANS PRINS, ADRIANUS PRINS, et al.,
vs.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, & others.
} In equity.

In the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida.

The answer of Jno. M. Guerrard, who is the holder of three bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, and five bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company of the value of two hundred dollars each; Lewis F. Nicoll, who is the owner of six bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the value of one thousand dollars each; Geo. Robertson, who is the owner of five bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; G. N. Hunnicutt, who is the owner of seven bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the value of one thousand dollars each; J. G. Falligant, who is the owner of five bonds of 889 the said last-mentioned railroad company, of the value of one thousand dollars each; Jane R. Anderson, as administratrix of Edward C. Anderson, jr., who is the owner of twenty-four bonds of the said last-mentioned company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; James Hunter, who is the owner of eighty-eight bonds of the said last-mentioned company, eighty two of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, three of the denomination of five hundred dollars each, one of the denomination of two hundred and fifty dollars, one of two hundred dollars, and one of one hundred dollars, and one bond of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the denomination of one hundred dollars; The Peoples' Bank, which is the owner of twenty-seven bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; William McBurney, who is the owaer of six of the bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for the sum of one thousand dollars each; Winthrop B. Williams, who is the owner of six of the bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, 890 of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; Gourdin Matherson & Co., who are the owners of eighteen bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the denomination of five hundred dollars each; The Planters and Mechanics' Bank, which is the owner of nine of the bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the value of one thousand dollars each; John Hanckle, who is the owner of nine of the bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the denomination of five hundred dollars each; James S. Gibbes, who is the owner of seven of the bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; Simonton & Barker, who are the owners of one bond of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, of the value of one thousand dollars; Kirksey & Scott, who are the owners of four bonds of the said last mentioned company, two of the denomination of company, of the denomination of one thousand dollars each; J. S. Baynard, who is the owner of one bond of the said last-mentioned company, for one thousand dollars, & two bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, for two hundred dollars each; administratrix of W. Cumming, who is the owner of one bond of said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for one thousand dollars; Valentine Grest, who is the owner of one bond of said last-mentioned railroad company, for one thousand dollars; George Nicall, who is the owner of one bond of said last-mentioned company, for one thousand dollars; T. J. McNish, who is the owner of one bond of said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for one thousand dollars, and three bonds of said Tallahassee Railroad Company, for two hundred dollars each; G. Bartlett, 892 who is the owner of twenty bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, three of the denomination of five hundred dollars each, sixteen of the denomination of two hundred dollars each, and one of the denomination of one hundred dollars; J. G. Sturtevant, who is the owner of one bond of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for one thousand dollars; E. Lofton, who is the owner of one bond of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for two hundred and fifty dollars, and one bond of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, for two hundred dollars; H. Gardner, who is the owner of eleven bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, five for five for five hundred dollars each & and six for two hundred dollars each; William Q. Warring, trustee for his children, who is the owner of two bonds of the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for one thousand dollars each.

The defendants, with the reservations usual in equity pleading, make answer to the bill of complaint filed by the plaintiffs in the 893 above entitled cause, as follows:

First. They admit it to be true that a plan of settlement was agreed upon between an agent authorized to act for the said plaintiffs, holders of bonds of the State of Florida issued in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company of the first part, & a majority of the holders of the first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia & Tallahassee Railroad Companies, through their authorized attorneys & representatives, of the second part, as is alleged in the 16th paragraph of the said bill of complaint, and that the document appended thereto & marked Schedule D, is a copy of said plan.

Second. These defendants, not admitting but denying all allegations of the said plaintiffs in their said bill of complaint contained, to the effect that as holders of the said the bonds of the State of Florida, they can successfully assert a lien upon the line of railroad formerly known as the Pensacola and Georgia & Tallahassee Railroads superior to the vendors' lien for unpaid purchase-money held by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida for the pro-894 tection of these defendants in securing the payment of the said bonds held by them, nevertheless being also averse to litigation and being well advised of the great injury which must result to said railroad property by the protraction of it, now express their co'sent that a decree be made and entered in this cause, providing for the sale of the said railroads and property upon the basis of said plan, to be in no wise departed from except in so far as may be necessary to carry out the objects contemplated therein through such decree to be rendered as aforesaid, and not by seizure and sale by the governor of the State of Florida.

And these defendants pray to be hence dismissed, etc.

896 Answer of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida.

U. S. circuit court, fifth circuit, n. dist. Fla. In equity.

J. FRED SCHUTTE ET AL.
versus
WESTERN DIVISION WEST. N. C. R. R. CO. ET als.

897 In the circuit court of the United States, fifth circuit, northern district of Florida. In equity.

The answer of George F. Drew, governor of the State of Florida; Walter Gwynn, treasurer of said State; Columbus Drew, comptroller of said State; Hugh A. Corley, commissioner of lands and immigration of said State; and George P. Raney, attorney-general of said State, who are trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, to the bill of complaint filed in the above stated court by J. Fred. Schutte, Jan Prins, Adrianus Prins and others, who are aliens and subjects of the King of the Netherlands, sueing in their own behalf and in behalf of other persons having like claims, who may come in and be made parties and contribute to the expenses, against the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, said trustees of the internal improvement fund, et als.

These defendants, now and at all times hereafter saving and reserving unto themselves all benefit and advantage of exception which can or may be had or taken to the many errors, uncertainties, and other imperfections in said complainants' said bill of complaint contained, for answer thereunto, or unto so much or such parts thereof as these defendants are advised is material or necessary for them to make answer unto, these defendants, answering, say :

That on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1869, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida sold at public aution the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, including the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, and all its property of every kind, and the Tallahassee Railroad, including the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all its property of every kind, they acting under and making said sales under the provisions of the act of the general assembly of the said State, approved January 6, 898 A. D. 1855, referred to in the first paragraph of complainant's bill of complaint, which act will hereafter be designated as the "internal improvement act," and that such sale was made because of non-compliance with the provisions of said act; but these defendants deny that any property but that in this paragraph above stated. was sold by said trustees of the internal improvement fund.

That the sum or amount for which said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and its property was sold was one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the sum or amount for which the said Tallahassee Railroad and its property was sold was one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars.

These defendants admit that the said sum for which the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and its properties was sold exceeded the total amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding which the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company issued under the provisions of said "internal improvement act," but these defendants say that the said sum or amount for which the said Tallahassee Railroad and its properties sold did not equal the amount of the principal of all the bonds then outstanding, which the said Tallahassee Railroad Company had issued under the provisions of the said "internal improvement act," nor did it equal more than ninety five per cent. of the amount of the principal of said outstanding bonds, if it equaled that amount or per cent. thereof; and these defendants deny each and every allegation in the bill of complaint to the contrary of this allegation.

These defendants say that said outstanding Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds were, before and at the time of such sale, the first lien upon said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad, its road bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, and all its property of every kind; and the said outstanding Tallahassee Railroad bonds were, before and at the time of such sale, the first lien upon the said Tallahassee Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, franchise, and all its property of every kind.

These defendants further say that F. Dibble and associates, who consisted of Franklin Dibble, Calvin B. Dibble, Alonzo Huling, 899 John L. Requa, Edward M. Cheney and others, as they are informed and believe, were the highest bidders for said roads and property at said sale, they bidding the amounts aforesaid, and the same being knocked off to them at the prices or sums aforesaid; but these defendants deny that the said Dibble and associates, or any one else, has paid the purchase money for said roads and property, or for either of them. These defendants say they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that the terms of the sale of said railroads, their franchise and properties aforesaid, was cash; that possession of the same which was then held by the then trustees of the internal improvement fund, and deeds of conveyance of the same, were not to be delivered until the purchase money should be paid; and that the said purchasers of said roads paid, or caused or procured to be paid, on account of their said purchase, only about nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars, which sum was paid in first-mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which had been issued under the provisions of said "internal improvement act," to wit, bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company to the amount of eight hundred and six thousand dollars, which were received at par, and bonds of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company to the amount of one hundred and fifty-three thousand and seven hundred dollars, which were received at ninety-five cents on the dollar; and these defendants say that no other or different payments have ever been made on said purchases, and they deny each and every allegation to the contrary made in complainants' bill.

These defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that after the bidding at said sale was over, no cash payment was, in fact, required by the then trustees of the internal improvement fund from the purchasers; that this was on account of the alleged and pretended inconvenience of paying over and receiving so large an amount of money at that immediate time, and payment was thereupon deferred until such time as the trustees should demand it; and the possession of the railroad and properties so sold was delivered to one Robert Walker, who was instructed by the 900 said trustees to hold the same as their agent, until payment of the purchase money should be completed and title deeds delivered to the purchasers.

These defendants further say they are informed and believe, and they thereupon allege, that after the sales were made, as aforesaid, and before any payment had been made by the said purchasers, one George W. Swepson, who was the holder of all the first-mortgage Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, paid on such purchases aforesaid, and if not all of them, nearly all of them, entered into negotiations with the said Franklin Dibble and associates, and the result of these negotiations was that the said Swepson agreed to become one of said association of purchasers, and to turn over to them or said association, the said bonds held by him, to be used in making payment on the purchase price bid for said railroads; that on the twenty-second day of March, A. D. 1869, the said Swepson and said Dibble and his associates, and Almon R. Meek, the then attorney general of Florida, the said Meek being one of said trustees, held a conference in the city of Jacksonville, Florida, in relation to the payment of the purchase money or bids for said railroads and properties, and the delivery thereof, and of the titles thereto to the purchasers; that at said conference, as these defendants are informed and believe, it was, among other things, resolved and determined by said Dibble and associates as follows:

That Swepson should receive the amount actually paid out by him for bonds, and in addition thereto the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and such other amount as might be necessary for the purchase of outstanding bonds, said amounts to be realized from the sale of new bonds, to be placed for that purpose in the hands of Swepson and Calvin B. Dibble, and should alone receive one-third of the stock as his proprietary interest in the roads; that Swepson should turn over to C. B. Dibble the bonds then in his hands, amounting to about nine hundred thousand dollars, for the purpose of paying the same over to the trustees, and should furnish funds for the purchase of outstanding bonds as they might be obtained.

These defendants further say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that after these arrangements and agree-901 ments had been thus perfected between the said Dibble and associates and the said Swepson, it was announced to the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida by the said Meek, in the following language substantially:

To the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida:

GENTLEMEN: By an understanding between the members, I proceeded, on Monday last, to Jacksonville with the purchasers of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, and have to state that I have been requested by the purchasers of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, F. Dibble, for himself and his associates, to say that an arrangement has been by them made with George W. Swepson, who owns over a million of dollars of bonds of the said roads, by which, for them, he agrees to turn over to the internal improvement fund of this State all of his said bonds. Of said agreement I am personally cognizant. The said purchasers further request me to ask the trustees to execute to them, or to Mr. F. Dibble for his associates, a deed of conveyance of said road.

They further ask that this board authorize one of its members to proceed, as soon as said deed is executed, with the same to New York city, agreeing upon their part upon presentation of said deed in New York city they will settle with such member for the full amount or balance of purchase price of said roads, as bid by them at sale on Saturday, 20th of March, 1869.

These defendants further say that the then trustees of the internal improvement fund, aforesaid, did, on the twenty-ninth day of March, A. D. 1869, at the same meeting at which said report of the said Meek, then attorney-general of said State, was made and received, adopt a resolution requesting and directing the said attorney-general to prepare a deed of conveyance of the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, to the purchasers, and to submit the same, when prepared, to the consideration of the board, which resolution directed that when such conveyance should receive the approbation of said board, and be executed by them, the attorney-general and comptroller 902 should be appointed special agents of the board to proceed with such deed to the city of New York, there to consummate the purchase and sale of the roads; and when they should have received the amount payable by the purchasers that they deliver to the said purchasers such deed of conveyance, a copy of which resolution is hereto annexed, marked B, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that afterwards, on the seventh day of April, A. D. 1869, a resolution was adopted by said board directing that the deeds prepared by the attorney-general be executed by the members of the board, a copy of which is hereto annexed, marked C, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; and afterwards and on the next day, as these defendants are informed and believe, said deeds were executed, a copy of each of which is hereto annexed, marked D, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that on the said last-named day a resolution was adopted by said board appointing Calvin B. Dibble (who was the brother of said F. Dibble) and said George W. Swepson confidential agents of said board of trustees, with authority in each to take up the outstanding first-mortgage bonds of the said Railroad Companies, and directing the attorney-general and comptroller to turn over to said C. B. Dibble and Swepson, or either of them, all the moneys that might be received by them for said trustees for said roads, a copy of which resolution is hereto annexed, marked E, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof.

The defendants are informed and believe, and so allege, that the said comptroller, Robert H. Gamble, and attorney general, Almon R. Meek, thereupon proceeded to the city of New York, and there delivered the title deeds aforesaid for said railroads and properties to said Swepson, representing the purchasers, upon delivery by said Swepson to them of first-mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company to the amount of $806,600, and of the Tallahassee Railroad Company to the amount of $153,700, the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company's bonds being received at par, and the others at between ninety-four and ninety-five cents on the dollar; that beyond these bonds the said Gamble and Meek received nothing except a check or draft drawn by said Calvin B. Dibble, on Dibble, Worth & Co., of New York, a firm or partnership of 903 which said C. B. Dibble was then a member, and which firm is and has long since been insolvent, and this check or order, after its delivery, was immediately, as these defendants are informed and believe, delivered by said Meek to said Swepson in exchange for his receipt, said receipt acknowledging that said Swepson had received the sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars ($472,065), to be applied to the retirement of the outstanding bonds of the raid railroad companies, no funds or cash passing between the parties, and no security being demanded of said Swepson in the premises; and these defendants further say they are informed and believe, and they so allege and charge, that the said check or order was immediately handed over by said Swepson to said Dibble, Worth & Co., without consideration; and they are informed, and believe and charge, that while these negotiations were pending in New York the said Almon R. Meek, who was the legal adviser of said board of trustees, and was relied upon as the legal adviser of said board, and said Gamble, as a member of said board, and took the principal charge and management of said business of the settlement for and receiving the payment of the balance of said purchase money, received from, and was paid by said Swepson, and for his, said Meek's, own benefit the sum of five thousand dollars, or other large sum of money.

And, further answering, these defendants say they are informed and believe, and so allege, that immediately after they had received said check or order they reported and represented to the trustees of the internal improvement fund in Florida, or their agent aforesaid, that the purchase money had been fully paid, and the said Robert Walker, agent aforesaid, under the direction of said trustees, and upon their representing to him that said purchase money had been paid, delivered said railroads and properties to said Dibble and associates; and that after the said transactions in New York were over, and said railroads and properties had been delivered, and said Meek and Gamble had returned to Florida, they reported to the board of trustees in writing aforesaid that they had performed the duties devolving upon them by the resolution of March 29th, A. D. 1869, aforesaid, and that they received the 904 Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid at the rate and value aforesaid, and that the difference between the sum represented by these bonds and the sum bid for said roads was turned over by them, as required by the resolution of the board, to George W. Swepson, as confidential agent of said board, to take up the outstanding bonds of said companies, they in said report representing that they had turned over to the treasurer of said board the receipt of Swepson for $472,065, a copy of which report is hereto annexed, marked F, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof.

And these defendants, further answering, say that they are informed and believe, and therefore charge and aver, that such check or order never was or has been paid, and never was intended to be paid, and that such pretended payment of the balance of said purchase money over and above the sum paid in Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, was a sham payment and a preconcerted fraud and scheme devised and entered into between said Dibble and associates and said Swepson, without authority of said trustees, to acquire possession of said railroad property without payment of the purchase money, and to cheat and defraud the trustees of the internal improvement fund and all persons beneficially interested in the payment of said purchase money; and that the said Meek assented to and favored and aided said fraud and scheme.

And these defendants charge that it never was intended by the said Calvin B. or Franklin Dibble, or Swepson, or any of their associates who had any part in the making or getting up of the said check, that the same should be paid.

And these defendants, further answering, say that they are informed, and they believe and allege, that it is not true that any balance of said purchase money of said roads over and above said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds was placed by said trustees in the hands of said Swepson, as agent of said trustees, or otherwise, with directions to purchase and deliver to them for cancellation the outstanding of said bonds of said companies which were entitled to payment out of said fund, or with any directions at all; but they charge that no such balance was placed in his hands at all.

905 These defendants, further answering, say they have no knowledge, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to say or determine whether the said Swepson was a man in good credit, as charged in the bill of complaint, or reputed to be worth at least a half million of dollars, or that he had that amount in Florida; and these defendants deny each and all the allegations in complainants' bill to the above effect, and pray that complainants may be held to strict proof of all and singular their allegations to such effect.

And these defendants, further answering, say they are informed, and believe and allege, that the said Almon R. Meek, in the matter of receiving said draft or order, and delivering said deed and consummating said pretended payment and advising the trustees that such purchase-money had been paid, did not act in good faith nor in the scope of his authority, but that he acted in corrupt and fraudulent faithlessness to a high trust, and lent himself knowingly and corruptly to a scheme to defraud and cheat the trustees of the internal improvement fund and all persons interested in the purchase money of said railroads, and to enable said F. Dibble and associates to get possession of said railroads and property without paying for the same; and these defendants say that he and the said Gamble did not act within the scope of their power in delivering the said deeds (although said Gamble believed he was acting within the scope thereof), but delivered the same without authority to do so, and under circumstances in which their authority did not permit them to deliver them; that they were to deliver them only upon being paid the purchase money for said roads and property, which has never been paid to them or to the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid, or any one for said trustees or either of them; and these defendants further say that the trustees of the internal improvement fund did not act within the scope of their power or authority in delivering said railroads to said Dibble and associates, although said delivery was made upon representation from said Meek and Gamble, or one of them, that the purchase-money had been paid as aforesaid.

Further answering, these defendants say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that after the title-deeds had been delivered as aforesaid, the said Franklin Dibble, on behalf of himself 906 and his associates, executed and delivered to the said Swepson a certain deed of conveyance, in which, after reciting that the said Swepson had paid the trustees of the internal improvement fund aforesaid for and on account of the said purchase of said Dibble and associates' bonds of the said railroad companies, amounting, on their face, to nine hundred and sixty thousand and three hundred dollars, and the sum of four hundred and seventy two thousand and sixty-five dollars ($472,065.00), the full amount due to said trustees for said railroads, conveyed to said Swepson all the property of whatever name, nature, and description conveyed to said F. Dibble and associates by said trustees, to hold the same in trust for the purpose of enabling the said Swepson to convey the same to an incorporation to consist of said F. Dibble and his associates, as soon as the same should be created by legislative authority, and also for the further purpose of securing said Swepson in the advances made, as aforesaid, until such time as the incorporation should be created, and should issue and place, in accordance with an agreement of March 26th then last, therein referred to, its bonds to an amount sufficient to reimburse said Swepson for all advances made by him, including said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty dollars, all of which will more fully appear by reference to a copy of said deed of conveyance, which is hereto annexed, marked G, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof, the same as if fully incorporated herein; and these defendants charge, upon information and belief, that said deed of conveyance was drawn up by said Almon R. Meek and its execution directed by him.

These defendants, further answering, say that by virtue of an act of the legislature of Florida, approved June 24th, A. D., 1869, being chapter 1718 of the Laws of Florida, the said Franklin Dibble and associates, their successors and assigns, were made and constituted a body corporate, under the name of "the Tallahassee Railroad Company," for the purpose of operating said railroads, to which they had acquired the title as aforesaid, and with the right to enjoy all the powers, privileges, and franchises as were originally granted to said corporations (the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies) aforesaid.

907 These defendants, further answering, say that by another act of the legislature of Florida, approved June 24th, 1869, being chapter 1716 of the Laws of Florida, and an act amendatory thereof, approved January 28th, 1870, being chapter 1731 of the Laws of Florida, said George W. Swepson, Milton S. Littlefield, J. P. Sanderson, J. L. Requa, W. H. Hunt, their associates, successors, and assigns, were constituted the body corporate named the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, mentioned in complainants' bill, and were empowered by said acts to construct a railroad from Quincy, Florida, to the dividing line between the States of Florida and Alabama, in the direction of the city of Mobile, in Alabama; and these defendants pray the right and privilege to refer to said several acts of said legislature, and that the same may be taken as a part of this answer the same as if fully incorporated herein.

These defendants further say that by and under the last-named acts of the legislature of Florida, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and said Tallahassee Railroad Company, incorporated in the year 1869, were authorized to consolidate under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and that they did so consolidate under said last-named acts a short time after the organization of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and by such consolidation the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as constituted after such consolidation, came into the possession and management of said original Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads and their properties, which had been sold as aforesaid; and these defendants say they are informed and believe that at the time of such consolidation the stockholders of the said companies so consolidating had full knowledge and notice of the fraudulent manner in which the deed and possession of said railroads and their properties so sold were acquired without payment of the aforesaid balance of purchase-money, and that the same had not been paid; and these defendants adopt that part of complainants' bill which alleges that G. W. Swepson and M. S. Littlefield owned nearly all the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and admit the same to be true; and these defendants say they 908 are informed and believe, and so allege that the said Swepson and Littlefield, and other stockholders of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company acquired their stock with full notice of the fraudulent manner in which the possession and deed of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad property was acquired by Dibble and associates without payment of the aforesaid balance of purchase-money, and that the same was unpaid.

And these defendants, further answering, say that the bonds numbered in the sixth paragraph of complainants' bill were not, as they are informed and believe, issued by the governor of Florida in accordance with the laws incorporating the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as will be hereafter more fully shown.

These defendants, further answering, say that the said four thousand bonds which were obtained from the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and purported to obligate the State of Florida, as stated in the bill of complaint, were issued under the provisions of the statutes of the State of Florida aforesaid, approved June 24, 1869, being chapter 1716 of Laws of Florida, and January 28, 1870, being chapter 1731 of Laws of Florida, and that the said statutes and each of them were, in so far as they pretended to authorize the issue of said bonds and the delivery thereof to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and are unconstitutional, null, and void, and the said bonds are null and void, and are neither binding upon the State of Florida nor do they create nor are they a lien or claim upon said railroad and properties nor any part of the same, nor do they entitle the holders thereof to any lien or claim upon the same.

And these defendants, further answering, say that even if said statutes had not been unconstitutional as aforesaid, the governor of said State would have been authorized to issue to said company State bonds only upon the conditions and restrictions stated in said act, in exchange for bonds of said company which were a first mortgage upon the railroad, for which State bonds were delivered, and on all the property of said company, real and personal, appertaining to that part of the 909 line which it, at the time of the exchange, had or might thereafter acquire.

And these defendants say they are informed and believe, and so allege, that the amount to which the said pretended bonds were issued were largely in excess of the amount which said acts of the legislature last named authorized, even had the same been constitutional and valid.

And these defendants further say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that at the time of the passage of said last-mentioned acts of the legislature of Florida, and at the time the said pretended bonds were issued by the State of Florida, or its governor, and obtained by the said company, the State of Florida and the legislature thereof, and the governor thereof, and all the officers and agents of said State concerned in the issue of said pretended bonds, had full notice of all the facts and circumstances aforesaid connected with and growing out of the sale of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads and properties, and the delivery of the possession thereof and of the deed, and the non payment of said balance of purchase money, and said sham and fraudulent check arrangement aforesaid, and that said balance of purchase-money was still due and unpaid and constituted a first lien upon said railroads and properties so sold, and they recognized and admitted said lien to exist.

These defendants further say that they are informed and believe, and so allege, that the said act of June 24, 1869, as originally passed by said legislature, contained a provision to the effect that no bonds of the said State should be delivered by the governor to the president of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company until the property (including said railroad and properties so sold) to be pledged to the State as security for payment of the railroad bonds to be given in exchange for the State bonds should be free from the encumbrance of all prior liens; that is to say, until the said unpaid balance of purchase-money should have been paid up; that said act, after its passage and before it was filed in the office of the secretary of state, or approved by the governor, was fraudulently altered and changed and said provision left or taken out of the same; that because of said fraudulent 910 alteration of said act, a suit in chancery was begun in the circuit court of th esecond judicial circuit of Florida, in Leon County, by George W. Scott and Joseph John Williams, then citizens of said county, against Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, Simon B. Conover, treasurer of said State, George W. Swepson, Milton S. Littlefield, John P. Sanderson, J. L. Requa, and William H. Hunt about the middle of July, A. D. 1869, to enjoin said governor, Harrison Reed, from signing or causing to be signed the bonds authorized by said act; that said injunction was prayed and applied for and based in the bill in said suit not only upon the ground of fraud and forgery aforesaid, but also upon the ground that the legislature, in passing said act, contemplated the taking by the State, in exchange for its own bonds and in equal amount, bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, which were or constituted a first lien on said railroads and properties so sold, to secure the State against loss, and that inasmuch as a lien already existed upon the railroads and properties so sold for and on account of the unpaid balance of purchase money aforesaid, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company could not give a first lien on said railroads and properties to secure its bonds, as required by said act.

And these defendants further say that after a hearing of an application for an injunction in said case, the Hon. P. W. White, judge of the circuit court of said circuit, sitting in chambers, did, on the 14th day of July, A. D. 1869, make an order, which was duly entered of record in said court and still remains of full force and effect, enjoining and restraining the said Harrison Reed, governor aforesaid, from issuing, signing and sealing, and from causing to be issued, signed, and sealed any State bonds of the State of Florida under the provisions of said altered and pretended act of the legislature of Florida, and from delivering and causing to be delivered any such bonds to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or to any other person, and restraining the defendant, Conover, from countersigning or causing to be countersigned such bonds, and restraining the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from 911 receiving any of said bonds, or if received, from negotiating the same till the further order of said court; a copy of which order is hereto annexed, marked H, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof.

And these defendants, further answering, say, that the said act, approved June 24, 1869, aforesaid, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," was by the eighth section of said act, approved January 28, A. D. 1870, notwithstanding said injunctional order, made to be an act and law of the State of Florida, except in so far as it is qualified or affected by the said last named act.

And these defendants allege and charge that the legislature of Florida, at the date of the passage of the said act, approved January 28, 1870, had notice of the said injunctional order and of the proceedings and the record aforesaid in said case of George W. Scott and Joseph John Williams vs. Harrison Reed, governor, et als., and of the claim and lien aforesaid of the trustees of the internal improvement fund for said balance of purchase money, and of the fact that the said balance of purchase money had not been paid, and that the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company could not give or create in favor of the State of Florida or to indemnify her a first mortgage lien on said railroads and properties sold as aforesaid, until the said balance of purchase money should be paid, or the lien thereof otherwise legally cancelled and destroyed.

These defendants, further answering, charge and show that the said legislature of the State of Florida never contemplated the issue of State bonds pretended to be authorized by said acts until after the said balance of purchase money should be paid and the lien for the same on said railroads and properties satisfied. They show that the State of Florida was herself a party to the contract out of which the right to make said sales of said railroads and properties sold on the 20th of March, A. D. 1869, grew; that the governor, treasurer, and other officers of the State were appointed by the provisions of the said "internal improvement act" to administer the trusts of said law, and have always been engaged in administering it, and that the State could not take a first 912 mortgage on that property which was already bound and under a lien for the balance due to said trust under a contract made under said internal improvement law. That under said acts of June, A. D. 1869, and January, A. D. 1870, the governor was charged with the duty of signing and delivering the pretended State bonds authorized thereby and receiving the company bonds to be given in exchange for the same; and the treasurer was charged with the duty of countersigning said State bonds, and the governor who did sign and deliver said State bonds and receive in exchange therefor the said company bonds, and the treasurer who countersigned said State bonds, were active trustees of said internal improvement fund from and before the sale of said railroads up to and long after the delivery and exchange of said pretended State bonds for said company bonds mentioned in the bill of complaint, and knew when they signed and delivered and countersigned said State bonds and received said railroad company bonds in exchange therefor that said balance of purchase money remained unpaid.

These defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and so allege, that on or about February 21, 1870, after the passage of said act of January, A. D. 1870, and before the issue of any bonds thereunder, and application was made directly to the then governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, by and on behalf of holders of first mortgage bonds of the said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and Tallahassee Railroad Company, issued under the provisions of said internal improvement law, for the purpose of ascertaining whether he intended to issue bonds of the State under the provisions of said acts of June, 1869, and January, A. D. 1870, aforesaid, until after the claim against said railroads and property sold as aforesaid for said balance of purchase money had been paid; that such application was made in the shape of a letter written by T. W. Brevard, jr., at Tallahassee, Florida, to said Governor Reed, a copy of which letter and the endorsement of said Reed thereon is hereto annexed, marked I, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof; that in said letter the following propositions were advanced: 1st. That the original first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and Tallahassee Railroad Companies 913 which remain outstanding and unpaid encumbered the said property with a lien prior to all others then existing or that might be created; and, 2d, that there could be properly no issue of first mortgage bonds upon said railroads and properties until the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid should be paid at the pro rata valuation fixed by the sale and cancelled. And these defendants say that the said Governor Reed replied to said application on or about the same day by making substantially the following endorsement thereon, to wit:

I concur in the view of Col. Brevard, and shall issue no bonds under the new law until the lien upon the road is satisfied.

HARRISON REED, Govenor.

And these defendants say that in issuing and delivering the said State bonds, the said Harrison Reed perpetrated a fraud upon the State of Florida, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, the holders of the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, and upon every and all persons concerned in said balance of purchase money and said railroads.

These defendants, further answering, say, that they have no knowledge, nor have they any information except from the statements made in the bill of complaint, as to what or how many of the bonds obtained by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from the governor of Florida were sent to England, nor as to what number were or had been sold in the city of London or elsewhere, through an agent or other otherwise; and defendants demand that complainants be held to strict proof of all and singular the allegations as to the same in the bill of complaint.

These defendants, however, say, they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that of the said State bonds so obtained by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, two hundred and twenty-four have been cancelled, two were lost before being sold, and five hundred and seventy-six are deposited in a bank in London, England, the same being tied up in litigation, but they never have been sold by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or its authority, and should be surrendered to the State of Florida.

State bonds sold, as stated in the bill of complaint, sold for, nor as to whether any buyer afterwards resold said bonds through bankers in Amsterdam, Holland, or that bankers in Amsterdam offered them for sale to the public in Amsterdam, or in other parts of the Netherlands, or that said bonds were dealt in on the Stock Exchange in Amsterdam, as other public securities, or were in full reliance by all purchasers upon representations which were made in respect thereto, nor as to what price said bonds bore so long as the interest was paid thereon; and these defendants deny each and all the allegations made and stated in the ninth paragraph of complainants' bill; and these defendants demand that the complainants be held to strict proof of all and singular the allegations in the bill of complaint upon the same subjects.

These defendants, further answering, say, that they have no knowledge, nor have they any information, sufficient to enable them to form a belief as to whether the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, through its agents in London, or otherwise, represented to the people in England, Holland, Germany and France, or in either of said countries, that the said bonds were veritable and lawful obligations, or either, of the State of Florida, or that the interest thereon would be punctually paid by the State of Florida, or that there was provided by law of said State, as a security for the payment of said bonds, a lien on the whole line of railroad from Jacksonville west, or on any part thereof; or that said line was represented to be owned by the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company alone or that the bankers in London repeated the same representation to the bankers in Amsterdam, or the latter to the public in the Netherlands, or to complainants or to others, or any persons who purchased, sold, or dealt in said bonds; and these defendants deny all and singular the allegations aforesaid in complainants' bill, and demand that the complainants be required to make strict proof of all and singular the same; and these defendants charge that there never has been any lien on said line of railroad as a security for the payment of said bonds.

915 These defendants, further answering, say they have no knowledge as to whether complainants are owners of large numbers or any of said pretended bonds, or of those stated in the eleventh paragraph of complainants' bill, nor do they admit that they are such owners, but deny the same, and demand that complainants be required to produce and make full and strict proof of their ownership of any such pretended bonds, and that they are bona fide owners for a valuable consideration, and without notice.

These defendants have no knowledge, except from statements made in the bill, that interest has been paid at all on said bonds up to January 1st, 1873, semi-annually; nor have they any knowledge, nor any information, sufficient to enable them to form a belief as to such interest having been paid by a trust company in the city of New York, or that the governor of Florida appointed such trust company fiscal agents of said State, or that the governor gave notice to the holders of such bonds of such appointment, or that it was represented to the persons who dealt in said pretended bonds, or to complainants, that the money for the payment of said interest was provided by the State of Florida; or that owing to such an occurrence, or such information, the belief that such bonds were lawfully issued by the governor of Florida was greatly strengthened and full faith given to what may have been represented by said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, as to the extent of its line of railroads; and these defendants therefore deny each and all the allegations thereunto in said complainants' bill, and particularly all the allegations in the last paragraph of the eleventh subdivision of said bill of complaint, and demand that the complainants be held to strict and full proof of the same.

And these defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that the State of Florida never did, in any manner, pay or cause to be paid, any interest on any of said pretended bonds, or provide or furnish any money for the payment of any such interest; nor has she represented or pretended, or caused it to be represented, that she had paid any such interest, or provided or caused to be provided any money for the payment thereof.

916 And these defendants say they are informed and believe that the greater part of said interest was secured to be paid by an arrangement made as a part of the original sale of said pretended bonds by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by which an amount sufficient to pay the interest on said pretended bonds, up to July 1st, 1872, was either retained by the purchasers out of the purchase money, or a sufficient amount of such purchase money deposited for the purpose, and so applied afterwards; and that the installment of interest for January, A. D. 1873, if it has been paid, was paid out of the proceeds of a sale of some of the said pretended bonds consummated in December, A. D. 1872, or January, A. D. 1873, or about that time; and the State of Florida had no part or concern in the payment of said interest, or providing money therefor.

These defendants, further answering, say they are informed and believe, and so allege, that the said Francis Vose, M. K. Jessup & Co., and the other persons named in the twelfth paragraph or subdivision of the complainants' bill, and other persons besides them, are owners and holders of large and different amounts of outstanding and unpaid bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, issued under the said "internal improvement act" aforesaid, on which bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, the principal and large amounts of interest accruing prior to and since said sale of March 20th, 1869, are still due and unpaid, and on which bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, large amounts of interest, accruing before and since said sale, are still due and unpaid.

And these defendants further say that the said F. Dibble and associates did not, nor has any one for them, paid the full amount of purchase money aforesaid, but that the said balance of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty five dollars, and interest thereon from the said 20th day of March, A. D. 1869, still remains due and unpaid; and these defendants have, as vendors, a lien on said railroads and property so sold for the same, and the holders of said bonds have demanded that the trustees of the internal improvement fund shall enforce it against said property so sold.

917 And these defendants say they are advised, and informed, and believe that the complainants herein have no paramount or other lien on said railroads or properties sold on said 20th day of March, nor of their pretended State bonds any lien on the same or any part thereof; and these defendants deny that they or their predecessors in said internal improvement fund trust ever intrusted the said George W. Swepson with said balance of purchase money or any part thereof.

And these defendants say that they are informed and believe, and so allege, that there was no obligation of said Swepson accepted by the trustees of the internal improvement fund to purchase for them said outstanding bonds except the aforesaid pretended receipt for said balance of purchase money, which pretended receipt was, as was the pretended payment of said balance of purchase money, a sham and a fraud; and these defendants deny that the complainants are bona-fide purchasers of any of said pretended State bonds without actual notice of any wrong or fraud upon the part of the said former trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, or of said Dibble and associates, or of said Swepson.

And these defendants further answering say that if the complainants have any lien, or equity, or claim against said railroads or properties sold, or any right to subject the same to the payment of their bonds, or any equity to payment out of said railroads and property, all of which they deny, and are advised and allege not to be true, it is through the exchange made by the State of Florida with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company of said pretended State bonds for bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, under said chapters 1716 and 1731 of the Laws of Florida, and a bona-fide ownership of said pretended State bonds, and is subordinate to the lien and claim of the trustees of the internal-improvement fund for said unpaid balance of purchase money, of which the State of Florida, and Dibble and associates, and Tallahassee Railroad Company, and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and its president, Milton S. Littlefield, and the governor, treasurer, comptroller, attorney-general, and the surveyor-general of said State had 918 notice at the time said exchange was made, which said State, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Dibble and associates, and Tallahassee Railroad Company, president, governor, and other officers then had full notice of the said fraudulent acts, doings, and pretences as to the payment of said balance of purchase money and delivery of the deeds for and possession of said railroads, and defendants deny that complainants are such bona-fide owners.

And these defendants further say that the notice which the State of Florida, or the officers thereof, authorized or directed by said chapters 1716 and 1731 of the Laws of Florida to issue and exchange bonds of the said State for bonds of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company or other company, had of the frauds aforesaid, and the non-payment of said balance of purchase money, and of the fact that large amounts of Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds were outstanding and unpaid, and of the said lien for said balance of purchase money, is binding upon, and notice in law and equity to any and all holders and owners of the said pretended State bonds aforesaid; and that they are, by reason of notice to said State and officers, estopped and concluded from denying notice of such frauds and facts.

And these defendants further say they are informed and believe, and thereupon allege, that on the 23d day of June, A. D. 1870, before any of said pretended State bonds had been sold by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and long before the complainants had become owners of the same or any of them, certain owners and holders of the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds aforesaid filed, on behalf of themselves and others, in the circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida, at Tallahassee, in said district, their bill in equity against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the trustees of the internal-improvement fund, and, as these defendants believe, others, in which all the facts and circumstances hereinbefore stated as to the sale of said railroads and properties, and as to said pretended payment of said balance of purchase money, and said fraudulent receipts and said 919 illegal delivery and conveyance of said railroad company, and as to the organization and incorporation of said Dibble and associates and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and the acquisition of said railroads and properties by said Tallahassee, and Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies, and as to the issue of said pretended State bonds, and the notice of the State and its governor and other officers aforesaid, and said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, Dibble and associates, and Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the non-payment of said purchase money, and of the fraudulent acts and pretenses aforesaid were fully set up, and in which it was prayed that the said railroads and properties sold on the 20th of March, 1869, might be resold, under the order or decree of said court, for the purpose of paying the said balance of purchase money.

These defendants are informed and believe that said suit was pending up to the 24th day of July, A. D. 1872, when Edward C. Anderson et al., holders of some of said outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, filed in the same United States circuit court, at Jacksonville, in said northern district of Florida, against the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and others, a similar bill in equity, praying that said railroads and properties be sold to pay the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, whereupon the said former bill, as defendants are informed and believe, was dismissed; and defendants further say, that in said last-stated cause, on or about the 19th day of December, A. D. 1872, a final decree was made and entered against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, in favor of the complainants therein (the suit having been dismissed as to the trustees of the internal improvement fund), for the sale of said railroads and properties, on account of the non-payment of said balance of purchase money, and for the proceeds of sale to be applied to the payment of the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds; and defendants say that the said suits and decree have been, from the commencement of the same, and still are, full notice to all the world of the paramount lien of said bal-920 ance of purchase money on said railroads and properties for the payment of the same.

And defendants further say that the said decree still remains in full force and effect, except that in a certain cause in the Supreme Court of the United States, wherein the State of Florida, sueing in its own behalf and in behalf of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of Florida, was complainant, and Edward C. Anderson and others, the complainants in said decree rendered in the United States circuit court aforesaid, holders and owners of Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Company bonds, and others, were defendants, the complainants in said United States circuit court decree were enjoined from selling, or procuring to be sold, said railroads and property under, or by virtue of, said decree, or any decree supplementary thereto in the same cause, the said United States Supreme Court decree providing that nothing therein should hinder the right of said Anderson and others to demand and receive from the State of Florida, or the trustees of the internal improvement fund, out of the proceeds of said property, the principal and interest of their Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, which might be due, or as it might become due, or out of the sinking fund provided by said internal improvement fund, to be collected out of said roads, the principal of said bonds due and as it might become due, or out of the internal improvement fund, the interest on said bonds, as the same might become due; and providing that it, the said United States Supreme Court decree, should not affect the validity of said United States circuit court decree, except as above expressed; and these defendants pray full reference to the said decree of the United States Supreme Court, and the opinion of the court in said cause, as explaining fully the meaning and intent of said decree. And these defendants further say that in said cause in the United States Supreme Court, the same being a case of original jurisdiction, Gideon Maria Boissevain, Adrian Isaac Milders, Adrian Stoop, Joseph Zadocks, and Dr. Nicholas Jacob den Tex were defendants, and that they filed answer in said cause, and a copy of the judgment therein is filed herewith, marked K, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof.

921 These defendants, further answering, say, that in said cause referred to, in the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth paragraphs of complainants' bill, the same having been commenced on the 20th of March, A. D. 1872, in the circuit court, fourth circuit of Florida, for Duval County, and the State of Florida, and the trustees of the internal improvement fund being plaintiffs therein, the said trustees sueing to recover the balance of said purchase money and interest, in which suits all the facts and circumstances of said fraudulent and pretended payment of the said balance of purchase money, and illegal delivery of the deeds for and the possession of said roads, and other matters and things aforesaid, are fully set forth, a judgment or decree was, on the 4th day of April, A. D, 1874, rendered and entered against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in favor of the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund for the balance of said purchase money, the amount of said judgment being $661,845.55, with costs and disbursements; and in and by said judgment, which was rendered in the said suit, in Duval circuit court, the same being an action commenced under the "Code of Procedure," it was adjudged that the aforesaid sum of money should be held and deemed, as against the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and all persons or bodies corporate claiming by, or through, or under said company, a lien upon the real, personal and mixed property owned by said company on the 20th day of March, A. D. 1872, the day of the commencement of this suit, and a lien upon all the railroads situate between Lake City, in Columbia County, and Quincy, in Gadsden County, and the branches to St. Marks and Monticello, and upon the iron, road-bed and depots thereon, or connected therewith, from the 20th day of March, A. D. 1869; and defendants say said decree is still of full force and effect.

These defendants, further answering, say, that a regular record has, since the issuance of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, been kept, according to law, in the office of the comptroller of said State of Florida, at the capital of said State, in the city of Tallahassee, which record indicates the number of bonds originally issued by said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Rail-922 road Companies, the number which has been paid or cancelled from time to time, and the number still outstanding; and that the same, at the time of the passage of said chapter 1731 of the Laws of Florida, and of the issuance of said pretended State bonds, showed and has ever since shown that the aforesaid outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds were still outstanding; and respondents say that the same was, and is, a public record, and full notice to all the world that said bonds were, and are, still outstanding and unpaid.

And these defendants, further answering, say, they are informed and believe, and so allege, that no advantage or precedence can be claimed by the complainants on account of the trustees of the internal improvement fund having failed to sue the said Swepson, on account of said receipt, or to recover of him an amount of money which he never received; and they further say, as they have before stated, that the only obligation of said Swepson ever held by them was the receipt aforesaid; and that he never received any of said balance of purchase money from said trustees, nor from any one, and the trustees never had said balance.

And these defendants say that the holders of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds have not been guilty of any laches, negligence or neglect in attempting to prevent the issue of bonds by the State of Florida, or by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for such pretended State bonds, under said laws of the State of Florida last referred to, to-wit, chapters 1716 and 1731, aforesaid; nor are they or the trustees of the internal improvement fund estopped by lapse of time or otherwise from asserting and maintaining in a court of equity any of the rights and remedies to which they would be entitled under all and singular the circumstances of the case had the same occurred or transpired within a short time.

These defendants are informed and believe, and so allege, that not only did the holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds, through their attorney, Col. Theodore W. Brevard, address the governor of Florida, Harrison Reed, on the 21st day of February, A. D. 1870, before there had been any exchange of bonds 923 under said laws of Florida last-mentioned, the letter hereinbefore referred to and hereto annexed, marked I, and prayed to be taken with the reply thereto, or endorsement thereon by said governor, as a part of this answer, the same as if fully set forth herein, and obtain from him a concurrence in the views expressed in said letter and the promise that no bonds should be issued under said last-named laws, as indicated by said reply thereto or endorsement thereon of said governor; but, as is shown by said letter and as these defendants allege to be true, this course was pursued in order to avoid the expense and trouble and delays of a suit in equity, which the holders of said bonds, represented by said Colonel Brevard, had then determined to bring for the purpose of enjoining the issue of any bonds by the State under said acts; and these defendants further say they are informed and believe, and therefore allege that the holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds were careful and active in causing it to be made known to the members of the senate and assembly constituting the legislature of Florida which passed said acts, that the said balance of purchase money had not been paid, and that there was still a lien on the said railroads and properties for the same, and that said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds were still outstanding and unpaid, and not only did the said bondholders thus endeavor to prevent the issue of said State bonds, and the consequent issue and exchange therefor of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; but they, as these defendants are informed and believe, and so allege, although they were in no wise bound or called upon to do so, also made efforts to put all persons who might contemplate the purchase of said State bonds from the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or the negotiation thereof for said company, and even the public generally, upon notice and inquiry, and thus to prevent the consummation of fraud, and defendants annex hereto, marked M, a letter prepared and written by T. W. Brevard, aforesaid, as counsel for holders of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, under date of June 21st, 1871, and pray to be taken as a part hereof, a copy of which was forwarded by the writer thereof 924 to the "chairman," to whom it is addressed, and to John Collinson, of London, England, a banker, and who was negotiating the sale of said bonds for said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or a purchase of the same himself, copies of which were also distributed among and sent by mail and otherwise by said Brevard to different prominent bankers, including said S. W. Hopkins & Co., in this country, and in Europe to all persons who were at all likely or supposed to probably have anything to do with the sale or negotiation of said bonds.

And these defendants further say, that they are informed and believe, and so allege, that in the summer of 1871, the said John Collinson was in Florida, and the said Brevard, attorney aforesaid, as these defendants are informed and believe, notified him of the fact that said balance of purchase money still remained unpaid, and that the said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds were still outstanding and unpaid, and of the improper and illegal issue of State bonds to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and that there was a lien on said railroads and property superior to all others for the payment of said balance of purchase money, and in the winter of the year 1870, or about that time, and about the time the said last-named act of the legislature of Florida was passed, to wit, chapter 1731, said Brevard gave notice of the same facts to one Collins, and agent and representative of the firm of S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York, who were prominent in the negotiation and sale of said bonds.

And these defendants further answering say, that on or about the 8th day of February, A. D. 1871, one E. M. L'Engle, of Jacksonville, Florida, addressed a letter, of which a copy is hereto annexed, marked N, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof, to the firm of Holje & Boissevain, bankers, at Amsterdam, Holland, they being the banking-house at which, as defendants are informed, and believe and allege, the whole, or nearly all, of the said State bonds owned or held by the subjects of the King of the Netherlands were sold or negotiated; and defendants are informed and believe that the contents thereof were known to said Holje, Boissevain and Collins before the negotiation of any of said bonds was ever completed.

These defendants, further answering, say, that they are ad- 925 vised and believe that the statements in complainants' bill to the effect that the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds never constituted a lien on the roads owned by said companies for any sum of money other than the principal of such bonds, is not true, and they deny the same; and allege, as they are advised and believe, that said bonds are a lien on said roads and properties for both principal and interest, and they deny that the complainants have any right in law or in equity to insist or require that the holders of such bonds should be made to resort to the Internal Improvement Fund for the payment of either principal or interest, or exhaust the same before resorting to said railroads for payment; but say that the said railroads and properties so sold are primarily liable for payment on said bonds before the said fund, which is not liable at all for the payment of any principal on said bonds.

These defendants further say that even if the trustees of the internal improvement fund have the power, or the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bondholders had the right, to have the sinking fund, which was provided for by the said internal improvement law, collected and invested in the manner specified in said act, or even, if in case of any loss of any part thereof by the acts of the trustees, that the bondholders had a remedy against the trustees and also a right to have the loss made good to them out of the proceeds of the sale of the land conveyed to the trustees by the State; that these are no reasons why the complainants should claim a first lien on said railroad or seek to defeat or delay these defendants in collecting the said balance of purchase money; and defendants deny that the complainants have any right in law or equity to have said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bondholders restricted to such sinking fund or any remedies which may exist for the collection and restoration thereof.

And these defendants, further answering, say that since the filing of the bill of complaint said railroads, from Lake City to Chattahooche River, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and the branch road to Monticello, have been taken out of the possession of the governor of Florida and placed in the possession of a receiver appointed by an order made in this cause and are now in said receiver's possession and con-926 trol; and that the advertisement of said railroads for sale by the governor has been discontinued. And that shortly prior to the filing of this bill, or soon thereafter, an injunction restraining the sale of said roads by the governor was granted by an order made in a certain cause in the circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida, wherein the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company was complainant, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Rail- Company, these defendants and others, are defendants, which injunction is still of full force and effect.

These defendants deny that there was any error in the governor's advertising said roads to be sold subject to the lien for said purchase money, but say that such lien exists and is superior to the lien of th complainants, if they have any, which these defendants deny.

These defendants, answering the sixteenth paragraph or subdivision of complainants' bill, say that it is for the owners of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds and coupons thereon or thereto appertaining, to decide whether or not they will join in the plan and arrangement therein referred to and annexed to said bill, marked E, and upon their agreeing to the decree proposed therein and upon the outstanding Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee bonds and all coupons and claims for interest on said bonds and coupons being surrendered to this board for cancellation, these defendants will agree to the same; but until they do so or advise these defendants of their intention to do so, these defendants feel it their duty to defend this suit in the manner indicated by this answer, and will so defend and resist complainants' claim, all of which defendants believe to be untenable and without foundation in law.

And these defendants, further answering, say that the moneys in the hands of the treasurer of the State of Florida paid to the register of the U. S. Supreme Court by Robert Walker, the receiver in said cause of the State of Florida vs. E. C. Anderson et als., in the United States Supreme Court, are, as defendants are informed and believe, the earnings and fruits of the said railroad sold on the 20th day of March aforesaid, that the same were turned over to said treasurer under an order 927 of said court made in said cause; a copy of which, with explanatory opinion of said court annexed thereto, is filed herewith, marked O, and prayed to be taken as a part hereof. That the said order directs that the same shall be disposed of according to the trusts that have been or may be declared of and concerning the same by the supreme or other courts of Florida having jurisdiction of the premises.

And these defendants, further answering, say that in February last one H. Bisbee, jr., who was attorney and solicitor for said State of Florida, filed a bill in chancery in the circuit court of the second judicial circuit of Florida, in and for the county of Leon, against Geo. F. Drew, the governor of Florida, and these defendants, the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and Walter Gwynn, treasurer of Florida, claiming that he has a lien on said funds and should be paid out of the same, for a claim of about twenty-four thousand dollars for fees as attorney and solicitor for the State, or the State and trustees of the internal improvement fund, for services rendered in said causes in the United States Supreme Court and circuit courts aforesaid, and in a case in the circuit court of the fourth judicial circuit of Florida, in and for Duval County, wherein the State and the trustees of the internal improvement fund were complainants, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company et als., defendants, involving said railroads, and for services and advice, and expenses and disbursements rendered, given, incurred, and paid; that said cause is at issue and testimony is being taken therein; that on or about the 29th day of May, A. D. 1877, an order was made in said cause by the honorable P. W. White, judge, ordering and directing the said Gwynn, treasurer, not to pay out or part with said funds, or any of the same, until the further order of the said court; which order is still of full force and effect, except as modified by a subsequent order of said court permitting said Gwynn to pay out of said fund "the necessary costs" for procuring records for evidence in defending the same against the said suit, and the suit of one D. P. Holland, which is a suit in chancery commenced prior to this suit, in said Leon circuit court, against said governor and trustees of the internal improve- 928 ment fund and treasurer of Florida, in which said Holland claims that the said funds should be applied to the payment of a judgment, which he claims to have obtained about December, A. D. 1872, against the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, for sixty-odd thousand dollars, for professional services claimed by him to have been rendered said company. This suit brought by D. P. Holland is also at issue, and will very soon be ready for trial. And these defendants insist that, as said Leon circuit court thus first obtained jurisdiction of said fund, that this court should not make any orders as to or concerning the said fund, but that the complainants should be required to go into the said Leon circuit court and become parties to said suits.

And defendants further say that although they deny that said Bisbee and Holland have any claim on said funds, they insist that no orders shall be made as to said funds without or until said Holland and Bisbee have been made parties herein and brought into this suit by due process of law.

And defendants further say that if this honorable court should, under any circumstances, proceed to adjudicate and decide as to said fund, that as the same are the fruits of said railroads so sold, and as said railroads are now worth in value very much less than said balance of purchase money, principal and interest, and will when sold not sell for enough, by a larger amount than said funds, to pay said balance of purchase money and interest, and as there is a large amount of principal outstanding of said Tallahassee Railroad bonds now past due, all of which they charge to be true, the same should be paid to these defendants to be credited on said balance of purchase money, which is the first lien on said railroads and property, sold as aforesaid. Such, these defendants submit, was the purpose and intention of said United States Supreme Court, as will appear from said order and explanatory opinion aforesaid.

These defendants, further answering, say that they have no knowledge, nor have they any information, except such as is derived from the bill of complaint, whether or not said Vose, or any of said defendants, have purchased, within a short time, for purposes of speculation and litigation, any of said Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad bonds, or whether or not they had notice at the time of their 929 purchase of any of complainants' pretended rights or claims; and these defendants demand that complainants be required to make strict and full proof of their said allegation. And defendants say that even if said Vose and others have so purchased any of said bonds, that the lien of defendants on said railroads and properties is not thereby affected or impaired.

These defendants, further answering, say that they have no knowledge, nor have they sufficient information to enable them to form a belief as to what the agreement referred to in the twenty-fifth paragraph of complainants' bill as being made between M. S. Littlefield and George W. Swepson was, or the effect thereof; and these defendants pray that the complainants may be required to make full proof of its terms and effect. And these defendants say, that if there was any agreement between the said Swepson and Littlefield, whereby said Littlefield was to take up or purchase any Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies' bonds, that the trustees of the internal improvement fund were and are not privy to the same. These defendants have no knowledge as to whether the one hundred and three bonds mentioned in said paragraph were paid for out of the money for which said State bonds were sold, but are informed and believe that some, at least, if not all, of them were paid for out of such money.

And these defendants, further answering, say that the decision of the supreme court of Florida referred to in the nineteenth paragraph of complainants' bill is not binding upon these defendants; nor are these defendants in any manner concluded by the same, neither these defendants nor their predecessors being parties thereto; nor do these defendants admit that the State of Florida, or the complainants, or any one else, has any lien on said railroads and property for the payment of said pretended State bonds, but they deny that there is any such lien, and say that these defendants have the first lien on said roads and properties; that in said decision it is expressly stated that no question of the priority of the lien claimed by the State of Florida in said cause, and that claimed by these defendants herein, is decided or passed upon.

These defendants further say, that neither the complainants in 930 this cause nor any one claiming to be a holder of any of said pretended State bonds was a party to said cause referred to in said XIXth paragraph of complainants' bill, nor have complainants any right in law to plead or rely upon the said judgment of said supreme court, nor do defendants admit that such judgment has the meaning or effect claimed for it by complainants, and defendants pray reference to the same for ascertaining the true meaning and effect of the same.

And these defendants, having fully answered, pray to be hence dismissed, with their reasonable costs.

The board met. Present, Harrison Reed, governor; A. R. Meek, att'y-general.; J. S. Adams, com. im.; Frank W. Webster, sur. gen l.

The following resolution was offered and adopted:

Resolved, that the deeds of the Tallahassee & P. & G. Railroads prepared by the attorney-general be executed by the members of this board.

The board then adjourned.

FRANK W. WEBSTER, S'c'y.

(Endorsed:) Resolved, that the deeds to the P. & G. & Tallahassee

R. R. be executed. J. Fred. Schute et al. vs. West'n Div. West. N. C. R. R. Co. et als. Exhibit C to answer of trustees of internal imp. fund

933 EXHIBIT D.

Whereas, by an act of the legislative council of the Territory of Florida, approved February tenth, A. D. 1834, entitled "An act to incorporate the Tallahassee Railroad Company," the said railroad was duly incorporated;

And whereas, the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January 6th, A. D. 1855, and in writing presented December nineteenth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created by said last-mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas, the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company, under the provisions of this act, shall be a first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, and upon a failure on the part of any railroad company, accepting the provisions of this act, to provide the interest, as herein provided, it shall be the duty of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal, to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional approved security, as they may deem most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders;"

And whereas the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum, as a sinking fund, as provided by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund, under the requirements of said act;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund, at at a meeting of said trustees, held at the capital of said State, at the city of Tallahassee, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present His Excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general; and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas, the Tallahassee Railroad Company has failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company and the sum of one per cent. per annum, as a sinking fund, as required by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and advertise the same to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash, or additional approved security, at the office of said company, in Tallahassee, aforesaid, on Saturday, 934 the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida

Union, published in Jacksonville, in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee, aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution advertise the same for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the time and place and in the newspapers named, and in accordance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to their said resolution, did proceed and offer said Tallahassee Railroad and all its property of every kind, including road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash; subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent., semi-annually, to the sinking fund, until all the outstanding bonds are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase money paid in, and all other conditions of said act;

And whereas, at said sale, F. Dibble and associates were the highest and best bidders; having bid the sum of one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars for the said Tallahassee Railroad and its property of every kind, including the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, the said road was knocked off to said F. Dibble and associates, as the highest bidders therefor;

And whereas said F. Dibble and his associates requested same trustees to execute to said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, a deed of said road and all its property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the purchase price bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; S. B. Conover, State treasurer; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex-officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly of this State, in reference thereto, party of the first part, and F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, as also of the said sum of one hundred and ninety-five thousand dollars, to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part, at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, sold, aliened and confirmed, and do by these presents, grant, bargain, sell, alien, confirm and deliver unto the said party of the second part, the said Tallahassee Railroad, its iron, equipments, workshops, depots and franchise, and all its property of every kind subject to sale under the provisions of this act, to have and to hold the same, with all the rights, 935 privileges and appurtenances thereto belonging or in any wise appertaining, to the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns, forever, in as full and ample a manner as the said trustees of said internal improvement fund can convey the same, subject, however, to the conditions and provisions stated and made known at said sale as above set forth; and the said party of the first part will, from time to time, and at all times hereafter, upon the reasonable request of the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns, make and execute all such further deeds, if any, necessary for the perfect and absolute assurance and confirmation of the said railroad and other property hereby conveyed or intended to be conveyed unto said party of the second part, their successors or assigns.

In testimony whereof, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, party of the first part, have hereunto set their hands and seals, this eighth day of April, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

936 SCHEDULE 2.

Whereas, by an act of the general assembly of the State of Florida, entitled "An act to incorporate the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company," approved January the eighth, A. D. 1853, the said railroad company was duly incorporated;

And whereas the said railroad company duly and fully accepted the provisions of an act of said general assembly, entitled "An act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State," approved January sixth, A. D. 1855, and in writing, dated January twelfth, A. D. 1855, notified the trustees of the internal improvement fund, created under said last mentioned act, of said acceptance;

And whereas the third section of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State provides, among other things, "that all bonds issued by any railroad company, under the provisions of this act, shall be the first lien or mortgage on the road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and upon the failure of any railroad company accepting the provisions of this act to provide the interest, as herein provided, on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund, as herein provided, it shall be the duties of the trustees, after the expiration of thirty days from said default or refusal, to take possession of said railroad and all its property of every kind and advertise the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, either for cash or additional security, as they may think most advantageous for the interest of the internal improvement fund and the bondholders;"

And whereas the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, on the sixth of February, A. D. 1869, and for a long time previous thereto, to wit, more than thirty days, had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sum of one per cent. per annum as a sinking fund, as provided by said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, and had thereby incurred the liability of being sold by the trustees of said internal improvement fund, under the requirements of said act;

And whereas the trustees of said internal improvement fund, at a meeting of said trustees, held at the capital of said State, at the city of Tallahassee, on the sixth day of February, A. D. 1869, at which meeting were present His Excellency Harrison Reed, governor; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general; and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, did resolve that: Whereas, the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company had failed to provide the interest on the bonds issued by said company, and the sinking fund of one per cent. per annum, as required by said act, to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State, that the said trustees, by virtue of and in compliance with the provisions of said act, take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and advertise the same to be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, for cash or additional approved security, at the office of said company, in Tallahassee aforesaid, on 937 Saturday, the twentieth day of March, A. D. 1869, and that the notice of said sale be published forthwith until day of sale in the Journal of Commerce and the New York Herald, published in New York; the Savannah Republican, published in Savannah, Georgia; the Florida Union, published in this State, and all the papers in Tallahassee aforesaid;

And whereas, in compliance with said resolution, said trustees did take possession of said road and all its property of every kind, and immediately after the adoption of said resolution and until said day of sale, advertised the same for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the time and place and in the newspapers named, and in compliance with the requirements of said act, and pursuant to said resolution, did proceed and offer said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad, subject to said sale under said act, at public auction to the highest bidder therefor, for cash, subject, however, to the condition that the purchaser shall be bound to continue the payment of one-half of one per cent. semi-annually, to the sinking fund, until all the outstanding bonds of said company are discharged, under the penalty of an amendment of the contract of purchase and the forfeiture of the purchase money paid in, and all other conditions of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvements in this State; and whereas at said sale F. Dibble and associates were the highest and best bidders, having bid the sum of one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars for the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its road-bed, iron, equipment, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all the property of said railroad subject to said sale under said act were knocked off to said F. Dibble and his associates;

And whereas F. Dibble and his associates have requested said trustees to execute to said F. Dibble on behalf of himself and his associates a deed of said railroad and other property as aforesaid, agreeing, upon the execution and delivery of said deed, to pay the said purchase-money bid:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida; R. H. Gamble, comptroller; S. B. Conover, State treasurer; J. S. Adams, commissioner of immigration; Frank W. Webster, surveyor-general, and A. R. Meek, attorney-general of said State, constituting, ex officio, the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, under and by virtue of said act to provide for and encourage a liberal system of internal improvement in this State, and subsequent acts of the general assembly in relation thereto, party of the first part, and F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the second part, witnesseth:

That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, as also of the said sum of one million two hundred and twenty thousand dollars to them in hand paid by the said party of the second part, at and before the ensealing and delivery of these presents, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, have granted, bargained, sold, aliened, and confirmed, and do by these presents grant, bargain, sell, alien, confirm and deliver unto the said party of the second part, the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, its iron, equipments, workshops, depots, and franchise, and all its property of every kind subject 938 to sale under the provisions of said act; to have and to hold the same, with all the rights, privileges, and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining, to said party of the second part, their successors or assigns forever, in as full and ample manner as the said trustees of said internal improvement fund can convey the same, and the said party of the first part will, from time to time, and at all times hereafter, upon the reasonable request of the said party of the second part, their successors or assigns, make and execute all such further deeds necessary, if any, for the perfect and absolute assurance and confirmation of the said railroad and other property hereby conveyed or intended to be conveyed unto said party of the second part, their successors or assigns.

In testimony whereof, the said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, party of the first part, have hereunto set their hands and seals, this eighth day of April, anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine. 940 EXHIBIT E.

TALLAHASSEE, April 8th, 1869.

The board met, all members present.

Resolved by the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, That Calvin B. Dibble, of the firm of Dibble, 941 Worth & Co., of New York City, and Geo. W. Swepson, of Raleigh, N. C., be, & they are hereby, appointed confidential agents of said trustees with authority in each to take up the outstanding 1st mortgage bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and that the attorney-general and comptroller are hereby directed to turn over to said Dibble and Swepson, or either of them, all moneys that may be received by them in behalf of said trustees for said roads for the purposes above set forth. The board then adjourned.

FRANK W. WEBSTER,
Secretary.

(Endorsed:) Resolution appointing Dibble & Swepson confidential agents of the board of trustees. J. Fred Schutte et als. vs. West'n Div. West'n N. C. R. R. Co. et als. Exhibit E to answer of trustees of internal improvement fund.

EXHIBIT F.

TALLAHASSEE, June 17th, 1869.

The board met pursuant to call. Present, R. H. Gamble, comptroller; A. R. Meek, att'y-general; J. S. Adams, com. im'i.; Frank W. Webster, sur.-gen'l.

942 J. S. Adams was chosen chairman. The report of Mess. Gamble & Meek, as agents of the board (see resolution of March 29, 1869), was presented, and on motion unanimously accepted and their action approved. (See page 401.)

The report was as follows:

To the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida:

By resolution of your board adopted March 29, 1869, we were directed and impowered to proceed to New York City with the deeds of the Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads executed by you to F. Dibble on behalf of himself and his associates, there present said deeds and receive payment for the roads conveyed by said deeds. We beg to report that the duty devolved upon us by said resolution was duly performed; that we received eight hundred and six thousand six hundred dollars first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Co. at par, and one hundred and fifty-three thousand and seven hundred dollars of first mortgage bonds of the Tallahassee Railroad Co. at between 94 & 95 (ninety-four and ninety-five) cents on the dollar, and that the difference between the same represented by these bonds and the sum bid for said roads was turned over by us as required by a resolution of your board to George W. Swepson, as confidential agent of said board, to take up the outstanding bonds of said companies. The receipt of Mr. Swepson for four hundred and seventy-two thousand 943 and sixty-five dollars we have passed over to the of this board.

We respectfully ask for approval of our action.

Tallahassee, Fla., May , 1869.

Att'y-Gen'l.

(S'g'd) R. H. GAMBLE, Comptroller.

(Endorsed:) Report of A. R. Meek, att'y-gen'l, & R. H. Gamble, comptroller, as to delivery of deeds to Dibble & associates. J. Fred. Schutte et al. vs. West'n Div. N. C. R. R. Co. et al. Exhibit F to answer of trustees of internal improvement fund.

EXHIBIT G.

Whereas George W. Swepson has paid to the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida, for and on account of F. Dibble and his associates, in payment for the Pensacola & Georgia and the Tallahassee Railroads, sold to said F. Dibble and his associates by said trustees on the 20th day of March last, bonds of said roads amounting at their face to nine hundred and sixty thousand and three hundred ($960,300) dollars, and has also paid to said trustees for the same parties the sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five ($472,065) dollars, being the full amount due said trustees for said roads;

And whereas said F. Dibble, for and on behalf of himself and his associates, has obligated himself and them, and does hereby obligate himself and them, to cause bonds upon said roads as now completed, as soon as further legislative authority from said State of Florida shall be obtained therefor, to be issued, the same to be secured and in every respect to be as stated in an agreement executed and dated the twenty-sixth day of last March between said F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, and said George W. Swepson. which bonds, when executed, are to be and shall be placed as provided in said agreement, for the purposes therein set forth, and for the further purpose of enabling said Swepson to be reimbursed the said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars:

Now, therefore, this indenture, made and entered into between F. Dibble, on behalf of himself and his associates, party of the first part, and George W. Swepson, party of the second part, witnesseth, that said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises, has granted, bargained, conveyed and confirmed unto said party of the second part all that property of whatever name, nature, and description, conveyed to said party of the first part by said trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida by two separate deeds of conveyance, each dated April 8th, A. D. 1869, which deeds for full description of property are hereby made part and portion of this instrument. The said property hereby conveyed to be held by said party of the second part in trust for the express purpose of enabling said party of the second part—which he hereby agrees and binds himself to do—to convey the same to that incorporation, consisting, or to consist as incorporators, of said F. Dibble and his associates, as soon as said Dibble and his associates shall have granted to them such a similar relief as the legislature of the said State of Florida granted to Wm. E. Jackson and his associates by act for relief of Wm. E. Jackson and his associates, approved July 29th, 1868, and also for the further purpose of securing said party of the second part in all advances made, as specified and agreed upon in the said agreement between these parties, executed and dated March 26th, 1869, and the advancement, as aforesaid, of said sum of four hundred and seventy-two thousand and sixty-five dollars, until such time as said relief shall have been granted, and said party of the second part shall have conveyed said property to said incorporation, as hereinbefore prescribed.

To have and to hold said property to said party of the second part for the purposes and trusts herein declared.

945 In testimony whereof said party of the first part has hereunto signed his name and affixed his seal, this 22d day of April, A. D. 1869.

GEORGE W. SCOTT, AND JOSEPH JOHN WILLIAMS, complainants,
vs.
GEORGE W. SWEPSON, MILTON S. LITTLEFIELD, John P. Sanderson, J. L. Re Qua, William H. Hunt, Harrison Reed, governor, and S B. Conover, treasurer of Florida, defendants.
} In chancery.

On reading the bill and affidavit in this case, and on motion of counsel to the complainants, and it appearing that notice of said motion had been served on defendant Reed, a writ of injunction is awarded the complainants to enjoin the defendant Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, from issuing, signing, and sealing, and from causing to be issued, signed and sealed, any State bonds of the State of Florida, under the provision of a pretended act of the legislature, pretended to have been passed at the session begun and held on the 8th day of June, A. D. 1869, entitled "An act to perfect works of the State," and from delivering and from causing or permitting to be delivered any such bonds to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or to any other person, and restraining the defendant Conover from 947 countersigning or causing to be countersigned such bonds, and restraining whoever is or may be president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company from receiving any of said bonds, or if received from negotiating the same until the further order of this court.

948 EXHIBIT I.

TALLAHASSEE, February 21, 1870.

His Excellency HARRISON REED,
Governor of Florida:

DEAR SIR: On behalf of parties holding original first-mortgage bonds of the (late) Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, I have been authorized to institute legal proceedings by an application for an injunction to restrain the issue of the State bonds in exchange for first-mortgage bonds upon the railroad property under the provisions of the act of the legislature passed at its late session, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act to perfect the public works of the State"; the parties whom I represent, apprehending that by such issue of bonds as that proposed by the said law their rights of lien would be imperiled.

I am satisfied, however, that such proceedings will not be necessary if your excellency shall agree with me in the following propositions, viz: (1st) That the original first-mortgage bonds of the 949 Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which remain outstanding and unpaid, incumber the said property with a lien prior to all others now existing, or that may be created, and (2d), That there can be properly no issue of first-mortgage bonds upon the said property until the outstanding unpaid first-mortgage bonds of the original issue shall be paid up (at the pro rata valuation fixed by the sale) and cancelled.

I am sure that, should your excellency agree with me in these views, no bonds of the State will be signed and delivered to the parties who are the beneficiaries under the said act until after a redemption of the outstanding bonds referred to, in which event the right of the new company to rebond the property cannot be disputed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. W. BREVARD, Jr.

(Reply endorsed:)

I concur in the view of Colonel Brevard, and shall issue no bonds under the new law until the lien upon the road is satisfied.

(Signed) HARRISON REED, Governor.

EXHIBIT K.

(United States Reports, vol. 91, Otto 1st, page 682.)

vs.
ANDERSON ET AL.

951

Decree.

This cause coming on for hearing upon the pleadings and proofs, and being argued by Mr. Bisbee for the complainant and by Messrs. Jackson, Carpenter, and Boyce for the defendants, and the court having considered of the same, it is now, on this thirteenth day of December, 1875, ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the defendants, and each of them, be perpetually enjoined from hindering or interferring with or disturbing the State of Florida, or any of its officers or agents (including the trustees of the internal improvement fund of said State), or any officer or receiver appointed or acting in its behalf in the possession, management or control of the railroad of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, extending from Lake City westwardly to or beyond the Chattahoochee River, and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, with the appurtenances thereof and property belonging thereto. And that Edward C. Anderson, jr., and other defendants herein, holders of first mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, in whose favor a decree was rendered in the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida on the nineteenth day of December, 1872, directing, amongst other things, a sale of said railroad, be perpetually enjoined from selling, or procuring to be sold, said railroad and property under or by virtue of said 952 decree or any decree supplementary thereto in the same case; provided, however, that nothing herein is intended to preclude the right of the said Anderson and others to demand and receive from the State of Florida, or the said trustees, out of the proceeds of said property, or of said internal improvement fund, or the sinking fund provided in that behalf respectively, the principal and interest which may be or may become due on their said bonds, nor to affect the validity of the said decree, except as above expressed; and provided further, that this decree is not intended to prejudice the right of the defendant Daniel P. Holland to contest in any competent court or proceeding the validity of the bonds issued by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for the bonds of the State of Florida under the act of the legislature of said State, passed Jan'y 28th, 1870, recited in the pleadings in this couse, nor to prejudice any right which said Holland may have to redeem said railroad by the payment of the unpaid purchase money mentioned in the said pleading, with all interest thereon and lawful charges on said road in case it should be adjudged that the said bonds were invalid.

It is further ordered and decreed that the legal costs and charges of the State of Florida in this cause, and the fees and costs due to the officers of this court therein be allowed and paid out of the moneys in the hands of the receiver.

953 It is further ordered that the receiver do pay out moneys in his hands the lawful fees and charges of the master who took the depositions and proofs in the cause, and that he settle his accounts before the clerk of this court, subject to the direction and approval of the chief justice; and all further equities and directions arising upon the decree are hereby reserved.

954 EXHIBIT M.

Florida State bonds.

TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA, June, 1871.

To chairman States and corpor'tions arrears committee, 193, 194, 195,
Gresham House, London:

SIR: It is understood here that General M. S. Littlefield, the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, a corporation existing under the laws of Florida, Messrs. S. W. Hopkins & Co., financial agents and representatives of the corporation, and perhaps others in the same interest, are endeavoring, with a prospect of success, to negotiate a sale of a very large number of bonds of the State of Florida, issued under the provisions of the act of the legislature of this State, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," and subsequent acts amending the act named.

It is only fair that capitalists who have been induced to think favorably of these State bonds as an investment should be informed as to the character of the securities in which they are about to embark their means, and the purpose of this letter is to place you, and through you others concerned, in possession of such facts connected with the history of these bonds, and the law under which they were issued, as it may be to their interest to know.

955 The Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company, and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, were railroad corporations existing under the laws of this State. These corporations having availed themselves of the benefits of the act of the legislature of this State, commonly called the internal improvement act, approved January 6th, 1855, and having failed afterwards to comply with its requirements, by payments of the semi-annual interest and sinking fund due upon the debt contracted on account of the first mortgage bonds issued by the companies under the provisions of the said act, these road-beds, property, and franchises were, in accordance with the requirements of the said act, taken possession of by the trustees of the internal improvement fund and sold, after due advertisement, to the highest bidder, on the day of , 1869. This sale was, in one essential feature, a fraud. The law permitted that the trustees sell either for cash or for additional approved security, as they might think of most advantage to the fund and the first mortgage bondholders, to satisfy whose claim the sale was made. In this case the trustees elected to sell for cash, and so advertised to the world up to the moment of sale. And the sale purported to be a cash sale. In point of fact, however, the purchasers did not pay cash, but only made partial payment by a surrender to the trustees of about $1,000,000 of the first mortgage bonds. The entire first-mortgage debt of the two companies was about $1,473,000, and this payment of $1,000,000 in the bonds left a balance due upon the price bid which was in amount equal to the entire bonded debt, of about $473,000, which amount on payment would have been at once applicable to take up and pay off the balance of bonds outstanding, about $473,000 in amount. The trustees, however, delivered possession of the railroad property to the purchasers upon this partial compliance by them with the terms (cash) of the sale. This indebtedness, which has never been paid except in small part (there being still about $300,000 of first mortgage bonds outstanding and unsatisfied), has a legal priority, and has been always so recognized by the parties now in possession, through this purchase, as a first lien, anterior to all others now existing, or that may be created upon the property and franchise of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company (formerly, as will appear hereafter, the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies). The parties in possession of the property have constantly promised payment, and doubtless have induced persons abroad to believe that they have already paid off this debt. After the sale of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, referred to above, the parties in possession, through this incomplete sale, procured the passage by the legislature of several acts for their benefit, and first among them, of the "Act to perfect the public works of the State," approved June 24th, 1869. This act consolidated the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, and incorporated the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and authorized aid to be given by the State of Florida to the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by the issue to the company of bonds of the State to the amount of $14,000 per mile. The act, however, provided that the State, as a condition precedent to the issue of its bonds, should be made secure by a lien to be taken by the State upon the property and franchise of the corporation for whose benefit this aid 956 was to be given. This was a condition fixed by the act, and with this provision it passed the legislature; and when, some time after the act had passed, it appeared that by its fraudulent enrollment the provisions securing the State had been omitted, and that a forged law had been filed in the office of the secretary of state, and officially published as a law of the State, certain citizens of the State, property-holders and tax payers, filed their bill on the chancery side of the circuit court of Leon County, second judicial circuit of Florida, praying for an order of injunction against Harrison Reed, governor of Florida, and against S. B. Conover, treasurer of the State, and for an order of the court against these officers, to restrain and enjoin them from signing, countersigning, or delivering the bonds authorized by this fraudulent law, and from doing any acts whatever under the pretended act, upon the ground of the forgery and fraud practiced, in omitting from the enrolled bill the clause which required a security to the State, in the issue of its bonds by a mortgage upon the railroad property and franchise. You will readily perceive, in view of the fact that the balance of $473,000 first-mortgaged debt referred to was unpaid, that the purpose in this fraud was to relieve the railroad company of the necessity of paying off its existing incumbrances before getting the benefit of the funds to be raised on the State bonds.

The court acted favorably and at once upon this application, and granted without hesitation the injunction prayed for; and so patent was the fraud that no answer was ever made to the bill, and no effort was ever made to dissolve the injunction. So matters rested until the next convening of that great and good body of law-givers—the Florida legislature. This next legislature, which assembled on the day of , 1870, passed an act to alter and amend the aforesaid act, which last act validified and made of force the "act to perfect the public works of the State," which had been enjoined, except as amended and modified by the last law. Under these two acts Messrs. Littlefield and associates, parties in present possession of the railroad property, are now endeavoring to raise money upon State bonds. These acts authorized the aid to be given to the corporation, but required, as a condition precedent to the granting this aid, and the delivery of the State bonds, that the State be made secure by a lien, to be taken in the manner pointed out by the acts, on the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad property and franchise, and of course that corporation could not be in a condition to comply with the requirement and give this lien until incumberances, already existing and resting on the property, should be removed, by payment of the outstanding first mortgaged bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies.

That the statement as to this liability is correct there is not the least doubt, and in order to show you that it is admitted to be correct I refer you to the annexed copy of a letter addressed by me to Harrison Reed, governor of the State of Florida, to whom it was entrusted under the law to see that the State was protected before the delivery of its bonds, and his reply endorsed. In both the letter and the pledge endorsed in reply, the position is taken that the unpaid first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, outstanding, constitute a first lien upon the railroad property 957 and franchise, and that no issue of the State bonds could or would be made until these lien-incumberances resting upon the property should be removed, by payment and satisfaction of the first-mortgage bonds outstanding, after which the company would acquire the power to mortgage unincumbered property to the State. Notwithstanding these admitted opinions of Governor Reed, this solemn, written pledge, and his full knowledge that this first-mortgage bonded indebtedness, outstanding against the railroad, was unpaid, after quieting the apprehensions of the holders of the unpaid first-mortgage railroad bonds by this pledge, he signed, at a time when he had lulled suspicion, and delivered the State bonds, thus imposing upon the State a security which he knew to be imperfect. Can you suppose that a vast indebtedness, placed upon a people already insolvent, under these circumstances, will ever be paid?

The principal security, which those who may invest in the bonds of this State will have, must be that security which has been given to the State. The principal security for any investment to be made in railroad securities of this State must be the road-bed and franchise. In the light of the past and present history of this State, you cannot rely either upon its willingness or ability to pay a security of the character of these bonds when all the benefits result to stockholders in the corporation. In this case, the chief security being incumbered by prior mortgages, it is clearly the interest of the purchaser of the State bonds to see that such an amount of the money paid as may be necessary be applied to the discharge of this prior indebtedness. The bonds representing this prior incumbrance may be purchased at reasonable rates, but they will not be sacrificed by the holders. In the meantime suit has been instituted, and is now pending in the United States circuit court for the district of Florida, for the purpose of subjecting the railroad property to sale, unless the original first-mortgage debt outstanding be paid up. You may have been advised that the purchaser of the State bonds will have nothing to do with the corporation, and may look entirely to the State; but a very little reflection must show the error into which this view may lead those who may purchase the State bonds. It is true a bond of this character is a State bond, and imports a State liability; but the law makes no specific provisions by which the holder of the bond can collect either the principal or interest from the State, and in the absence of such a provision any intelligent lawyer will advise you that the bondholder has no remedy in the courts by which principal or interest can be collected by judicial process from the people or out of their property. And even if such provision existed as a part of the law, it could not be enforced in a case where the bonds have been issued by means of a fraud upon that requirement of it which stipulates that the State should have been made secure by a good lien on unincumbered property as a precedent condition.

The sole reliance, then, of a holder of State bonds must be the good faith of the State, and that good faith under all the circumstances connected with the issue of these bonds will not be measured by the letter of the contract, but will be fixed entirely by the value of the security which the corporation has placed in the hands of the State, to indemnify it against loss, and that security should be the road-bed and franchise of the road itself, unsaddled by anterior laws.

I especially direct attention, in connection with this considera-958 of the State's security, to the provisions of section 13 of the "act to perfect the public works of the State," which gives to the railroad company the privilege of paying off and discharging the lien taken by the State at any time before maturity of the debt, in the State's own paper, now immensely depreciated by reason of the great quantity issued during the past few years beyond its capacity to pay. It is very evident and ought to be patent to every one who will be at the pains to examine this provision, that it is to the interest of the railroad company to depreciate all the paper of the State—to depreciate the very bonds they are now selling, and the moment the bond shall be sold Littlefield and associates will become the enemies of the holders, for their interest will clearly be to buy up the paper of the State—these very bonds will answer as good a purpose as any other and thus relieve their mortgage to the State, and the result will be that the purchasers will be left looking to the State when the security of the State is gone. Littlefield to day can force $500,000 of State bonds upon the market and buy them at 25 cents, and can with them destroy the State security to the extent of a half million. You may rest assured that to that extent the people will think your bonds should be retired also. You must perceive that it would be great folly to make any investment in the State bonds, unless those investing shall secure an application of a sufficient amount of the money paid to a settlement of the incumbrances existing on the railroad property on account of the original first-mortgage bonded debt now outstanding.

But even after this shall have been done, it concerns the interest of capitalists to reflect upon the following facts additional to those already set forth.

1. The people of Florida have not the ability to pay this debt.

2. The legislature which passed the act referred to did not, to any extent, represent the taxpayers and property-holders of the State, and the legislature which fixed this indebtedness upon the State was notoriously corrupt and in the interest of a few railroad speculators, not identified even by citizenship with the people of Florida; and these men manipulated the votes of the legislators by corruption so open and flagrant that there are at this time indictments pending in the circuit court of Leon County against several of the legislators for receiving, and against General Littlefield for paying bribes to secure the passage of the very acts under the provisions of which these State bonds were issued.

3. The whole series of acts both in and out of the legislature, including and beginning with the sale of railroads referred to in the first part of this communication, connected with the issue of these State bonds, has been dishonest, flagrantly corrupt, and going solely to aggrandize Littlefield, Hopkins, and a few others, their co-schemers and confederates; and it cannot be matter of surprise that the entire property-holding and taxpaying part of the people of Florida are not only adverse but hostile to the payment of a debt which they know to have been put upon the State by the combined fraud of their governor, their indigent legislators, and a set of sharks and financial free-lances under the leadership of Milton S. Littlefield, now president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. The people of this State, while they earnestly desire the success of any railroad enterprise 959 which is legitimate and conducted with honesty, would greatly regret if foreign capitalists should make so injudicious an investment as a purchase of these State bonds must be. The State bonds, without the road as a security available for the benefit of the bondholders (which now is not the case), amount to nothing. And if there be any truth in a report now current that certain persons abroad have been already induced to make advances upon the State bonds, they should require such legislation to be had as will enable them to get this security. As a matter of course they can, by refusing to advance further, force the corporation to make any just contract within its corporate powers or that the legislature will authorize. If the holders of the State bonds had the simple authority to exchange securities with the State it would be a great advantage to them. It is certainly advisable, at any rate, that they get all the security they can. One hundred and sixty miles of completed road, after being relieved of its existing incumbrances, can certainly be made a good security for the cost of constructing a road of same distance, and this, with a mortgage also upon the newly constructed road, will be safe security. I ask that these suggestions may be considered.

Respectfully,

T. W. BREVARD, Jr.,
Counsel for Holders of First Mortgage Bonds of P. & G. & T. R. R. Cos.

P. S.--I enclose herewith copies of the acts of the legislature referred to in the above communication, as officially published; also majority report of a committee of the assembly of the legislature of Florida, appointed under resolutions of that body to examine and take evidence concerning the conduct of Harrison Reed, governor, pending proceedings then inaugurated to impeach the governor upon charges of corruption in office, certain portions of which will be of some interest to you in connection with the history of the railroad manipulations to which reference is made in the above.

TALLAHASSEE, February 21, 1870.

His Excellency HARRISON REED,
Governor of Florida:

DEAR SIR: On behalf of parties holding original first-mortgage bonds of the (late) Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies, I have been authorized to institute legal proceedings by an application for an injunction to restrain the issue of the State bonds in exchange for first mortgage bonds upon the railroad property under the provisions of the act of the legislature passed at its late session, entitled "An act to alter and amend an act to perfect the public works of the State;" the parties whom I represent, apprehending that by such issue of bonds as that proposed by the said law, their rights of lien would be be imperiled.

I am satisfied, however, that such proceedings will not be necessary if your excellency shall agree with me in the following propositions, 960 viz: (1st.) That the original first-mortgage bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad and the Tallahassee Railroad Companies, which remain outstanding and unpaid, incumber the said property with a lien prior to all others now existing, or that may be created; and (2d), That there can be properly no issue of first-mortgage bonds upon the said property until the outstanding unpaid first-mortgage bonds of the original issue shall be paid up (at the pro rata valuation fixed by the sale) and cancelled.

I am sure that should your excellency agree with me in these views, no bonds of the State will be signed and delivered to the parties, who are the beneficiaries under the said act until after a redemption of the outstanding bonds referred to, in which event the right of the new company to rebond the property cannot be disputed.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

T. W. BREVARD, Jr.

(Reply endorsed:)

I concur in the view of Colonel Brevard, and shall issue no bonds under the new law until the lien upon the road is satisfied.

(Signed) HARRISON REED,
Governor.

961 EXHIBIT N.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA., February 8*th*, 1871.

Messrs. HOLJE BOISSEVAIN, Bankers,
Amsterdam, Holland :

GENTLEMEN : On December 18th, 1870, Governor Harrison Reed, of Florida, received a telegraphic dispatch from you, substantially as follows:

> "Being negotiating four million bonds issued by your State, the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad beg to know by telegraph from you whether provision made for payment interest, whatever result railroad traffic. Financial position of State really sound, and bonds undoubted security?"

To this dispatch Governor Reed replied as follows:

> "Bonds recently recalled by the company; no provision will, therefore, be made for interest."

962 It was hoped that Governor Reed's telegram would have the effect of causing the bonds to be returned, as the railroad companies desired they should be. This has not been done, but on the contrary more bonds than were then out have been sent to Europe for negotiation, though no money I infer has yet been realized. I feel it to be my duty, therefore, to make a statement of facts to you, which I hope that you will lay before others who may be interested with you in the negotiations.

When the legislature of Florida enacted the laws under which the bonds your telegram inquired about were issued, it was believed by the two railroad companies, hereafter named, that the proceeds of the State bonds when sold would be honestly and legitimately applied to the extension through the western portion of this State of the lines of railroad already built from the eastern to the middle portion. That extension was so much desired by the two companies owning the completed railroads that they were willing to mortgage, and did mortgage their roads to the State, in order to secure the issuing of State bonds upon which to raise money to enable the newly organized company to build said extension. The railroads which so pledged their mortgage bonds to the State were the Florida Central Railroad, sixty miles long, and the Tallahassee Railroad, one hundred and fifty miles long. The former gave its mortgage bonds to the amount of one million dollars; the latter to the amount of three million dollars; and this latter road consolidated its line with that proposed to be built westward from the completed road, and the two companies became one, under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. But the Florida Central Railroad, commencing at Jacksonville and running westward sixty miles, was not included in the consolidation. Subsequently, and after three million of the State bonds had been sent to Europe, it was discovered that the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who had been active in procuring the legislation and inducing the completed roads to give to the State their bonds in exchange for the State's bonds which were issued to him, had made, even before he got the bonds, secret contracts with some of his creditors, by which the larger portion of the proceeds were to be diverted from the purposes for which the bonds were issued, and were to be applied in payment of individual debts. This produced such dissatisfaction and caused such investigations by the companies which had mortgaged their roads to the State, as resulted in both of the companies, through their several directories, rescinding the action by which their roads were mortgaged, and recalling the bonds. The million of bonds issued by the State, on the security of a like amount pledged to the State by the Florida Central Railroad, had not then gone into the hands of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, but were held by a party till certain conditions precedent were performed, before delivery to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. That million of bonds then were returned to the State, and the bonds of the company upon the security of which the others were issued were withdrawn from deposit with the State, and were in the hands of the party already referred to, to be returned to the company for cancellation, when they were by that party without the authority or knowledge of the railroad company, or of any 963 of its officers, and in violation of the company's resolutions of recall and rescission, delivered to an agent of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad, who by influences best known to himself effected with the governor of the State their re-exchange for the State bonds, which latter were hurriedly and secretly sent out of the State and to Europe before any legal process could be obtained for their detention. This redelivery to the governor of Florida of the Florida Central Railroad Company's million of bonds is a gross fraud on that company, and none who are advised of it, and buy or advance money on the State's bonds, for which they were exchanged, will have any legal or moral right to ask that they receive any benefit or advantage from the security so wrongfully obtained.

The same may be said of the three million of State's bonds issued on the pledge of the same amount of bonds of the Tallahassee or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad. No one, who, having notice of that company's rescission of its action and recall of its bonds, advances money on, or buys the State's bonds for which the others were pledged, will have legally, or morally, any locus standi in curia as against that railroad company. The creditors and stockholders of the railroad companies will assert their right, resist the wrongs that have been perpetrated and attempted, and seek, successfully, redress in the judicial tribunals. You have had the above-mentioned action of the railroad companies brought to your notice by the telegram from Governor Reed, who sent it after consulting with the said companies, and at their instance, and you have incurred all the legal disqualifications to urge against the railroad companies any claim based on their supposed suretyship for any bonds of the State.

An examination of the law under which the State's bonds were issued discloses that the governor has caused half a million more of bonds to be issued than the law provides for. The law allows the issue of $16,000 per mile upon so much of said roads as may be completed and in running order; only 210 miles were, when the bonds were issued, completed, and only a mile and a half have been completed since, and no more is being completed. This would allow of an issue at the time it was made of only $3,360,000. Add the liberal allowance of ten miles for side tracks, &c., if such unreasonable construction of the law be claimed, and it legalizes only $3,520,000 of the bonds.

To secure the principal and interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company's bonds (but not of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad), the law gives the State of Florida a statutory lien, valid as a first mortgage, on that company's road and property, and authorizes the governor, on failure of the company in any payment of principal or interest, to seize and sell the road at auction, and authorizes the State to purchase and to pay for it with any evidence of indebtedness the State may hold against the road, while every other bidder would, in case of purchase, have to pay cash. This summary process is not applicable to the Florida Central Railroad; but to the other road only. What would be the result in case of failure of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad to pay principal or interest on its bonds? The State, if no resistance, or if unsuccessful 964 resistance through the courts were had, might seize, sell, and buy, paying for the purchase with the road's obligations, while the State might not, perhaps could not, or would not, pay her own; nor is there any way known to our system of government by which a State can be compelled to pay its obligations. You will thus perceive the character of the securities offered you, and the taints of fraud that affected them from their first issue, and that still do, and will act advisedly. This communciation is made in the interest of the stockholders of the companies whose bonds have, by misrepresentation and bad faith, been obtained and exchanged with the State of Florida for the State's bonds, which you have been, and may still be, negotiating for. The stockholders do not intend to submit to the fraud which has been attempted on them. They seek to have the State's bonds brought back, and a re exchange effected, and it is to that end that this letter is written. Such a course will prevent litigation. Persistence in the wrong will insure it. Attempts may be made to give credit to the bonds by professional and perhaps by judicial opinions from this State, but the facts that I state are incontestable, and I can give you much more and more detailed information concerning the worthlessness of the securities that you are negotiating for, and I will do so if desired. But I have said enough to make discreet men repudiate the securities and abandon negotiations.

I will say further, that since the mortgage of the railroads to the State, 128 miles of the completed road, being all except twenty-two miles on which the State has any statutory lien, have been sold by the United States under a judicial process in their favor, issued from a United States court; thus divesting the company's title, and vesting it in the individual purchaser. That sale of course relieves that much of the road of the lien created in favor of the State of Florida by the mortgage before mentioned. You are at liberty to show this letter to whom you please, and to give it the widest publicity, and will oblige me by acknowledging its receipt. I will presume on a very slight acquaintance, to refer you, touching myself, to Hon. H. S. Sanford (late U. S. minister to Belgium), at Brussels.

Respectfully,

E. M. L'ENGLE,

Of counsel for the Florida Central Railroad Company.

965 EXHIBIT O.

Supreme Court of the United States. No. 3 (original), October term, 1876.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA, COMPLAINANT,
vs.
EDWARD C. ANDERSON, JR., AND OTHERS, defendants.
} Bill in equity.

Mr. Justice BRADLEY delivered the opinion of the court:

Application has been made to the court by various parties in this case for the balance of the fund which occurred from the operations of the railroad whilst in the hands of the receiver, and which is now in the registry of this court. This fund grew out of and was the immediate fruit of the property itself, and should be handed over to the same parties to whom this was properly deliverable, as we have decided that the property should be delivered to the complainant, the State of Florida, for the purpose of observing the liens and trusts to which it is subject in the hands of the State according to the disposition thereof to be made by the State courts in the principal litigation. We think that the fund on hand, after paying such sums as are properly chargeable 933 thereon under our decree, should be disposed of in the same way.

We are of opinion that the claim presented in behalf of Lyhs & Gelson should, under the circumstances, be paid before the fund is paid over; also two small bills for supplies, which were reported by the receiver as having come to his hands, and the additional costs that have been incurred, including one per cent. commission to the register.

A decree will be made accordingly.

Final decree.

Supreme Court of the United States. No. 3 (original), October term, 1876.

THE STATE OF FLORIDA, COMPLAINANT,
vs.
EDWARD C. ANDERSON, JR., AND OTHERS,
defendants.

Application being made in this case in behalf of a copartnership firm by the name of Lyhs & Gilson for the payment of a bill for supplies furnished for the railroads in charge of Robert Walker, the receiver, shortly before his appointment, and which supplies came to his hands and possession as such receiver by the consent of Sherman Conant, to whom the said supplies had been consigned, and said bill having never been paid, and it seeming equitable and just, and the consent of the counsel for complainant being given thereto, it is ordered that the register do pay said bill to said firm of Lyhs & Gilson, or their attorney, amounting to the sum of fifteen hundred and ninety-five dollars and ninety-five cents.

And whereas the said receiver, in his twelfth annual report, states that a few days before he took possession of said railroad John C. Clark and S. B. Hubbard severally furnished to Jonathan C. Greely, former receiver, certain supplies, which all, or nearly all, came into the hands of said Walker and were used by him in repairs, said Clark's bill amounting to fifty-eight dollars and seventy-five cents, and said Hubbard's to sixty-six dollars and ninety-six cents, and said bills having never been paid, it is ordered that the register pay said bills to the said parties or their attorneys, respectively.

It is further ordered that the register do also pay such additional costs of the officers of this court as have been incurred since the decree made on the first day of May last and not yet paid, and that he be authorized to retain one per cent. of all moneys received for his commission upon the same.

It is further ordered that the balance of moneys in the registry of the court be paid by the register to the treasuer of the State of 967 Florida, to be disposed of according to the trusts that have been or may be declared of and concerning the same by the supreme court of Florida or other court of said State having jurisdiction of the premises

It is further ordered that the application of Daniel P. Holland for the said balance and surplus be denied.

vs.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and others.

And now, on this the 6th day of April, A. D. 1878, comes the defendant, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, by S. B. Stephens, its solicitor, and it appearing that the plea of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company duly filed in this cause, on the second day of August, A. D. 1877, to the complainants' bill and the relief therein prayed, and all and every part thereof, has not been set down for argument by the complainants, as required by law, but hath thereby admitted the plea of said defendant to be true in point of fact and good and sufficient in law to bar the complainants' bill, and all and singular the matters therein alleged as against this defendant.

1068 Wherefore, in consideration of the premises and upon the further motion of the defendant's solicitor, it is ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the complainant's bill be, and the same hereby is, dismissed against the defendant, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, this defendant, and that defendant have and recover of the complainant its costs in this behalf expended.

And now, at a term of the circuit court of the United States for the northern district of Florida, held this 26th day of April, A. D. 1877, this cause coming on further to be heard and considered as to the 1100 defendants Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, upon the notice and motion for a decree pro confesso duly entered at a former day of this term, and it appearing that the bill of complaint in this cause was duly filed in the clerk's office of this court on the eighth day of March, A. D. 1877, and that the writ of subpœna as prayed was duly served on the said Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Stoop, and Zaddock, by the serving and leaving a copy thereof with Horatio Bisbee, jr., the attorney and solicitor of said defendants Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Zaddock, and Stoop, on the (8th) eighth day of March, A. D. 1877, made returnable on the second day of April, 1877, when the said defendants and each of them were commanded and ordered to enter their separate and several appearances in this cause on or before the said second day of April, 1877, or submit to a decree pro confesso, as appears by the return of said writ. And it further appearing that said defendants Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Zaddock, and Stoop, although so duly 1101 served, notified, warned, and commanded, wholly failed to obey the said writ of subpœna, but have made default thereto, and have each and severally made default in this cause, and that the complainant, by its solicitors, at a previous day of this term, duly entered a notice and motion for a decree pro confesso against said defendants in due form, in the proper rule and order book of this court, and of which the said defendants have taken no heed, and the complainant, by its solicitors, now further moves the court for a decree pro confesso against the said defendants, Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Zaddock, and Stoop, and the court having duly considered the premises and inspected the record, order and proceedings mentioned, and the complainants' bill, praying relief upon the facts therein alleged, and being fully advised in the premises, doth now order, adjudge, and decree, that the bill of complaint filed in this cause, and all and singular the matters 1102 therein alleged, be, and the same hereby are, adjudged and decreed as to the defendants, Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, to be true, as matters of fact as in said bill alleged, and that now and by the court it is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the said Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Zaddock, and Stoop have no interest in or right and title to the papers called bonds in the pleadings mentioned, prior to or to the exclusion of the rights of the complainant, and that the complainant is entitled to all the relief in its said bill prayed as against the said defendants, and which is hereby granted, adjudged, and decreed.

And it is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the said Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, and all and singular their attorneys, agents, and solicitors, be, and they hereby are, jointly and severally enjoined and restrained from further asserting or attempting to assert any claim or 1103 demand whatsoever against the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, its franchise, property or estate, that can or may, or in any manner shall, interfere with the rights of the complainant, as in the bill of complaint alleged, and the relief therein prayed; and it is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the said Sherwin, Boissevain, Mildus, Zaddock, and Stoop, and all and singular their attorneys, agents, and solicitors, are especially enjoined and restrained from further interfering with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad for or on account of the matters and things in complainant's bill alleged, or any of them, and shall not seize, or attempt to seize, or advertise, or cause to be advertised, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad for sale, or to hinder, or cause to be hindered, the said company or the complainant in the exercise of all due and lawful control and management of the affairs of the 1104 said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, its franchise, property and estate without the special leave and order of this court in that behalf granted, and subject to such further and final decree as may be entered as to the other defendants who have appeared, or have not made default, in this cause in the final trial and hearing thereof.

And it is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the complainant do recover of and have judgment for its costs against the defendants, Frank R. Sherwin, Gideon M. Boissevain, Adrian J. Mildus, Joseph Zaddock, and Adrian Stoop, to be taxed and assessed according to law.

PHILIP WALTER, Clerk.

1120 Circuit court of the United States, northern district of Florida.

THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company, complainant,
vs.
GEO. F. DREW, GOVERNOR, WALTER GWYNN, treasurer of the State of Florida, the Florida Central Railroad Company, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, et als., defendants.

Application for injunction.

The object of this suit, as set forth in the prayer of the bill, is to enjoin the governor of Florida from seizing and selling the Florida Central Railroad, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, and to have declared null and void certain bonds purporting to be bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, one thousand in number, for one thousand dollars each, dated 1st of January, 1870, which bonds are in possession of the treasurer of the State of Florida, and for non-payment of interest on which the governor threatens to seize and sell the road. The bill further prays that the said treasurer may be decreed to surrender said bonds to the company, and that certain persons, made defendants, to wit, John Collinson and others, may be enjoined from harrassing the company on account of said bonds,

The governor having advertised the road for sale, motion is now made, on petition filed for that purpose, for a preliminary injunction against him to prevent his seizing and selling the road; against the treasurer from parting with the bonds pending suit, and against the parties claiming relief on account of the bonds from further interfering with the said railroad, or causing it to be seized, until final decree in the cause.

1121 The motion for injunction is opposed by the defendants, the governor and treasurer of the State, on three grounds:

First. That the complainant has no title and no right to interfere in the matter;

Secondly. That if it ever had title, it has lost and waived it by laches, and by acts which estop it from claiming any relief;

Thirdly. That the bonds are not void, but are in equity good against the company for the benefit of persons holding certain State bonds, which they purchased in good faith, and which were issued to the company in exchange for the said company bonds, but which being void, the said purchasers have a right to resort to the bonds in question, and the State has a right to compel their payment for this purpose.

The bill has been demurred to, and the demurrer has been overruled after argument. The question of the complainant's title and the question of laches, so far as appeared on the face of the bill, were fully discussed on the demurrer; and unless the aspect of the case on these points have been changed, the decision made upon that argument must be regarded as the law of the case. The defendants not having filed answers, the case still remains as before on the pleadings. But affidavits have been read on the present motion, both on the part of the complainant and the defendants, and various records and documents, either verified or conceded to be authentic, have been referred to. So far as these may have altered the complainant's case, it is necessary to examine them.

Before doing this, however, it is proper to observe that it would be very unfair to the parties to decide the whole merits of the case on this motion upon mere affidavits. The granting of a preliminary injunction is in the discretion of the court, and in exercising this discretion, it will look at the consequences which would ensue on the one hand by granting it, and on the other by withholding it. In the present case it is apparent that if the complainant has the rights claimed by the bill, and if the bonds are really void, or there are plausible grounds for supposing them to be so, a very serious, if not irreparable, injury would ensue by seizing and selling the road in the summary manner proposed. On the other hand, if it should turn out that the complainant's title is defective, or that the company bonds are amenable to the claims of the State bondholders referred to, a temporary suspension of the sale cannot materially injure them. The property is there, and will remain there, and its earnings can, in the mean time, be employed in 1122 keeping it in repair. The possibility that a favorable opportunity of disposing of it, known to exist, may be missed by the delay, can hardly be deemed a legal ground for precipitating a sale which would most certainly destroy the rights of the complainant if it has any. These are considerations necessary to be borne in mind in disposing of the present motion.

I am fully aware of the great importance to the people and business of the State that the vexatious litigation respecting this and the connecting railroad should be terminated; and that the roads should come into the possession of responsible parties, clothed with a secure title, in order that they might feel encouraged to improve and extend it and make it what it should be, a first-class line of communication. But however desirable it may be that this result should be hastened, it is very questionable whether it would be hastened by disregarding those obvious principles of justice of which all parties litigating in good faith have a right to enjoy the benefit.

Looking, then, at the affidavits laid before me, I do not see that the title of the complainant has been materially affected by anything new which has been evolved. In truth the allegations of the bill have rather been corroborated than weakened. It seems to be indisputable that Swepson and Littlefield, between them, did procure the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company with the proceeds of North Carolina bonds, which they had no right to dispose of in that way; and that the complainant, so soon as the fraud was discovered, endeavored to hold them and their confederates accountable; and after pursuing the wrongfully converted funds through much litigation, and after many ineffectual attempts at compromise, the complainant finally procured an acknowledgment of its equitable claim to this stock, which Littlefield who is a party to this suit and holds the principal part of it does not deny. The affidavits of Rollins, the president of the complainant, and of Mr. Stewart, the solicitor, are to the effect that in December last, previous to the commencement of this suit, Littlefield recognized the rights of complainant to the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and made a full and complete transfer thereof to the use of the complainant.

The suggestion made by defendants' counsel that the North Carolina bonds, the proceeds of which were embezzled, were void, and were repudiated by the State, and therefore that the complainant had no title to call Swepson and Littlefield and their confederates to account, and that the parties who purchased the bonds are the real bene- 1123 ficiaries entitled to pursue these funds, may possibly be well founded and may govern the rights of the parties on the final hearing of the cause on the merits of the case. But I do not feel justified at this stage of the cause in assuming the facts on which this suggestion is grounded are sufficiently made out. All the negotiations, agreements of compromise, and litigations which have taken place between the complainant and the parties having possession of the funds have either proceeded upon a concession of the plaintiff's right or have resulted in adjudications confirmatory of it. So far as appears by the disclosures in this cause the complainant is the only party equitably interested in the principal part of the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

II. The next question is, whether, conceding this to be so, the complainant has not by permitting Littlefield, Swepson, and their associates to appear as the owners of the stock, they have not made them their agents and trustees so as to be bound by their acts as apparent stockholders and as directors of the company, at least so far as regards innocent parties dealing with them as such? On this question, without going into the evidence in detail, I shall do little more than state the conclusion to which I have arrived—a conclusion based, it must be remembered, only on affidavits and the documents which have been presented on this hearing. It seems to me that the question proposed must be answered in the affirmative, to wit, that the complainant has permitted Littlefield and his associates so to deal with the property as to make their acts performed in their capacity of stockholders and officers of the Florida Central Railroad Company binding, except as to those persons who had notice that they were acting in any transaction in fraud of the rights of the complainant. It is sufficient in this connection to refer to the agreement made on the 16th day of April, 1870, between the Florida Central Railroad Company, George W. Swepson, president; the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, president, and Littlefield, majority owner of the stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, represented by N. W. Woodfin and others, commissioners appointed by act of the legislature of North Carolina, approved by the stockholders of said corporation (that is, the complainant), of the second part. The agreement recites that whereas G. W. Swepson, late president of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, made certain investments of the funds of said company in securities of 1124 and interest in the said Florida Central Railroad, Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad of the State of Florida, as per report made by said Swepson to said commissioners, amounting in the aggregate to $1,287,436.03, to bear interest from the 1st of November, 1869, at 8 per cent. per annum; and whereas Swepson heretofore conveyed to Littlefield, subject to the payment of the above claim, his interest in the above railroads; and whereas Littlefield has received authority from the legislature of Florida and said several railroad companies to receive bonds to be issued by and for account of the several railroad companies, which bonds are to be exchanged for the bonds of the State of Florida, to be issued for the purpose of aiding the finances of the said several railroad companies, all of which bonds are now in a state of preparation; and whereas Littlefield has made a contract with S. W. Hopkins & Co. for the disposition of said bonds as the same may be issued; the proceeds of the issue of the bonds of the Central Railroad Company of Florida, amounting to $960,000, are to be applied to the payment of existing liabilities of the several railroad companies, including $150,000 to be paid to the commissioners aforesaid for the purpose of paying existing liabilities of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company. After these recitals it is agreed by the parties that the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to be issued by the Florida railroad companies and the State of Florida are to be equally divided between the Western Division aforesaid and the Florida railroads, until the entire amount of $1,287,436.03, with interest as aforesaid, is fully paid. It is further agreed that all the interest owned or claimed by Swepson and Littlefield, or which as individuals they have a right to control in the Florida railroads, is pledged for the faithful fulfilment of this contract, without the right or the part of any party to interfere with their management or control to the affairs of the roads. This agreement was signed by Swepson and Littlefield and by the North Carolina commissioners who assumed to act for the complainant, and had been appointed by the legislature, and as they declare, by the complainant, so to act. As the State of North Carolina was the largest stockholder of the complainant and as it is conceded that the affairs of the complainant—the Western Division—were for a long time administered by these commissioners, I must assume on this hearing that they had proper authority to represent the complainant in this transaction. At all events, the complainant company had full notice of it and must be regarded as bound so far as innocent third parties are concerned.

1125 This agreement is important not only as showing that the complainant acquiesced in the management of the affairs of the Florida railroads by Littlefield and Swepson as the apparent stockholders and officers thereof, but that it acquiesced in the issue of the very bonds which are involved in this case, and in their exchange for the Florida State bonds and in the disposal and sale of the latter. And although subsequent agreements may have been made between the parties (as there were, more than once), yet the whole subsequent conduct of the complainant with regard to the Florida railroad property was in affirmation of the authority of Swepson and Littlefield to represent the stock and affairs of the Florida companies. At all events, nothing seems to have been done by the complainant during the long period that followed to put the public on its guard against dealing with these persons as the proper and lawful stockholders and officers of those companies.

Upon the whole case, therefore, as it stands before me on affidavits, I come to the conclusion that the complainant can claim no rights except such as the Florida Central Railroad Company itself can claim in view of the acts of its known and apparent stockholders and officers. After permitting the affairs of the company to be managed by those stockholders and officers for so many years, it cannot claim to have the company exempted from any obligations which it has assumed or to which it may be equitably liable. It cannot claim to stand in a better position than the corporation itself; and especially is this true in reference to bona fide purchasers of the Florida State bonds issued in exchange for the bonds of the corporation. But my conclusion is that it is entitled, as the case now stands, to represent the interests of the corporation, and to ask that its just rights may be protected.

III. Then, lastly, the question arises, whether the parties at whose instance and in whose behalf the governor of the State of Florida proposes to sell the Florida Central Road are bona fide purchasers of the Florida State bonds issued in exchange for the bonds of the corporation.

On this question I must confess that I am not entirely free from doubt. The papers presented to the governor were undoubtedly sufficient to authorize him to take the initiatory steps which he has done in advertising the property for sale. He considered them sufficient, and the law makes him the judge, at least, in the first instance, of their sufficiency. Parties adversely interested, of course, have the right to a judicial investigation and determination of the question. The governor's power in the matter is analogous, though in some respects superior, 1126 to that of a mortgagee with a power of sale. Such a mortgagee is not obliged to resort to the courts, but may sell on default of payment by giving notice according to the terms of the mortgage. But any person interested adversely to such a sale may apply to the courts and have his rights adjudicated therein.

Whilst, therefore, the governor had the right, in the first instance, to determine on the sufficiency of the proofs laid before him, the complainant, as representing the interests of the Florida Central Railroad Company, had the concurrent right of appealing to the courts for an adjudication upon the claims of those in whose behalf the governor assumed to act. And it seems to me that all that is requisite on the part of the railroad company is to show a probable ground of defence against those claims, in order to invest the court with the jurisdiction of the controversy. It would deprive parties of the benefit of a judicial determination of their rights, and would impose upon the governor a responsibility which, I doubt not, he would be very unwilling to assume, if the court, on the presentation of such a case, should decline to assume jurisdiction of the controversy.

Whilst it must be assumed, therefore, and whilst on examination there appears no doubt that the proofs laid before the governor were prima facie sufficient to justify the proceedings undertaken by him, the facts which have now been disclosed by the complainant are calculated to raise grave doubts whether the parties claiming to be purchasers of the State bonds in question are really and bona fide such. At all events, a sufficient probable ground of defence has been raised to entitle the complainant to a judicial examination, and to render it inexpedient that the property should be sold until such an examination can be had.

Entertaining these views as to the relative rights of the parties, and being convinced by the showing which has been made that there is at least ground for questioning the rights of the bondholders, it is unnecessary that I should examine the affidavits and papers in detail, as that will be more proper on the final hearing of the cause.

Without expressing any opinion on the question whether the bondholders are entitled in any event to set up an equity to have the bonds of the corporation enforced for their benefit—a question which has been somewhat discussed, if not decided, by the supreme court of Florida—I am of opinion that a temporary injunction ought to issue in this case to prevent the governor from selling the road or other property of the company, and from taking possession of the same, until the further order of the court.

1127 The parties, however, will have leave at any time to move for a dissolution of this injunction, on filing answers and showing positively the fact that they are bona fide purchasers of State bonds, unless on further consideration the court should be of opinion that it would prejudice the rights of the parties to make a sale before final decree.

The injunctions granted.

vs.
GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR, THE JACKSONVILLE, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company & others.

The complainant in the above cause having asked leave to amend the bill filed therein as read to the court in the presence of the defendants' counsel, now in consideration of the fact that the complainants in the case of J. Fred. Schutte & als. vs. The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company & others, have dismissed their bill as against The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, whereby the said last named company is deprived of the benefit of certain matters set up in its answer in said cause. It is, therefore, ordered that the complainant in this case have leave, upon the terms hereinafter 1169 stated, to amend its said bill in the manner proposed by the amendment now read to the court as revised thereby, but that it shall not be necessary for the defendants to answer the said amendment under oath or affirmation unless they choose so to do, and no further evidence shall be taken in the cause unless the defendants shall desire to take further evidence therein, in which case both parties shall have leave to take evidence on the matters stated in said amendment.

J. FRED. SCHUTTE ET ALS.
THE WESTERN DIVISION OF THE WESTERN North Carolina Railroad Company et als.

1172 Whereas the bill of J. Fred. Schutte and others, though in the form of an original bill, is in fact in the nature of a cross-bill, relating to the same subject-matter of litigation and setting up the same rights which the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company by its bills seeks to overthrow, and as the controversy as a whole cannot be adjudicated without considering the cases involved in both bills; and whereas all the suits have really been prosecuted as one litigation, and as the complainants in the bill of Schutte and others do not reside in the United States and cannot be served with process, and yet as complainants are seeking to dispose of the very matter in controversy, the court is of opinion that the complainants in 1173 the Schutte bill should be required, as a condition of obtaining the relief they seek, to make themselves parties to the bills of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, so that the whole matter may be settled together.

Wherefore it is ordered that the complainants in the Schutte bill, who are defendants in the other bills, be required as a condition of obtaining the relief they seek, to enter appearance to the bills of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company or to adopt the defence of the parties situated in like case with them, who are defendants to those bills.

It is further ordered that the said J. Fred. Schutte and others shall have the option whether they will put in answers to the bills of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and proceed to take testimony therein, or whether they will adopt the litigation in its present state and go to a hearing at the present time.

GEORGE F. DREW, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE of Florida, The Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, et al.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Southern District of New York:

Joseph B. Stewart, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he is solicitor for the plaintiff and appellant in the above-entitled suits; that since praying the appeals herein his unavoidable professional engagements in Kansas and elsewhere, at long distances from his home, have consumed much of his time that might and would otherwise have 1188 been devoted to perfecting said appeals and securing the bond to effect a supersedeas; that although, as matter of precaution, said appeals were prayed and allowed immediately upon the rendering of the judgments herein, the change of clientage which occurred upon the trial, transferring the suits to the jurisdiction of another corporation from that by which they were begun, necessitated the instructing of the officers of the new corporation as to the nature and merits of the litigation in order for them intelligently to determine whether or not it was their duty to prosecute said appeals; that the making of this investigation necessarily occupied much time; that said corporation has finally determined to prosecute said appeals and called a meeting of its board of directors at as early a day as consistent with their bye-laws to take into consideration the completion of the necessary supersedeas bonds, which meeting has not yet transpired.

Deponent further says that by reason of the intermeddling of parties interested adversely to the appellant, the persons who had promised and agreed to become sureties on the necessary bonds have, at 1189 this late day, refused to execute the same, thus requiring further time to arrange for other parties to take their places; that the sixty days allowed by law in which to prepare and file supersedeas bonds will be insufficient in this case for the reasons stated; and that deponent therefore asks that the time be enlarged until September 1st, 1879, in which to perfect and file supersedeas bonds herein.

Inasmuch as these cases involve the rights of J. F. For the holders of bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company: H. R. Jackson.

For the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile R. R. Company: S. B. Stevens.

These cases involve vital questions relating to the title of and incumbrances upon two railroads, namely, that called the Florida Central Railroad, extending from Jacksonville to Lake City; and that called the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, extending from Lake City to the Chattahooche' River, including the branches from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and that leading to Monticello. It is conceded by all the parties that both roads were duly sold by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, under the internal improvement act in 1868 and 1869, and those sales constitute a starting point upon which all the claimants rely. The Florida Central was thus sold on the 4th day of March, 1868, to Willliam E. Jackson and his associate; and the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, being the road from Lake City to Quincy; and the Tallahassee Railroad, being the road from Tallahassee to St. Marks, which two roads constitute the greatest part of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, were sold on the 20th day of March, 1869, to Franklin Dibble and his associates. Conveyances were made to the purchasers in pursuance of these sales. No question is made about the title acquired by the purchasers of the Florida Central Railroad, nor of its subsequent devolution to the present company, called the Florida Central Railroad Company.

The legislature of Florida by an act passed on the 29th day of July, 1868, on the application of the purchasers, incorporated them into a body politic by the name aforesaid, and as purchasers and 1202 owners of the road. As such purchasers and owners they were made a corporation and authorized to organize as such, and "to declare the amount of which the stock in said Central Railroad Company should consist and to divide the same into shares." They did organize and created capital stock to the amount of 5,500 shares, took possession of their road, and commenced to operate it. It is not denied that the greater portion of the capital stock was subsequently purchased by

George W. Swepson, of North Carolina, who had the same transferred to Milton S. Littlefield. At least as early as the fore part of 1870 Swepson and Littlefield, or one of them, held nearly all the stock of the road and controlled and managed the company. The Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company has since claimed that it was the money of that company which Swepson and Littlefield used in the purchase of this stock: and that they misappropriated the same in making such purchases and therefore became the holders of said stock for the use and benefit of said company. This has been conceded by Swepson and Littlefield, and the stock is now understood to be held for the use and benefit of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company which has been substituted to the rights of the said Western Division. Thus far, therefore, we are not met by any controversy which calls for the adjudication of this court.

The history of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and the roads which it claims to have acquired is more complicated. As before stated in that case, there were two roads purchased by the same parties, that of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, extending from Lake City to Quincy, with the branch at Monticello; and that of the Tallahassee Railroad Company extending from Tallahassee to St. Marks. Each of these companies had issued bonds under the internal improvement act, which were guaranteed by the internal improvement fund. Default in paying the interest on these bonds and the instalments due the sinking fund was the occasion of the roads being sold by the trustees. The sales were for amounts 1203 nearly equal to the principal of these outstanding bonds. The amount bid for the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad was $1,220,000, and the amount bid for the Tallahassee Railroad was $195,000, and the purchasers were allowed to pay the purchase money, if they could, in the said guaranteed bonds. They did bring in and surrender such bonds to the amount of $806,600 of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, which were received at par, and $153,700 of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, which were received at 94 or 95 cents to the dollar. It is conceded that a balance remained still to be paid of $472,065, and that that amount of the bonds of the said two companies are still outstanding. For this amount a draft or check was given, which was never paid, and which the parties giving it did not intend to pay. But by giving this check as cash the purchasers prevailed upon the agents of the trustees to deliver deeds for the property. It was a sheer fraud, and a lien for the balance of the purchase money, amounting to $472,065, immediately arose in favor of the trustees and has ever since attached to the property.

The holders of the outstanding bonds referred to are interested in this lien, because the purchase money which it represents in the fund on which the trustees rely for the payment of said bonds in relief of the internal improvement fund itself, so far as it is liable therefor; and also, because the said purchase money is the proceeds of the property which constituted the security of the said bonds. The holders of the said outstanding bonds have in divers ways attempted to enforce their indirect claim to this purchase money and to the lien for its payment, but the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of the State of Florida vs. Anderson and others, decided that in view of all the complicated rights of the parties the lien must be enforced by the State or the trustees of the internal improvement fund, which the latter have endeavored to do, and which they seek to do in the suits now under consideration.

1204 As against the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, the existence of the lien was adjudicated by the Duval County circuit court by a judgment rendered on the 2d day of April, 1874, and a recovery was had by the trustees for the principal and interest then due, amounting to $661.845.55. This judgment was rendered in a suit brought by the State of Florida and the trustees of the internal improvement fund against the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company and Milton S. Littlefield; and although that judgment was subsequently reversed in part, yet in a subsequent report of the same case in 16 Florida, 608, the Supreme Court declare that, on this point, the judgment of the Duval County circuit court was final, and that the matter was res adjudicata. But if it were not so, I have no hesitation in saying that the vendor's lien for the said unpaid purchase money, with interest and costs, was valid and binding on the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. The purchasers, Franklin Dibble and his associates, clearly held the railroads subject to the lien. They became incorporated as purchasers and owners of the property by an act of the legislature of Florida, passed the 24th day of June, 1869, by the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company; and this company, therefore, being constituted of the same persons, only clothed with corporate powers, received the property subject to the same lien. On the 25th day of May, 1870, the Tallahassee Railroad Company became consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, under and by virtue of the 14th section of the act incorporating the latter company, passed June 24, 1869, entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State;" and one of the terms of the consolidation was that the consolidated company, under the name of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, should, and it did thereby, assume all the debts and obligations of the Tallahassee Railroad Company since its organization. This consolidation, by which the two companies joined their properties together, did not discharge the lien. The property of the Tallahassee Company was brought into the common concern with all pre-existing equities attaching thereto. The consolidated company having, as one of its component parties, the Tallahassee 1205 Company, which held subject to the lien, cannot be regarded as a bona fide purchaser without notice. The notice with which that company was affected, in relation to the property brought with it into the common fund, affected also the consolidated company. Besides, the persons who held the principal part of the stock in and controlled the one company, likewise held the principal part of the stock in and controlled the other company.

As to the other parties in these suits, the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company concede the existence and priority of the said lien, and the holders of the State bonds, issued in 1870, in exchange for the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola, and Mobile Railroad Company, and of the Florida Central Railroad Company, who are represented by the complainants in the bill of J. Fred Schutte and others, do not contest the lien, having entered into amicable arrangement with the greater portion of the holders of the outstanding bonds who are interested therein.

I shall, therefore, hold, for the purposes of this case, that the trustees of the internal improvement fund are entitled to the first lien on the property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, extending from Jacksonville to Quincy and from Tallahassee to St. Marks, including the Monticello branch of the roads.

I will now proceed to the controversy which subsists between the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and the holders of the State bonds issued in 1870. The former claims to be entitled to certain equities arising from the fraudulent use of its moneys by George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, in purchasing the bonds and property of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company, before the devolution of said property to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. The latter, namely, the holders of the State bonds, claim that they are bona fide holders of said bonds, without any notice of the frauds committed by Swepson and Littlefield, or of the equities of the North Carolina Company, and that they are, therefore, entitled to have the railroad and property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company applied to the payment of their bonds before any relief is 1206 granted to the North Carolina Company. This is the real controversy in these cases, although the said bondholders (who being mostly residents of Holland may, for convenience, be called the Dutch bondholders) affect to ignore the claims of the North Carolina Company, and seek to have a decree irrespective thereof.

It is established beyond controversy that the bonds which were used by F. Dibble and his associates, in payment of the bid for the two railroads in question, namely, that of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, and that of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, were furnished to them by George W. Swepson, and that Swepson procured the same by a fraudulent use of money in his hands, produced by the sale of North Carolina State bonds belonging to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, of which he, Swepson, was president. After the roads were bid off at the said sale thereof by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and before any payment was made on such bid, the purchasers, F. Dibble and his associates on one part, and Swepson on the other, entered into a written agreement, dated March 26th, 1869, by which, after reciting the fact of the sale and the amounts respectively bid for said railroads, it was, amongst other things, agreed that Swepson should deliver, as he should come into possession thereof, to be surrendered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund, the first mortgage bonds of said roads, purchased by him, amounting to about $900,000 of the Pensacola & Georgia bonds and about $150,000 of the Tallahassee Railroad bonds—the former to be surrendered at par, and the latter at their pro rata of the amount bid for said road at said sale, and the balance of the purchase money to be supplied by said F. Dibble and his associates. Secondly, it was agreed that as soon as might be after the title should be acquired from the trustees, first mortgage bonds should be issued, secured by a mortgage or trust deed on said roads, their equipments, and franchises, to be given to said F. Dibble and Swepson, as trustees. Thirdly, it was agreed that the bonds so to be issued should be delivered to Calvin B. Dibble and George W. Swepson, to be sold or negotiated, and the amount thereof for that purpose should be paid to George W. Swepson to reimburse him for the amount of money paid out by him in purchasing the first mortgage bonds aforesaid, and 1207 for commissions and attorney's fees, together with interest, and the additional sum of $100,000. Fourthly, it was agreed that the stock was to be divided and owned as follows: Swepson to have one-third, Calvin B. Dibble to have enough, with Swepson's share, to constitute a majority, and F. Dibble and his associates to have the remainder. Fifthly, it was agreed that Swepson should appoint four directors, F. Dibble and associates four, and that Calvin B. Dibble should be the ninth director, which arrangement was to last until Swepson was fully paid.

In pursuance of this agreement Swepson shortly after furnished the first mortgage bonds which were delivered to the trustees of the internal improvement fund, namely, $806,600 of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad bonds, and $153,700 of the Tallahassee Railroad bonds, in all $960,300 of said bonds, leaving still due, as beforesaid, the sum of $472,065. The deeds for the property were executed by the trustees in the name of the purchasers on the 8th of April, 1869, but delivery of them was withheld until the balance should be paid. An arrangement was made that two of the trustees should go to New York with the deeds, and there receive the said balance in cash. As before remarked, a worthless check was palmed off upon the trustees, who gave a receipt for the amount and delivered the deeds. In the consummation of this device Swepson bore the principal part. The deeds were subsequently recorded in Florida on the 22d day of April, 1869. On the same day Dibble executed to Swepson a trust deed as security for the fulfillment of the engagement entered into by the agreement of 26th of March, which trust deed was never recorded, its purpose being accomplished by carrying out the arrangement contemplated. This trust deed recited that Swepson had paid for Dibble and associates in purchase of said roads bonds to the amount of $960,300, and that he had paid to the trustees for the same parties the sum of $472,065, being the full amount due for said roads; it also recited the engagements Dibble made in the agreement of 26th March, and after formally conveying the property of the two railroads as conveyed by the trustees to Dibble, it declared the object of the trust deed to be to enable Swepson—which he bound 1208 himself to do—to convey the same to the corporation to be formed consisting of Dibble and his associates, as soon as they should have granted to them such or similar relief as the legislature had granted William E. Jackson and his associates by the act of July 29th, 1868; it was also declared to be for the purpose of securing Swepson in all advances made as specified and agreed upon in the agreement of March 26th, 1869, and the advancement of said sum of $472,065 until such time as said relief shall have been granted, and said Swepson should have conveyed said property to said corporation.

The counsel for the North Carolina Railroad Company places great stress on this trust deed, insisting that it enured to the benefit of the said company, whose money had been fraudulently used by Swepson in purchasing the $960,300 bonds; and that it conveyed the legal title of the property to Swepson, in whom it still remains, inasmuch as he never executed any deed in pursuance of the trust. But this trust deed was never recorded, and was never heard of by any of the parties to these suits until since the commencement thereof; and as all the terms of the deed were complied with, which made it the duty of Swepson to convey the property to the company thereafter formed; and as the title (as we shall presently see) was sufficiently transferred to the company in other ways, it is to be presumed that this deed was either looked upon by the parties to it as having no further office to perform or the execution of a deed in pursuance thereof was purposely omitted in order to perpetrate further frauds on some other innocent parties.

The fact is that an act was soon after procured similar to the act passed in behalf of William E. Jackson and his associates in relation to the Florida Central Railroad, and bonds were given and stock was disposed of amongst the parties in accordance with the agreement of March 26, 1869. The act referred to was passed on the 24th day of June, 1869, and is entitled "An act for the relief of Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, purchasers of the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's and of the railroad from 1209 Quincy to Lake City and incorporating the Tallahassee Railroad Company." It recites the sale of the two roads on the 20th day of March, 1869, by the trustees of the internal improvement fund to Franklin Dibble, A. Huling. E. M. Cheney and their associates, and that it was essential for the interests of the people of this State that the parties aforesaid should be invested with such corporate powers as were needful for the operations of said road as well as more accurately to define their powers and duties. It then enacted as follows:

"SECTION 1. That the said Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, and their successors and assigns, are hereby made a body politic and corporate, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and they, their associates and assigns, as such body politic and corporate, are hereby vested with and shall be entitled to exercise and enjoy the like powers, franchises, and privileges as were granted to the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company and the Tallahassee Railroad Company by the several acts incorporating said Pensacola and Georgia Railroad Company and said Tallahassee Railroad Company, and with the right to hold, operate, and enjoy the said railroad, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, subject to the conditions annexed to the sale of said roads by the trustees of the internal improvement fund, and by and in the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, they, their associates, successors, and assigns may purchase, receive, and hold lands and tenements, goods and chattels of whatsoever character shall be necessary or useful for the purposes of said railroad, and the same to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of, and to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, to make a common seal, and at pleasure to break and alter the same, and to establish and put in execution such by-laws and regulations as may be necessary and expedient, not inconsistent with the constitution and laws of the State of Florida.

"SECTION 2. Be it further enacted, That the provisions of the act incorporating the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company, for the protection of its roads from trespass, injury, or intrusion, and providing for the punishment of persons who shall trespass upon or injure the same, be, and they are hereby, made applicable to all cases of trespass, injury, or intrusion on, to, or upon the aforesaid railroads, and the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall be entitled to all the benefits and protection thereof and therefrom.

"SECTION 3. Be it further enacted, That said Franklin Dibble, A. Huling, E. M. Cheney, and their associates, shall be entitled to declare the amount of which the stock in the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall consist, and to divide the same into shares, which shares, however, shall not be less than one hundred dollars each.

"SECTION 4. Be it further enacted, That said Tallahassee Rail-1210 road Company may, when they shall see fit, rent, lease, farm out, or sell any part of the said railroad to any person or persons, corporators, or corporations, upon such terms as may be agreed on, provided said sale, renting, or leasing shall not be made to any person or persons or corporation owning any railroads out of the State of Florida.

"SECTION 5. Be it further enacted, That the board of directors of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company shall consist of nine directors, of whom the president of said company shall be one. The first directors shall be elected or appointed within one month after the passage of this act, and annually thereafter, at such time as may be fixed by resolution or law, but the said company shall not be dissolved for failure to elect or appoint its directors, so long as the said railroads shall be kept running and in operation, but the directors may be elected or appointed at the next meeting thereafter.

"SECTION 6. Be it further enacted, That said company shall have the right to issue coupon bonds in such denominations and it such rate of interest, annual or semi-annual, and payable at such time and place as they may determine, and may secure the same by mortgage on said railroads, their equipments, depots, workshops, property, and franchise, executed in such form and manner as may be determined: Provided, That any deed of trust, mortgage, conveyance, bond or bonds, or security which may have been executed, made, created, or contracted for, as a lien on said railroads or otherwise by said Franklin Dibble, in behalf of himself and his associates, prior to the passage of this act, shall be valid and effectual to all intents, either at law or in equity, as a lien or mortgage, or security on said railroad, as if the same had been made by virtue of this act, and shall in nowise be effected by any provisions thereof.

"Approved June 24th, 1869."

It seems to me from a careful examination of this statute, that it intends to clothe with corporate powers the said Dibble and his associates as purchasers and owners of the roads, and that no further conveyance fromt hem to the corporation into which they were constituted was contemplated. As a corporation they are invested with the rights to hold, operate, and enjoy the said railroad, under the name of the Tallahassee Railroad Company; and in the enjoyment thereof, free from molestation, they are to have the benefit of the provisions of the original charter of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad Company. Instead of a subscription to capital stock, they are authorized to declare the amount of which the stock shall consist, and to divide the same into shares. They are authorized to lease or sell the "said railroad;" and to issue coupon bonds and secure the same by mortgage on "said railroads, their equipments, franchise, &c." The counsel for the North Carolina Railroad Company supposes that the concluding part of the last 1211 section was a notice to any persons dealing with the corporation, of the trust deed executed to Swepson. But I do not think that this follows. That deed is not mentioned and the provision itself is a proper one to prevent the the operation of the act in transferring the title to a new personality from affecting the previous conveyances or mortgages—which it might be thought to do. Such previous conveyances or mortgages, however, would stand on their own inherent validity and effect, and would not, if unrecorded, operate to the prejudice of those dealing with the company without notice of them.

But the parties did not stop here. Fearing that the title so conferred by the statute might be questioned, a deed of confirmation and release was subsequently executed by Dibble and his associates to the Tallahassee Railroad Company. It is not dated, it is true, except by the year (1870), but that does not interfere with its effect and operation. Having to be executed by a number of parties and their wives, it is probable that the date was left to be inserted when it was completed, and was then overlooked.

I am clearly of opinion that the statute and this deed of confirmation and release are sufficient for the protection of all parties dealing with the company without any knowledge of the trust deed to Swepson.

It is pertinent to remark that the North Carolina Railroad Company, in its original bill, which is sworn to, expressly and without qualification, states that the railroads were duly conveyed to the corporation. The averment is as follows:

> "That pursuant to said acts of incorporation, or one of them, the said Franklin Dibble and associates did convey and transfer said Pensacola & Georgia & Tallahassee Railroads according to the terms of said trust agreement, when, and from and after which time, the said Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, and the said Tallahassee Railroad, as separate properties, and the said Tallahassee Railroad Company, as incorporated in the name of said F. Dibble and associates, on the same 24th day of June, 1869, became and now are the railroad owned by the corporation defendant, the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as aforesaid."

It is true the complainant has obtained leave to amend its bill by adding an averment that no such title ever was conveyed to the corporation. Had this positive averrment in the original bill been called to the attention of the court, it is doubtful whether the amendment 1212 would have been allowed. Standing as it does, however, in the bill, it shows that it was always the understanding of all parties that the title of the roads had been regularly passed to the corporation

The Tallahassee Railroad Company being duly organized according to the plan proposed by the parties, took possession of the railroads and operated or leased them to others. It maintained a separate existence for only eleven months, when it became amalgamated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, as will be mentioned hereafter.

It appears that its officers executed bonds to the amount of $1,500,000, which were delivered to Swepson, but were never used, and, if still in existence, have never been regarded as bona fide or valid issues of the company; being superseded by subsequent transactions effected by and through the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, after the two companies were consolidated. No relief based upon these bonds is sought by any of the parties.

We are next brought to the consolidation of the Tallahassee Railroad Company with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. The charter of this company was granted by the legislature of Florida on the 24th day of June, 1869, by an act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State." As this act as amended has an important bearing on the questions to be decided in these cases, I will state the substance thereof in some detail. The corporators were George W. Swepson, Milton S. Littlefield, J. P. Sanderson, J. I. Requa, and William H. Hunt. The company was authorized to construct a railroad from Quincy, the terminus of the Pensacola & Georgia Railroad, westward to the Alabama line in the direction of Mobile, touching certain specified points, and to aid the company in the construction and equipment of its road, by the 9th. section of the act as amended in January, 1870, the governor of the State was directed to deliver to the president thereof coupon bonds of the State to an amount equal to $16,000 per mile for the whole line of road and length of railroad owned by or belonging to the company, in exchange for first mortgage bonds of said company, when the president should certify upon his oath that the road, or parts of road, was completed and in good running order.

By the 10th section of the act it was provided that in exchange for the bonds of the State, the president of the company should 1213 deliver to the governor coupon bonds of the company, payable to the State of Florida, signed by the president, sealed with the corporate seal, and payable at the same time and place as the State bonds.

By the 11th section, as amended by the act of January 28, 1870, a statutory lien was given to the State, valid as a first mortgage, duly registered, on the part of the road, for which the State bonds were delivered, and on all the property of the company appertaining to that part of the line, which it might then have or thereafter acquire, together with the powers and franchises, &c.; and on failure of the company to pay either principal or interest for twelve months after due, the governor was empowered to enter and take possession of said property and franchises, and sell the same at public auction; and it was directed that all moneys arising from such sale should be promptly and exclusively applied to the payment and satisfaction of the bonds issued by the State, or, if the bonds should not be presented, to be invested and held by the State of Florida as trustee for the bondholders, until they should demand the same, and then to be paid to them by the treasurer.

By the 14th section of the act it was declared that it should be lawful for the several companies owning the road or parts of roads from Quincy to Jacksonville, from Tallahassee to St. Marks, and the branch to Monticello, or either of them, by a vote of the owners of a majority of the stock in interest, and with the consent of the owners of a majority of the stock in interest of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, to consolidate with the latter company, so as to become one corporation under its name, on such terms as might be agreed on; and after such consolidation the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company were authorized to raise money by way of mortgage, &c., of the railroad and property, franchise and effects acquired by such consolidation; and issue coupon bonds, and to each of said company's was granted the same privileges as those granted to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

By the 4th section of the amended act of January, 1870, it was enacted that the governor should, for the purpose of aiding the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in the speedy construction of its road, deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of the State, to the amount of $16,000 per mile, upon receiving from the 1214 president of the company first mortgage bonds of like amount, on any part of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville; but not for a greater length than 100 miles of any part of railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville. Provided, the said railroad company or companies should not issue first mortgage bonds to a greater amount than $16,000 per mile.

Under the 14th section of this act the Tallahassee Railroad Company, on the 25th day of May, 1870, was consolidated with the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, by the unanimous vote of the stockholders of both companies. From the minutes of the stockholders' meeting on this occasion, it appears that Littlefield, who had succeeded to Swepson's interest, held 18,000 shares of the 30,000 of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and 9,930 of the 10,000 shares of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and that by the consolidation the stock of the two companies was increased to 60,000 shares, of which Littlefield held 38,433. The consolidated company was duly organized, and the road from Quincy to Lake City went into its possession.

I have no doubt that the effect of this consolidation was to vest in the consolidated company the property and franchises of both the companies, who were parties thereto.

In my judgment, therefore, the North Carolina Railroad Company must seek for the enforcement of any equities it may have by reason of the misappropriation of its moneys by Swepson and Littlefield, through its right to the interest which they acquired as stockholders in the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. So far as the public was concerned, Littlefield was the apparent owner of this stock. In dealing with the company, the public had a right to regard him as the owner of the stock. The corporation could only act by its officers. The action of those officers, unless known to be fraudulent, bound the company and its stockholders, and all those who claimed any equitable interest in the stock. If the North Carolina Railroad Company knew of the destination which its moneys had taken, and suffered Swepson and Littlefield to retain possession of the stock and control of the Florida corporation, they must abide by their acts as such. It had a remedy in the Florida courts to prevent the continuance of this state of things; and if did not choose to resort to this remedy, it must not call third parties in question for dealing with the corporation as a duly organized body, capable of transacting business.

1215 Under the powers conferred by its charter, and the amendment thereto of January 28th, 1870, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company executed its bonds to the State of Florida, in May or June, of that year, to the amount of $3,000,000, and received therefor the bonds of the State to the same amount, which were delivered to the president of the company, M. S. Littlefield, for disposition and sale thereof. Littlefield had already, by an agreement executed on the 13th of April, 1870, made an arrangement with S. W. Hopkins & Co., of New York and London, to dispose of the bonds which he expected to receive from the State on account of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. This agreement is set out in the pleadings. It purports to treat for $4,000,000 of dollars of State bonds to be issued to the Railroad Company. It will be seen that $1,000,000 were contemplated to be issued by the Florida Central Railroad Company, of which Swepson had the control. Only three days after this arrangement with Hopkins & Co., to dispose of the bonds not yet issued, Swepson and Littlefield, whose peculations had now been discovered by the agents of the North Carolina Railroad Company, entered into an agreement with them for a participation in the proceeds of these Florida State bonds. This agreement was made at the city of Washington on the 16th day of April, 1870. It has such an important bearing upon the controversy in this case, that I think it proper to state it in full. It is as follows:

> "Memorandum of agreement and settlement between the Florida Central Railroad Company, George W. Swepson, president, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, Milton S. Littlefield, president, and Milton S. Littlefield, majority owner of the stock of said companies, and also of the stock of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, of the first part, and the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, represented by N. W. Woodfin, W. G. Candler, W. Pink Welsh, and W. W. Rollins, commissioners appointed by an act of the legislature of North Carolina, approved by the stockholders of said corporation, of the second part. Witnesseth,

"That whereas George W. Swepson, late president of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, made certain investments of the funds of said company in securities of and interest in the said Florida Central Railroad, Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and the Tallahassee Railroad, of the said State of Florida, as per report made by the said George W. Swepson to the said com-1216 missioners, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, to bear interest from the first day of November, 1869, at the rate of eight per cent. per annum; and

"Whereas the said George W. Swepson heretofore conveyed to the said Milton S. Littlefield, subject to the payment of the above-recited claim, his interest in the above recited railroads; and whereas the said Littlefield has received authority from the legislature of the State of Florida and the several railroad companies, to receive bonds to be issued by and for account of the several railroad companies, which bonds are to be exchanged for the bonds of the State of Florida, to be issued for the purpose of aiding the finances of the said several railroad companies, all of which bonds are now in a state of preparation; and

"Whereas the said Milton S. Littlefield has made a contract with S. W. Hopkins & Co., No. 71 Broadway, for the disposition of said bonds as the same may be issued, the proceeds of the issue of the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company of the said State of Florida, amounting to nine hundred and sixty thousand dollars, are to be applied to the payment of the existing liabilities of the said several railroad companies, including the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars to be paid to the commissioners aforesaid for the purpose of paying existing liabilities of the said Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company:

"It is understood and agreed by the parties of the first and second parts, that the proceeds of the sale of the said bonds so to be issued by the said Florida railroad companies and the said State of Florida, are to be equally divided, dollar for dollar, between the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company and the said Florida railroads, and as the commissioners aforesaid receive by this first sale of bonds only the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, it is further understood and agreed, that out of the proceeds of the sale of the issue of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroads, there is first to be received by the commissioners aforesaid a sum sufficient to be equal to the amount received by and on account of the said Florida railroads, and then an equal amount is to be received by the said commissioners and the said Florida railroads, dollar for dollar, until the entire amount of one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand four hundred and thirty-six dollars and three cents, with interest at eight per cent., as aforesaid, being the sum reported by the parties of the first part as due to the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad, is fully paid.

"It is further understood and agreed by the parties of the first and second parts, that all the interest owned or claimed by the said parties of the first part, George W. Swepson and Milton S. Littlefield, or which they, as individuals, have a right to control in the said Florida railroads, are hereby pledged for the faithful fulfilment of this con-

After reading this agreement it seems to me impossible to contend that the North Carolina Railroad Company did not accept the situation, and acquiesce in the organization of the Florida Railroad Companies by Swepson and Littlefield, the issue of stock therein to them, and the issue of the bonds in question in this suit.

It has been strenuously argued by the counsel of said company that the issue of these bonds was a fraud upon it, and done without its knowledge, and against its interests and will. On the contrary, the fact is plain that the North Carolina company acquiesced in their issue, and stipulated for a large portion of the proceeds of the sale thereof. If a fraud was committed in the issue of these bonds, it was rather committed on the State of Florida and on the small minority in interest of the other stockholders of the Florida companies; and it is hardly possible to refrain from observing that the North Carolina company itself was a particeps criminis. What right had that company to make a private stipulation with Swepson and Littlefield, its own officers and agents, to take to its own use the proceeds of bonds issued by the State of Florida with the fond, but mistaken, expectation that they should be employed in developing its own resources upon its own soil?

It is idle to contend that the North Carolina corporation was not represented in this transaction. The authority of the commissioners appointed by the legislature of North Carolina to act in behalf of the company cannot be questioned. The State was much the largest stockholder, and the legislature had repealed the charter of the com-1218 pany on the 14th of February preceding, and had appointed these commissioners to settle up its affairs. They were the only representatives of the company then existing. Littlefield himself was president of the company at the time of the repeal of its charter, and Rollins and Candler were directors. The commissioners acted in the company's name, and no one can justly challenge their right so to do. Besides, from that time onward, throughout the year 1870, and afterwards, the same commissioners continued to represent the company as well as the State in many ways, and always in affirmation of the issue of the bonds. Actions were brought and actions defended in the company's name in asserting its claim to the bonds, or the proceeds thereof. One of the commissioners, Col. Woodfin, was sent to London to secure their rights in this regard, and then made another final settlement there with Littlefield, by agreement, dated November 10th, 1870, on the part and behalf of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, which agreement, throughout, purported to provide ways and means for carrying out the agreement of April 16th, 1870, and securing to the said company the proceeds of the bonds sold and to be sold. Amongst other things, providing that an order should be given to said company on S. W. Hopkins & Co., for 800 of the bonds still in their hands, but with the condition that the bonds should be sold by Hopkins & Co. and the proceeds paid to the company. Such order was in fact given and accepted, and £10,000 sterling were subsequently received by the company on account thereof.

Calling these settlements conditional settlements, compromises, &c., is a new thought, the result of new light. No such language is used in the original bill. Besides, though they were conditional settlements, or compromises, they were entered into and had the same effect in misleading the public and inducing a sale of the bonds as if they had had no conditions attached to them. They were not like unaccepted offers of compromise, which, it is true, cannot be used to the prejudice of the party who makes them. They were executed agreements, and show the position which the North Carolina Railroad Company deemed it expedient to assume.

It is useless to go into all the evidence on this subject in detail. The truth is too evident, that not only did the North Carolina and promoted the sale thereof. The principal contest of this company consisted in endeavoring to get the proceeds of the bonds after they were sold; and this contest was continued until the 3,000 State bonds, issued to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in exchange for its own bonds, had been sold and disposed of. In view of all the evidence on this subject, I am clearly of opinion that the North Carolina Railroad Company is to be held as participating in putting out these bonds upon the money market of the world, and that it cannot be heard to except against the bona fides of their issue and sale.
1219 company acquiesce in the issue of the bonds, but that they urged

Having reached this conclusion, I must hold that the complainants in the case of J. Fred. Schutte and others, who have produced these very bonds, claiming to be the bona fide purchasers and holders thereof, are such holders unless the contrary be shown. But there is no evidence, of which I am aware, that shows in the slightest degree that they are not bona fide holders. The bonds being sold with the acquiescence of the North Carolina company, the holders thereof stand in the same position as the holders of any other negotiable securities. If, therefore, as the owners of these bonds, they have any title to relief as against the railroad and property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, they are entitled to such relief notwithstanding, and prior to any equities which the North Carolina company may be entitled to. The equities of the latter company are to be effected as equitable owners of the stock of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, held by Littlefield and Swepson; and are to be enforced through the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and can rise no higher than the rights of that company itself, as against third parties dealing with it in good faith.

The question then arises, whether the holders of the State bonds have, by reason of being such, any lien, legal or equitable, against the railroad and property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

It has been decided by the supreme court of Florida that the State bonds which these parties hold were created and issued in violation of the constitution of the State, and that they are for that reason absolutely void. But the same court has also decided that the bona fide holders of such bonds are entitled to the benefit of the bonds issued 1220 by the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, in exchange for them, and to have such company bonds and the first mortgage lien created thereby enforced for their protection. In the case of Holland vs. The State of Florida, where this question was involved, the court held that the State of Florida occupied two distinct relations to the holders of the State bonds and to the railroad company, the first being that of a primary debtor on its own bonds, and mortgage creditor of the company for its indemnity; the second that of a trustee for the holders of the State bonds. "In this relation," says Mr. Justice Westcott (in which the other justices concurred), "the lien created by the statute was for the benefit of the holders of the State bonds. The proceeds of the sale, if he declined to surrender his bonds, were to be invested for him, and he was to have the beneficial interest of a cestui qui trust. The lien of the statute and the company bond, viewed in this light, was for his benefit, and the property and franchises of the company were to be his security for payment. And as the company received his money and the State received nothing, the company was to be held to the obligation of common honesty in the matter of payment and satisfaction." (15 Fla. Rep., 534.)

In the subsequent case of The State vs. The Florida Central Railroad Company (15 Fla., R. 723), the court further defines its position on this subject. It then says: "In the case of Holland vs. The State of Florida, we held that while the State bond, as an obligation against the State, as a simple and primary debtor, was void for want of constitutional power in the legislature to authorize such obligation, yet that under the statute the State held the bonds of the company, and the mortgage lien secured thereby for the benefit of the holder of the State bonds. That the State, under the statute, was to occupy these two relations, and that while the one failed for want of constitutional power in the legislature to authorize it, the other must be sustained, because the legislature did have the constitutional power to create it, and it was the duty of the court to enforce it. This court did not hold that the relation and rights of the State as 'trustees' were the result of any equity springing from the circumstances independent of the statute, but that its relation as a trustee was a creature of the statute. That, viewed in this light, the lien created by the statute and the company bond was for the 1221 benefit of the bondholder, and the property and franchise of the company were to be his security for payment." The court then proceeds to show that, under this view, the bondholder is not restricted to the amount paid by him for his bonds, but has all the rights of a "holder" of bonds, including that of recovering the full amount thereof.

The same views were again repeated in the the recent case of The Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund vs. The Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and also reported in 16 Florida, 719.

A careful examination of the statute leads me to concur in this view of the subject. But the decision of the State court on a question of the construction of a State statute, if not absolutely binding on this court, is, at least, entitled to the very highest consideration and respect, and is to be regarded as of great authority. I feel compelled, therefore, to hold that the holders of the State bonds have a right to the enforcement of the mortgage lien created by the statute by virtue of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company given in exchange therefor. The result of this opinion is, that next to the lien for the balance of purchase money due to the trustees of the internal improvement fund, the complainants in the case of J. Fred. Schutte and others are entitled to a mortgage lien upon the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, extending from Lake City to Quincy, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, including the branch to Monticello, with all its equipment property and franchises, for the payment of such portion of the bonds held by them, and the interest accrued thereon, as are to be considered as having been exchanged for the bonds of that company; and a first mortgage lien for the payment of the same bonds and interest upon the railroad extending from Quincy to Chattahoochee River, and its equipment property and franchises, reserving, however, for the present, further consideration of the claims of J. W. Gibbes, who has intervened pro intreses suo, in respect to that portion of the line.

The said J. Fred. Schutte and others, holders of said State bonds, will also be entitled to a decree, dismissing the bill of The Western North Carolina Railroad Company which relates to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad.

1222 I will now proceed to the consideration of the case relating to the Florida Central Railroad Company and its property. I have already stated that in this case there is no question about the status of the Western Division of the Western Railroad of North Carolina. Its interest arises altogether from its equitable right to the stock of the Florida Central Railroad Company, and its equities rise no higher than those which belong to the rights of a stockholder. This stock, during the period of the transactions under consideration, was held either by Swepson or Littlefield, or by those to whom they transferred it from time to time, for their own purposes. Parties dealing in good faith with the Florida Central Railroad Company as a corporation, have nothing to do with the manipulations of this stock. The main question in the present controversy is, whether the corporation itself became bound by the bonds which were issued in its name, the amount of which, as before stated, was $1,000,000.

The first inquiry that naturally presents itself is, whether the said company had power to issue such bonds. The act which incorporated the purchasers of the road, passed 29th of July, 1868, was in the same general form as that which incorporated the purchasers of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, already recited. It did not, however, contain any section corresponding to the sixth section of that act, authorizing the issue of coupon bonds and the securing of the same by mortgage; but it gave the company the general power to grant, sell, mortgage, or dispose of any property acquired for the purpose of the railroad. It will be recollected, however, that the act entitled "An act to perfect the public works of the State," which incorporated the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company by its 14th section, not only authorized the several companies owning the road or roads from Quincy to Jacksonville, &c., to consolidate with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, but gave to each company the same privileges as were granted to the latter company by the act; and by the 4th section of the amended act, passed January 28th, 1870, it was enacted as follows, namely: That the governor shall, for the purpose of further aiding the said Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in the speedy construction of its road, deliver to the president of said company coupon bonds of this State, of the same character as those above described in this act, to the amount of 1223 $16,000 per mile, upon receiving for and from the president of said company, first-mortgage bonds of like amount on any part or portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville. Provided, however, the State bonds under this section shall not be exchanged for first mortgage bonds for a greater length than 100 miles of any part of railroad between Quincy and Jacksonville. Provided the said railroad company or companies shall not issue first mortgage bonds to a greater amount than $16,000 per mile."

Now, there were only two roads between Quincy and Jacksonville, a part of the road belonging at the time of the passage of this act to the Tallahassee Railroad Company, extending from Quincy to Lake City, and the road of the Florida Central Railroad Company. The act, therefore, must necessarily have referred to these roads and to the companies owning the same. The supreme court of this State so decided in the case of The State vs. The Florida Central Railroad Company et als. (15 Fla., 704, 705), and held that this section authorized the Florida Central Railroad Company to issue coupon bonds to be exchaged for State bonds by the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. Taking the two acts together, that of June 24th, 1869, and its amendatory act of January 28th, 1870, I have no doubt that the Florida Central Railroad Company did have all the requisite powers for issuing such bonds as were issued in this case in the name of said company, and that they might be issued for the purpose of exchanging them for a like amount of State bonds, in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company. Of course it would be for the Florida Central Railroad Company to prescribe the conditions or consideration on or for which it would issue such bonds. It had the power to do it. If done, and the exchange should be made, and after this the State bonds received by the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in lieu thereof should be misappropriated by the agents of that company, this would not relieve the Florida Central Railroad Company from its obligations arising upon its bonds to the bona fide holders of the State bonds.

Much stress has been laid in this case upon the fact that the bonds issued in the name of the Florida Central Railroad Company were not regularly executed, but were made and executed in the city of Washington, and signed by George W. Swepson, as president of the company, and by one H. H. Thompson, as treasurer, when the latter 1224 was not treasurer; and no authority having been given by the directors for the issue of any such bonds. But before the bonds were issued, the following action was taken by the board of directors on the 25th day of May, 1870, to wit:

"General Littlefield stated that Mr. Swepson, late president, had appointed H. H. Thompson, esq., as secretary and treasurer of this company for the past year, and moved that the action of the late president in this respect be approved and confirmed, which was agreed to."

A few days later, on the 2d of June, 1870, a meeting of the stockholders was held, representing a very large majority of the stock, when it was unanimously resolved that bonds to the extent of $16,000 per mile be issued by the company, to be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipments, franchise, &c., and then reciting that George W. Swepson, the late president, had caused to be prepared bonds to be issued by the company preparatory to an order of the board of directors to that effect, and which bonds were signed by said Swepson, as president, and countersigned by H. H. Thompson, treasurer. It was therefore unanimously resolved that the said bonds be adopted as the bonds to be issued, and that when issued they be a first lien or mortgage on the Florida Central Railroad, its equipment, franchise, &c. (except the lots in Jacksonville not used for depot purposes). It was further resolved that the bonds be placed in the hands of Edward Houston for the purpose agreed upon by an arrangement between himself and Milton S. Littlefield, "who, it was declared, was owner of nearly all the stock of the company," and the bonds or their proceeds to be held and applied according to said arrangement, except the proportion thereof applicable or apportionable to the stock owned by other parties, and upon the satisfaction otherwise of the terms of said arrangement with said Houston, the said bonds were to be by him transferred to Littlefield, or according to his direction to the extent of the stock owned by him at the time. On the same day the directors adopted the same resolutions, and further, a resolution that the president be authorized to do all acts, and, if necessary, to execute and deliver any proper deed under the seal of the company that might be deemed needful to make the first lien or mortgage in favor of the bonds.

In view of these resolutions, all talk about the irregular execution of the bonds, or of the application of the seal thereto, would seem 1225 to be irrelevant. It cannot be denied that the bonds were executed and placed in the hands of Littlefield for disposition according to the arrangement between him and Houstoun. That arrangement as it stood at this time was that there should be placed in Houstoun's hands as collateral security for $163,000 due to him from Littlefield one million of dollars of bonds of the State of Florida to be exchanged for said bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company. After paying himself, the balance of the proceeds of said bonds was to be distributed and paid as follows, to wit:

To Edward Houstoun (as above)	$163,000
" John P. Sanderson	57,000
" M. D. Papy	16,000
" T. W. Brevard, attorney for holders of Pensacola & Georgia bonds	50,000
" John P. Sanderson, president of the Florida Central Railroad Company	340,000
	$620,000

The balance, if any, to Littlefield.

The arrangement further provided that if Littlefield should pay his debt of $163,000 to Houstoun the latter should place the bonds in the hands of S. W. Hopkins & Co. to be sold, and the proceeds to be held subject to the other claims above specified, and the balance to be paid to Littlefield.

Houstoun, in January, 1871, placed the bonds in the hands of T. B. Coddington on substantially the same trusts as he held them. On the 13th of April, 1871, at a stockholders' meeting of the Florida Central Railroad Company, he was authorized to place them in the hands of S. W. Hopkins & Co., subject to the same trusts as to the proceeds thereof.

Now the counsel for the North Carolina Company and for the Florida Central Railroad Company contend that the bonds executed by the company and exchanged for State bonds were executed for an unlawful purpose, namely, for the purpose of paying private debts or speculation, and not for that of aiding the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in the speedy construction of its road, nor for any corporate purpose of the Florida Central Railroad Company itself.

Supposing this to be true, how can the corporation itself or any one claiming under it raise this objection after having actually exe-

1226 cuted its bonds and procured the State bonds in exchange therefor, and authorized them to be sold to the public? It seems to me that there is a clear estoppel in the case. It would be to allow the company to perpetrate a fraud upon the public to allow such a defence to prevail. If the stockholders have used the money produced by the State bonds for their own purposes, instead of using it in aid of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Company, or for the corporate purposes of their own company, neither they nor the corporation can be permitted to allege their own dishonesty as a reason for avoiding the binding obligation of their bonds. The fact seems to have been that the arrangement for making this issue of bonds had in view a distribution of their proceeds amongst the stockholders in proportion to their several interests. If there was not a fair deal; if some got more than their share, and others less, they must look to one another for an adjustment of their respective equities. They ought not to be permitted, at this late day, after the State bonds procured in exchange have been sold to purchasers, to plead that their bonds were created for an unlawful purpose.

The Florida Central Railroad Company itself is clearly estopped from making such a defence. The North Carolina company is also estopped, because in the agreements and proceedings which have been referred to, in which it was a party, it acquiesced in the issue of the bonds, and only claimed to share in the proceeds thereof. The agreement of April 16, 1870, before recited, expressly recognized the issue of bonds by the Florida Central Railroad Company, and provided that $150,000 of the proceeds thereof should be paid to the commissioners. And in a supplemental complaint of the said North Carolina company, filed in August, 1871, in a suit instituted by said company against Sidney W. Hopkins and others, in the supreme court of New York, the said company alleged and insisted as follows, to wit, "And the said plaintiffs further show, that said S. W. Hopkins & Co. have in their hands, as plaintiffs are informed and believe, a very large amount of the proceeds of the sales of said 4,000 bonds, which belong to these plaintiffs and to other parties interested therein, and that they intend to conceal and fraudulently retain such proceeds to their own use, &c," and they then invoke the equitable interposition of the court in respect to the proceeds 1227 of said bonds. This is but a casual instance of the manner in which the North Carolina company ever treated the transactions relating to said bonds. Here, it will be observed, the company speaks of the entire issue of 4,000 bonds in one category, thus including those issued in exchange of the Florida Central, as well as others. As late as July, 1873, a consent decree was entered in the case of John Collinson vs. S. W. Hopkins and others, in the city of New York, to which the North Carolina Railroad Company was a party, whereby it was provided that $200,000 should be paid to said company out of the proceeds of the bonds which formed the subject of that litigation, being the last 1,200 bonds issued of the 4,000, and including the 1,000 bonds issued in exchange for those of the Florida Central Railroad Company.

It is useless to pursue this subject further, or to examine in detail all the voluminous testimony and documents which have been adduced in relation to it. It is too plain for doubt or question, that the North Carolina Company acquiesced, as well in the issue of the Florida Central bonds as of those of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

The truth is, that the agents of the North Carolina company seem to have been very well satisfied with the issue of the bonds, thinking, by means thereof, to be able to snatch something out of the fire by way of indemnity for the losses sustained by that company through the malfeasance of Swepson and Littlefield, and I think that said company is concluded from disputing the validity of the bonds as against those who have, in good faith, purchased the State bonds issued in exchange therefor. They may have been unfortunate in their endeavors to get the proceeds of the bonds after they were sold, but that was not the fault of the purchasers, and is no reason for depriving them of their property.

The question then arises, whether the complainant in the suit of J. Fred. Schutte and others are bona fide holders of the bonds, which they produce in this litigation.

The possession of the bonds is strong prima facie evidence of just title, and in ordinary cases throws upon the party questioning it the burden of showing that it is not bona fide—that the holder had notice of some vice or defect which vitiates the title. No such notice is shown in this case. On the contrary it appears from the evidence of Collinson and Collins that the bonds were sent to Holland to be sold. 1228 Collinson says that the bonds were purchased by him of S. W. Hopkins & Company, in London; that they were put on the Dutch market, and were sold there as he was informed; that the transactions were conducted by Messrs. Boissevain & Milders, and Mangay, of Holland, who purchased the bonds from him for the purpose of putting them on the market and selling them. Collins corroborates this testimony, and says that Mr. Woodfin, the agent of the North Carolina company, whilst in England, did all he could to promote their sale. Dr. Wertheim, who has been present at the hearing of these cases, was examined at the instance of the North Carolina company after the cases were called, and testified to having been a purchaser of some of the bonds himself in Amsterdam, and to the fact that some of his friends were purchasers, at prices which forbid the supposition that they were conscious of anything wrong in the sale of the bonds. He says that he was so stupid as to invest some of his money in these bonds at the rate of 80½ per cent., believing in the good faith of the State of Florida and the managers of the railroads. That he was bitterly deceived, and was unhappy enough to have more of the bonds out of the inheritance of his father; and not himself alone, but a great many widows, orphans, and charity institutions in Holland, purchased them, believing them to be a good and safe investment.

In an affidavit made by him in May, 1877, which was exhibited to him by the counsel of the North Carolina company on the examination, he says distinctly, that after examination and such information as could be obtained in Holland, the loan was issued there and the bonds were bona fide purchased in the market. He says the belief there was that the whole line from Jacksonville to Chattahoochee was consolidated into one line, and that all the bonds had respect to the line as one entirety. This was undoubtedly the impression that was given abroad, and had some foundation in the representations which were made by Littlefield and others.

In my judgement, upon the whole case as presented by the evidence and pleadings, the said bondholders are to be regarded as bona fida purchasers and holders of these bonds, and are entitled by reason thereof to a first mortgage lien therefor upon the Florida Central Railroad, so far as any of the bonds held are to be deemed as exchanged for its bonds.

This also seems to me to be in accordance with the justice of the 1229 case. These parties have parted with their money, relying on the good faith of the State, and the companies. It is not their fault that this money did not reach the proper hands. Had it been properly applied, the Florida Railroad companies, and their stockholders and those having an interest in the stock, including the North Carolina Railroad Company, would have reaped the benefits. If the money has been squandered or misapplied it is their misfortune, and should not be visited upon the purchasers of the bonds.

It remains to determine what portion of the bonds raise a lien on the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad, and what portion a lien on the Florida Central. This branch of the subject is invested with some difficulties. I think it is pretty clear from the evidence in the case, that the first 3,000 State bonds were, in fact, issued in exchange for the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, and that the last 1,000, numbered from 3,001 to 4,000 respectively, were issued in exchange for the Florida Central Railroad Company's bonds, the latter not being issued until April, 1871, when they were procured by Coddington. It is urged on the part of the bondholders that they had no knowledge of this distinction, and ought not to be affected by it. But I am not satisfied that their ignorance on the subject can affect the question. The lien of the bondholders is created by the statute. A resulting equity would have arisen without the aid of the statute, but the statute takes the place of this and regulates the right. Now, the 11th section of the "Act to perfect the public works of the State," passed June 24th, 1869, as amended in January, 1870, declares that "to secure the principal and interest of the said company's bonds, the State of Florida shall, by this act, have a statutory lien, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as a first mortgage duly registered, on the part of the road for which the State bonds were delivered, &c." When by the 4th section of the amending act, passed in January, 1870, authority was given to issue State bonds in exchange for first mortgage bonds on any portion of the road between Quincy and Jacksonville, it cannot be supposed that such bonds were to be security for any other State bonds than those which should be given in exchange therefor. The question is not so much what the bondholders ought to have, as what the statute gives them. If they stood on grounds of mere equity, they might 1230 not be able to secure more than the amount paid by them for the bonds. I think, however, that the matter is to be governed by the statutes. I am of opinion, therefore, that the bondholders cannot claim to have a lien on the Florida Central railroad for any bonds except those whose numbers exceed the number 3,000. Of these, it appears, they hold 197. For these bonds, therefore, and the interest due thereon, they are entitled to a first lien on the said railroad, its equipments, franchise and property. For the remaining bonds held by them, whose numbers are 3,000 and under, of which they have produced 2,749, they will have a lien, as before expressed, on the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

This disposes of the most important questions in these causes, and a decree will be made in conformity to this opinion, with such qualifications as may be agreed upon by the trustees of the internal improvement fund and the holders of the old first-mortgage bonds of Pensacola & Georgia and Tallahassee Railroad Companies on one part, and the holders of the State bonds on the other, as expressed in the memorandum plan which has been referred to, or otherwise. A decree will also be made for a sale of the several railroads for the purpose of raising the amount due to the respective parties according to the respective liens. The bills of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company will be dismissed with costs.

I have not deemed it necessary to advert to a great deal of the voluminous evidence taken in the causes. The ground taken in the opinion covers all the material points at issue between the parties, and I have stated the conclusions to which I have come from the most careful consideration which I have been able to give to the whole case.

There are various subsidiary matters depending upon the intervention of third parties, which if not decided before signing the decree may be reserved at the foot thereof and subsequently heard, and adjudged, and disposed of by a supplemental decree.

In addition to the matters discussed in the foregoing opinion, the counsel for Daniel P. Holland, James G. Gibbes, and various 1231 other parties submitted the questions arising upon interventions for their several interests in relation to the fund arising from the property of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company.

By the petition of D. P. Holland it appeared that on the 2d day of December, 1872, he obtained a judgment in this court against the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company for the sum of $62,533.33-100, issued an execution thereon, and sold the railroad and its appurtenances, and became the purchaser at such sale, and received a deed from the marshal, and took possession of the road. This sale was afterwards adjudged illegal and was set aside. Holland now claims to have the moneys in the hands of the receiver applied to the payment of this judgment, on the ground that said moneys are the property of the company, being produced by the earnings of the road, and are not subject to the lien of the complainants or of the trustees of the internal improvement fund.

Justice Bradley remarked as follows: This claim cannot be allowed. The money realized by the receivers is a part of the fund as it stood when the receivers were appointed and put in possession. It is as much a part of the mortgaged premises as are the rails or the cross-ties of the road. It is the product and fruits of the property produced since the court took it in hand for the use of the liens and trusts by which it is bound. The property was taken possession of by the court by its receivers in order to preserve it for the use of those liens and trusts. The fruits arising therefrom whilst thus in custody of the court do not belong to the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company in any such sense as to be liable to any other claims than those of the parties fo whose protection the road was taken into custody and such charges a appertain to its management and administration. It would be a strange doctrine to contend that the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company itself could appear before the court and demand the money in the receiver's hands. And if the company cannot do this neither can any party whose claim is based, as Holland's is, only upon the company's rights.

The petition urges the statute of January 8, 1853, amending the laws relating to mortgages, which declares that the antiquated claim in favor of the mortgagee to the right of possession of the property speci-1232 fied in the mortgage by reason of any alleged failure of payment, or breach of promise, or other default, shall in no case be recognized or admitted in a court of justice until all other steps and forms prescribed by law for the foreclosure of mortgages be complied with and observed; and which also declares that a constructive possession by the mortgagee shall not be allowed to impair the actual, and for ages admitted, right of possession of the mortgagor until deprived thereof by decree, and that the mortgage shall be held a specific lien on the prop.

erty, and the mortgagee incapable of acquiring possession until after decree of foreclosure.

This act was evidently intended to abolish the practice which prevailed in England and some of the older States of allowing the mortgagee to take possession of the mortgaged premises, or to recover the same in ejectment, the moment a default of payment occurred. It cannot apply to prevent the interference of a court of equity in a case where, by the voluntary negligence or misfeasance of the mortgagor, the property is being wasted and consumed so as to peril the security intended by the parties. It cannot apply to prevent such a court from appointing a receiver of a railroad where the railroad company is notoriously insolvent, and is using up and wasting the property. When such a case occurs, as it did in the present case, it is perfectly competent for the court to appoint a receiver to keep and preserve the mortgaged premises, and to enjoin the railroad company from further interfering therewith. And when this is done, it cannot be pretended that the company will be entitled to the receipts of the road whilst in the hands of the receivers, further than to be credited with the amount thereof, after deducting expenses.

Besides, the present is not the case of a mortgage, so far as the trustees of the improvement fund are concerned, but of a lien for purchase money, which the company or its predecessors, for whose acts it is bound, failed to pay. The continued possession of the property without paying the consideration is a quasi fraud against the vendor, and the purchaser is a trustee for him; and a court of equity is not restrained by anything contained in the statute from appointing a receiver if there is danger of the property being wasted or deteriorated.

I am of opinion, therefore, that neither the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company, nor any party claiming under it, as Holland does in this case, can demand the moneys which the receiv-1233 ers have realized from the management of the property, until the liens established by this decree have been satisfied.

The application of the petitioner is denied.

The claim of Gibbs and other intervenors will be reserved for further consideration.

Decree.

J. FRED SCHUTTE AND OTHERS, COMPLAINANTS,
vs.
THE JACKSONVILLE, PENSACOLA & MOBILE Railroad Company, the Florida Central Railroad Company, and others, defendants.
} In equity.

On this 31st day of May, A. D. 1879, this cause came on for final hearing on the pleadings and proofs therein, and was argued by counsel and was fully heard by the said court.

Whereupon, the court being fully advised of and concerning the same, doth here now order, adjudged, and decree as follows, viz:

1st. That the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida have a first lien upon the railroad described in said bill of complaint, in this suit, running from Lake City to Quincy, in said State, with the branch road to Monticello, and the railroad running from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, in said State, and all the property, rights, and franchises belonging or appertaining thereto to secure the payment to said trustees of the sum of four hundred and sixty-three thousand one hundred and seventy-five 37-100 (463,175.37-100) dollars and interest thereon since March 20th, A. D. 1869, at the rate of eight per centum per annum, to attach and rest upon said railroads and property as follows: Of said principal sum upon said railroad from Lake City to Quincy, with the branch to Monticello, four hundred and twelve thousand 1234 and four hundred dollars, and interest aforesaid, "and upon said railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, of said principal sum, fifty thousand seven hundred and seventy-five 37-100 dollars, with interest as aforesaid.

2d. That the complainants in this cause have a second lien on both of said railroads before mentioned, and upon all the property, privalages, rights, and franchises thereto appertaining, and a first lien upon that part of the railroad of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Company between Quincy and Chatahoochee, in said State, to the amount of all bonds of the said State of Florida held and owned by them mentioned in the pleadings in this cause and numbered 3000 and under, together with the interest thereon matured and to mature. That the amount of said State bonds now owned and held by said complainants of principal sum is two millions seven hundred and fifty-one thousand dollars, and the interest now matured thereon amounts to one million six hundred and fifty-five thousand and one 60-100 dollars.

3d. That the complainants have a first lien upon the railroad mentioned in the bill of complaint, running from Lake City to Jacksonville, in said State, and all property, rights, and franchises thereto appertaining, to the amount of all the said bonds of the said State of Florida, exchanged for the bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company, numbered 3001 and upwards, held and owned by them, said complainants, and all interest now matured and to mature thereon. That the amount of all said last named numbered bonds owned and held by said complainants is one hundred and ninety-seven thousand dollars, and the amount of interest thereon now matured is one hundred and eighteen thousand five hundred and fifteen dollars and twenty cents.

4th. That the railroad and property and franchises pertaining thereto, extending from Lake City to Chattahoochee, in said State, including the branch road to Monticello, mentioned in the bill of complaint in this cause, and the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, and the property and franchises pertaining thereto, mentioned in said pleadings, be each sold subject to the lien thereon, fixed by this decree to satisfy the lien of the said complainants thereon; that said sales be made by Sherman Conant and Alexander B. Hawkins, who are hereby appointed 1235 special masters of this court for that purpose; that said sale be made at Jacksonville, in said State, and advertised for at least ninety days before the day of sale, in some newspaper of general circulation published in said Jacksonville, and also in some newspaper of general circulation published in the city of New York; that the purchaser or purchasers at said sale may deposit with said special master in payment of his or their bid, the said Florida State bonds, numbered 3000 or under, in the proportion which the whole amount of the bid bears to the whole amount of said State bonds outstanding, and numbered 3000, or under, and interest matured thereon, that is, four million four hundred and six thousand and one dollar and sixty cents.

5th. That the said railroad from Jacksonville to Lake City be sold by said special masters, at the same time and place and on like advertisement as hereinbefore provided, to satisfy the lien of said complainants thereon declared by this decree. That the purchaser or purchasers, at said sale, may deliver to said special masters, in payment of his or their bid, said State bonds of the State of Florida mentioned in said pleadings, and numbered 3001 and upwards, in the proportion which the whole amount of said bid bears to the whole amount of said State bonds outstanding, and numbered last as aforesaid, that is, three hundred and fifteen thousand five hundred and fifteen dollars and twenty cents.

6th. That the balance of either bid for either of the roads herein directed to be sold above the amounts thereof to be paid in bonds as aforesaid, shall be paid to said special masters in cash, at the time of said sale, and if not paid at once, the said masters shall immediately re-offer said property for sale until the same shall be sold and paid for according to this decree. That the amount paid in cash at either of the sales herein directed shall be paid into court by said masters, to be disposed of by the court, and on the coming in of said special master's report. If said sale or sales shall be confirmed, the purchaser or purchasers shall be placed immediately in possession of the property purchased.

7th. That unless the purchaser or purchasers of said railroad from Lake City to Chattahoochee and the branch to Monticello, and the railroad from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, or either of them, shall, within one year from the day of the sale thereof, discharge and satisfy the liens of the trustees of the internal improvement fund of the State 1236 of Florida thereon respectively, as hereinbefore declared, then the said railroad's property and franchises, thereto respectively pertaining, extending from Lake City to Quincy, including the branch road to Monticello, and the railroad and property and franchises thereto belonging extending from Tallahassee to St. Mark's, shall be taken possession of and sold by the marshal of the United States for said district separately to satisfy the liens thereon respectively fixed by this decree, and said sale shall be advertised to take place at Tallahassee, in said State, in a newspaper of general circulation published in said Tallahassee, and also in a newspaper of general circulation published in the city of New York, at least ninety days before the day of sale, and the purchaser or purchasers at said sale or sales may pay to the marshal in satisfaction of their bid for either of said roads the bonds which are a lien upon said road, that is, the bonds to pay which the lien of vendor exists as declared by this decree, in the proportion which the whole bid bears to the whole amount of bonds which are a lien as aforesaid on said road, and shall pay the balance in cash at the time of said sale, and the marshal shall return said bonds so received by him and the balance, if any, of cash into court, to be disposed of as the court shall direct.

8th. That in case the sales herein directed to be made to satisfy said complainants' said liens shall not be sufficient to fully satisfy the amounts due said complainants on the said State bonds numbered 3000 and below, the said complainants shall be subrogated to the right of the trustees of the said internal improvement fund of Florida as to any claim and right which said trustees have against any person or persons in regard to said unpaid portion of said purchase money, which is declared by this decree to be a first lien as aforesaid, and also as to any other security, or securities, which said trustees were or are possessed of, out of which to enforce payment to them of the amount of said unpaid purchase money or any partt here of, or out of which said trustees might have enforced payment of said lien therefor.

9th. That the application of Daniel P. Holland to have his judgment paid out of the funds in the hands of the receivers, in this case, be, and the same is hereby, denied.

10th. And whereas James G. Gibbs has filed a petition to inter-

1237 vene pro interesse suo, claiming certain right in that portion of the said railroad extending from Quincy to Chattahoochee, and prays to have the same adjudicated and allowed; it is therefore ordered and decreed that the rights of said Gibbs, whatever they may be, in said portion of said railroad be reserved from the effect and operation of the present decree, and any sale to be made by virtue thereof, and that it be referred to Joseph H. Durkee, esq., as a special master to take proofs with regard to the claim of said Gibbs, with liberty to the complainants, or any other party in the cause, to controvert the said claim by proofs or otherwise, and that the said master do report upon the same with all convenient speed, and return the proofs taken, and his conclusions thereon, in order that the court, by a supplemental decree, may take order in the matter as law and equality may require, and any proofs which have been taken in this cause may be used before the master in reference to said claim.

11th. It is further ordered, adjudged, and decreed that any balance of money which may remain in the hands of the treasurer of Florida, applicable to the payment of the liens herein and hereby established, and not otherwise disposed of by any court having jurrisdiction and control of the same, be paid by the said treasurer to the receivers in this cause, to be appropriated, with the other moneys in their hands under the direction of the court, to the uses of this cause, and to the satisfaction of this decree, in favor of the trustees of the internal improvement fund.

It is further ordered that any further equities not herein and hereby disposed of, including the claims of those who have intervened for their interest in the fund, do stand for further consideration and disposition upon the foot of this decree.

It is further ordered that the costs of the trustees of the internal improvement fund in this cause, and in the cause of the Western Division of the Western North Carolina Railroad Company, in which they are defendants, be taxed and paid out of the moneys in the hand of the receivers.

And be it further ordered that the complainants in this cause recover their costs to be taxed, and on taxation, that the same be paid out of the fund in the hand of the receivers in this cause.

1362 APRIL 20TH, 1878.

Present, Joseph H. Durkee, esq., examiner; Joseph B. Stewart, esq., solicitor for complainant; John A. Henderson, esq., counsel for George F. Drew, governor, &c.

HARRISON REED was offered as a witness on the part of complainant, and being first duly sworn, did depose and say as follows:

1. Question. State your name, age, and residence.

1363 Ans. Harrison Reed; age, sixty-four; residence, Duval County, Florida.

2. Ques. In what manner were you occupied in the year 1870, and 1871, 1872, and 1873?

Ans. I was governor of the State of Florida from June, 1868, to January 8th, 1873.

3. Ques. While acting as governor did you or did you not sign, execute, and exchange any bonds of the State of Florida for the bonds of any railroad company or companies of the State of Florida?

Ans. I did sign and exchange bonds as authorized to be issued under what is known as the act of January 28th, 1870, authorizing the exchange of bonds with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company to the amount of $16,000 per mile upon what was the alleged length of said road, extending from Jacksonville westward.

4. Ques. When were said bonds issued? and state the number that were issued and exchanged by you on the part of the State of Florida.

Ans. In and during the year 1870 I exchanged bonds of the State of Florida, numbering from one to three thousand, inclusive, of one thousand dollars each, for a like number of bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and numbered from three thousand and one to four thousand, inclusive, for a like number of bonds of the Florida Central Company.

5. Ques. Referring now to the bonds last named, numbered from three thousand and one to four thousand, did you, or did you not, exchange and deliver said State bonds to, and receive said Florida Central Railroad bonds from, any agent or representative of the Florida Central or Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Companies?

Ans. I do not recollect who delivered the Florida Central Railroad bonds to me.

6. Ques. Please state, then, with whom you made such exchange of said Florida State bonds numbered above three thousand, to the best of your knowledge and recollection.

Ans. My recollection now is that I delivered one million of bonds to Edward Houstoun, which were afterwards returned by him and deposited with the comptroller, and afterwards, I don't recollect the date, they were re-exchanged with Thomas B. Coddington, he acting in conjunction with Edward Houstoun, and participating in the arrange-1364 ment, and also Robert H. Gamble, who was at the time comptroller of the State of Florida. Milton S. Littlefield also approved of the exchange.

7. Ques. I will now ask you to be so good as to state, to the best of your knowledge and recollection, in what manner, to, and with whom said exchange of bonds of the State of Florida, numbered above three thousand, was made, as you have stated, and for what purpose.

Ans. The final exchange was made with Thomas B. Coddington for the purpose of raising the means to pay certain sums of money, amounting to about three hundred thousand dollars and upwards, to Edward Houstoun, John P. Sanderson, M. D. Papy, Robert H. Gamble, F. H. Flagg, James D. Westcott, and Thomas B. Coddington, and the balance of the proceeds to be placed to the credit of the State of Florida, in the National Trust Company of the city of New York.

8. Ques. State, to the best of your knowledge, information, and belief, what use and disposition was made of said bonds numbered above three thousand, and whether the same were sold and the proceeds applied as directed by you on the part of the State of Florida.

Ans. I have no personal knowledge of the final disposition made of said bonds, except as to two hundred and twenty-four, which were cancelled; which I think I, as governor, gave notice to the legislature in one of my annual messages. From information, I believe that two hundred of the bonds were placed in the hands of John Collinson, of London, England, to provide for interest on the Florida State bonds numbered from one up, and that the remainder was enjoined in a suit still pending in New York and London. I never heard of any others above three thousand being sold.

9. Ques. I will ask you to state whether or not there were any charges of illegality or fraud published or circulated in reference to said bond issue, and, if so, to what extent.

(Defendant's solicitor objects to the question, on the ground that the question is indefinite, and that the evidence sought is not the best evidence.)

Ans. There were charges of illegality and fraud circulated.

10. Ques. While you were governor did you, or did you not, receive any communication from persons residing abroad in reference to the validity of said Florida State bonds? and, if yea, state from whom you received such communications, what was their purport, and if in writing, and in your possession, please produce the same, or a copy thereof, as a part of your examination.

1365 Ans. I did receive communications, I think, by letter and telegram both, but I have no such letters in my possession now, or knowledge where they are. I cannot specify from whom the letters and telegrams were received. One, I recollect, either a letter or telegram, was from Amsterdam, and one from London. The purport of these communications was as to whether these bonds were valid and legal.

11. Ques. What reply, if any, did you make to such communications and inquiries?

Ans. My recollection is, that I, in reply to the first inquiry, stated that the bonds were legally issued; but in reply to the telegram from Amsterdam, at a latter period, I stated that no provision had been made for the payment of interest upon the bonds, and, under the circumstances, none would be.

12. Ques. I will ask you if you have looked for, and, if not, if you will be so good as to examine the papers, telegrams, and correspondence in in reference to the validity of said bonds, if any are in your possession, and will produce the same, if found, as a part of your deposition?

Ans. At the time of leaving the office of governor, I made an examination for such papers. I could not find them, and have not been able to find them since.

13. Ques. At the time said bonds, numbered above three thousand, or the last thousand of the four thousand, were exchanged for said papers purporting to be the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, did you or did you not hear of any objection on the part of said company to its said bonds being used? and, if yea, state in what manner said objections were expressed by the directors or stockholders of said company.

Ans. At the time of the re-exchange, I had heard of objections being made on the part of some members of the Florida Central Railroad Company, or persons connected with it. I may have had official notice; I don't know; I can't recollect.

14. Ques. Were you, or were you not, a member of the internal improvement fund of the State of Florida in the year 1869?

Ans. I was ex-officio member of the board, and its president.

15. Ques. Was, or was not, the then line of railroads, known as the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads, sold by the trustees of the internal improvement fund during the year 1869? and, if yea, please state at what time said sale was made.

1366 Ans. The sale was made, and to the best of my recollection, about the 20th of March, 1869.

16. Ques. Who became the purchasers at such sale?

Ans. F. Dibble and associates.

17. Ques. At the time said sale was made, was there, or was there not, any agreement between said board of trustees and F. Dibble and associates that they should have an act of incorporation, if deemed necessary, and that the legislature of the State should be convened for that purpose? and, if yea, please state to the best of your recollection what transpired in reference to said sale, purchase and agreement.

Ans. Previous to the sale, and after advertisement, all persons contemplating purchase were given to understand by me, as governor, that they would have the same privileges and franchises granted by the legislature which had been given to the purchasers of the Florida Central Railroad and the Fernandina and Cedar Keys Railroad, which had been, sold under my predecessor, and that to insure the extension of the road to the Chattahoochee in time to command the transportation of the cotton crop of the ensuing season, I would call an extra session of the legislature to enable the purchasers to obtain corporate powers. After the sale, which occurred while I was absent from the State on official business, on my way home I was met at Savannah by Messrs. Requa and Cheney, who represented the new purchasers, and they required me to renew to them the pledge previously referred to, which I did; and upon the consummation of the sale by Messrs. Gamble, the comptroller, and Meek, the attorney-general, agents for the board of trustees, appointed for that purpose, I redeemed my pledge, and the legislature assembled in June, 1869.

18. Ques. Referring again to the subject of the exchange of bonds numbered above three thousand, I will call your attention to what purports to be printed copy of the deposition of Thomas B. Coddington, given in this case, sworn to on the 21st day of January, 1878, extending from pages 23 to 34 of said print, and ask you to look at the same, and the documents and papers therein set forth, and state whether or not the said deposition and papers made part thereof, so far as the same relate to you, and within your personal knowledge and recollection, are correct?

(Question objected to by defendant's solicitor, on the ground that it is indefinite.)

1367 Ans. I have examined said testimony mentioned in the question this morning, and so far as it relates to me and my official and personal connection with the acts and doings therein referred to, it is substantially correct, according to my recollection, with one addition or modification: that I enjoined Mr. Coddington, personally, in no case to deliver the bonds until the amount due the State, as claimed by me, was provided for. That is the last thing that passed between us when he left.

19. Ques. Do you know, or can you state, any other matter or thing material to this, your examination, of interest to the parties plaintiff or defendant beyond what you have answered; and, if yea, please state the same fully and at large in your answer, as if specially interrogated thereunto?

Ans. Nothing specially occurs to me beyond what I have stated in answer to questions. The subject of said issue of bonds by the State of Florida was a matter of so great importance that I considered it fully in view of the charges of fraud that might be circulated. In the exchange of said bonds, I expected in ever instance the proceeds thereof to be applied, under the provisions of the law, to the perfection of the work for which they were issued, and by myself as governor, acting on the part of the State of Florida, I made known my actions, and the reasons thereof, in my communications to the legislature of the State. In my annual message laid before the legislature January 4th, 1872, I there alluded to the said four millions of dollars of State bonds and those numbered above three thousand, as follows: "The last million of the four were delivered and are held in trust, to be disposed of when the amount of $300,000 balance due the internal improvement fund is paid. This sum is still unpaid, and remains a lien on that portion of the road between Lake City and Quincy." In referring to this balance in round numbers of $300,000, I had in view the fact that I had been officially notified by the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad that 103 of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad bonds, of $1,000 each, and bonds held by other parties whom I don't now recollect, had been provided for, leaving a balance due the internal improvement fund, as then stated, of $227,000.

The further examination of witness is adjourned to Monday, April 22d, 1878, at 10 o'clock a. m.

1368 MONDAY, April 22d, 1878.

Present as before.

Cross-examination of Harrison Reed by counsel for George F. Drew, governor, defendant:

20. Ques. Will you please state whether the exchange of the bonds of the State of Florida, as made by you as governor thereof, of $3,000,000, for a like amount of the bonds of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and of $1,000,000 for the bonds of the Florida Central Railroad Company, was made with two distinct and independent corporations, each receiving separate and definite bonds, or with one corporation, upon the securities as offered, or in any otherwise, and if so, how? State also why, if for any particular reason within your knowledge, the bonds were exchanged, commencing west and proceeding to the east rather than vice versa?

(Complainant's solicitor excepts to the question, on the ground of assuming a fact not established by direct examination of the witness.)

Ans. The $4,000,000 were issued and delivered simultaneously to the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, or upon his order. I do not know that the bonds were issued commencing at the west and running to the east. They were issued upon the certificates of the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, of the length of the road then constructed between Jacksonville and Quincy and branches.

21. Ques. What representation was made as to the ownership of said road at the time of the exchange of said bonds by the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, its officers or agents, and if you state that there were representations made as to the ownership thereof, state whether such representations were a part of the conditions upon which such exchange was made?

(Complainant's solicitor excepts to the question, for the reason that the ownership of a railroad or a franchise must be proved by record, and cannot be shown by verbal proof.)

Ans. Such representations were made. Those representations were a part of the conditions under which such exchange was made.

22. Ques. What were such representations of ownership, and by whom were they made?

(Complainant's solicitor excepts to the question, on the ground that the representation of the president of said railroad company is not evidence of any fact material to this case.)

1369 Ans. The representations that I delivered the bonds upon were made by Colonel J. P. Sanderson, at the time of presenting the certificates. I then submitted the law under which I was to act to M. D. Papy and Sanderson in conjunction, stating my understanding of the law, that they were limited to an issue of bonds upon one hundred miles of constructed road; and I had the law examined and an opinion given in writing, signed by Papy and Sanderson, showing that the company was entitled to receive bonds on the whole line of road constructed and operated by said company. Upon the delivery of that opinion, I accepted it as the law and delivered the bonds accordingly. I delivered the bonds under the law, upon the receipt of the proper certificates from the President of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company as to the length of the road owned and operated by them.

(Complainant's solicitor excepts to the answer as not being the best evidence, and the production of the certificates called for.)

23. Ques. Have you the certificates called for, and if so, will you produce them?

Ans. I have not the certificates, and I do not know where they are.

24. Ques. Did you receive that certificate as the executive of the State?

Ans. I did, and filed it among the executive papers.

25. Ques. Did you turn it over to your successor?

Ans. I do not know. I turned the office over to my successor?

26. Ques. Do you, or not, know whether that certificate or certificates were purloined from the archives of the State?

(Complainant's solicitor excepts to the question, as being illegal in substance, and assuming a fact not in proof.)

Ans. There were two certificates, I think—one extending from Jacksonville to Lake City, the other extending from Lake City to Quincy and St. Mark's. I do not know whether they were purloined from the archives of the State or not.

27. Ques. You spoke in your direct examination of objections that were made to the reissue of the bonds numbered above 3000; will you state explicitly by whom were such objections made, and what, if any, was the interest of the objectors in the line of railway, or any part of it, and were such objections made to you officially? Do you refer to the objections of others than those made by Gamble, Westcott and Papy?

1370 (Complainant's solicitor objects to the question as immaterial.)

Ans. My recollection now is that there was some action taken or objection made by parties connected with what was called the Florida Central Railroad. The objections of Gamble, Westcott and Papy were all removed by the agreement made for the payment of their claims, and they assented to the delivery to Mr. Coddington of the bonds re-exchanged.

28. Ques. In your direct examination you stated that you received telegrams from abroad inquiring into the legality of the issue of those bonds. Did you, or not, receive information from abroad that it was necessary to have the authority or approval of the validity of the issue of those bonds by some court; and if so, what court of the State of Florida? And if in answer you say yea, then state by whom was such information brought, and what action, if any, was taken by you thereon.

Ans. My recollection now is that I received a communication from abroad, and I do not now recollect from where nor by whom it was brought, that it would be necessary before the money could be realized upon the bonds to secure the opinion of the judges of the supreme court of the State of Florida as to their validity. I believe that I asked the judges their opinion under the constitution and received their answer in the affirmative.

29. Ques. You stated, in your direct examination, that you were prompted in the reissue of the last million of dollars by a desire to secure the State of Florida in the payment of a certain indebtedness. Will you please state what you mean by that indebtedness; how was it created, and in what way, and for what reason were the proceeds of such bonds, or any part thereof, to be applied thereto?

Ans. The indebtedness was incurred to the board of internal improvements, and arose in this way: At the time of the sale of the Pensacola and Georgia and Tallahassee Railroads by the board of internal improvements, Mr. Meek, the then attorney-general, and Mr. Gamble, the comptroller, were authorized and directed by the board of internal improvements to go to New York and receive the purchase money and make the transfer of the roads. I met them in New York, and they presented me with a conveyance drawn up to be signed by me, as governor and president of said board, conveying the title of the said roads, I think, to F. Dibble and associates, the purchasers. They then represented 1371 to me that the roads had been paid for, and I made the conveyance. They also represented to me that the balance of the purchase money that was paid after paying in nine hundred and some thousand dollars in bonds of the Pensacola and Georgia Railroad guaranteed by the internal improvement fund, the balance of $472,000 had been given to George W. Swepson, as confidential agent of the board of internal improvements, for the purchase of the remaining outstanding bonds of said road, under the authority of a resolution of the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund. I was subsequently notified by the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company that 103 of those outstanding bonds of $ 000 each had been redeemed by the agent, and that certain others, in the hands of parties specified, had been provided for, and I received a draft of $227,000, which was the balance remaining after the redemption of the bonds I have specified. That draft was presented in New York to S. W. Hopkins & Co., the parties upon whom it was drawn, and it had not been paid; and this redelivery of the $1,000,000 bonds to T. B. Coddington was upon the express condition that these amounts should be provided for. The draft I refer to was drawn by M. S. Littlefield, the president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company.

30. Ques. You stated that you delivered or reissued the last million dollars of bonds to Coddington and Houstoun. Under what authority were they then acting, and for whom was the delivery made, and by what authority did you make the issue to them?

Ans. M. S. Littlefield, the then president of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. The reissue was made under the authority of the act of the legislature.

1379 TUESDAY, September 24.

Met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Joseph B. Stewart, esq., solicitor for complainant, B. Stephens, esq., solicitor for the J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

GEO. R. FOSTER offered as a witness on behalf of the complainant, and the said Geo. R. Foster, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

1. Ques. State your name, residence, and occupation.

Ans. Geo. R. Foster, Jacksonville, Florida. I am a commission merchant.

2. Ques. Are you, or are you not, acquainted with a body corporate known as the Florida Central Railroad Company, one of the defendants in the suit?

Ans. I am acquainted with such corporation.

3. Ques. Please state what, if any, connection, individually or officially, you have had with such corporation?

Ans. I became a stockholder of said company soon after its organization, and was elected a director on the 25th day of May, 1870, and am now a director of the same. I was also secretary of said company from about 1873 to 1875.

4. Ques. Are you or not, as such stockholder, director and secretary, familiar with the records and proceedings of said company?

Ans. I have a general knowledge of the affairs and proceedings of said company, derived from my connections with it, as above stated.

5. Ques. Did or did not said company, at any time within your knowledge, issue, or agree to issue, its bonds, to be delivered to or used for any other railroad company for any purpose whatever? If yea, please name what company, and when such bonds were ordered to be issued, and under and by virtue of what agreement, if any.

Ans. It was not within my knowledge that the company issued any bonds. There were some bonds authorized to be issued by a meeting of the stockholders, and a meeting of the directors, also, held in Tallahassee June 2d, 1870, which said bonds were to be applied in a certain manner, which was shown by the record of proceedings of said meetings. This is the only autharity for issuing any bonds during my connection with the company, until 1877.

6. Ques. Will you please look at the book now shown you, and state whether or not you recognize the same as the record book, or book containing the proceedings of said Florida Central Railroad Company? And if yea, please state whether or not it is the record book 1280 to which you refer in your answer last given.

Ans. I have examined the book, and recognize it as the record book of the said Florida Central Railroad Company from August 13th, 1868, up to March, 1877, and to which I referred as the basis of my testimony as above given.

7. Ques. Please look at said book, at page 22, and state whether or not you were present at the meetings of the stockholders and directors recorded therein, from pages 22 to 25 inclusive.

Ans. I was.

8. Ques. Where was said meetings held?

Ans. In Tallahassee.

9. Ques. In what manner was said meetings convened, and you notified to attend? And was or was not notices of said meetings published in any newspapers previously to the same?

Ans. My recollection is that I was requested to attend personally. I have no recollection of seeing any publication. I had no knowledge for what the meeting was called until I was present.

10. Ques. At those meetings certain bonds were authorized to be issued which had already been signed by Geo. W. Swepson as president, and H. H. Thompson as treasurer, and directed to be delivered to Col. Edward Houston. Will you please state whether or not said bonds, or any one of the same, were or was not present and exhibited at said meeting for the inspection of the stockholders and directors?

Ans. None of said bonds were present, or exhibited, at said meeting.

11. Ques. Do you know said H. H. Thompson, referred to as treasurer of said company? And was he or not treasurer of the same at any time within your knowledge?

Ans. I do not know said Thompson. He was not the treasurer of said company at that time.

12. Ques. Who was the treasurer of said company at the time said bonds were proposed to be issued?

Ans. F. H. Flagg was secretary and treasurer at that time.

13. Ques. Do you know, or can you state, any other matter or thing, to the benefit of either party, besides what you have testified unto, material to this your examination? And if yea, please state the same at large in your answer as if you were particularly inter'ogated thereto.

Ans. I know nothing more.

1381 Cross-examination on the part of the J., P. & M. R. R. Co. is waived by its attorney, S. B. Stephens.

(Signed) GEO. R. FOSTER.

It is agreed on the part of the complainant and defendants present, that the origingal record book of the Florida Central Railroad Company, referred to as part of the testimony of the witness Geo. R. Foster shall be regarded as in proof for the use of all parties, and will be produced by the complainant on the hearing of the cause.

No other witnesses being offered, an adjournment is ordered until Wednesday, September 25th, 1878, at ten o'clock a. m.

Examiner.

WEDNESDAY, September 25.

Met pursuant to adjournment.

FRANKLIN W. ELY offered as a witness on the part of the complainant, and the said Franklin W. Ely having been duly sworn, deposes and says:

1. Ques. State your name, age, and residence.

Ans. Franklin W. Ely; I am 38 years of age; I reside in Jacksonville, Florida.

2. Ques. Do you or not know anything of a body corporate called the Tallahassee Railroad Company, and a body corporate called the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company?

Ans. I do know of said companies.

3. Ques. Please state in what manner you derived your information, and what relation, if any, you have occupied to said companies, or either of them.

Ans. I am secretary of the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and am in charge of the books and records, and have derived my knowledge from acting in that position. I am also in charge of the books and archives of the Tallahassee Railroad Company, previous and up to its consolidation with the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and derive my knowledge of said company from the examination of its said books and papers.

4. Ques. You have spoken of a consolidation of the said Tallahassee Railroad Company with the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company. Will you please state when such consolidation occurred?

Ans. It occurred on the 25th day of May, A. D. 1870.

6. Ques. Previous to such consolidation, was or was not the said Tallahassee Railroad Company an organized body, corporate and politic, in charge of and working a railroad? And if you say it was, please state where and between what points its said railroad was located.

Ans. The said Tallahassee Railroad Company was a body politic and corporate, working and operating its own railroad as such. The railroad of said company commenced at Lake City, in Columbia County, and extended to Quincy, in Gadsden County, and from Tallahassee to St. Mark's and the Monticello branch.

6. Ques. Are, or are not, the proceedings of consolidation of the said Tallahassee Company with said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Company evidence' by the records of the said Tallahassee Company? And will you produce the same as part of your answer to this question?

Ans. The said proceedings of consolidation are evidenced by said books, to which I refer as part of my answer, and produce the same before the examiner for inspection; but as the said books are original records in my charge I cannot part with them, but will produce and make part of my answer a true copy thereof, marked Appendix A.

7. Ques. The only railroad connected, and in operation, that entered such consolidation was the road of said Tallahassee Railroad Company you have above described? Is or is not that so?

Ans. There was no other railroad in working operation in said consolidation except as I have stated.

8. Ques. Did or did not said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company consolidate with any other railroad company except the said Tallahassee Railroad Company?

Ans. They did not.

9. Ques. Are you not familiar with a body corporate known as the Florida Central Railroad Company? And if yea, did or did not said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, at any time within your knowledge, ever consolidate with said Florida Central Railroad Company, thereby forming and constituting one continuous line of road from Jacksonville westward, known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company?

Ans. I do know said Florida Central Railroad Company. 1383 There never was any act of consolidation between it and the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company within my knowledge or belief. As stated, I have long been in custody of the books and records of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company, and have repeatedly had occasion to read, examine, and copy the same in whole or in part, and have never seen any transaction or proceedings, at any meeting of the stockholders or directors, declaring a consolidation of the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company with said Florida Central Railroad Company.

10. Ques. Please state where the said Florida Central Railroad is located; that is, where it commences and where it terminates.

Ans. The Florida Central Railroad Company owns the line of road commencing at Jacksonville and terminating at Lake City, Columbia County, Florida.

11. Ques. Was there, or was there not, at any time any agreement entered into between the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company and the said Florida Central Railroad Company, whereby the latter was to issue its bonds, and deliver the same to the former, to be used for any purpose or in any way; and did or did not the said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company at any time receive the bonds of the said Florida Central Railroad Company to be used, or which it agreed to use, in the construction of its road from Quincy westward, or for any other purpose; and, if yea, please state fully when and in what manner said issue and exchange of bonds was agreed to, and when and where said delivery and exchange of bonds was effected?

Ans. No such exchange of bonds ever was proposed or agreed to, or effected between said railroad companies, by any evidence within my knowledge. There are no proceedings or transactions to that effect, or tending thereto, in either the stockholders' or directors' proceedings, as shown by the records in my possession. There is nowhere any word or statement showing that the Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company agreed to receive, did receive, or in any manner become chargeable for or on account of any bonds of said Florida Central Railroad Company in any respect whatever.

12. Ques. You say you are in charge of the books of said Jacksonville, Pensacola and Mobile Railroad Company; will you be so good as to exhibit and file the same as part of your examination?

Ans. I am in custody of said books as secretary of said company, 1384 in which capacity they are in my possession, and I do not feel authorized to part with the control of the same; but I produce the originals here for inspection, and will prepare and file an exact copy of the same, marked Appendix B, as part of my testimony.

13. Ques. Are you, or are you not, familiar with the management and control of the said Florida Central Railroad Company; and, if yea, has it, or has it not, at all times been under the control and management of its own board of directors and officers as a body corporate?

Ans. I am familiar with the management of the Florida Central Railroad, and, to the best of my knowledge, it has been controlled by its own board of directors as a body corporate.

14. Ques. Do you know or can you state any other matter or thing material to this your examination of interest to either party beyond what you have been interrogated unto? and, if yea, please state the same fully and at large in your answer as if particularly interrogated thereto.

Ans. Nothing further occurs to me at present.

(Signed) FRANKLIN W. ELY.

Counsel for J., P. & M. R. R. Co. waives cross-examination of above witness.

Joseph B. Stewart, Esq., offered as a witness on the part of the complainant, and the said Joseph B. Stewart having been duly sworn, deposes and says:

My name is Joseph B. Stewart; I am in my fifty-fifth year; I am an attorney-at-law, and reside in the city of New York; I am the solicitor of complainant in these suits and prepared the pleadings in the same.

I commenced the preparation of these suits in December, 1874. Early in the year 1875 I visited Florida to examine the condition of the defendant corporations, the Florida Central, and the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad Companies; I found both roads greatly neglected in their corporate management of the same. Before I took charge of the suits litigation had been pending in New York, Pennsylvania, Georgia and Florida, in which my clients and the corporations defendant, one or both of these, had been at all times involved, seeking in various ways to enforce the equities of the complainants for the recovery of a sum of about one million two hundred and eighty-seven thousand 1385 (1,287,000) dollars, with interest thereon from October, 1868, which was alleged to have been used fraudulently by the
and financiers of the complainants in purchasing about five (5,000) thousand shares of the capital stock of the Florida Central Railroad and in the purchase of what was the Pensacola, Georgia & Tallahassee Railroads, now known as the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad.

Pending these suits and the latter part of the year 1876 the governor of the State of Florida, upon the petition presented in the name of G. M. Boissevain, A. J. Milders, Joseph Zaddocks, Adrian Stoop, and others by Frank R. Sherwin and Charles D. Willard, alleging themselves to be the agents and attorneys of the petitioners, the governor of Florida was requested to seize and take possession of the corporation defendants, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile and Florida Central Railroads, upon the alleged ground among others that the State of Florida and its governor ex officio was the trustee of the petitioners, and required by law to seize and take possession of the railroad of said corporation defendants, for the benefit of their petitioners and other holders of certain alleged bonds of the State of Florida described in the pleadings.

That pursuant to this petition the governor of Florida, the defendant, George F. Drew, deeming it his duty to take possession of said roads as requested by said petition ordering the seizure of the same, and advertising them for sale at a time named as shown by the pleadings.

I further state that such seizure of said roads and advertising them for sale threatened at once to destroy all the rights and interests of the complainants, and their large amount of capital so fraudulently invested in said roads as aforesaid.

That believing such seizure and sale was not authorized by law, and that the complainant had rights and equities paramount to the petitioners represented by said Willard and Sherwin, I deemed it my duty to take steps to resist the same, and for that purpose sought the official representatives of the said corporation defendants, to urge them to make such defence to said seizure and proposed sale as might be authorized by law, but I could find no one who had connections with said companies, or either of them, who were willing or disposed to make such defence, or indeed to take any steps whatever in the premises. Replying to my urgency, generally, by saying that they felt no particular con-1386 cern in the matter, and did not feel it their duty to act as I desired in the premises.

I then endeavored to find or to get possession of the books and records of the Florida Central Railroad Company so as to better advise myself of its condition, but was wholly unable to find the books, or any one who could give me any reliable information as to who had possession of them. That in pursuing this investigation I procured the assistance of Samuel B. Stephens, esq., a counsellor-at-law of standing and experience, who had long had connection in some of the litigations involving the corporation defendants, and being informed that the books were in the custody of some one in Tallahassee, we called upon all persons whom we supposed able to give us any information.

That while we were conducting this investigation it was ascertained that there were two or more boards of directors or parties alleged to represent or who should represent the Florida Central Railroad Company; that among these was a board of which one Robert Walker, of Tallahassee, was alleged to be president, and who it was alleged had charge of the books while acting as receiver of the Florida Central Railroad. That upon calling upon said Walker we were told that he did not claim to represent the company. That he did not know where the books were to a certainty, but that he believed that they were in custody of a person named Taylor, then employed or residing in Savannah, Georgia; so that the result was I could neither find any one who deemed it their duty to defend said company, or even get possession of the books, or access to the same, so as to advise myself of the condition of its affairs.

That not being able to find any one who felt it their duty or was authorized to defend said company, its property, franchise, and estate, against the seizure and proposed sale, at the instance of said Boissevain and others, known as the Dutch bondholders, I saw no other alternative but to file a bill on the part of the complainants, seeking to enjoin said proposed sale and asserting what I believed to be the prior rights and equities of the complainants in the premises. And hence, for this reason, and actuated by this necessity, I filed the bill praying the relief shown by the pleadings filed in this cause.

I will further state that after filing the petition first above mentioned by said Sherwin and Willard on the part of said Boissevan and others, that said Willard filed a further petition on the part of J.
1387 Fred Shutte, Jans Prins, Adrianus Prins, Henrich Ulrice and others, which was sworn to on the 31st day of March, 1877, further praying the seizure and sale of the roads of the said corporation defendants, to which petition and documents exhibited therewith I refer as part of my deposition.

(Signed) JOS. B. STEWART.

No other witness being offered, an adjournment is ordered until Sept. 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m.

(Signed) JOSEPH H. DURKEE,
Examiner.

THURSDAY, Sept. 26th.

Met pursuant to adjournment. Present, Joseph B. Stewert, esq., solicitor for complainants; S. B. Stephens, esq., solicitor for J., P. & M. R. R. Co.

S. B. STEPHENS offered as a witness on the part of the complainants; and the said S. B. Stephens, being duly sworn, deposes and says:

1. Ques. State your name, age, residence and occupation.

Ans. Samuel B. Stephens; I am over 50 years of age; I reside in Quincy, Florida; I am an attorney at law.

2. Ques. Are you or not acquainted with the corporation defendants, the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile R. R. Co. and the Florida Central R. R. Co.?

Ans. I have been acquainted with both of said companies since their organization, and have had more or less to do with them as an attorney and otherwise.

3. Ques. Were you or were you not at any time requested to be present at a meeting before the governor of Florida about the seizure and proposed sale of the roads of said companies on the part of the defendants, Boissevain, Mildeus, Zaddock, Stoop, Shutte, and others, called the Dutch bondholders? and, if yea, please state when it was and what occurred, to the best of your recollection.

Ans. In the latter part of January, 1876, I was requested by Col. Joseph B. Stewart, the solicitor for the complainants, to meet him and Judge Baker in Tallahassee, and did so. The object of the meeting was to try and induce the governor of Florida to abandon his seizure of the roads of the defendant corporations on the part of the 1388 holders of certain Florida State bonds, known as the Dutch bond-
